Walton and Bellevue staged a ragged game on the Bellevue ground Saturday, with Walton winning 11 to 1. Spaulding, for Walton, pitched an excellent game of ball, while his team-mates upheld him at every turn.

The Bellevue second team suffered a 4 to 3 defeat at Hebron.

The Petersburg ball team went to Lawrenceburg, Ind., Sunday and defeated that team by the score of 5 to 4.

The Bellevue boys played a Sunday game with Rising Sun, Ind., and won out 7 to 4.

Mgr. Robert Berkshire, of the Petersburg ball team, was in Burlington Monday and completed arrangements whereby the Burlington team goes to Petersburg on the Fourth of July for two games, morning and afternoon. It will be a gala day, with a brass band and other attractions.

The Bellevue ball team will play at Big Bone on May 22. A good game is to be expected.

Taylorport defeated the fast Camp Washington White Sox last Sunday by the score of 8 to 5.

Next Sunday Taylorport will play Petersburg. All roads lead to Taylorport on this date.

JUNIOR RECEPTION.

The hospitable home of Miss Mattie Kreylich was on last Friday the scene of a sociable gathering when the Juniors of the Burlington High School tendered their annual reception to the departing members of the graduating class. The graduates, eight in number, were all present, as well as the nine Juniors, with the exception of Miss Georgia Kirkpatrick, who has the mumps.

The faculty was represented by Misses Ruth Kelly and Mattie Kreylich, and Professor E. A. Skillman.

Contests of a literary nature were indulged in during the earlier portion of the evening. At a timely hour refreshments in the form of ice cream, cake and punch were served, and the pairing off of the couples for that event was determined in a novel manner. Each girl was given the representation of some famous historical heroine to sustain, and she to whom the token corresponded, and to whom she was able to distinguish his partner. For instance, Cleopatra was claimed by her rightful one thru the aid of a bar of Palm Olive soap.

After further participation in different contests and sociable conversation, the gathering disbanded at 11 o'clock, each one present experiencing a keen sense of pleasure in having met together under such circumstances.

B. H. Riley.

In this issue of the Recorder will be found the announcement of B. H. Riley as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Attorney.

Mr. Riley is now filling an unexpired term, and as he has made a good official, he should receive the nomination at the coming primary without opposition. He has at all times been found looking after the interest of the county, and by no act of his has any of the affairs of the county been neglected. He has performed the duties of the office honestly, faithfully and impartially and asks that the voters of the county endorse him by giving him the nomination at the August primary.

Prof. E. A. Skillman.

A number of the patrons of the Boone High school deplore the fact the school board has not employed Prof. Skillman as principal of the High School for the coming school year, as he has given entire satisfaction and the school has progressed under his management. It is very much regretted that the school board could not meet his request on salary. The board will have trouble in filling his position with a principal who will make progress with the school as has Professor Skillman. These patrons hope the school board will reconsider their action and employ him for another year.

NO DRAFT EVADERS FROM BOONE COUNTY.

Boone County, as usual, went over the top. Not one of the Boone County boys who was called for service failed to answer.

The War Department has one name on the list as an evader, Hubert Johnson, colored, but he registered from Boone, and then went to Pittsburg, where he again registered and entered the service there.

A weasel killed 19 chickens for Mrs. Owen Ross, of Hopeful neighborhood, last Friday night. Mrs. Ross weighed some of them and they averaged two pounds each. They were of this year's hatching.

Stock-Judging Team to Go to Kentucky State Fair.

The Bourbon Stock Yards, Louisville, Ky., is giving $300 in premiums to the best stock-judging teams sent to the Kentucky State Fair this fall.

We are going to send a winning team for this great contest. Every club member in the county is urged to try out for this team. The Boys' and Girls' Live-stock Judging Contest will be one of the largest features of the Boys' and Girls' Club work at the State Fair.

We will conduct: First, community or local club contests; second, county contests, and then the county team for the State Fair contest will be coached.

Arrangements are being made to have the greater part of the county team's expenses paid to the State Fair.

Eight rings of animals are to be judged, two of beef cattle, two of dairy cattle, two of land type hogs and two of nutron sheep.

The following is the premium list for the State contest:

Bourbon Stock Yards trophy, $50. To be awarded each year to the county having the highest scoring team. The county judge shall be custodian of this trophy. He shall see that it is exhibited in a public place in the county and returned to the Junior Club Department by Sept. 1 of the following year. This trophy shall become the permanent property of the county winning it two successive years.

Highest scoring team $42.00
Second highest scoring team 30.00
Third highest scoring team 18.00
Fourth highest scoring team 12.00
Fifth highest scoring team 10.00
Highest scoring individual 25.00
Second highest scoring individual 22.50
3rd highest scoring individual 20.00
4th highest scoring individual 17.50
5th highest scoring individual 15.00
6th highest scoring individual 12.50
7th highest scoring individual 10.00
8th highest scoring individual 7.50
9th highest scoring individual 5.00
10th highest scoring individual 3.00

The three highest scoring individuals shall compose the Kentucky State Boys' and Girls' Judging team to the International Stock Show, Chicago, Ill. None but club members are eligible to enter this contest. Contestants should come out early for this try-out.

OBITUARY.

Charles Augustus Finn was born in Boone County, Kentucky, February 26, 1859, and died at his home on Woolper creek, Boone County, May 14, 1921. He was a son of Patrick and Mary Finn, and was the youngest of seven children—four boys and three girls. Thomas, aged one and a half years, died on a ship coming over from Ireland, and was buried at sea. Samuel, John, Mary Ann and Lizzie, all of whom preceded him to the future world.

He was married to Laura Isabelle Smith Dec. 15, 1891. To them four sons were born—George Russell, Charles Aubrey, William Gay, and John Smith, who, with Clara Nixon Finn, wife of George Russell, and little granddaughter, survive him.

Mr. Finn was a farmer, who, by the help of a wise, industrious and faithful wife, was very prosperous, and was honest and upright in all his dealings.

For the past eight or ten years he was afflicted with rheumatism, and confined to his room, but was never heard to complain. His funeral was conducted in the Petersburg cemetery at 3 p. m., Sunday, May 15, by Rev. R. L. Roberts, of Lexington.

Rev. R. L. Roberts, of Lexington, vice president of Central district, will be present.

Crook in Skirts.

The Lake Division of the American Red Cross has sent to the local chapter a circular concerning a woman representing herself to be a Red Cross public-health nurse who has been visiting homes in the district on the pretext of an examination of the premises, and has asked for and been receiving signed statements of housewives to what she claimed was a report. It was later determined that this report was an order for books and that a visitor later called requesting the payment of a bill for $25.00.—Carlisle Mercury.

Worth Considering.

The lack of patronizing home merchants of your County is a very great mistake, and sooner or later you will discover wherein you need the friendship of your home merchants. When hard luck o'ercomes you, you do not think of asking Chicago mail order houses for credit, but it is your home merchant that you appeal to to carry you thru your embarrassment.

Think of this in its proper light and act accordingly.
The kid element has so far found nothing in the game laws prohibiting their discharging air rifles at their neighbors' hens.

Any one who doubts the revival of the automobile industry should be reminded of the necessity of replacing all those that get smashed up in accidents every day.

HEARSE NOW A HOTBED.

One of our well-known progressive townsmen has lately created an innovation, to-wit: A miniature greenhouse on wheels. He has taken an abandoned horse-drawn hearse, removed curtains and trimmings so as to admit ample light. On sunny days this greenhouse remains outside. At night it rests in his garage.
In cold weather a lantern gives all the heat that is necessary. An observer saw within this movable greenhouse—tobacco—plants, blueberries, and even small tomatoes forming—Brookville Review.

ployed as bookkeeper at Central States Hospital for the past 21 years, resigned his position and now

A Republican Somersault.

One of the most peculiar developments of recent politics has been the somersault turned by the Republican party in regard to the treaty with Colombia. As long as President Wilson and his secretaries asked for a settlement of this ancient wrong, the Republican party would not listen to it. But as soon as President Harding gets in, then they turn around and ratify the treaty.

This incident is an illustration of the intense partisanship that so commonly guides Republican policy.
A Republican president was responsible for the act of which Colombia complained. The Republicans seemed to blindly and obstinately feel that a Republican president could do no wrong.

The Republican position amounted in substance to this: If we were not satisfied with the price that Colombia wanted for the Panama property, we could encourage the little settlement about the canal zone to revolt, and get the canal rights for a much less price, by dealing with the insurrectionists who had stolen the control of the isthmus.

The Panama canal territory zone was as much the property of Colombia as Alaska is the property of the United States. If Japan was to encourage the people of Alaska to revolt, and then buy out their tremendously valuable timber and coal lands for a small price, the United States would feel that it had a cause of war against Japan.

But Colombia is a weak nation and could not enforce her equally good claim. If Colombia had been a strong power, her rights in that country would never have been trifled with. The Republicans have done well to undo this ancient wrong. But it took them 17 years to see what was the correct thing to do, whereas the Democrats saw the real meaning of this act at the time it was done. Furthermore, the Republicans might never have righted the wrong if they had not wanted
Colombia's oil.

The Record Gold Brick.

A year or two ago the parlor socialists and near bolsheviks were singing psalms of praise over soviet Russia. This formerly backward country had originated an entirely new idea, that was going to revolutionize the world. People who did not go so far as this, but who felt much interest in these notions, maintained that there was a malicious conspiracy to misrepresent the advancing of the soviet system and its representatives.

For about a year now, a good many prophets of the new day have been making pilgrimages to Russia to find out how this wonderful new idea is working. They usually return sadder and wiser. Some of them would like to get back to this country, but Uncle Sam gave them a free trip to Russia with the idea that that was the best place for them. The socialist vote at the next elections will show the results of all this disillusionment.

People who go to Russia and are not merely led around to fancy exhibits rigged up to fool visitors, find that the soviet government differs very little from that of the former czar. People are all the time being slaughtered because they dare to express opinions against the government. Misery and destitution prevail. Russia, one of the world's great unexhausted treasure houses, richer by far than all the rest of the world in its abundant resources, is a pitiful, hungry and starving beggar, unable to feed herself.

But, it may be said, the soviet authorities are honest and sincere, trying to work out a theory of universal betterment. And so most men are sincere. The czar and his ministers believed their plans were best adapted to bring happiness to the people. Hell is paved with good intentions.

It might pay to chip in a number of million dollars to provide a free trip to Russia to a lot of soap-box orators and near bolsheviks college professors, and let them see how their ideas work in practice.

Resolution of Respect.

Whereas, our Heavenly Father has seen fit to call from our midst one of our beloved friends and members of the Aid Society of the Methodist church South, Big Bone, Ky. Mrs. G. L. Miller, who was called to her reward May 3, 1921.

First. That in her death the Aid Society has lost one of its most worthy members, one who loved the work.

Second. This community in which she lived all her life has lost one who was always willing to help those in trouble.

Third. That in her death her neighbors have lost a kind and sympathetic friend.
Therefore We, the ladies of the Aid Society feeling our loss, how in submission to the will of Him who knoweth best. We extend to the family our deepest sympathy in this their hour of sorrow, and point them to the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world.

Further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, one to the Boone County Recorder and one be placed on the minutes of our Society.

Junior Judging Contest Will Be Held Sept. 14.

Plans have been completed whereby the first live-stock judging contest to be conducted for Kentucky boys and girls will be held in connection with the 1921 State Fair on the morning of Sept. 14, according to an announcement made today by M. L. Hall, of the College of Agriculture and assistant state leader of the junior agricultural club work.
The contest will be open to every county in the state which wishes to enter a team. Prizes totaling $300 have already been offered by a Louisville winner. The county producing the winning team will also receive a $50 trophy, which shall become the property of the county producing the winning team two successive years.

Only members of junior agricultural clubs will be eligible for membership on the various county teams, which will be composed of the three highest scoring individuals in a contest to be held in each county. Community contests will determine the individuals who will compete at the county contest. Girls will be eligible for membership on the teams,
Mr. Hall announced.

Contesting teams at the fair will place eight rings of animals, including sheep, hogs, dairy and beef cattle. They will also give reasons for their placings on one ring of each class of stock.

Sincerity Toward the Public.

There are many business people whose only theory of salesmanship is to put over an effective line of talk which is so fluent and voluble as to sweep a person off his feet, and persuade him to buy whatever his better judgment agrees or not.

A man went into a shoe store in a big city one day, and the salesman tried to sell him a certain shoe. The customer thought it was too big.
The salesman kept declaring that it was a perfect fit. Then the customer insisted; whereupon the salesman brought out another pair, and that was tried on. "It fits a great deal better than the other," he said, not seeming to realize that he was actually confessing that he made a mistake on the first pair, or that he was taking in a later way.
That kind of salesmanship does not sell goods.

There are some men who would not hesitate to tell a little white lie if they thought the customer would never know the difference. But the buying public is keener than they realize. Sooner or later they find out the truth, and they have little use for a store where the salespeople are not taught to be frank and sincere and offer an exact statement as to what goods are made of.

Some Work to Raise Chickens.

Lola Sullivan, of Poplar Grove farm, Trimble, Tenn., a poultry club girl, now 14 years old, has been making a good record since she was 10 years old. In that time she has contended against many disappointments, because of diseases, storms and "varmints." Notwithstanding all her troubles, the little girl owns $50 worth of War Savings Stamps, and has a bank account of nearly $300. She concludes her annual report for 1920 with these lines:

All things considered, from beginning to ending,

Hatching and catching and feeding and tending,

Chasing and killing and scalding and pickin'

There's a great deal of work about raising a chicken

Watching the hen while she's doing the hatching.

Watching her, too, while she's eating and scratching.

Guarding 'gainst hawks and 'pos-sums and rats,

Driving off crows and dogs and cats,
Ready all day to give something a lickin'.

There's a great deal of work about
raising a chicken.

BIG SURPLUS OF ONIONS MUST BE MOVED QUICKLY.

According to reliable estimates, onion holdings on March 25 totaled
2,500 cars. Shipments after April 1 in recent seasons have averaged 200 to 300 cars, any marketing experts of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. The southern crop of new onions is two to four weeks earlier than usual, and shipments of new onions are beginning to move. A production of early onions of about 7,000 cars is forecast for Louisiana, California and Texas.

CHINESE ESTEEM GINSENG FOR ALLEGED CURATIVE VALUE.

When a product has no market value for food, medicine, or other use in this country it is surprising to find it representing an export value of more than $2,000,000 a year, with an established market extending back more than half a century.
Ginseng is such a product. American medical authorities have never recognized it as having curative value, but for more than a hundred years its root has been highly respected in China, and the 1919 shipments of 242,000 pounds sold at from $3 to $23 a pound.

Harmony.

What some men would like to know is why, if girls never put on long dresses riding when they grow up, they shouldn't stop wearing hair ribbons—Boston Edgewood.

Band Concert Burgoo for All Eminent Speakers

Come to Georgetown May 28th

1. We are twice challenged. First, the new Townsend Bill provides $100,000,000 for Federal aid for two years, beginning July 1, 1921, to States that desire to participate. If our route is to receive a part of this money, an organized effort must be made and a progressive spirit must be created.
2. The second challenge is to retain the designated route of the Dixie Highway. If we are to prevent the rerouting of the Highway, we must be organized and show a spirit indicative of eagerness for a permanent road. The Highway can be constructed a stretch at a time in a few years without extra taxation. But we must organize. Be at Georgetown May 28th.
3. 3,560,891 auto owners will travel south, spending their money and making investments, when the DIXIE HIGHWAY is made permanent.

Let's Hold It and make it permanent

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

A hallowed mantle of the Grand Army of the Republic falls upon the young shoulders of the American Legion on Memorial Day of this year. Blue-uniformed, with medals upon his breast, the white-haired veteran of the Civil War made the Memorial Day round of the school houses in former years. This year it is the Legion members who will visit the school houses in many communities, telling of a different conflict, but teaching the same lessons.

Andernach, on the Rhine, Germany, where the Boche maidens are the prettiest, once the heart of the thriving Iron Cross market, is the second stronghold in the German Empire to be occupied by the American Legion. The new post is Andernach Post No. 5. Andernach was headquarters of the Third Division in Third Army days, and now quarters the Second Brigade of the American Army of Occupation. Andernach Post No. 4 of the Legion is situated in Coblenz.

Photographs of the cemeteries in France where their sons lie buried will be supplied to gold-star parents of Lynchburg, Va., by the American Legion post there in conjunction with the Kiwanis Club.

Fifty union labor members out of a total enrollment of 66 is the record of the American Legion post at Mulberry, Kan., which won first prize in the Kansas membership contest, second classification. Forty-six union men are members of the United Workers of America, four are affiliated with other trade unions. In addition, the post includes six merchants, three farmers, three clerks, two doctors and two school teachers.

An investigation conducted by the Indiana Department of the American Legion in regard to conditions at Valparaiso University, charged by its president, who later resigned, with being a "hotbed of Bolshevism," resulted in the stain of un-Americanism being removed from the school. The head of the student body is an ex-service man, and 62 of the students are legion members. The Government recently closed a contract for the education of 500 more disabled veterans at "the poor man's Harvard."

E. C. KELLY ARRESTED FOR FORGERY.

E. C. Kelly, who has been working for St. Boyce at Erlanger, filled in and cashed a check for $26.25 on J. R. Boyce last Monday. Kelly got the check cashed at Biedoe's place in Florence, and when the check was taken to the bank Tuesday morning, it developed that the check was forged.

Kelly was located and Deputy Sheriff Harold Conner sent for, who brought Kelly to Burlington. He was lodged in jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Bull Dog Attacks Calf in Railway Express Car.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—A prize bull dog and a blooded calf figured in a near tragedy in the baggage car of a Louisville & Nashville train during the stop here. Tearing away boards on his crate, the dog sank his teeth in the throat of the calf, also crated. Harvey Bixler, express company employee, choked the dog loose, saving his life, after the railway messenger had secured his pistol to shoot the dog. After releasing his hold on the calf, the dog attacked his deliverer, who stunned him with a blow between the eyes and then chained him fast to the car wall.

Within less than a month from the time it was organized, the American Legion post of Bigheart, Okla., began cleaning up the city. Its first move was to purchase trash cans, which it placed on every street corner, after which it started a publicity campaign to educate the citizens to use the cans instead of the street.

Miss Martha A. Randall.

And now there will be four vacancies in the teaching staff of the Henderson High School, which the board of education must fill before the next semester begins.

Miss Martha A. Randall, teaching English, algebra, history and physiology, announces that she has resigned her place, forwarding her resignation to the board this morning.

Miss Randall is the fourth to leave the school within the last 30 days.

Miss Randall will not teach elsewhere, but will enter the teachers' College at Columbia University, New York, where she will take a post-graduate course, devoting special attention to mental testing, in application for a master's degree.

Miss Randall, who already has an A. B. degree from the University of Kentucky, has been in Henderson one year. Her home is in Boone County, near Burlington, Ky.

Six Ears in One Shuck.

We have just been handed a freak ear of corn grown by J. E. Southard, of Simmons. The main ear is a little smaller than the average, and is surrounded by five smaller flat ears, which reach more than half its length. These flat ears resemble huge fingers grasping and covering the main ear. All grew within the same shuck.—Hartford Herald.

TEN-HOUR FOX CHASE.

We want to thank Will Blasingame, of Blank Creek, for accepting the invitation to chase Mr. Fox. He came over with five real fox hounds on the night of the 20th inst., to give the dogs some real exercise, and they sure had it. They struck Mr. Fox's trail about 7 p. m., and chased him over the farms of Ed Vetter, F. J. James, Jr., Veis, Mr. Brennenstuhl, Howard Fossitt, E. Ihrig, E. Lively, L. Borgerding and E. Kober. They were also down in the stone quarry along the C. & R. railway and the Ohio river, over the hills, hollows and fences. The dogs didn't give Mr. Fox much chance to get a long breath, as they kept him humping pretty lively, and when they were in Ghost Hollow, not to hint that Mr. Blasingame saw anything to cause his heels to run away with his head, and the dogs got so much of an extra hump on them, and we know nothing short of an airplane could have kept up with them. As Mr. Fox wouldn't be treed, these hounds, after running him all night, caught him in a corn stable near the creek, between the homes of E. Lively and L. Borgerding, at 5 a. m., running him continually for 10 hours. Mr. Fox was a large one of the gray species, and looked as though he could have made away with several more pigs, chickens, etc., if it hadn't been for Mr. Blasingame's dogs, who for once were not looking for more exercise.

Louisville—As a direct result of the work that has been carried on by the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association in the State during the last two years, the death rate from the disease has fallen from 195.5 per 100,000 of population in 1918 to 157.2 in 1920. Dr. J. S. Lock, secretary of the association and director of the State Board of Health's Bureau for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, said in his report at the association's annual meeting here yesterday.

Twenty-two dispensaries now are functioning in the State, his report also stated. Two strictly tuberculosis clinics are in operation and are doing splendid work in finding early cases of the disease. Intensive work already has been done in Boyd, Scott, Mercer and Mason counties, and is to be undertaken in the near future in Davis, Fulton, Muhlenberg and Harlan counties.

REMARKABLE STONE

Unearthed Saturday Morning in Miami River Bottoms.

Saturday morning about 8 o'clock, as the steam shovel of the Yang Construction Company was being operated in the bottoms near the bridge, a seemingly unmovable stone was struck. After the dirt had been taken from around it and removed by U. S. Kennedy, of Lawrenceburg, it was found to be a state line stone on the Meridian line. It bears the following inscription, "State line as surveyed under a joint resolution passed by Indiana on the 27th day of January and by Ohio on the 10th day of March, 1837." On the reverse side are the words, "Erected November 27, 1838." With the words "Indiana" on one side and "Ohio" on the other.

Of the first survey that was made which established the spot where the stone stands we read, "Oct. 11, 1798, Israel Ludlow, deputy surveyor U. S. and Israel Brown, Daniel Walker, chainmen, commenced the survey of the meridian line from the center of the mouth of the Miami river. The variation of the compass was ascertained to be five minutes and ten degrees east of the true north."

Thus it can be seen that this spot is somewhat ancient, and that the place where the stone stands was once in the middle of the river, but the shifting of the river places it now several hundred feet to the west.

The stone, as found Saturday morning, was eight feet under ground. It is something like twelve feet tall when measured from its base.

The stone was seen by P. J. Emmert in October, 1864, and at that time stood eight or nine feet above ground and was surrounded by growing saplings, which later grew into large trees and were cut into lumber. John Geyer saw the stone in 1873, and placed his name upon it. At that time there was only three feet of it above ground. After the excavation takes place and the river widened, as contemplated by the B. & O., it will again stand in the Miami river.

From this stone or line all the meridian lines west in the United States have been surveyed.—Lawrenceburg Press.

AND TAX THE TAXI.

The following resolution was recently offered in the Colorado Legislature:

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives in General Assembly convened that we:

Tax the people and tax with care.
To help the Tax Commissionaire
Tax the farmer, tax his cow,
Tax the dog and tax his howl;
Tax the hen and tax her egg—
Let the bloomin' rooster beg.

Tax the ox and tax the ass,
Tax the "Henry," tax the gas,
Tax the house and tax his bed,
Tax the bald spot on his head.

Tax all business, tax the shop,
Tax the bonds and all their stock,
Tax the payroll, tax the sale,
Tax their hard-earned paper kale.

Tax the building of concrete,
Tax 'em for walking on the street.
Tax the living, tax the dead,
Tax the unborn before they're fed.
Tax 'em all and tax 'em well, Tax 'em to the gates of——Exchange.

The Bright Side.

The warden of Ohio penitentiary says that this one is true. Recently a negro prisoner, in for life, was brought before him and in the conversation the warden said: "Why, Reasus, you are in for life, aren't you?" With a broad grin the negro replied philosophically, "Oh, no, warden, just from now on."

KY. COUNTIES

How They Got Their Names-- Boone Was the Thirtieth County Formed.

KENTON—Kenton County was formed in 1840 out of part of Campbell County. Independence is the County seat, although most of the records and work of the county are kept and done in Covington. It was named for Simon Kenton, a Virginian, who came to Kentucky in 1771. He was one of the great heroes of early Kentucky history and had many thrilling conflicts with the Indians. He and his companions grew the first corn raised by white men in Kentucky.

CAMPBELL—Formed in 1794 out of parts of Harrison, Mason and Scott counties. Independence is the County seat. It was named for Alexander Campbell, a native of Ireland, who was a member of the first constitutional convention and a senator in the State Legislature.

BOONE—Boone county, the thirtieth county formed, was carved out of Campbell county in 1798. It was named for Daniel Boone, explorer and Indian fighter, whose feats are credited with opening up what is now Kentucky to the white man. Burlington is the county seat.

GRANT—Grant County was erected out of part of Pendleton County in 1820, the 67th formed. Williams-town is the county seat. There is some difference among historians as to where this county got its name, some saying it was named for Col. John Grant, who came to Kentucky in 1779 and settled near where Paris now stands. He returned to Virginia when Indians became too active, but returned to Kentucky in 1784. Others say that it was named for Samuel Grant, a brother of Col. John Grant. Samuel was killed by Indians in what is now Indiana in 1794.

BRACKEN—Formed in 1796 out of parts of Mason and Campbell counties. The 23rd county formed. It was named for two creeks, the Big and Little Bracken, which were named for William Bracken, an old hunter and pioneer, who visited that section in 1773 and later settled there. He was killed by the Indians a few years later. Augusta, the county seat, is the site of the first Methodist Church college ever established in the world, according to Collins' history of Kentucky. The college was established in 1822, and was abandoned shortly before the war between the States. The building burned January 29, 1862.

PENDLETON—Pendleton county was the 28th formed in Kentucky, and was carved out of parts of Bracken and Campbell counties in 1798. It was named for Edmund Pendleton, Virginia statesman. The county seat is Falmouth.

GALLATIN—Gallatin County, formed in 1798 out of parts of Franklin and Shelby counties, was the 33rd in order of formation. It was named after Albert Gallatin, a Swiss, who ran away to America in 1781 and later became congressman from Pennsylvania, Secretary of the Treasury under President Jefferson, ambassador to France, and who was noted as a speaker and writer. Warsaw, the county seat, was first known as Fredericksburg.

TRIMBLE—Trimble County, the 86th formed, was created in 1837 out of parts of Gallatin, Henry and Oldham counties. Bedford is the county seat. It was named for Judge Robert Trimble, of Paris, Ky., one of the great jurists of the State, who became a Justice of the United States Supreme Court in 1826. He died August 25, 1828.

CARROLL—Carroll County was created in 1838 out of parts of Henry, Trimble and Gallatin counties. It was the 87th county in order of formation. Carrollton is the county seat. It was named for Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and the last of the signers to die. He was born in Annapolis, Md., September 8, 1737, and died November 14, 1832.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

The play "A Kentucky Belle" which was given by the Senior Class of Boone County High School at Library Hall, last Wednesday evening, was attended by a crowd that taxed the capacity of the hall. The play was presented in an admirable manner and was enjoyed by all present. The manner in which the play was presented showed that the class had given time and thought to the different characters that had been assigned them. The play was a great success.

He lost to a Legion man nearby. Likewise, he lost his hat, which hit the street with such force that further use was out of the question.

TOWNSHIP ROAD BILL WOULD GIVE HUNDRED MILLION FOR TWO YEARS

New Bill Introduced To Give Federal Aid For Interstate Roads-- Would Start July 1.

Concentration of Federal funds upon highways of interstate importance, creation of a Federal highway commission to supercede the present bureau plan, otherwise unify the government highway agencies and drastic provisions for adequate maintenance are chief points in the highway bill introduced by Senator Charles E. Townsend, chairman of the Senate Committee on Postoffice and Post Roads. The measure will be called up for hearings in the near future.

The bill provides for an appropriation of $200,000,000 with $100,000,000 for the year from July, 1921, to July, 1922, and the same amount for the succeeding twelve-month period, to be expended on main highways in co-operation with the State highway department. The States themselves supplying a like amount.

RELEASE COUNTY FUNDS FOR SIDE ROADS.

States are required to meet federal funds as State units instead of being allowed to pass their apportionments on to the counties, thus draining the latter of their resources as in the past. Coincidentally county funds are released for use in the construction of farm to market roads of lesser importance, while the nation and States are permitted to use their funds for the main market highways.

In drawing this measure Senator Townsend had before him President Harding's message, and the bill contains all of the recommendations of the Chief Executive. Because of this fact and because of Senator Townsend's position the bill is, therefore considered as an administration measure.

DEFINITION OF INTERSTATE ROADS.

This statement is particularly true of the sections relating to maintenance, where drastic provisions have been written in, requiring the States to insure Government expenditures against loss through inadequate upkeep.

In the definition of interstate roads, the commission is directed to give first consideration to those highways meeting the agricultural, commercial, postal and military needs of the nation.

The principles written into the measure have already been indorsed in part or in full by practically every large national organization which for years have been interested in highway development in this country.

The Spirit of Fairness.

It is the aim of every good newspaper to make his journal the representative of all the people of its territory. A newspaper should be an open forum in which all elements can express their views. The editor or publisher of course will have opinions which he will express in the proper time or place with all the force of which he is capable.

A good newspaper will try to state accurately, so that even its political opponents shall feel that its news columns give an impartial picture of events from which the public can draw its own conclusions. Then when it does express its own feeling, the candor that it has displayed will add weight to its convictions. It is needless to say that these are the ideals of THE RECORDER, and it seeks to make friends even among its political opponents, by a policy of tolerance, open mindedness, and impartial reporting of news events.

GLORY BE!

A white man who happened to be a shorthand expert was interested in a sermon he heard preached by an old colored preacher in Mississippi a few weeks ago. The white man jotted down portions of the sermon, and in this way managed to preserve the supplication that closed the sermon. Here it is:

"O Lord, give Thy servant this mawlin' the eyes of the eagle and the wisdom of the owl connect his soul with the gospel telephone in the central skies, illuminate his brow with the sun of Heaven, pizen his mind with the love for the people, turpentine his magnation, grease his lips with possum oil, loosen his tongue with the sledge hammer of Thy power, electrify his brain with the lightning of the Word, put perpetual motion in his arms, fill him plumb full of dynamite of Thy glory 'noint him all over with the kerosene oil of Thy salvation and set him on fire. Amen!"

John J. Howe, who is a candidate for re-election as commonwealth's attorney for this district, has made an honest, straightforward and efficient officer, and he will undoubtedly receive the nomination of the Democratic party without opposition. He is entitled to this.

HIGH HONOR

Won By a Boone County Boy In The College of Agriculture, Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., May 20.—Mr. William G. Finn of Burlington, won high distinction in the College of Agriculture at the University of Kentucky last semester which is an honor that comes to very few.

The University of Kentucky grades by the point system, giving three points for a grade of "A"; two points for a grade of "B"; one point for "C"; and "D" points for "D." All students who make a standing of two points pass with honor; those with 2.4 pass with distinction; those above 2.4 pass with high distinction. Mr. Finn was one of the very few to reach the high distinction mark last semester.

Mr. Finn takes an active part in college athletics. He is business manager of the Strollers, a member of the Agricultural Society, and Past President of the Agricultural Society. He is also pledged to the Mystic Thirteen Fraternity, and was recently admitted to the honorary agricultural Fraternity, Alpha Zeta. A certain standard of scholarship, character and personality is required for admission to the Alpha Zeta Fraternity and out of the six selected from the whole of Agriculture College Mr. Finn was one.

He is a scholar and a leader among men, and his friends will be glad to hear of his brilliant record at the University of Kentucky.

The Distribution of Wealth.

One fundamental difference between the Republican and Democratic parties is this, that the Democratic party realizes and has made efforts to correct the great existing disparities in wealth. It is fundamentally wrong that so large a portion of the riches of the country should be concentrated in so few hands, while millions are struggling for the bare necessities of life, and are unable to have the ordinary essentials of health or the decent comforts of existence.

Injustice is thus done to great masses of earnest and hard working people. They have tried to do good work just as hard as the millionaires in his place. The merit of performance is not so much in the results achieved, as in the effort that has been made. While no communist scheme for equal division of property could ever prove practical or useful, yet the people who try hard and do their best are entitled to a better share of the good things of life than they get at this time.

The Republican party has never made a serious effort to remedy this false basis of society. The Democratic party has kept these evils constantly in mind, and has done much to relieve them and would have done more if it had been kept in power.

The Democratic party made possible the income tax, which was the greatest measure of social justice ever enacted in this country. It worked out the principle that the bulk of the costs of government should be paid by the people of wealth. Without such a law the war could never have been successfully fought.

This problem of unequal distribution of wealth creates a disturbing element in our life. The business machine will never run right until means are found to right these wrongs. The Republican party will never do that, unless it radically changes from all its past standards.

The next time that Germany can be placed in the axis, she will probably think twice before invading some other country and destroying 319,000 houses and 21,000 factories as a means of getting it.

Farmers are further behind with their planting than in years.

The Zone Postal Law.

A proposal is now pending in Congress to appeal the postal zone law as applied to second class mail. This movement is backed by magazines and big national weeklies. If it passes, a law will be substituted placing a flat rate on all newspapers and magazines. The newspapers are opposing this proposition, on the ground that the cost of delivering their publications is not nearly so much as that of delivering big magazines and weeklies.

The latter publications have to a large extent a national circulation. They often send as many to a distant state as to their own near by territory. Newspaper circulation, however, is mostly local. It goes into the country immediately around the place of publication.

It costs more to transport a magazine from New York to Texas or California, than to transport a newspaper from a city out into some country town 10 or 12 miles away. The cost of carrying magazines is thus much greater than that of newspapers, since magazines have to be carried so much farther. A flat rate for both classes would be just as sensible as charging as much for freight between Chicago and one of its suburbs as between Chicago and New York.

The magazines claim that they stimulate postal business in the way of mail orders, which helps out the promote all kinds of enterprises which pay taxes. If you begin to weigh these indirect considerations, the newspapers can stand comparison with the magazines in the service they render.

PEPPERS NEED GOOD SOIL, RICH FOOD AND EXTRA CARE

Sweet peppers, sometimes called Chinese peppers and Mammoth peppers, are becoming more and more popular as a crop for planting in the home garden. Only a few plants are necessary to supply the family of average size with all the peppers they will want, but it takes good land and extra care to produce peppers of high quality, say garden specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Pepper plants are easily injured by cold and the plants should be started in the house, in a hotbed, or in a greenhouse. Perhaps the best way is to purchase a dozen or so good plants from some seedman or plant grower.

In preparing the soil for peppers, first spade or fork the land over to a depth of 8 or 9 inches. At the same time work in some well-rotted manure and a large handful of commercial fertilizer to each square yard of space. This should be done at least a week before the pepper plants are set out. Then loosen the soil thoroughly at the time the plants are set. Frequent cultivation is necessary, and an occasional application of weak liquid manure to the soil around the plants will keep them growing vigorously. Large, tender peppers can only be produced on thrifty plants, and in order to keep the plants producing all the peppers desired, the plants should be kept picked off and none allowed to ripen.

Ruby King, Chinese Giant and Large Bell or Bull Nose are among the leading varieties of the large sweet peppers. Pimento peppers can be used in the same way as the regular sweet peppers, or they may be left on the plants until red ripe, then used for canning.

Garden truck has been growing nicely the past two weeks.

COMMENCEMENT

Exercises of Boone High School Attended by Large Crowd-- Eight Graduates.

The Commencement exercises of the Burlington High School were held in the Baptist church last Friday night. Perfect weather was in attendance and the large auditorium was filled to capacity with an overflow crowd surrounding each window on the exterior.

At the hour of eight the eight graduates, namely, Miss Mary Bess Cropper, Miss Olea Hensley, Miss Jessie Wilson, Messrs. Robert Clure, Howard McGlasson, Corey Acra, Raymond Ernst and Clayton Brown in company with their teachers, Supt. Gordon and Dr. A. W. Fortune assumed their places on the rostrum which was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

From the impressive invocation delivered by Rev. David Blythe to the benediction as delivered by Rev. R. H. Carter, the entire program was one of great interest throughout. Miss Olea Hensley capably upheld the honor of being the salutatorian of her class while Miss Mary Bess Cropper served as valedictorian with an address appropriate to the occasion. Mr. Robert Clure held the interest of those present with a well-prepared and excellently delivered oration on "Today's Call to Youth."

After being introduced by Principal E. A. Skillman, Dr. A. W. Fortune, who is Dean of the Bible School of Transylvania College, delivered an address replete with good thoughts and filled with many references as to the need of the world for young people to assume their places in the different walks of life and uphold the world leadership which the United States has assumed. During the course of his talk he called attention to the following motto which should serve as an inspiration to many present or that may be of the class:

"I am only one but I am one, I cannot do everything but I can do something, What I can do I ought to do And what I ought to do, by the help of God, I will do."

The music for the occasion was from the Choir of the Conservatory of Music and consisted of the violin, violoncello and piano and baritone soloist. The quality of the execution of the performers, both vocal and instrumental, was one of such nature as to delight all who heard them and their presence served to furnish one of the many enjoyable elements which featured the entire programme.

KY. FARMERS ASLEEP

In a Financial Way and as a Help to Land by Failing To Raise Sheep.

Kentucky farmers are asleep to the advantages of raising sheep both in a financial way and as help to the farming land itself according to Prop. Richard C. Miller, Sheep Extension Specialist of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture in an address for the Louisville Live Stock Exchange in connection with the purebred livestock campaign being conducted by the Exchange and the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association.

Emphasis on the possibilities of sheep raising developed coincidentally with Prof. Miller's talk when the price of lamb jumped 50c per hundred at the Bourbon Stock Yards with a growing demand from the eastern consumers and a slow movement of lambs to the market. Prof. Miller in his talk declared that the use of grade and scrub rams at the head of 85 per cent of the flocks of the State meant a loss annually of $2,000,000 to the industry. A complete survey of the State by Prof. Miller shows that out of more than 1,000,000 sheep in the State fewer than 7,000 are registered purebred.

Reluctance of the farmer to invest $40 to $50 for a registered ram is blamed for this situation, the price of his lack of vision being inferior animals with an invariable loss. Tendency of the farmer to rush in the sheep purchase when prices are high and then pull out when there is a slump also for the variable size and quality of flocks.

After claiming that they can never pay the reparations bill, the Germans will probably pay it, and then sell goods on the argument that their taxes are lower than those of other countries.

The weather last week and this has been fine for farm work and farmers have been busy finishing their plowing. A great deal of corn will be in the ground before the end of this week. The planting is late, but not much later than usual. Tobacco ground is being prepared and with a good season a considerable part of the crop will be planted by next week.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

NEW CIRCULAR ANSWERS FERTILIZER QUESTIONS.

When rock and acid phosphate are compared on unlimed soils the greatest crop increases are obtained from the use of rock phosphate while the use of lime in connection with the comparison reverses the results, according to Circular No. 97, entitled "Phosphate for Kentucky Soils," which has just come off the press at the College of Agriculture.

The publication is a comparison of the different forms of phosphate which, soil specialists state, the fertilizer most needed on soils outside of the Bluegrass region after the application of lime. Rock phosphate, the cheapest source of phosphorus, was compared with acid phosphate, the most commonly used of any phosphate fertilizer. The tests were conducted on fields located at Greenville, Lone Oak, Mayfield, Russellville, Berea and Faristown and involved 40 corn crops, 34 soybean crops, 27 wheat crops and 24 clover crops produced during the three to eight years in which the fields were under experiment. The circular may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

INVESTIGATIONS CONDUCTED ON BLACK HEAD OF TURKEYS

Investigations are being conducted by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station for the purpose of finding some practical remedy which will prevent and control Black Head, the most serious disease of turkeys. This trouble which has proved to be the greatest obstacle to the turkey-raising industry in the State is caused by an organism which affects the intestines and liver.

Many Farmers Keep Records

Of Crop Production Costs. One hundred Kentucky farmers are keeping cost production records on tobacco and more than 25 are keeping similar records on all farm operations in cooperation with the College of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture, according to Prof. W. D. Hollis, head of the Farm Economics Department. Those keeping tobacco records are equally divided between the Burley and dark tobacco growing areas. The records will be used in determining the cost of raising various farm crops.

BASE BALL.

The game played last Saturday between Burlington and Big Bone was a slugger match. Fourteen runs were made in the first inning and the final score was 28 to 7 with Burlington on the long end.

Petersburg and Bellevue played an interesting game last Saturday which resulted in a score of 4 to 0 in favor of Petersburg.

Florence defeated Beaver by a score of 11 to 1.

Taylorsport defeated Petersburg by a score of 7 to 2.

Burlington plays at Big Bone next Saturday. Burlington will play two games at Walton next Monday, Decoration Day. July 4th will find the Burlington and Petersburg teams together for two games, morning and afternoon at Petersburg.

Sandford who pitched the game for Taylorsport last Sunday, was in fine form and pitched a good game. He is one of the best amateur pitchers in and around Cincinnati.

"300 Purebred Bulls For Kentucky Farmers."

To still further improve the quality of livestock in Kentucky the Louisville Livestock Exchange and the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association are actively supporting a "Better Sire" campaign in that State. Besides distributing educational material, pointing out the value of good pure bred sires in all classes of livestock, arrangements have been made to hold a farmer's bull sale on June 2nd. In a letter to the U. S. Department of Agriculture the president, (W. S. Bell) of the Louisville Live Stock Exchange states, referring to the sale, "We expect to place 300 purebred bulls with the farmers at the State of Kentucky. There is no mercenary motive behind it. The Louisville Livestock Exchange is giving publicity free of charge and the breeders are entertaining their stock for this sale without reservation. No individual breed or breeder will be advertised."

Although Senator Newberry is back in his seat in the Senate, the New York World points out that the merits of his case are yet to be decided. The decision of the Supreme Court did not deal with the truth or falsity of the charges against him, but only with the unconstitutionality of the law under which he was tried. The Senate, as the World states, is still the sole judge of its own membership and effort is being made to revive Senator Newberry's election.

What the Ten Banks of Boone County Are Doing.

The average customer of a bank does not usually realize the actual expenses necessary in operating the ten banks in this County, and also the large amount of interest and dividends distributed annually among the customers and stockholders of the ten banks. In order to compile this information for publication, the secretary of the Boone County Bankers Association was instructed to secure and prepare the data and figures along this line for the past year of 1920.

Following is the expenses and distribution of dividends of the ten banks for 1920:

Taxes paid	$1,407.67
Salaries of cashiers and assistants	23,250.55
Salaries of presidents, directors and attorneys	4,824.00
Postage, stationery and supplies	4,657.44
Other incidental expenses	6,627.72
Interest paid on deposits and borrowed money	42,474.46

Total actual operating expenses $95,911.84
Amount of dividends paid stockholders for 1920 37,250.00

Total expenses and dividends paid $133,161.84
The total resources of all the banks at the close of business December 31, 1920 was $2,853,854.61.
There are about 20 Cashiers and Assistant Cashiers regularly employed to take care of this business which shows a fair average volume of business for each employee with a low average salary for each one.

It will also be noted that the ten banks are distributing annually about $80,000 to their customers in the form of interest on deposits and dividends on their stock holdings, which shows that the banks provide quite a little income for their customers as well as pay a large share of the taxes to our County and State.

All the banks appear to be in splendid condition and are a valuable asset to our County.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors who shared our sorrow during the illness and death of our loved one, Charles A. Finn, and especially to those who cared for him so tenderly during those hours of need; also to Rev. R. H. Carter for his consoling remarks, and to Mr. C. S. Chambers for the efficient manner in which he conducted the funeral, and to each and everyone who assisted in any way toward lightening our burden of grief.

THE FAMILY.

No one has any doubt that this is an age of rapid progress; that observing how the automobiles of Burlington are speeding.

NOTICE TO ROAD CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals addressed to the Fiscal Court of Boone County will be received up to 10 a. m., June 7, 1921, when they will be publicly opened and read for the construction of the County road from Hathaway pike north a distance of 2 miles and 580 feet.

The work, as described and shown in the plans and specifications to be sent at the County Road Engineer's office, will be known as the construction of the Grange-Hall road. The work proposed to be done involves approximately:

- 1237 cubic yds. crushed stone.
- 1357 cubic yds. sledged stone.
- 48 cubic yds. stone masonry.
- 150 cubic yds. shaping road and ditching.

A single bid to be submitted for the whole work.
Bids must be for work done in accordance with the plans and specifications approved by the Fiscal Court and the County Road Engineer, on file at the County Clerk's office in Burlington, Boone County. The Fiscal Court of Boone County expressly reserves the right to reject any and all bids.
Each bid must be accompanied by cash or certified check for $500.00, which check will be held until the execution of the contract.

Before the contract is awarded, the successful bidder or bidders will be required to furnish a bond equal to the amount of the proposal for the faithful performance of the work in accordance with the aforesaid plans and specifications.
All work to be done under the direction and supervision of the County Road Engineer.

By order of the Fiscal Court of Boone County.
W. R. ROGERS,
County Court Clerk, Boone County.

Farmers are a busy set now.

Under the curfew law some of are likely to get sent home at nine o'clock.

Every week is Boy's Week now in any back yard big enough for kid base ball.

Machine parts are needed in Russia, but they have a sufficient supply of cranks.

Hon. Chas. Strother of Walton, was tansating business in Burlington, last Friday.

Judge B. F. Menefee of Crittenden, Grant county, was in town on business last Friday.

The big cities are trying to eliminate noise, while the country towns are striving to eliminate quiet.

Formerly the girls used to don aprons when they went to work, but now they dress themselves in party gowns.

And it is false that the boys are not determined to rise, as they are all competing for success as ball players.

It is considered an honor to be "mentioned" for public office, even when the mentioning is all done by the candidates.

Being urged to cultivate optimism, some folks in Boone county order goods on credit that they can't possibly pay for.

Charles Youell lost a good two year old colt last week. There was an old well in the pasture, covered with boards, and the colt stepped on them and broke the covering which let it fall in. The colt was found dead.

MOONSHINE STILL

Found in Florence—Operator Arrested and Lodged in Jail—Implicates Others.

Sheriff Conner and Deputy B. B. Hume received a tip that John Brown colored, had a still and was making moonshine whiskey at his home in Florence, and after making an investigation and satisfying themselves that the negro was distilling liquor, they went to his home last Monday night and found a complete still and a jar containing about four gallons of liquor in the making, but Brown said that he had still the liquor from what they found and that was just corn for chickens. Brown denied making of whisky at first but finally admitted that he had been in the business for several months, and implicated Phil Lambert of Florence of whom he stated furnished him with the necessary cash to buy materials to make the liquor and also assisted him in making the still. The still was well made out of a copper boiler with long copper worm that was cooled by passing through water in an old beer keg. Brown said that he would make about one to two gallons a week and that Lambert disposed of all he could make. A warrant was issued for Lambert and he was arrested under a warrant issued by Judge N.E. Riddell Tuesday morning by Sheriff Conner and Deputy Hume and put under bond for an examining trial which will be held in a few days.

BOONE POST NUMBER 4

Boone Post American Legion of Kentucky will hold Memorial exercises at the various cemeteries containing bodies of ex-soldiers, Sunday May 29th 1921. Short services will be held at each place with appropriate decoration of graves. The visit to these cemeteries will be made by an automobile party, according to the following schedule; leave Burlington at 9 a. m., thence to Petersburg, Bellevue, Burlington, Florence, Beaver, Walton, Verona, and Highland. Three Boone Co. Boys who were killed in France will be buried in Boone county soil in a few days as their bodies have arrived in New York and are expected to arrive here within the next few days. Boone Post plans to conduct the funeral services and accord them full military honor. All members are urged to be present in uniform and assist in these exercises. The public is most cordially invited to be present at the various cemeteries and thereby assist the Post in doing honor to our dead comrades. O. R. RUSS, Post Commander.

FORTUNES MADE FROM TRIFLING INVENTIONS

Mouse Trap Filled Yankee's Pockets With Gold--Farmer Fitted From Poverty.

There may be more money in a trifling invention than in a big one. All about us are new ideas just waiting to be grabbed, if we could only see them.

Consider the familiar mouse trap. It is a simple, yet ingenious device, familiar to every household. Mr. Mouse pokes his head thru a round hole to get at a scrap of cheese that smells inviting; his first nibble releases a trigger and he is garroted, says the Kansas City Star.

That little contrivance was the invention of a New England Yankee, Anthony G. Davis, of Watertown, Conn., who patented it in 1869. He made a large fortune by it. The patent, of course, ran out long ago, but at the present time mouse traps of this pattern are manufactured by millions in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

George A. Mitchell was a poor farmer residing in the village of Turner, Me., 60 years ago. His children kicked the toes out of their shoes faster than he could afford to buy new ones. It occurred to him to cut pieces from a sheet of copper that happened to be handy, and fastened them over the toes. Thus fortified, one pair of shoes, he found would last three times the ordinary length of time. He patented the idea, making his claim cover shoe tips of silver or other metals, (with preference, however, for copper) and it brought him more money than a lifetime of farm work could have yielded.

Crandall, last "building block" fame, was engaged in the manufacture of croquet sets. It was half a century ago when croquet was a popular outdoor sport. He hit upon the notion of economizing cost by putting the boxes together with wooden teeth that would fit into corresponding openings along each opposite side. Thus their parts could be assembled easily without nails or glue.

It so chanced that at this very time Crandall's small daughter was sick with measles. To amuse her, he showed her some pieces of his croquet boxes, and she found such delight in putting them together that he was persuaded to adopt the idea for a new kind of building blocks.

Crandall was a born inventor. It was he who originated the "pigs in clover" puzzle, which became so great a rage. Unfortunately, he was so far from realizing its commercial value that he failed to patent it.

Nobody really knows who invented the famous "fifteen puzzle." There have been many claimants. All that can be said is that it was never patented and that fortunes were made out of it.

Rather exasperating is the obviousness of many patented ideas that have brought fortunes to their originators. Take, for instance, the Dennison shipping tag. The trouble with such tags used to be that they would tear out at the tie hole. How easy a cardboard reinforcement! That was the whole of Dennison's invention, and it netted him a tidy fortune.

There was a Philadelphia man, Hyman L. Lipman, who noticed that when writing with a lead pencil it was inconvenient to reach for a piece of erasing rubber to rub something out. It is the habit of a piece of erasing rubber to disappear mysteriously; everybody had noticed it. But if the butt end of the pencil contains a small eraser, it can not get away. This was the idea that struck Mr. Lipman, who patented it. It brought him a fortune.

The metal ball-and-socket clasp for street gloves, handbags and pocket-books is so familiar nowadays that we never think of it as an ingenious invention. Nevertheless, it would bother us very much if we were obliged to go back to the old-fashioned buttons and button-holes for our gloves.

This ball-and-socket device is the idea of a clever Frenchman. An important point about it is one that no ordinary person would think of, viz, the "click." To be popular, a clasp of any kind must make a sharp noise when closed.

What could be more obvious than the wooden shoe? Yet, quite possibly, it might never have been thought of but for the genius of a Bostonian named B. F. Sturtevant. It brought him a fortune; but he never was, and so for him the achievement was fruitless.

It has been proven that the future destiny of this country depends entirely upon the Congressmen from the country districts. When the bill to prohibit immigration to this country was called up recently the city Congressmen voted against the measure, for fear that the wrath of the foreign-born population in their home districts would be brought down upon their political aspirations. When it comes to politics the future depends on the country.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

National headquarters of the American Legion has received more than 1,100 signed resolutions calling upon Congress for immediate legislative aid to disabled veterans of the world war. Among the organizations which have shown the largest response to the appeal of F. W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander, are Central Labor and Trade Unions, Chambers of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, Knights of Columbus, associations of public school teachers and principals, the American War Mothers, Service Star Legion and American Legion posts.

Ethel Barrymore and a host of stage and screen celebrities contributed their talent to the American Legion at the annual show of S. Rankin Drew Post, composed of New York ex-service men who are engaged in various branches of theatrical and motion picture enterprises.

Prayers in almost every church in the State began the service and membership campaign of the American Legion in Idaho. Americanism meetings in every city will be a feature of the drive.

The General Electric Company in Erie, Pa., will present an American flag and post standard to the post of its employees. A memorial will be dedicated to employees of the company who died in action.

"As time passes, I have grown more and more proud of my part in the founding of the American Legion," said Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., in presenting two silk flags to the National Press Club Post of the Legion in Washington, D. C. The presentation ceremonies were attended by a large group of high government officials.

When the school board of Port Huron, Mich., became entangled in an educational and financial controversy which resulted in a deadlock, the American Legion Post of the city took a hand. The ex-service men protested against a proposal to oust one teacher and to reduce the salary of another, both of them former soldiers. The deadlock was broken.

Pullmans and tourists' sleepers will be "parked" in the principal downtown streets of Kansas City, Mo., to accommodate members of the American Legion attending the convention's national convention.

Trucks will be laid in the streets and cars connected with the electric lighting system so as to avoid the danger of fire in the railroad yards.

President Harding is expected to be in the city two days to bark at the dogs and to bark at the dogs.

ALFRED DOLWICK,

CONSTANCE, KENTUCKY.

Fruit Shortage Not General.

Washington, May 20.—Damage to fruit crops from freezes in some sections of the country has not resulted in a general shortage, the Department of Agriculture said today. Georgia peaches and California cherries are already flowing to the markets, while the strawberry crop was said to be abundant in several places.

A good crop of apples and peaches is expected in Colorado, and an average yield is promised in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Tennessee is looking forward to the largest blackberry crop on record, also expecting a short apple and peach crop. Utah will probably have only a 50 per cent peach crop. Fair crops of blackberries and raspberries are looked for in Missouri.

The apple crop outlook is improving, the department announced, but in Michigan only a light yield, except of winter apples and pears, is expected. In Arizona the peach crop is almost a total failure, and in Delaware peaches, pears, plums and cherries have been practically killed by frosts. Virginia was said to have very poor prospects in fruit this year.

B. H. Riley and Miss Nell Martin spent Sunday with Mr. J. J. Mather and family in Bullittville neighborhood.

Some tobacco has been set in this section. Robert Popham, who lives down on Gunpowder, has most of his crop planted in tobacco.

COLD WEATHER

CHECKS CROPS.

Weather Bureau Reports on Conditions in Kentucky for the Week.

The United States Weather Bureau's summary of weather and crop conditions for the week ending May 17th, follows:

Cloudy weather with moderate to heavy rains prevailed during the first half of the week. The soil was too wet to plow or plant corn, and farm work was practically a standstill. The last half was dry and favorable for outdoor work, and considerable progress was made in planting corn and soil preparation. The temperature was generally below normal—too low for satisfactory growth or germination. Some early corn is up but its color is not good. Corn planting is much delayed, and much corn land has not been prepared on account of wet soil. A special effort is being made to plant the bulk of the crop this week.

Wheat made satisfactory growth, and is heading generally. It continues in very good condition, although there is a complaint of rust in some localities. Tobacco plants are plentiful, but are growing slowly on account of the cool weather. Setting commenced this week, but not many plants are large enough to transplant. Most of the setting was done in the "dark" district. (That is good, but generally late, because of late sowing and slow growth. Potatoes are good to excellent, being less affected than other crops by the low temperature. Gardens make a poor showing, germination and growth being seriously retarded. Hill and upland pastures continue good.

INDIANIAN IS CONVICTED

Of having Slain Brother—Insanity Contention Is Upheld.

Rising Sun, Ind.—The jury in the case of Sidney Thatcher, indicted on the charge of having slain his brother Floyd August 18, 1920, today brought in a verdict of guilty. The verdict was rendered on the ground that he was of unsound mind at the time the act was committed.

Judge Lowe, Monday, will sentence him to the Indiana Asylum for the Criminal Insane.

It requires capital, if only in small amounts, to get a start on any road to independence. But we dare say there was enough spent on silk shirts and photographs by the present unemployed during the recent spend-thrift orgy to start them all on the road to a modest independence had they earnestly and with common sense husbanded their surplus earnings.

Past opportunities cannot satisfy present hunger, but present hunger may suggest future safe guards against the day when the opportunities return.

Furnish Penn, of near Radcliff, Scott county, spent several days the past week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Penn, of near town.

TRIBE, LEGION AND CHURCH JOIN IN RITES FOR HERO INDIAN CHIEF.

Cannonball, N. D.—With all the ceremony accorded a chieftain in bygone days, Albert Graas, 21 year old, last chief of the Dakota Sioux Indians, who was killed while fighting in France, was buried today.

Mingled with the Indian rites were services of the American Legion and the religious ceremony of the Catholic church. Several thousand Indians attended.

The final resting place for the young chief is Holy Hill, a spot sacred to the Indians, where the last great sun dance of the Sioux was held.

The White Horse Riders had charge of the Indian ceremonies, consisting mainly of chanting dances, which lasted thruout last night. The White Horse Riders is composed of middleaged warriors who were members in the organization many years ago thru special bravery.

After the White Horse ceremonies regulation military funeral services were conducted by the Legion.

W. B. Davrainville has been doing some carpenter work in Newport the past two weeks.

Attend the big road meeting at Georgetown next Saturday.

THE DIXIE HIGHWAY.

That the present routing of the Dixie Highway, between Covington and Georgetown will not be changed at least until the September meeting of the Board of Directors of the Dixie Highway Association, but that preparations for making the stretch permanent is all that stands in the way of a change of the route at that time, is the report brought back by Dr. Ira M. Boswell, delegate of the Northern Kentucky national convention held at Chattanooga, Tenn., Thursday and Friday.

Dr. Boswell will be one of the speakers at the big burgo and road meeting to be held at Georgetown Saturday.

No direct effort was made at the Chattanooga meeting to change the present routing of the Highway, but suggestions are going constantly from mouth to ear and the press is full of complaints of the bad condition of the eastern route of the Dixie Highway thru Kentucky. Dr. Boswell said. Moreover, according to Dr. Boswell, the counties along the present route are losing in potential income every day that the permanent construction of the Highway is delayed.

Georgetown is making elaborate preparations to entertain large delegations from Williamstown, Erlanger, Walton, Lexington, Crittenden, Covington, Sadleville, Corinth, Dry Ridge, and other towns along the route. Burgo and lunch will be served on the campus of Georgetown College and a band concert will be given by the Georgetown College band. The list of speakers for the meeting has not been announced.

SCHOOL NOTES

We are trying to isolate an Extension Summer School at Walton for the accommodation of Boone Grant and Gallatin counties, teachers to begin at a date so it may close before the schools begin for next session.

The schedule for teachers, according to a ruling of the State Department, must pay five dollars more per month to the teachers who attend either this Extension School or one of the Normal Schools than to the same teacher of like qualifications who does not attend one of these schools. We must know the number of teachers who are willing to subscribe to this Extension School. The tuition for the term will not be less than ten nor more than fifteen dollars per teacher. The school will have six days sessions per week and the last week of said school is to be counted as an institute week. For further particulars call on or address J. C. Gordon, Superintendent, Burlington, Ky.

CONSTANCE.

It was a fine idea to decorate with carnations in honor of Mother's Day, and it would be still finer to decorate the kitchen with home labor saving devices to save Mother's energy.

TRIBE, LEGION AND CHURCH JOIN IN RITES FOR HERO INDIAN CHIEF.

Cannonball, N. D.—With all the ceremony accorded a chieftain in bygone days, Albert Grass, 21 year old, last chief of the Dakota Sioux Indians, who was killed while fighting in France, was buried today.

Mingled with the Indian rites were services of the American Legion and the religious ceremony of the Catholic church. Several thousand Indians attended.

The final resting place for the young chief is Holy Hill, a spot sacred to the Indians, where the last great sun dance of the Sioux was held.

The White Horse Riders had charge of the Indian ceremonies, consisting mainly of chanting dances, which lasted thruout last night.

The White Horse Riders is composed of middle-aged warriors who won membership in the organization many years ago thru special bravery.

Maj. A. B. Welch, the only white man to be adopted by the Dakota Sioux tribe as a blood brother; the Rev. A. T. Tibbitts and Claud Kill spotted delivered eulogies.

After the White Horse ceremonies regulation military funeral services were conducted by the Legion.

W. R. Davrainville has been doing some carpenter work in Newport the past two weeks.

Attend the big road meeting at Georgetown next Saturday.

THE DIXIE HIGHWAY.

That the present routing of the Dixie Highway between Covington and Georgetown will not be changed at least until the September meeting of the Board of Directors of the Dixie Highway Association, but that preparations for making the stretch permanent is all that stands in the way of a change of the route at that time, is the report brought back by Dr. Ira M. Boswell, delegate of the Northern Kentucky to the national convention held at Chattanooga, Tenn., Thursday and Friday.

Dr. Boswell will be one of the speakers at the big burgo and road meet to be held at Georgetown Saturday.

No direct effort was made at the Chattanooga meeting to change the present routing of the Highway, but suggestions are going constantly from mouth to ear and the press is full of complaints of the bad condition of the eastern route of the Dixie Highway thru Kentucky. Dr. Boswell said, moreover, according to Dr. Boswell, the counties along the present route are losing in potential income every day that the permanent construction of the Highway is delayed.

Georgetown is making elaborate preparations to entertain large delegations from Williamstown, Erlanger, Walton, Lexington, Crittenden, Covington, Saddleville, Corinth, Dry Ridge, and other towns along the route. Burgo and lunch will be served on the campus of Georgetown College and a band concert will be given by the Georgetown College band. The list of speakers for the meeting has not been announced.

SCHOOL NOTES

We are trying to locate an Extension Summer School at Walton for the accommodation of Boone Grant and Gallatin counties, teachers to begin at a date so it may close before the schools begin for next session.

The schedule for teachers, according to a ruling of the State Department, must pay five dollars more per month to the teachers who attend either this Extension School or one of the Normal Schools than to the same teacher of like qualifications who does not attend one of these schools. We must know the number of teachers who are willing to subscribe to this Extension School. The tuition for the term will not be less than ten nor more than fifteen dollars per teacher. The school will have six days sessions per week and the last week of said school is to be counted as institute week. For further particulars call on or address J. C. Gordon, Superintendent, Burlington, Ky.

CONSTANCE.

William Masters died May 10th at his home across the river in Southside, aged 58 years, 5 months and 20 days. He was born at the old Masters home on the hill overlooking Stringtown and lived here until ten years ago, when he moved to Southside. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, three sons, one daughter and one sister—Mrs. J. H. Popham, of this place. He was a kind loving husband, father and brother, and will be sorely missed by his loved ones. A kindly voice is still heard and there is a chair vacant in the home. The funeral services were held in the house, conducted by Bro. Runyan, burial at Highland cemetery May 14th.

TRACHOMA CLINIC HELD IN KNOX COUNTY.

Other Clinics to be Held by State Board of Health at Lancaster and Jackson.

Louisville, May 21.—Dr. C. B. Koper, director of the State Board of Health's Bureau of Trachoma, who is holding a series of clinics in various counties in Kentucky, finished his clinic at Manchester, Clay County, last Saturday and he and his assistant spent this week holding another clinic at Barbourville. Next week a clinic will be held at Lancaster in Garrard county and after that one at Jackson in Breathitt county.

Dr. Koper, that the clinic at Manchester was one of the most successful ever conducted by the State Board of Health. During the week 372 patients were examined, thirty four cases of trachoma were found, and twenty-one operations were performed. The number of cases of trachoma found was lower than was anticipated and is considered distinctly encouraging. Assisting Dr. Koper in holding the clinics are Dr. C. E. Downs of the United States Public Health Service, Miss Nell Lang, United States Public Health Nurse, and Miss Linda Neville, Mrs. Mattie P. Snadaker and Miss Barbara Cochran of the State Board of Health.

BETTER THAN HUNGER.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
The estimated unemployment roll of 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 persons in the United States discloses a distressing condition for which there is apparently no immediate remedy. Perhaps there is an ultimate remedy. That remains to be seen. But even if workers caught in the present economic vise are without hope of a permanent solution they are not without individual recourse.

The present is an opportune time for reflection. A vacuum beneath the belt need not interfere with active functioning beneath the hat band. The farmer claims—and we do not dispute his claim—that he is a sufferer from current economic conditions. But so long as he remains on the land he can pacify his stomach, let the flurries of industrial disquietude rage as they will.

The rural opportunities for the laborer who is content with simplicity and is willing to work have not disappeared. He may start as a hired hand or he may take up wild land. There is still wild land with large reproductive possibilities in the United States, procurable on installments of so small an amount as to be practically negligible. Enough good grazing land to develop into a farm can be purchased in Minnesota for an outlay not exceeding the price of a good suit of clothes.

GOOD ROADS CONVENTION.

Delegates to the Good Roads Convention June 7-10, at the Jefferson County Armory, under auspices of the Kentucky Road Engineers' Association, will be royally entertained during their stay in Louisville.

The program is the most pretentious of any prepared for a meeting in the State.

Tuesday, the opening day, delegates will be registered and presented with handsome badge souvenirs in the form of a bronze tobacco leaf upon which is stamped a beautiful woman and horse, all symbols of Kentucky. In the evening a band concert and dance will be given in the Convention Hall and motion pictures will be shown.

Shortly before noon on the second day, the visitors will be taken in automobiles to the country home of Merritt Drane, President of the club, where they will be served. They will then have dinner at the Eight Mile House. During the afternoon the county quarry, the new Federal-aid permanent concrete road, and other types of roads will be inspected and the motor oilers and modern construction machinery will be demonstrated. In the evening there will be music, dancing and motion pictures at the Armory.

A trip which should be of special interest to those from out in the State will be the boat excursion Thursday afternoon. Delegates will be taken on a four hour ride up the river on the steamer America, one of the largest and finest steamers on the Ohio. Luncheon will be served on board. A jazz orchestra will be provided. The dance hall of the vessel is 270 feet long. The usual evening program of music, dancing and motion pictures will be staged at the Convention Hall. All sessions and amusements will be open to the public without charge. One of the interesting features of the Convention will be the exhibit of road machinery and motor trucks in the Convention Hall. Fifty dealers and manufacturers from all sections of the country have engaged space for displays of their equipment.

Congressman A. B. Rouse and son, Mr. J. R. Rouse, and Walton Dempsey, his friends and relatives in Burlington, will be present Saturday.

Miss Nellie McAtsee is recovering from a serious surgical operation which was performed last Good Friday at the Hospital, Cincinnati, a few days ago.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

CHARLES MAURER, M. C. B. C.

Lessons From Germany.

Very little admiration is felt in this country for the moral ideas of Germany. But in efficiency methods, in her plans for industrial development before the war, there are many points where she achieved wonders and where the United States has much to learn.

The way Germany developed foreign trade was one of the most amazing achievements in the history of the world. Fifty years ago Germany was far behind in international trade. But as the result of far reaching plans, she reached the point in 1913 where her exports were worth more money than those of the United States. And values were very much lower in Germany, so the volume of exports was really in excess of the American export product. And yet at that time Germany's population was only about 67,000,000, while the United States had 91,000,000.

How did they accomplish this remarkable productivity? Probably the principal element was thorough education, particularly technical training. Young men who expected to enter industrial work were given a careful schooling along these lines. This produced a great body of expert workers, who would maintain high standards of factory output. This very expert population could beat out a country like the United States, where technical training had been undervalued.

Also the Germans spent money very freely for technical research. They supported large numbers of scientists who devoted their time to studying improvement of the mechanical arts. All processes were subjected to scientific tests, so that they were the most efficient and economical in the world. Our export business can not be large unless our factories and farms produce efficiently. They can't do that unless a great body of young people are incited and assisted to attain expert skill.

Job was a patient man, but he should have lived near the fishermen sitting on creeksides all day Sunday waiting for fish to bite and permitting flies, gnats and mosquitoes to bite and calling sunset the end of a perfect day.

Nowadays a bill for having an automobile overhauled convinces the owner that the fellow who made it was influenced by reading the reports of what the French think Germany can pay in the way of reparations.

I'd walk a mile for a Camel

The pleasure is worth it. There's no substitute for Camel quality and that mild, fragrant Camel blend.

The fellow who smokes Camels, wants Camels. That's because Camels have a smoothness, a fragrance and a mildness you can't get in another cigarette.

Don't let anyone tell you that any other cigarette at any price is so good as Camels.

Let your own taste be the judge. Try Camels for yourself. A few smooth, refreshing puffs and you'd walk a mile for a Camel, too.

A FLYING VISIT

Made to The "Old Ky. Home"
By a Boone Countyite Who Is Growing Old.

Alexandria, Indiana,
May 12, 1921.

Editor Recorder:

After a fellow lives long enough to see three wars and long enough to have been in the Mexican War he does strange and unseemingly things.

Your humble scribe lives here in a country where land sells as high as $1000 per acre, and yet he has a hankering for Old Kentucky.

Not long ago we dropped from a flying machine on four wheels with a wild and reckless pilot into Erlanger. The Boone county colony were in fine health and doing business on a live wire basis—Reuben Conner, Philip L. Litterell and Jas. Huey told the so.

At "Stringtown On the Pike" we did not see any of Prof. Lloyd's characters walking around, but did see Charles Myers, Lute Aylor, John R. Whitson and other good men ready and willing to be sociable and clever. While waiting for John Dickerson and his "Dixie Highway" express for Union, W. W. Conner came trailing into town singing one of Billy Sunday's favorite songs and looking younger after hearing Billy expound his doctrine of "Never get old if you can help it." Babe is a good scout and never refuses a ride to any man going his way, so down to Spencer Smith's wedrove straightway where a warm welcome and a steaming hot oyster supper awaited us. It has been a tradition of the Smith home for several generations, that no guest ever regrets going there and accepting their hospitality. I say!

After a day's rest along came Lee Busby in his twin Six and in company with Spencer and Harry we drove to Union and on to Hamilton in search of fish. At Union everything looked as natural as nature itself. The stores were prospering and citizens seemed contented and happy.

At Hamilton we found the fish market badly demoralized and Mr. Huff declared it all came about by the activities of Douglas Moore or the weather man, he could not tell exactly. We decided it was due to low priced tobacco.

Making fish bite, said Mr. Huff, is something no man can do, but Geo. Smith could come close to it. Lee Busby loves fish better than a Chinaman loves rice and to say he was madder than a fish hawk when caught in a steel trap, is putting it easy.

We came through Union so fast on our return that Prof. Vossell, J. L. Frazier, Dr. Senour, Ben Norman and Sam Hicks could not count us, tell the color of our hair or describe our license number, so it's cinch we escaped. The writer went back again but finding out there was an "Angel" in town we simply returned to Indiana.

Hoping the Recorder may continue to be what it has been for years—the cleanest and strongest weekly in Kentucky. I am

PRICES OF MEAT ANIMALS
LOWEST IN 10 YEARS.

Prices of meat animals (hogs, cattle, sheep and fowls) to producers of the United States decreased 9 per cent from March 15 to April 15, according to a report issued by the Bureau of Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture. In the last 10 years prices paid for meat animals have increased 4.5 per cent during the period from the middle of March to the middle of April. The report shows that on April 15 the index figure of prices for meat animals was about 37.9 per cent lower than a year ago; and 16.3 per cent lower than the average of the last 10 years on April 15. The statisticians of the department point out that the high prices paid for meat animals during the last few years is the result of increased demand during and immediately following the war, and that the present prices are approaching those which maintained during normal times preceding the war.

HERE'S GOOD STOCK TONIC.

Here is a very good stock food recommended by Uncle Sam in one of his bulletins:

Glauber salts	2 lbs.
Soda	1 lb.
Salt	1 lb.
Fenugreek	2 ozs.
Linseed meal	25 lbs.

Mix this thoroughly and give a tablespoonful three times a day.

THE LAZY STREAK

"There is a lazy streak in most of us which is glad of the chance to sit work," says The Business Educator. This paper tries to persuade young business folks not to make so much effort to dodge hard tasks. It finds for instance, that many stenographers avoid taking dictation from men who talk at high pressure, since men of that type have a way of dictating quite fast and employing unusual words.

The result of that attitude is that an office girl would fail to make herself useful to the heads of a concern, and would be used only by the subordinates and thus be out of the line of promotion. This paper also reports that not more than one-fourth of the young people that study stenography learn their profession so well that they can write as fast as a man can talk. The man who dictates to them constantly has to wait until they can catch up. This is irritating to a high class man. A girl who acquires her trade in such a mediocre way, is marked as being below standard and never gets any advancement.

Many office workers feel dissatisfied if they have to keep busy all their working hours. Formerly people worked nine or ten hours a day, and kept at it all the time. Now a lot of them on eight hours are dissatisfied if they have to keep working steadily through the shorter period. If people are not able to work energetically through an 8-hour day, conditions must be wrong. Perhaps the room is poorly ventilated, and perhaps the worker is not in good physical condition.

In the majority of cases the trouble is indolence. People of that kind manage to drift thru life somehow, though they are the first to be laid off in slack times. There are some of that kind in every city and some of them complain of unjust so-called conditions, when what they need is more American hustle.

THE SIGN OF THE POPPY.

The American people were asked to wear the poppy on Memorial day, as the symbol of the heroic dead who offered their lives for freedom in the late war. The bright crimson flowers of this lovely plant are peculiarly fitted to suggest the sacrifice of the soldier. Their red may stand for the blood so freely shed. The vivid hue suggests the spirit of courage and cheer that was the distinguishing mark of our soldier boys.

The choice of this flower is also appropriate from the fact that so many fields of France are stained red by the brilliant carpet of poppies. Red has not usually been considered a mourning color. More sober tones have been thought suggestive of grief. But the boys who "went west" would not wish to be thought of in any somber way. They would wish to be remembered for the splendid manliness and optimism and determination that glorified our marching men. So the poppy may well be the "red badge of courage" and may our people wear it freely as a memorial of those who died for us.

Let U. S. D. of A. Help Solve your Problems.

The United States Department of Agriculture has in available form information, the work of practical scientists, on almost every problem which confronts the farmer. This information was gathered by your Department of Agriculture for your benefit. Use it.

It is carried to hundreds of thousands of farmers and farmers' wives by county agents and home demonstration agents if there is one in your county.

When you have a farm problem or a household problem, present it to your county agent or home demonstration agent if there is one in your county.

If there is no such agent, or if the information through that source does not exactly meet the case, write to the Department of Agriculture.

Reckless Extravagance.

A bank in this county sent $6,000 in Government Bonds to the U. S. Treasury Department a few days ago by Registered Insured mail at total expense of 50 cents.

These same bonds were returned to the bank by the Treasury Department by Express instead of by mail and cost the bank $5.25 Express charges.

Why should our Government pay into the hands of the Express Companies at the expense of the people instead of using the Registered insured mail privileges, the common man's convenience.

This is a sample of extravagance that is being practiced at Washington, using the most expensive method of transportation when the cheaper method, mail, is best and most convenient.

There is a growing demand that the newspaper sporting reporters should write in the English language.

OWEN COUNTY MAN

Shies His Hat into the Political Arena As a Candidate for State Senator.

Owen County Democrat.

Yielding to the many solicitations of my friends in the district and State to make the race for re-election to the State Senate, I am announcing this week.

On account of the unsettled conditions of commercial affairs I felt that I could not make the race and spare the time from my business, but feeling that if the people and party want me to serve as Senator I am willing to make the race. I appreciate all their kindness to me now, and that in the past, I have always tried to stand loyal to my people, their rural schools and their best interests, and if elected will do so again.

I am for a lower State tax rate on real estate and an equalized assessment of farm land which will bring a lower County rate.

I believe that this State is Democratic and is best run with Democratic leadership and that upon the members of the next General Assembly and their actions, depend the success or failure of the party two years from now.

In the five sessions I have served in the General Assembly I have belonged to no factions, and wore no yoke, voting for what I thought best, no matter what factions were behind it.

I helped to elect both Mr. Beckham and Mr. Stanley to the United States Senate, and believe they are both good and useful men.

I cannot make a thorough canvass and trust that the voters of the district will kindly consider my claims this time, as they have in the past, and promise if elected, to stand for the things that will be for the best interests of the people of my District and State.

L. C. LITTELL.

A LETTER OF CONGRATULATION.

Louisville, Ky., May 18, 1921.
Hon. L. C. Littell, Owenton, Ky.,

My Dear Senator:

I have just learned that you are going to the race for State Senator again, and want to assure you that I am delighted with the news, and congratulate your district.

I well remember the 1910 session of the Legislature when we served as Representatives from our respective districts in the House together. You and I were both new at the game then, and had lots to learn, but a session or two later, when you came to the Senate, and you and I served together three or four years, it was easy to tell that you had legislative experience, from the capable way you handled the problems that came before the members of the Senate.

It gives me pleasure to look back upon my service with you, because I always found you a most loyal Democrat, and a man, who not only did his best to find out what was proper legislation, but was thoroughly capable of reaching the right conclusion after the various phases of the many bills were explained and discussed.

In spite of the fact that I have retired from the political game, I feel that I would enjoy being back in the Senate to co-operate with you in solving the many problems of the State.

It was truly a pleasure to serve with a man that you could depend upon as much as I could depend upon you. So many make pledges and promises only to be broken, which was never the case with you.

I certainly wish you success, and only wish that I was close enough to be of some service to you, and to do some lettering for you.

With my regards and best wishes, I am,

Sincerely yours,
HITE H. HUFFAKER.

Walton Advertiser.

In this week's issue of the Walton Advertiser is the announcement of Judge N. E. Riddell as a candidate for the office of County Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary Saturday, August 6th, 1921.

Judge Riddell has been filling the unexpired term of Judge P. E. Cason, deceased, since March 1919. During his occupancy of this office he has discharged the duties with exceptional judicial ability, fairness and in a businesslike manner.

Being an able lawyer he is well fitted for the office of County Judge as he is more able to discern the legal points in a case more readily than one not so versed in it. It is very seldom a county is fortunate enough to have a lawyer accept the office of county judge and Boone County is to be congratulated in this respect.

In the discharge of his duties Judge Riddell has been uniformly kind and courteous to all and has many friends who will rally to his support in case of need.

DO NOT RETIRE TOO EARLY—FROM WORK OR BUSINESS.

At first, the casual reader might opine from the above caption that herein is voiced a protest against the always healthful and hitherto favored by healthful authorities practice of retiring early to our restful couches and seeking repose after a day's arduous toil. No, we do not in the old saying of "Early to bed and Early to Rise," and so on.

What is protested against is the habit some of the present day have formed of retiring from work or business endeavor when very young. In fact, some men seem to retire between the ages of 18 and 25. With them, apparently, life is nothing but a big pleasure jaunt, with a full day in which to loaf, and also with a noticeable aversion to anything that savors of endeavor or toil. That is one of the things that is the matter with Burlington today, we have too many men who are contributing to just one side of existence—the consuming side. When it comes to production, they are not here.

The greatest mistake a young man makes in life is to show an aversion to honest toil. He is not alone who is doing a far more dangerous thing than that. He is undermining his character as he goes along. The first character he undermines is his own. Then, if he has foolish and over-indulgent parents he is undermining their character in that he leads them to harbor the obsession that the boy is too good to work, and preface may be allowed to loaf the fool parents, meanwhile, grinding out by daily toil the sustenance for the loafing idler who eats their bread and wears the raiment which their hard-earned dollars provide him.

Then along comes the third and decisive phase of undermining of character. Idleness leads to crime, and the road of crime goes in lines direct and straight to the doors of the penitentiary. If every young man's life was spent in idleness, then we could forecast no future citizens, one that would fill the accredited stations of life, as God had ordained it, for back in the centuries ago came the divine decree that "By the sweat of his brow man shall eat bread."

If your boy holds some light and mistaken view as to this obligation which the mere fact of his physical birth has laid upon him, then if your affection for him be based on correct principles, use the force, either of entreaty or of coercion, if need be, to have him change his way.

Train Hopping Tramps.

Congressman Baker of California has introduced a bill to take care of the hoboes who make a practice of stealing rides on freight trains. He would fine them $50 to $1000, with a jail term running up to a year if the fine is not paid.

"The train hopping" class of tramps seem to be mostly new do wells. They terrorize trainmen so that it appears dangerous to interfere with them. They lure boys into roving lives, and they are likely to cause railroad disasters as a result of malice. An example should be made by rounding up a lot of them. Some men hop freights to get to some city where they think they may get a job. But it is a lawless and dangerous practice. A man who is really looking for work, would do better to ask assistance of some charitable society in his search.

WILL HELP PASTURES.

To supplement August pastures, soy beans should be sown the latter part of May, one bushel to the acre. A mixture of sorghum, one half bushel, and cow peas three fourths bushel to the acre, sown about June 1, will also give good August pasture.

Because Lizzie, the one-hundred-and-thirty-three-year-old alligator of the Cincinnati Zoological Gardens persisted in breaking her long winter fast by devouring all the smaller alligators in the big pool, it became necessary to move Lizzie to solitary confinement, where she must subsist on her allowance of twelve lbs. of fresh beef each week. Lizzie did not move without a protest. It was necessary to lasso her with a heavy rope, and Lizzie's strength taxed that of six men who tugged away and dragged her to her solitary pool. Lizzie weighs 714 pounds.

The regular meeting of the board of Directors of the Boone County Farm Bureau will be held in the office in Burlington on the first Monday in June, instead of the first Saturday. Remember the date, June 6th, 9:00 a. m.

J. COLIN KELLY,
Secretary.

SUNDAY—MEMORIAL DAY

Observed By Boone Post-American Legion—Graves Decorated.

Sunday, May 29th, was fittingly observed by the Boone County Post-American Legion as Memorial Day through the decoration of the graves of the departed soldier boys who are buried in Boone County. With a goodly number of the members in uniform accompanied by a firing squad of eight, Post Commander O. R. Russ with the assistance of Post Commanders L. T. Utz and B. H. Riley and Miss Ruth Kelly, Commander of the Ladies' Auxiliary conducted impressive ceremonies at each grave prior to the placing of the flowers and flag. Immediately upon entering the "city of the dead" at each stop all would stand at attention as the bugler gave the "call to the colors." The ceremony at each grave was concluded by the sounding of "taps."

Following is the itinerary of the trip with the names of the departed heroes whose graves were decorated and whose sacrifice was lovingly commemorated by the Legion and others present:

Petersburg—Samuel Holt, Herman Rusche.
Bellevue—Benjamin Cook.
Burlington—Stausley Cason, Allen Slayback.
Florence—Clay Castleman—Farrell.
Beaver—Wm. Snow.
Verona—Charles E. Farrell.
Walton—Shelly Norman, Margaret Stephenson (Nurse).
Highland Cemetery—Frank Beil, Joe Smith.

There is a misunderstanding the Legion planned to locate the grave of Shelton Morris at Petersburg but discovered too late the hero rests at Bullittsburg.

THE INEVITABLE REACTION.

There is a large number of voters who act at elections in a very primitive way. If times are good, they vote for the party in power, regardless whether that party did anything to make them good or not. And if times are bad, they vote to kick the party in power out, regardless whether that crowd was to blame or not.

When the voters "sacked" the Democratic party last fall, the country was having its troubles with high taxes, and those are enough to cause a political turnover at any moment. The same people who felt that money considerations must be absolutely disregarded while the war was going on, and who then favored the most reckless expenditure, now turn around and find fault because a heavy burden of debt was created.

Probably the people voted more on the issue of taxes than on anything else. The same people will turn around and vote the Republicans out if they don't reduce the taxes. But the Republicans admit they can't do it.

And there is a tariff bill to be made. The party that passes a tariff bill almost always loses the next election. There are too many conflicting interests to be adjusted. If the Republicans had political sense, they would let the tariff stay pretty near where it is.

The more you think of it, the less likely it seems that the people were influenced at all by the league of nations' issue. Few people understood the proposition. The thing was so vast and so remote that the average man could form little idea which policy was best for this country. He could see many dangers either way. Most people voted according to their ideas about home politics, and resentment at high taxes and high costs of living were the big factors. In 1920 these factors worked against the Democrats. They will still exist in 1922, and then they will work against the Republicans.

O. W. (BUD) ADAMS DIED
AT BROTHER'S HOME

O. W. (Bud) Adams died at the home of his brother, C. C. Adams, on North Main street, Williams-town, Ky., Thursday morning, May 26, 1921, at seven o'clock, after a lingering illness of several months, suffering from an affection of the heart and circulatory organs. The deceased was the eldest son of Robert and Nancy F. Adams, and was born at Hathaway, in Boone county, Ky., on March 31, 1858, and at the time of his death was aged 63 years, 1 month and 25 days. He was a tobacco merchant of extensive acquaintance and unimpaired health. The remains will be taken to the home of his father at Sherman, Ky., until Friday afternoon, May 27th, and then borne to the Cincinnati Cemetery, on Dixmuth Avenue, for the final obsequies in obedience to an oft expressed wish of the deceased.—Grant County News.

Results of Classification.

The State of Kentucky has had nearly four years experience with the Classification Tax Law and it is well to consider the results in comparison with the operation of the General Property Tax which had been tried for twenty-five years and found wanting.

It was only a few years ago a Federal Government Inspector sent out to investigate the tax laws of the various states reported that the system of taxation in Kentucky was "the very worst" he had encountered while today many of the States are enquiring about our tax laws with a view of adopting the Classification Law now in operation in Kentucky.

It is conceded generally that the State of Kentucky has made more progress and in a shorter period than any other state in the Union in improving its tax laws and our explanatory publications have been eagerly sought by tax reformers in nearly every state and some foreign lands.

Notwithstanding the remarkable results of Classification in Kentucky there is still a certain element among the tax payers who object to his modern method of taxation and are demanding a reversion to the old "obsolete, inadequate and unjust" General Property Tax in spite of its absolute failure here and elsewhere.

At this same reactionary element that so strenuously opposed the Tax Amendment permitting Classification and maintained that the old law was "all right if strictly enforced" because of the enforcement of a section of the old law providing for the uniform assessment of all property at the fair cash value. This is perhaps the kind of "consistency" described by Emerson as "the hobgoblin of little minds" for the recent increase in assessments is in conformity with the old law and not due in any sense to the new Classification Law.

Ignorance of the Law

The great trouble with the tax laws is that they are generally understood in the same way as other laws that fill the pages of the statutes and while the average individual may master the laws of Moses and by keeping inviolate the "Ten Commandments" escape capital punishment, he is liable at any time to run afoul of some man-made law and his only recourse is a lawyer.

The mass of taxpayers never study the tax laws and their custom is to pay and "cuss" and they are ever ready to condemn all tax laws whether they are right or wrong.

Analysis of figures show how the classification has "brought to the surface" other formerly omitted property to share the burden with real estate and although formerly undervalued real estate is now assessed something like the law requires, it will be seen that the increased taxes on real estate are significant compared with the increased taxes paid on Personal property.

Under the old law only 25 per cent in value of the taxable property in the state paid taxes, now about 60 per cent pays.

Under the old law real estate paid 77 per cent of the taxes, it now pays only about 55 per cent.

Under the old law Personal property paid only 23 per cent of the taxes, it now pays about 45 per cent.

Under the old law the assessed value of intangible personal property increased only $10,000,000 in twenty-five years, under the new law the increase has been $512,000,000 in four years.

Under the old law, the assessment of Bank Deposits increased only $3,000,000, under the new law the increase has been $273,000,000.

Of the $2,500,000 increase in revenue, due largely to the war, real estate was called on for only about $200,000 while Personal Property will contribute about $2,300,000.

Your attention is called to the advertisement of the Boone County Jersey Club in this issue of the Recorder, Saturday June 4th. An all day meeting will be held in Burlington.

Prof. Hooper of the State College is expected to be present and talk on "The Outlook for the Jersey in Kentucky."

Rev. S. T. Hill, of Richmond, was transacting business in Burlington, last Friday. Rev. Hill has been pastor of Richmond Presbyterian church for several years and has accepted a call by a church at Houston, Miss., to which place he and his family will move in a few days, and their many friends in that neighborhood are sorry to see them go.

Donations of cakes will be greatly appreciated.

The public schools in almost every large city of the country are bankrupt for want of money to keep up with Lizzie, and some of the school districts are following in the wake of the customs of the larger city schools. Almost a blind man can see the cause. There have been so many side lines introduced into the city schools that the old reliable regular studies of reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic and grammar have almost been lost sight of. It requires more money to support these side lines, such as domestic science, sewing, expression of thought and action, singing, music, elocution, base ball, foot ball, basketball and many other athletic sports than it does the school proper. It would be much better for the mothers to learn their girls these side lines in the home, and it would help lift a load from the mother's shoulder. The idea in the city is to get rid of the responsibility of teaching the children in the homes so the parents can attend the movies with regularity. Did you ever attend one of these big schools in the city and hear a conversation pertaining to the studies?—It is always "the athletic sport." A child in the home never turns out to be a "mechanical" man or woman, and when they marry you rarely ever find them in the divorce courts.—Falmouth Outlook.

NEW TARIFF BILL

IN EFFECT TODAY.

Washington—The emergency tariff bill signed by President Warren G. Harding, has become effective. It will effect for a six months' period most farm products and carries a provision designed to prevent the dumping of foreign goods in this country.

In event of passage by Congress of the Longworth resolution, under which new import duties would become effective immediately on introduction of the permanent tariff bill, House leaders said it naturally would supersede the emergency measure, which carries only a few items compared with thousands in the general bill. House Republicans plan to meet

Wednesday night to decide whether the resolution shall be made a party issue.

WANT TO SELL KENTUCKY WOOL THRU OHIO POOL.

Kentucky wool growers are being asked by Geoffrey Morgan, of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, to combine county wool pools for the purpose of selling the product outside the State, there being an inadequate market in Kentucky at this time.

An Ohio concern, Mr. Geoffrey says, which handled wool for a number of States, has offered to give wool producers a warehouse receipt for their wool and permit them to borrow money on it until the wool is sold.

Millions of people prove their deep interest in Memorial day by attending the ball games.

In these times of shore skirts it will be hard to tell the graduating class from the primary class.

Farmers have been busy the past week. Not much tobacco has been set up to the present time.

The kid element is deeply impressed by the lessons of Memorial day when the drum corps turns out.

Among the people who object to railroad rates, are the hoboes who kick on being fined for stealing rides.

And the Girl graduates were wor-ring much more about the fit of their gowns than about their fit for college.

It is denied that the politicians don't accomplish anything as they frequently succeed in getting their salaries raised.

These fighting mountaineers in the West Virginia coal regions should be severely punished by sending them to school.

It is denied that the young women are not ambitious now, as they are all trying to look like the girls on the magazines covers.

At last accounts the prospective
June brides were devoting much more attention to the fashion magazines than to the cook book.

The fact that the women now have votes everywhere, has convinced many police officials that it is possible to enforce prohibition.

Latest styles for the girls is to have the hair match the hat. The facial decoration of course will have to harmonize with the color scheme.

Railroad employees claim that the railroads are wasting $1,000,000-000 a year, and a lot of them know where some of the money has gone.

There are a lot of people who think it is better to work for $10 a day and have nothing to do, than to work for $5 and keep busy all the time.

The boy students, it is reported, are much depressed about the defeat of the school ball team than about their failure to pass their tests.

Mrs. Catherine Grubbs, son and daughter, Pericles and Mrs. Pickle-heimer, of Taylorsport, were visitors to Burlington, last Saturday afternoon.

Greatly increased demand for brass band instruments reported.
This ought to wake up some of these people suffering from sleeping sickness.

Considering the row that is made by the neighbors when the kids ball, many people are much more interested in raising grass than in raising boys.

There is a general agreement that everyone should have the war time pay for the goods and services that he sells, and peace time prices on what he buys.

It is denied that the old fashioned schools didn't teach the children any hard work, as the boys always learned to carve the desks with their jackknives.

What the Ten Banks of Boone County Are Doing.

The average customer of a bank does not usually realize the actual expenses necessary in operating the ten banks in this County, and also the large amount of interest and dividends distributed annually among the customers and stockholders of the ten banks. In order to compile this information for publication, the secretary of the Boone County Bankers Association was instructed to secure and prepare the data and figures along this line for the past year of 1920.

Following is the expenses and distribution of dividends of the ten banks for 1920:

Taxes paid	$14,077.67
Salaries of cashiers and assistants	23,250.55
Salaries of presidents, directors and attorneys	4,824.00
Postage, stationery and supplies	4,657.44
Other incidental expenses	6,627.72
Interest paid on deposits and borrowed money	42,474.48

Total actual operating expenses

Amount of dividends paid stockholders for 1920

37,250.00

Total expenses and dividends paid

$133,161.84

The total resources of all the banks at the close of business December 31, 1920 was $2,853,854.61.

There are about 20 Cashiers and Assistant Cashiers regularly employed to take care of this business which shows a fair average volume of business for each employee with a low average salary for each one.

It will also be noted that the ten banks are distributing annually about $80,000 to their customers in the form of interest on deposits and dividends on their stock holdings, which shows that the banks provide quite a little income for their customers as well as pay a large share of the taxes to our County and State.

All the banks appear to be in splendid condition and are a valuable asset to our County.

The attention of all candidates is called to the law requiring them to file a statement with the County Clerk showing the amount of money that they have spent in the campaign. This statement must be filed with the County Clerk before the primary and a similar statement must be filed after the election by all candidates. Candidates must also file a declaration of their candidacy with the County Clerk. Failure to do either of these things by any candidate will be cause for not printing his name on the ballot.

PROGRAMME

Of Good Roads Convention to Be Held at Louisville, June 7-10.

The Good Roads Convention at the Jefferson County Armory, Louisville, June 7-10, under auspices of the Kentucky Road Engineer's Association, is expected to be the most eventful in the history of the movement in Kentucky. Enthusiasm is at a high pitch. Indications point to every county in the State being represented.

The program for the four days follows:

Opening Day-June 7.—Opening of convention by President Merritt Drane, Engineer of Jefferson-co. Addresses of welcome by Mayor Geo. Weissinger Smith, Louisville, and Judge William Krieger, County Judge of Jefferson County. Responses by Mrs. Charles P. Weaver. Address by Senator White L. Moss, Pineville. Appointment of committees. Talks on tar products by W. E. Crowell, American Tar Products Company, and P. K. Sheilder, Barrett Co.

Governor's Day-June 8.—Rolland Payne, Road Engineer, Campbell co., chairman. Address by Joe F. Bosworth, Middleboro. Introduction of Gov. Edwin P. Morrow by John Bryce Baskin, Commissioner of Jefferson County. Address by Gov. Engineer's Day, June 9.—W. H. Edwards, Jr., Road Engineer of Woodford county, chairman. Reports of Committees. Talks by Highway Commissioners H. Green Garrett, chairman; Ben Veille, secretary; H. H. Asher and Ed. S. Monahan. Talks on Asphalt by J. E. Hittell, Chicago, and Rodman Willey, Kentucky Rock Asphalt Company, Louisville. Addresses by Wm. N. Bosler, Road Engineer; J. S. Dawson, Maintenance Engineer and Pierce Butler, Bridge Engineer of the Department of State Roads and Highways. Addresses by James T. Vossell, and Jos. S. Boggs, State Highway Engineer.

County Judges' Day, June 10.—Samuel E. DeHaven, County Judge Oldham county, chairman. Discussion of new road laws and finances by Judge C. W. Wells.

The extensive entertainment program provides for entertainment of delegates at the country home of President Drane; dinner at a roadhouse; a boat excursion up the Ohio river with luncheon served on board; and automobile tours of inspection of roads. Each evening there will be a band concert, motion pictures and dancing at the Convention Hall.

In connection with the meeting modern road construction equipment, materials and motor trucks will be displayed in the building. will be open to the public without charge. Persons interested in roads are invited.

PROGRAMME

Jersey Day, Saturday, June 4th, On Burlington High School Campus.

10:00 a. m., Business Meeting of Boone County Jersey Cattle Club.
11:00 a. m., Boy's and Girl's Judging Contest.

12:00 m. Basket Dinner.

1:30 p. m., Address, "Outlook for the Jersey in Kentucky" by Prof. T. R. Bryant, Director of Agricultural Extension Work, Lexington, Ky.

1:45 p. m., Adult Judging Contest. Liberal premiums donated for the winners of this contest.

2:15 p. m., Distribution of the registers to the Boys' and Girl Club members.

3:00 p. m., There will be a hotly contested BASE BALL GAME between Burlington and Petersburg.

Through the efforts of Congressman A. B. Rouse, the Adjutant of the Army authorized the Commander at Ft. Thomas to furnish Boone Post American Legion No. 1, three armament and equipment for a firing squad at the memorial day exercises held at the different cemeteries in which are buried the bodies of boys who died in the service of their country during the late war.

PEACE WITH GERMANY.

The following remarks were made by Hon. A. O. Stanley, in the U. S. Senate when that body had under consideration the Knox Joint resolution providing a separate peace with Germany.

Mr. President, were I seeking a simple partisan advantage rather than the good of my country I should rejoice at this hour. There is no doubt, no question of doubt, that the great majority of the American people, that the heart of the world, hungrily longs for some concert among the powerful nations of the world for the establishment of peace and the abolition of war. There is no doubt and no question of doubt that the great majority of the American people agreed with the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. Lodge) when he declared that a slacker peace, that a separate peace, that an understanding with this Nation with Germany independent of and disregarding of the rights of our allies, would be a thing of infamy.

Today, at this hour, we can make a peace with Germany as a victor. Pass this joint resolution and you tie your hands, you gag your mouths, you throw away ruthlessly, blindly, madly, all that a hundred dead have gained, that 200,000 maimed have won, that 2,000,000 across the seas have fought to gain. You have no rights that a neutral would not have. You have no rights that you would not have had had you never spent a dollar and never sacrificed the life of a hero.

This scene, this act, is tragic. It is pathetic. You are drunk with power, gentlemen, upon the other side. When the gods wish to destroy that first make mad; and this act of separate peace with Germany is political madness. You recant all that your leaders, with a few exceptions, have said. You turn your backs upon the solemn pledges of your own candidate. You destroy the proud position earned by the blood and sacrifice of heroes, and you place yourselves upon the level of conquered Germany. When you are ready to ask a peace, it will not be as a conqueror but as an equal with the conquered.

As a Democrat, I rejoice at this act of consummate folly. As a patriot, I could weep for the stained honor of my country.

BETTER SIRE SALES

Large Gathering of Farmers Expected at First Meeting

Between 2,000 and 3,000 farmers are expected next Thursday June 2, at the first of the Farmer's Better Sire Sales to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange and the Kentucky Pure Bred Livestock Association. 300 pure bred bulls will be sold at auction on this occasion.

According to L. B. Shropshire, secretary of the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association some of the finest bulls in the State will be offered at this sale. The bulls will be arriving Sunday and the majority of them to be in the pens at the Stockyards by Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

That the character of the animals will be high is shown by two of the bulls "White King and the "Butterfly King" sent by T. E. Wilson & Co., packers of Chicago. Others equally highbred will be put on the market by the Kentucky breeders.

As the indication of the breeders contributing to the sale the following, which is only partial, is given:

Fourteen bulls will be entered by Carpenter & Ross of Mansfield, O., one of the largest and best known breeding firms in the country.

Shortorns will be entered by J. H. Calloway, Smithfield, Ky.; W. R. Moorman & Son, Glendale, Ky.; L. L. Dorsey, Anchorage; Holly Witherspoon Lawrenceburg; A. H. Robertson Springfield; and F. B. Labrey, Pembroke.

A DISTINGUISHED SOLDIER.

The importance of the interview with Col. H. C. Whitehead which appears on another page of this issue, prompts some notations about the Colonel himself.

An officer of wide and varied experience, Col. Whitehead has specialized on the subjects of cavalry remounts, and the care of the marching soldier's feet; and he was for two years before the last war the accredited representative of the U. S. Government, attached to the German Staff in order that our army might profit of so eminent authority on these lines of research.

It is perhaps not generally known even to Kentuckians that Col. Whitehead's office in Lexington is the headquarters, or main office, of the United States Army Remount Association. The significance of this choice of location is apparent. Kentucky, the home of the thoroughbred, is the logical headquarters of a national organization devoted to the improvement of the country's supply of horses by means of the introduction of the potent thoroughbred strain.

C. G. Riddell, of Rabbit Hash, returned to his home last Thursday after spending a few days in Burlington visiting relatives.

An Interview With Col. H. C. Whitehead, Remount Service, U. S. A.

"Despite our present-day motor-driven vehicles and trench warfare, the ratio of horses to men for the Allies was as one to four against one horse to each 24 men during our own Civil War. And had the former conflict lasted a few weeks longer, the shortage of horses would have been woefully acute. The broad plans of the American Remount Association for selective breeding are, therefore, an important link in our chain of national defense."

The above is a statement by Col. H. C. Whitehead, of the U. S. Remount Purchasing and Breeding Service.

Seen at his headquarters in Lexington, Colonel Whitehead vouchsafed other highly enlightening information, not only about the breeding work in progress, but also of the utility of the thoroughbred horse; the intimate relation between racing and the maintenance and improvement of the standard of blood lines and the importance of the thoroughbred to the State of Kentucky in particular.

"The immediate concern of the American Remount Association," he said, "is to save riding and driving horses and the high-class race horse from extinction. We want to produce a truly American type of cavalry horse—a horse with breeding and quality, as well as home and substance—a weight-carrier and the best general purpose horse known—a horse that will weigh from 1,000 to 1,250 pounds, standing from 15 hands, 1 to 16 hands, tight made with good gait and action—a walk, trot, gallop horse that can carry weight and follow the hounds across country—that the family can drive to church, and also one that can hold his own at hard work on the farm—a horse that can be used to advantage and economically any and everywhere, except in heavy draft."

"This type of horse has splendid looks, quality, action, and vigor—a wonderful all-purpose horse for the farmer and one that can be kept at a minimum cost."

"Almost every commercial and military use will be met by the progeny of this breeding plan, dependent primarily upon the size, quality and blood lines of the mares used in breeding."

"Among the stallions to be placed throughout the United States this spring will be over one hundred head of high-class registered thoroughbreds—big horses, with plenty of body, bone and substance. These stallions, placed in the stud through Government agencies, will be available to farmers and breeders at a minimum fee. The Government does not expect to make money, but to make it possible and feasible for the farmer and breeder to get the service of a high-class, approved stallion for their good mares; the object being to produce animals of real value and use that will earn their keep—bring a handsome profit when mature. We expect the progeny at maturity to make general-purpose horses—cavalry horses, riding and driving horses, show horses, hunters, race horses, polo ponies, depending largely upon the mares selected for breeding and the care selected in rearing rolls. They will belong to the breeder—the Government will have no strings on them. The owner will be privileged to sell them to whomsoever he pleases at any time. They will be horses admirably adapted to work in both peace and war times. "But the Government will depend upon them for its supply; and the importance of the horse to the modern army is to be fully realized by the comparison of figures already cited pertaining to the use of the horse in the last great war with those of his use during the Civil War."

"As regards thoroughbred horses racing, every practical horseman knows that it is, first and foremost, vitally necessary in order to test the quality of individual horses—it is the final arduous test that goes to measure their value for breeding purposes, and is thus decisively instrumental in the work of preserving and improving the thoroughbred horse as the race upon which depends the preservation and improvement of all our other kinds of horses and mule mares."

"Meanwhile, the evolution of thoroughbred horse racing has given the world's great out-door sport—one that the world truly enjoys, if the attendance at our metropolitan race courses may be taken as evidence of popularity, and which, wherever properly conducted, is assuredly healthful and innocuous, insofar, at least, as concerns its effects on the great majority of normal-minded citizens."

"The State of Kentucky is humbly the richer for her industry of breeding thoroughbred horses and its concomitant seasons of racing. Millions and millions of dollars are invested in property throughout the state as a result—nor is this taxable wealth confined to the holdings of millionaire enthusiasts whose establishments are located in the Bluegrass District, by any means."

"Many a Kentucky farmer is also a breeder of the thoroughbred—and often the male of a colt or filly nets him more than the products of a season's work on the farm."

"Undoubtedly the sport of racing thoroughbred horses is a tremendous business asset to the state. Facts such as, I dare say, the Kentucky Jockey Club readily can adduce in this connection very well might astound Kentuckians who have never considered the subject in its substantial and material aspects."

FINE PICTURES OF LIVE STOCK

In response to a general demand for illustrated material to be used in connection with the "Better Sires —Better Stock" Campaign, the U.
S. Department of Agriculture thru the Bureau of Animal Industry, is preparing a series of live-stock pictures to be available for exhibit purposes and for distribution to agricultural high schools, farm bureaus, banks in rural districts, county agents, and breeders' associations.
The pictures are halftone reproductions of photographs, and are approximately 11 by 14 inches, including the frame, which will be printed as a part of the picture, and thus make a neat finished job.

At present 10 pictures are planned for the series, which is known as the livestock improvement series of the "Better Sires—Better Stock" Campaign. The first picture of the series shows a community picnic at which 15 Jersey cows are being judged. All the cows are from accreded herds thus giving the subject double interest. Other pictures in the series will show beef cattle, horses, swine, sheep, and poultry. It is expected that several of the illustrations will be ready for distribution by July.

In the list of contributions to the GOOD PRINTING.

Every newspaper man is anxious to turn out a cleanly printed paper, one which shall be a good example of the typographical art, with well thought out make up, and handsome mechanical work. When a paper achieves that form of excellence, it does much to advertise its home city.

A new poorly printed paper is a discredit to its home town. People say it must be issued in a bum community, and that a live place would develop business enough so that its newspaper would present a better appearance.

In some cases a poorly printed paper is the result of the publisher's carelessness or stinginess. But as a whole publishers are sensitive on this point. They are ashamed of a slovenly looking sheet as they would be having their house in a tumble down condition. When a paper is poorly printed, it is commonly due to lack of business support. When it is well printed, it is commonly a sign that the place is a live one and that business men back

We are not defending any administration, State, county or municipal. Our aim is to let the taxpayers know just who is responsible for the high taxes. The new State tax law is the best tax law the State has ever had, and was given to us by a Democratic administration. The State levy has been reduced 10 cents on the $100, but the assessed value of the property has been trebled. This is absolutely wrong, but the pinheads that we sent to the Legislature during the past few years have appropriated and spent the State's money in such a reckless manner that it has become a burden to the taxpayers. The State Tax Commission is compelled to raise the tax rate to meet the expenditures of the Legislature. Likewise the Fiscal Courts of the county have made the county levy high enough to meet their own appropriations. Then who is to blame for high taxes?—Falmouth Outlook.

The announcement of William Stephens of Petersburg, as a candidate for Representative of the district composed of Boone and Grant counties, appears in another column of this issue. Mr. Stephens has for a number of years held the office of Justice of the Peace, and he has always been found looking after the interests of his people. Mr. Stephens is a Democrat of the old school and has always fought for the success of his party. If he is elected to the office to which he aspires he will faithfully take care of his constituents. He has had experience in public affairs, and will know what should be done by the Legislative body, and nothing will be put over on him.

The State Administration, the State Tax Commission, the Fiscal Courts and the City Councils had better get wise to the demands of the people. We know that the money dispensers say that it is impossible to get along with less revenue, but the taxpayers will elect other officials who will listen to and put in operation plans that will bring relief. During the war, people talked in thousands and even billions, and acted in the same proportion; but the war is over and the people are now down to brass tacks and public servants will also be compelled to walk on the same level when spending the public money.—Falmouth Outlook.

Mr. Newton Cloyd, of Limaburg neighborhood, was transacting business in Burlington, last Saturday. While in town he called at this office and had the date on his paper moved up another year.

"The fathers, if they wanted shady streets, got out with spades and watering pots and planted trees. Now people telephone the city officials to have it done and charge to the taxpayers."

After spending all their money with the maximum recklessness so that they should become bankrupt, the Germans claim that they have nothing with which to pay reparations with.

Injured in Auto Smashup On Dixie Highway--Two Hurt Seriously.

Mrs. W. R. Bradford and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Chas. Bradford of Florence, Rev. G. R. Tomlin and Mr. Charles Bradford, of Florence, were driving towards Covington on the Dixie Highway last Saturday night and just in front of Spinks & Co., near Erlanger, their machine was run into by a large Franklin touring car. All persons in the Bradford car were injured quite severely. Rev. Tomlin was not able to make his appointment at Burlington Sunday night. The ladies were confined in the hospital in Covington. The Franklin was occupied by three persons two of whom ran away just as soon as they could get out of the car. The driver however was reported in such a state of intoxication that he was unable to get out of the machine. Deputy Sheriff E. C. Hall arrested the driver of this machine and he will be tried before County Judge Read in Covington and the Judge should give him the limit and he should make it a rule that any person who would attempt to drive an automobile while intoxicated should be given the limit that the statutes will permit. The officers must put a stop to men driving automobiles on the public highways while under the influence of liquor.

RETAIL TRADE.

The volume of retail trade has been fairly satisfactory, at least for department stores and other large stores in cities. The money value of sales has been somewhat less than last year but the physical volume of goods moved has remained approximately the same. It appears, however, that department stores and larger establishments are doing a greater proportion of the total business than hitherto, so that the smaller establishments are running somewhat behind. Continued public demand in spite of wage reductions and at a time of considerable unemployment, appears to be accounted for by large popular savings of the past few years, and unsatisfied requirements in many of the staple lines.

LEADERS IN BURLEY INDUS- TRY APPROVE COOPERATIVE MOVE

Speaker Declares Lexington Is Logical Point for Offices of Association.

INTENSE INTEREST IS SHOWN Practically All Counties of State Represented.

Lexington will be the center of the proposed co-operative tobacco marketing association when it is formed, was announced by Aaron Sapiro, marketing expert, in his address at the Phoenix Hotel before bankers, tobacco growers and warehousemen from almost every county in Kentucky. Unanimous endorsement of the plan outlined by Mr. Sapiro was given by those men present at the meeting.

Lexington, the speaker said, has all the facilities for handling and housing the tobacco as a central point. It is proposed to make Lexington the chief market center of the whole state, and will be located here.

The meeting in Lexington is regarded by leaders in the movement to organize a co-operative marketing association, as the most important in the history of the industry in the last fifteen years.

Endorsement was made in speeches by Senator J. N. Kehoe, Mason county, Dr. Samuel H. Halley, Lexington, Deane Breckinridge, editor of the Herald, at the conclusion of the speech of Mr. Sapiro.

Questions Show Study of Plan.

More than 200 prominent men who had been invited to this conference by the preliminary committee on organization to hear Dr. Sapiro, composed the audience. At the conclusion of his address, questions were fired from all parts of the audience. He declared after the meeting that a close and careful study of the plan was evidenced by the detailed nature of the inquiries.

A vote of thanks was unanimously tendered Mr. Sapiro by the men present.

Following the address of Mr. Sapiro, John W. Newman, Versailles, Growers' Association, formed last year, asked that Judge Robert Bingham, of Louisville, who is chairman of the general committee, speak.

Judge Bingham said that his efforts had been inspired by a visit to California in which he saw the difference in the surroundings of the majority of the rural communities. He declared that he had asked many questions to find what was the underlying cause of this great progress among the farmers, particularly those of the classes which did not produce especially large crops.

He said that he had found the marketing successes to be conceded as the cause in every instance. He asserted the advantages to the state would be very great.

Present Plan Wrong.

"We know something ought to be done," said Judge Bingham. "The plan under which we have been selling our tobacco is wrong."

DOCTORS MAY LOSE LICENSES.

Physicians Found Guilty of Having Caused Abortions to Be Punished.

Louisville—Kentucky is being robbed of at least 300 potential citizens every year by criminal physicians who betray the ethics of their profession and violate the law of the Commonwealth by performing illegal operations, Dr. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, declared here today in announcing a campaign which the State Board of Health is initiating against doctors guilty of this offense.

Revocation of license to practice will be the immediate punishment of those found guilty.

At a special meeting here May 25 the board revoked the license of Dr. Charles L. Cawley, who has been indicted by the Jefferson County Grand Jury for causing the death of Mrs. Marie Sparks. Revocation of his license, however, according to Dr. McCormack, was not for this alleged offense, but was for charges brought against him a year ago, to which he pleaded guilty and which were filed away when he promised to discontinue his illegal practices.

Revocation of his license, Dr. McCormack also said, is but the first step in the campaign which the State Board of Health is planning to make. "The board now is investigating a number of charges made against physicians, and action will be taken immediately to revoke the licenses of all those found guilty. This nefarious crime must be stopped in Kentucky. At the present time there is hardly a county in the State in which there is not at least one doctor who performs illegal operations."

Highway May Be Lost

Kentucky Counties Are Warned, if Work Is Not Completed.

Georgetown, Ky.—That the Dixie Highway, "a picturesque pathway of pleasure and profit from the lakes to the everglades" may be lost to the counties of Kenton, Boone, Grant, Owen, Scott and Fayette unless citizens of those counties are aroused to immediate action to complete the portion of the highway through these counties was the warning of Rev. Ira M. Boswell, of Georgetown, in an address before the good roads meeting here this afternoon.

The meeting was called to stimulate interest in plans for early completion of a permanent highway between Lexington and Covington.

Delegates attended the meeting from Lexington, Sadieville, Corinth, Williamstown, Dry Ridge, Walton, Crittenden, Erlanger and Covington.

The work, as described and shown in the plans and specifications to be seen at the County Road Engineer's office, will be known as the construction of the Grange-Hall road.

The work proposed to be done involves approximately:

1237 cubic yds. crushed stone.
1357 cubic yds. sledged stone.
48 cubic yds. stone masonry.
1650 cubic yds. shaping road and ditching.

A single bid to be submitted for the whole work.

Bids must be for work done in accordance with the plans and specifications approved by the Fiscal Court and the County Road Engineer, on file at the County Clerk's office in Burlington, Boone County.

The Fiscal Court of Boone County expressly reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Each bid must be accompanied by cash or certified check for $500.00, which check will be held until the execution of the contract.

Before the contract is awarded, the successful bidder or bidders will be required to furnish a bond equal to the amount of the proposal for the faithful performance of the work in accordance with the aforesaid plans and specifications.

All work to be done under the direction and supervision of the County Road Engineer.

By order of the Fiscal Court of Boone County,
W. R. ROGERS,
County Court Clerk, Boone County.

Ship and Sail under

WINTER WHEAT.

Condition of winter wheat was reported on May 1 by the Department of Agriculture as 88.8 per cent. indicating a total crop of 629,287,000 bushels, an increase of 8,000,000 bushels in the indicated yield over the estimate for April 1. The acreage abandoned has been less than half the average of the 10 preceding years. Cold weather has set back both wheat and corn crops somewhat. The amount of depredation may be expected from insect pests is still doubtful. The seeding of spring wheat is progressing favorably, although delayed somewhat by cold weather in the more northerly states.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

More than ten thousand residents of New York paid tribute to soldiers and sailors who died in the World War at a memorial service May 26 under the auspices of the Memorial Festival Committee, of which President Harding is honorary chairman, and of which F. W. Galbraith Jr., national commander of the American Legion, is chairman.

Addresses by Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas, and the Reverend Francis P. Duffy, chorus singing by 2,000 New York school children and a solemn funeral procession, with a draped and poppy-laden gun carriage, rolling the length of the hall and halting before the stage, formed the most impressive parts of the program.

So great was the public interest in the event that it is probable the desire of the committee to hold the memorial annually and to have a day of tribute to the World War dead set in every community will be realized.

Two yards of white paper, bearing 126 signatures, came to national headquarters of the American Legion from women of Port Allegheny Pa., requesting that they be granted a unit of the Legion's Women's Auxiliary. "And they are coming" was the cheerful postscript.

Under the auspices of the American Legion, Cheyenne and Arapaho Indians in Kingfisher County, Oklahoma, held an "All American Day" celebration. Three beavers were killed for the occasion, and led by their chief, Fighting Bull, the original Americans celebrated the revival in dances.

George Gee, a Chinese, who was a cook in the Seventh Cavalry at the time of the Custer Massacre, was buried recently by a post of the American Legion at Sitka, Alaska. When Custer went to his death on the Little Big Horn, the Chinese cook was detailed to remain with the regiment's baggage and thus escaped death at the hands of the Sioux.

A cemetery in which only ex-service men will be buried will be established soon by the American Legion of San Francisco.

FEUDISTS VS. FEUDALISM.

The trouble with that section of West Virginia which lies across the wimpling stream that is called Tug River is due not wholly to feudists who fall back upon the rifle as the last argument of commoners, and advance upon the enemy under the cover of the brush, but somewhat to a state of feudalism established largely by absentee landlords.

Ordinarily where "capital and labor" are juxtaposed each is of the vicinage and the two become acquainted thoroughly. In the coal fields of West Virginia "company" projects, in a great majority of instances, are financed by capital that is represented by delegates.

The interests of labor and capital in the coal fields, as elsewhere, are common in that a closed mine is profitless to both, an operated mine beneficial to both but too often the mining country is a source of income, perhaps the scene of an occasional outing, to owners from a distance who should be better acquainted with the section, knowing its social aspects as well as its rug.

When an owner whose ideals are those of a feudal lord stands, by representation, opposite an mountaineer whose ideals are those of a feudist, and when the situation is complicated by the introduction of a third figure, that of an out-of-the-State delegate representing organized labor whose leaders share with the absentee mine owners the disadvantages of unfamiliarity with the temperament of the mountaineers, the stage is set for stubborn disagreement and bloody encounters.—C. Boone Circuit Court, Ky. Plaintiffs: Mary Slayback, &c. No. 3034 Equity. Defendants: Frank Loshline, &c. By virtue of a Judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April Term thereof, 1921, in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door in Burlington, Boone County, Ky., to the highest bidder, at Public Sale on Monday, the 6th day of June, 1921, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabouts being County Court day, upon a credit of six and twelve months, the following property, to-wit:

Parcel No. 1.—Lying and being in the town of Florence, Boone County, Ky., and consisting of three lots described as follows: Lot No. 38, of the E. K. Fish's Addition to the town of Florence, in said County, beginning at a stake on the Burlington and Florence Turnpike road, corner to lot 30, thence south 55° 12' 00" to another stake on an 84 foot alley; thence along said alley N 55° 42' 00" to another stake, corner to lot No. 35; thence N 35° 12' 00" to another stake on said turnpike road, thence S 55° 42' 00" to the place of beginning.

Also lots 36 and 39 in E. K. Fish's Addition to the Town of Florence, on the Florence and Burlington Turnpike road, near to what was formerly the property of Dr. S. S. Scott, now that of George E. Rouse, near the corporation line of said town. Lot No. 36 is 42 feet front, running back to an alley 120 feet. Lot No. 39 is 42 feet front, running back 120 feet to an alley and 67 feet on said alley, for a more perfect description of said lots, see the plat of E. K. Fish's Addition to the Town of Florence which is recorded in the County Clerk's Office of Boone County, at Burlington, Kentucky.

Parcel No. 2. Located in Kenton County, Kentucky, in the Town of Elsmere and numbered on the plat of the Addition to South Erlanger as lot No. 1738, fronting on the west side of Gary Avenue, the said lot being part of the old Timberlake tract, deeded May 10, 1887, to the Trustees of the Erlanger Land Syndicate, as recorded in Book 57, page 72 of the Kenton County Records, at Independence, Kentucky.

Parcel No. 3. Located in the State of Kentucky, County of Kenton and Town of Woodside, and numbered on the plat of the Woodside Addition to South Erlanger as lot No. 268, and described as follows: Beginning at the north-east corner of Bender and Kenton Avenue; thence along the north-east line of Bender Avenue 91.80 feet to a point in the line of the South Erlanger Addition; thence along the said last line north-westerly 17.15 feet to the south line of lot 257; thence westerly along the south line 83.05 feet to Kenton Avenue, thence south-easterly 62.8 feet to the place of beginning.

For the purchase price the purchaser with approved security or securities, must execute bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment, with a lien retained therein until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

CHARLES MAURER, M. C. B. C.

Securing Popular Rights.

A popular watchword of the revolutionary element is "direct action." That means that the people, if they want to accomplish a certain thing, should not wait for the slow process of the ballot box. Some of these apostles of force would have the people "rise" and seize the powers of government as the Russian bolsheviks did. Still more would have them top all forms of labor, tie up railroads, mines, and factories, until the public officials and capitalists should concede what the people want.

This story is based on the idea that it is impossible for the people to obtain their rights through the ballot box. They claim that opinion is so controlled by paid propaganda, so shaped by newspapers who have an interest in maintaining the present social system, and so queered and bedeviled by the manipulations of politicians, that the people can not get their "rights."

Those who believe there should be radical changes in the form of government, and who are willing to work for the same by legal means, have every chance to win the people to their support, in so far as any of their ideas are founded on truth and justice. They control many publications all over the country. Their orators are speaking on soap boxes in every city and large town. If their ideas impressed the mass of people as reasonable, you would see their newspapers taken in every wage earner's home, and would carry elections by a three to one majority.

The trouble with them is that they are able to make an impression on only a small element. Their ideas are so vague, they show such misconceptions of truths obvious to the common man, they point to so few facts to prove their wild statements, that they convince no one but those with a mental slant toward their theories. Therefore they get mad because people won't listen to their vapors, and want to resort to "direct action." Direct fiddlesticks.

The Recorder announces Holt White, of Petersburg, Ky., as a candidate for Justice of the Peace for Petersburg-Belleview precinct. Mr. White resides in the Petersburg precinct and is an energetic, progressive young farmer, and this is the first time that he has entered into politics. Mr. White, if elected, can look after the interest of his constituents, as he is capable and competent.

FIRE DESTROYS BLOCK.

Burlington Visited by Most Destructive Conflagration in The History of the Town

One Entire Square Wiped Out, Dry Goods Store, Post Office and Two Residences.

Damage Estimated at $50,000 Partly Covered by Insurance

One of the worst and most destructive conflagrations that ever struck the town of Burlington, occurred Tuesday at noon, when the large frame building occupied by D. R. Blythe as a dry goods and grocery store, the large brick residence of Mrs. Drucilla Goodridge and the brick building in which was located the postoffice and residence part occupied by Mrs. Emma Brown and L. C. Bemon, on the corner of Washington and Jefferson streets were consumed by fire.

The fire was caused by a gasoline stove exploding in the residence part of the store building on the 2nd floor occupied by Thos. Walton and wife. By the time assistance arrived flames were shooting from the windows and so intense was the heat that it was impossible to get in the up-stairs room.

The alarm of fire was given and it was but a short time until hundreds of men and women had gathered to lend their assistance, but the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to get anywhere near the building, so intense was the heat, and the bucket brigade turned their attention to saving the furniture in the residences adjoining.

It took heroic work on the part of several hundred men, who had responded to the alarm, to save Gulletley & Pettit's store across the alley on the south, the Boone Hotel on the west and the large brick building on the north, occupied by the Farm Bureau and several families, had these buildings caught the entire business section of the town would have been wiped out.

The call was made on Covington for assistance and it was about 1:30 p. m., when a fire engine and eight or ten firemen responded, making the run in 30 minutes, and attaching their hose to the cisterns near by, helped in keeping back the flames from other buildings, but the supply of water was not sufficient to do much toward saving the burning buildings. In a short time two chemical engines arrived, and with their assistance the fire was gotten under control.

Horace Cleveland, of Constance, and Miss Mary Gordon, of Burlington, were members of the 1921 graduating class at Transylvania University, Lexington. The graduation exercises were held last Wednesday evening. Mr. Cleveland was president and Miss Gordon secretary of their class, an honor that is very seldom given to students from the same county. Miss Gordon and Mr. Cleveland were honor members of their class.

Captain Henry Kottmyer has advertised for sale Anderson's Ferry. This is the oldest and best equipped ferry on the Ohio river between Cincinnati and Louisville. This ferry has always paid the owner a good income when properly handled. This is an opportunity for some hustling young man to take hold of and operate.

Mrs. Nannie McAtee, who was operated upon at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati, for appendicitis and complication, was brought to the home of her brother, L. A. Conner where she will stay until she regains her health.

Book agents and other canvassers are soliciting from door to door, but they are apt to find that the people who will listen to them have no money, while those that have none, have no time to stop and talk.

The Chautauqua will be held in Burlington June 30th and July 1st and 2nd. The talent is reported to be of high quality and the program will be so arranged that it will appeal to everyone.

Not many people willing to get out and produce anything in these times, but uncounted millions are planning to make money by trading in the things that other people produce.

The weather last Sunday was very cool and fire felt very comfortable.

What a few hours before was the main business block of the town nothing remains but the charred walls of the brick buildings on the west and south, that have stood the storms of many years.

By the time the flames were under control and the other buildings out of danger 1200 or 1500 people had congregated on the streets—coming from every town in the county and surrounding neighborhood, a great many coming from Erlanger and as far away as Wal-

Had there been the least wind blowing the entire business section of the town would have been wiped off the map. Other buildings across the street from the burning buildings were kept saturated with water to keep them from catching on fire, but by the work of the bucket brigade the structures were saved. At one time the shutters on the Walton building were on fire, and they were lifted from their hinges and thrown to the ground.

The loss to property owners and Mrs. Blythe's stock of goods is nearly $50,000 all of which is partly covered by insurance.

The brick building in which was located the postoffice belonged to the F. Riddell heirs, while the store building was the property of Geo. Blythe, this building was built by the late Dudley Rouse, 50 years ago, who occupied it as a store many years.

The citizens of the town are very thankful to the people for their assistance, and too much praise can not be given to the Covington Fire Department for their efforts in helping to extinguish the flames.

Besides the loss of property six families were made homeless, but most of their furniture was saved, and it will take some time for them to get it all together again, as it was scattered all over town.

Thomas Walton and wife who occupied the rooms over the store lost everything but some wearing apparel.

The Walton fire engine and all equipment was rushed to Burlington to assist in putting out the disastrous fire Tuesday afternoon.

NOTICE TO CANDIDATES.

All candidates for county offices must file with the county clerk on or before July 6th, 1921, a notification and declaration that they are candidates for certain offices.

These notifications must be signed by the candidate and also two voters of the Democratic party. For offices to be voted for by more than one county, this notice must be filed with the Secretary of State on or before June 25th, 1921.

Each candidate must also file with the clerk on or before July 21st, 1921, an itemized account showing how much money he has spent in his campaign and also how much has been spent by others in his behalf. A similar account must also be filed with the clerk immediately after the election. Any candidate who fails to file the notification and expense account as required can not get their names on the ballot. Candidates should not wait until the day to file their notification and expense accounts.

Judge George Perkins and daughter, A. C. Culberson, of Washington, D. C., his brother Frank Perkins and niece, o' Walnut Hills, O., spent a few hours in Burlington last Thursday. Judge Perkins was born in the building just across the street from the Recorder office 80 years ago. Very few of the citizens of the town when he was a boy are living now. He met on the street his old school teacher, Miss Mary A. Thompson, to whom he went to school seventy years ago, and they had quite a lengthy talk of years gone by. Judge Perkins held the office of Circuit Judge in Covington many years. He looks hale and hearty for one of his years.

RICHARD C. PERKINS, DEAD.

The many friends of Richard C. Perkins whom they all called "Dick" will be grieved to hear of his death at the home of his oldest daughter, Mrs. J. L. Claffin, at University Place, Lincoln, Nebraska, on Thursday, May 26th.

He was well known at Burlington, Ky., in the sixties where he married Jeanette Blyth, daughter of Arthur Blyth. He moved from there to Rabbit Hash where he ran the ferry, and where he made a friend of every one he met. He was a man, kind gentle, bright minded and good, with a character without one spot.

He moved to Nebraska in the seventies from where he came back on several visits to his old home state. He is survived by one son, Clark Perkins, a newspaper man of Omaha, Neb., active in W. C. T. U. work, and Edith Steffin, of Okla. Richard made his home with his daughters, winter in Oklahoma and summer in Nebraska. His wife preceded him, crossing deaths dark river some 10 years.

JERSEY CLUB MEETING

The all day meeting of the Jersey Club of Boone County, last Saturday, was attended by members of the club and a large number of friends, and the day was profitably spent. Dinner was served on the High School grounds.

Immediately after dinner Prof. W. S. Anderson, of the College of Agriculture, who is now in charge of the Pure Bred Livestock Exchange, delivered a lecture on the Jersey and also along the lines of better and pure bred stock. He urged his hearers that now was the time to improve their herds with pure bred animals, as the price was at the lowest level, and in a short time prices of all live stock would advance. He complimented the work of the Boone County Jersey Club very highly, and said that he was glad that he could come into a county where the breeders were interested in improving their Jersey herds as in Boone. Prof. Anderson had given his subject very deep thought and consideration, and it was delivered in language that was forceful and in no uncertain terms.

Nine pure bred Jersey heifers were delivered to the following girls and boys:

Ira Tanner.
Alma Tanner.
Marvin Kendall.
Mabel Tanner.
Thos. Randall, Jr.
Harold Randall.
James Beall, Jr.
Robert H. Hefner.
John Robert Whitson.

These young Jerseys were decidedly the best lot of well bred individuals that has been brought to Boone county. They were selected from the herd of Mr. R. J. Shipman & Sons, of Shelbyville, Ky., who have been doing official test work for the past three years. Most of the dams of these heifers are in the Register of Merit. It goes without question that they will develop into high producing cows that will add to the prosperity of the county as well as the individual boys and girls.

The following club members have secured their heifers from local breeders:

Ray Hickman.
Lucile Rice.
Robert Maurer.
Lloyd Clore.
Joseph Neumeister.
Lloyd Johnson.
Wilfred Scott.
John R. Scott.
Percival Ryle.
Bruce Ryle.
C. S. Acra.

The Jersey Clubs first consignment sale will be held in the fall of 1922, when it is expected that breeders will have a number of pure bred stock to offer that will attract breeders from other sections, and better prices can be realized.

O. C. Hafer, Secretary, and Farm Agent Sutton worked hard to make the meeting a success, and the club members appreciated their efforts.

Y. W. A. MEETING.

The Y. W. A. will meet with Mrs. M. A. Felton, Thursday June 9th, at 2:30 p. m. The following program will be rendered:

WHY THE UNITED STATES MUST SPEND.

The common people of this country are not taking kindly to the $500,000,000 naval appropriation bill which the militarists thought they could easily put through Congress. Yet the influences working for it are strong. If Congress places this tremendous burden on the backs of the people they should understand that it has been loaded on to them simply because this country failed to join the League of Nations in 1919.

The desire to end the destructive race of military preparation was one of the principal motives for forming the League of Nations. It was realized that the military burdens were becoming so heavy as almost to bankrupt the leading powers.

The bolshevik revolution in Russia was largely caused by the popular revolt against war expenditure. The nations that continue this lavish use of the resources of the people for war purposes, run the risk of a similar popular upheaval. The League of Nations covenant provided machinery for keeping down the program of armament. If the United States had gone in, this program would have been well under way, and the material for international murder, would have gone in to the revival of trade and commerce.

But no, fate had it that a small group in this country, who were determined that this country should not take its part in world measures of co-operation, should be able to block the way. By clever political moves, they seized hold of the popular discontent with taxes which always follows a war, and maneuvered the country into a position where they could prevent it from entering the league.

Some day the people will get a chance to vote directly on the issue of world co-operation thus raised. They will make clear their desire to unite with other nations in a program that will lift these terrible burdens.

WORK AND BRAINS.

The extent to which people advance in the world of business depends principally on whether they have learned to put brains into their job. The majority of people do everything as it always has been done or just as they are told to do it. If there is only one possible way to do it, this can not be helped. But usually there are many different ways in which to do a thing.

The thoughtful worker studies out these different ways. He times himself to see which method accomplishes the most in a given duration. If his work is with human material, he tries out different methods to see which proves the most effective in influencing personality. If he has a mechanical task, he gives the most minute observation to his material to see how it is affected by different forms of handling.

In this way a fellow soon learns to be a close and careful observer. Also he must be sufficiently interested in his observations, so that the results of these various experiments will stick in his mind. He will then have a series of clear pictures of the results that follow from any given course of policy or method.

When a fellow of this type has been making tests like these for a period of time, he can usually find that some modifications in his conditional and customary theories can be made with advantage. If he is working for some one else he will naturally submit the results of his analysis in the form of a suggestion, and will ask if the concern would not like to have him use new methods which his experiments merit.

Progressive concerns welcome this manifestation of originality. A fellow who shows this spirit of wishing to improve his methods of work, quickly attracts attention. If his observations and conclusions prove accurate, he is sure to make rapid progress in the business world.

THE SUMMER GIRL.

The time for the summer girl is at hand. We mean the girl who snaps her fingers at satins, disdains to put on a dress, and is not afraid to rob the birds of their plumage to put on her hat until she looks like the show window of a millinery store. We mean the one who loves white and the lawns that look like clouds, or as Bulwer puts it, the pavilion of the sky. There are girls who are girls, who are afraid to put on a dress outside of their own homes, but the summer girl with a white dress or something equally as cool in appearance, a ribbon around the waist, a chip hat, walks independent and looks charming. The summer girl is not as many as she is ought to be, but wherever she is, she is attractive and adorable.

A bureau of information is to be established for visitors to Washington. Office seekers should be supplied with the time tables of trains running back home.

HELP YOUR TOWN.

If some people would devote even half as much time in trying to improve their town as they do in trying to tear it down, it would greatly help in beautifying our little town. Scarcely anything is proposed here, looking to the improvement of the town, that does not meet with violent opposition by a class of chronic "kickers" that could not be badly hurt, by any additional tax that might be levied for the town's benefit. But it has ever been thus, from which we infer that the town "grumbler" is a necessary evil and must be tolerated.

A PIG IN A POKE.

When hogs on the hoof sold from $17 to $22 boxed breakfast bacon sold at 60 or 65 cents a pound. Now that hogs are between $7 and $8 a hundredweight boxed breakfast bacon sells at 60 cents a pound. The farmer asks why? The consumer asks why? The middleman doesn't explain. The retailer of meats thinks perhaps the disposition of the public to buy boxed breakfast bacon has much to do with it, just as he thinks the disposition of the people to eat sirloin steak accounts for soup meat selling for 17 cents a pound when beaves sell at 8 cents a pound.

The explanation seems really to lie in the fact that production of meat animals for delivery to markets is a business done by individuals, each of whom is in utter ignorance of what the other fellow is producing and in utter ignorance of the volume of demand. Each producer, in making the retailer that offers, when his meat animals are "finished." It is easier to hold a greased pig by the hind leg than to hold a fat hog on the farm. When the hog is "right" for the market he goes to market or he is fed thereafter at a loss.

A national organization, the Farm Bureau Federation, is seeking to develop the organization of production upon such a basis that the production and marketing of meat animals will provide a steady flow of such animals to market, eliminating shortage, which provides excuse for elevation of prices to consumers, and eliminating glut which depresses the price of merchandise. In his labor, land and feed does not necessarily, or usually, result in prices to the consumer that are relative to the prices at which the perishable product is bought by the dealers in semi-perishable and non-perishable products. C.J.

Cutting the Costs of Business.

In most cases any business concern that could offer its goods at pre-war prices, or close to the same, would get all it could do. Hence the past months have seen a most scrutinizing effort on the part of business concerns to get their expenses down.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States recently asked 1600 business men what they had done to get their costs down. It learned that fifty-eight per cent of these firms had reduced their number of employees. This may seem drastic action. But it is steadily reducing the price of merchandise. When cost of goods comes down, the people can buy more products, which must increase the demand up to a normal point.

While a considerable number had reduced wages, there were more that had made special efforts to secure more production. Some firms had done a great deal by personal interviews with the help, trying to explain the need for efficiency and inciting them to more effectiveness.

While some had cut down advertising, the feeling of many was illustrated by the remark of one, that "We believe that cutting the advertising would only increase the cost of selling merchandise."

About 20 per cent of these men reported that they had cut down their credit business. Cash business is being promoted by discounts and "cash" and carry propaganda. Some charge interest on all accounts that run longer than the fifteen days of the month following date of purchase. This reduces the amount of capital tied up in a business.

Most concerns are stopping the little leak-k packing cases, twine, paper, etc., are saved. The mail is used more and telegraph and telephone less. Salesmen are not allowed to use entertainment as freely as formerly. Punctuality upon the part of help is insisted upon. Almost any business has leaks that could be stopped. All concerns should remember that when they cut advertising, they restrict the main source of energy that makes their business move.

BIG MEETING.

Committees from all of the I. O. O. F. Lodges in the county met last Lodge at Hebron for the purpose of perfecting an organization and appointing committees to arrange for an all day meeting at Big Bone, to be held August 22, 1921.

Farm Agent Sutton worked hard to make "Jersey Day" a success.

BASE BALL.

The game played last Saturday between Burlington and Petersburg was a slugfests match. Burlington ten singles, while Petersburg club burg touched up the horse hide for made six of the Burlington boys go to the bench via the strike out route, while four of the Petersburg nine were likewise disposed of. Errors by both sides were numerous. The final score was 13 to 8 in favor of Burlington. Those fans who delight in heavy batting got their money's worth.

Burlington and Bellevue play at Burlington next Saturday, June 11, and at Bellevue on Saturday June 18th, and Petersburg will play on the local ground on Saturday, June 25th.

Petersburg will play Burlington two games July 4th at Petersburg. Bellevue defeated Florence at Florence Saturday by a score of 26 to 15.

MRS. MARTHA COLLINS, DEAD.

Martha C. Collins died at her home in Aurora, Ind., May 31st, 1921. She was born in Mason county April 11th, 1831, and married Marcus Collins in 1862, who died some years ago. She was a member of the Christian church at Petersburg for more than sixty years. She lived the life of a true christian and was also very charitable. The Petersburg Christian church is the owner of each year, the gift of Mrs. Collins and her husband. She is survived by a number of nieces and nephews. She was buried in Petersburg cemetery after short funeral services conducted by Rev. R. H. Carter in Aurora and Petersburg Eugene Berkshire, J. B. Berkshire, Jno. Klop, William Stephens and John Bolen were the active pall-bearers.

Burlington Boy Honored.

Dr. Gordon McKim, of Cincinnati, was elected President of the Cincinnati Academy of Medicine a few days since. Dr. McKim is one of Cincinnati's most noted specialists and ranks high in his profession—not only in Cincinnati but other cities. Gordon was born and reared in Burlington and his friends are glad to hear of the success he has made in his profession. He has a fine suite of offices in the Union Central Building, Front and Vine Streets, Cincinnati.

Ben Houston, Dead.

Ben Houston died at his home near Idlewild June 2nd, 1921, in his forty-seventh year. Mr. Houston had been a great sufferer of inflammatory rheumatism and had been confined to his bed for ten years, yet not a word of complaint did he utter and bore his sufferings without a murmur. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. H. Carter after which burial was in Petersburg cemetery last Saturday. Undertaker C. Scott Chambers had charge of the funeral.

TEACHERS EXAMINATION.

Teachers examination will be held in Burlington June 17th and 18th, for white and colored teachers, for the grades and also State Certificates.

In the death of Mrs. Martha C. Collins, in Aurora, Indiana, one day last week, Petersburg has lost another of its oldest citizens, and a lovely christian woman—one who was always ready to help the needy. One by one are the older citizens of the county passing away. She was 91 years old.

Milton Campbell and wife and 25 or 30 friends from Cincinnati, spent last Sunday at the Harvest Home grounds. They brought their dinner with them and had one pleasant day. Mr. Campbell enjoys a visit every year to the scenes of his boyhood days.

The colored Baptist church held an all day meeting with basket dinner last Sunday. A collection was taken up and each person present gave to the church as many pennies as they were years old. The collection netted the church over $50.00.

In some sections of the county very little tobacco will be cultivated this year, as there have been no seasons in which the farmer could get the plants.

The Germans have always been called a musical people, and the way they have squealed about the reparations seems to indicate it.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

When it was proposed in Berlin that the famous Hindenburg wooden statue, into which the former Kaiser drove a gold nail and the common German lion ones, should be sold at public auction, an American appeared on the scene. He offered 30,000 marks for the figure. Pleased as to his reason for buying the statue of the Boche general, the American declared that he proposed to bring it to America and let Americans drive nails in it again at twenty-five cents a nail. Half the proceeds would go to the American Legion and the other half to the Red Cross.

A house to house canvass of the entire city of Chicago has been undertaken by posts of the American Legion, in seeking out veterans who have been unsuccessful in adjustment-compensation claims with the Government. A recent membership campaign in Illinois netted a gain of 10,000 members for the first four months of 1921 over the corresponding period of last year.

"Jefferson Handicap" was the feature race on Derby Day at the famous Churchill Downs race course at Louisville, Ky. The race was named in honor of the Jefferson Post of the American Legion.

We have come to the time when we should begin to legislate for the people of this country, Senator F. B. Willis, of Ohio in the U. S. Senate. "When measures are proposed for legislative sanction, immediately the consideration that is suggested is, what will some foreign nation or some alien think about it? We have organization of the friends of various foreign countries; let us have an organization of the friends of our own country for a while and see how that will work."

The sentiment expressed by Senator Willis is praised by F. W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, who wrote to Senator Willis as follows:

"It seems to me that you have hit the nail on the head and I desire to commend you for the straightforward statement. I hope that you may follow it up in the Senate while the American Legion, joining hands with the other loyal Americans, may demonstrate to the world that we are an organization of the friends of our own country."

Warrant for the arrest of Roger Baldwin, founder of the American Civil Liberties Union, has been sworn out by Major D. Campbell, acting for the American Legion in Cincinnati, Ohio, on a charge that Baldwin violated a state law in "openly advocating revolution." Baldwin spoke in Cincinnati in behalf of liberation of the "political prisoners" of the war and is quoted as saying that he preferred "resistance by arms" to "no resistance at all." During the war, Baldwin served a jail sentence as a result of his sedition activities.

Among the 1,000 resolutions demanding immediate aid for disabled veterans and urging the passage of the American Legion's relief program by Congress were those unanimously by the student body and faculty of two Arkansas colleges. With the resolutions of the two institutions, Central College and State Normal, were similar documents signed by the Commercial Club, Rotary Club, B. P. O. E., a literary club and the local post of the American Legion.

Ex-Sergeant Stanford, of the 18th Field Artillery, A. E. F. gained some knowledge of fire and gas while in France. When a house caught fire in Glen Rock, Pa., recently, the sergeant brought out his gas mask, plunged into the smoke-filled residence and extinguished the fire. The only casualty came when the veteran who is commander of his post of the American Legion, barked his nose—the gas mask was too small.

Another inducement to induce the United States Government to force the release by the Bolsheviks of Captain Emmet Kilpatrick, Uniontown, Ala., has originated with the Department of Poland of the American Legion. Latest reports declare that the American, confined in a Moscow prison, is in a deplorable condition from brutality and terror. Captain Kilpatrick, a Red Cross worker, was captured in Crimea.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS

FIGHT MOTHER BILL.

Maternity Measure and Welfare Bureau Are Opposed.

Washington—Opposition to the pending Maternity Bill and to the Administration proposal to create a separate Government department of public welfare was voiced at the White House by a delegation of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

The women, headed by Miss Mary Gilbreth, president of the association, told the President that they feared that little real good would result from the two proposals in their present form.

Alice M. Robertson, Oklahoma, the only woman member of the House of Representatives, accompanied the delegation who called on the President, but said she had come along "only to listen."

Power of Attractive Homes.

If you can take the roving families of this moving age, and persuade them to settle down in a good town and make an effort to own their own homes, you will make industries more efficient, and dissipate social unrest.

If you can form a home building organization, put up simple houses that have beauty and attractiveness, and which are arranged around pretty courts with landscape gardening, you will begin to get results.

The charm of these dwellings will move a lot of young people who would never deny themselves to buy a commonplace house, or whose imagination is not kindled by the mere sight of a bank book.

Every bride that sees one of these tasteful new style homes, feels that to possess it is the greatest longing of her life. She will go long without new clothes to get an equity in it, and she will persuade her husband to make sacrifices.

The Bridgeport, Conn., Housing Company is an organization that has tested out the truth of these theories. It started with the idea that the modern wage earner demands a comfortable home, and that it pays the community to make it possible for him to get it. It encourages newly married people to take little apartments in tasteful group houses, and it will give them a chance to put their money into bonds giving a share of ownership in the same. As the families increase it plans to take their savings, and supply the balance of the funds needed to build dwellings. The power of these influences to promote the home building movement is seen in the fact that in one night and one afternoon it sold 404 dwellings on this basis.

BIG STOCK SALE.

Arrangements for the big sale of pure bred and high grade sheep to be held at the Bourbon Stock yards, Louisville, by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange and the Kentucky Pure Bred Livestock Association on August 11, are rapidly being perfected.

At the sale 200 pure bred bucks and ewes and 2,000 high grade ewes will be auctioned to the farmers of the state under similar conditions to those prevailing at the sale of pure bred bulls by the same organizations.

From the report received by L. B. Shropshire, secretary of the Kentucky Pure Bred Livestock Association some of the finest animals from the most famous flocks of the state will be disposed of at this sale.

Particular interest attaches to the movement to increase the sheep production of the Western part of Kentucky where the land is particularly adapted to the raising of sheep. That section of the State according to the experts possesses an ideal terrain for grazing sheep and the marketing facilities are ideal.

WITH 6,000,000 HOME OWNERS WE LEAD WORLD.

More than 6,000,000 families have come through nationwide economic depression and widespread unemployment still owning their homes, preliminary census returns indicate. More home owners now live in the United States than in any other country, says a Washington dispatch to the New York Herald.

An aggregate investment of approximately $30,000,000,000 is represented by the owned homes of the United States, assuming that the average home value is $5,000. At 5 per cent American home owners therefore are paying out about $1,500,000,000 a year for the privilege of possessing their titles. This means that approximately 30,000,000 persons in the United States—five to a family—are getting shelter for a $50 a year each plus taxes and repairs.

More than 15,000,000 families live in rented homes, but the number is decreasing continually. Reports to the Federal Reserve Board and Government agencies show that a building boom is beginning in many sections.

GEORGETOWN COLLEGE.

Fifty one diplomas, ten certificates, and four honorary degrees were conferred at the ninety-first annual commencement of Georgetown College Wednesday, June 8. The number of graduates is four short of the numerical record made last year when because of students returning from the Army the graduating class numbered fifty-four.

Some of our communications arrived too late to be used in last week's issue. Send them in early.

We will be civilized when we find out how to be white still young enough to enjoy living.

Saturday, July 9th

The unusually high class of the horses on the ground, the excellence of the program book and improved accommodations for patrons combine to insure the success of the meeting at the popular Latonia Course.

Those who visit Latonia this month will enjoy the finest sport in its history.

TAKING SCHOOL TESTS.

As the school year draws to its close, many young people are up against the examinations for admission to higher institutions or promotions to advanced classes. Some have slipped along so far by their winning ways and bluffs at study are worrying about what they will do with a set of searching questions.

The examinations for college entrance have been sometimes criticized for asking more than you expect of average young people. But young folks who expect to win the prestige that goes with a college degree, must expect to exhibit more than average attainments.

On the whole the examination system works well, and hands out deserved retribution to multitudes of young folks who have loafed while their comrades worked. Some examinations place too much weight on mere memory, and not enough on ability to think. When a history test for instance, attaches more importance to the exact date of the battle of Bunker Hill than to the pupils' ability to give an intelligent account of the causes of the American revolution, it is time to have a change in the examinations.

The first picnic of the season was given by McGlaason and Zimmer at the Harvest Home grounds last Saturday evening. It was well attended by about two hundred of the young folks, who enjoyed the dancing. Picnics will be given every two weeks at Harvest Home during the summer months.

CONSTANCE.

Mrs. Alice Clore is improving, been quite ill for several weeks. Several from here attended the dance at the Harvest Home grounds Saturday night.

The teachers took the children of Constance school to the Zoo Wednesday where they had a fine time. Aubrey Frank Milner and wife are at home now on their farm near Rising Sun, Ind. They have a fine farm. The house having all the latest improvements. The name of the farm is Maplewood.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Jane Deis Peeno was held in the church here June 4th. She died at her home in Covington. She was the widow of the late Hubble Peeno and lived here many years. She was 80 years of age and the mother of eight children, five of whom survive her, two sons and three daughters, nineteen grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren. Beside her children she has many friends and relatives to mourn her loss. She was a loving mother and kind friend. Burial at Highland cemetery.

Many American lives were lost and property worth more than $91,000,000 was destroyed by fires from matches and smoking during the five years—1915-1919, inclusive, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Put out your matches, your cigar or cigarette stubs before throwing them away—carelessness causes fires.

Gardens in this section are looking fine.

to demonstrate convincingly that they need their jobs.

The government wheat report indicates an increase in wheat production in the United States of 54 million bushels over the yield of last year. But there is still time for changes in the wheat harvest, and the final yield may be larger still by a score of millions of bushels. The total production is not, however, nearly as large as that of 1915, and there is no reason to doubt that the whole crop will be easily absorbed.
There will be more interest this year in cotton production than in wheat. Due to the lack of fertilizing material rather than to a restriction of acreage, a marked reduction in yield is expected.

NORTHERN KENTUCKY'S GREATEST STORE.

$2,200 PAID FOR PARDONS, CHARGE.

Catts, Ex-Governor of Florida, is Accused of Selling Freedom to Slayers.

TRIAL TO BE THIS MONTH.

That $2,200 was paid to Sidney,
J. Catts, while the latter was Governor of Florida, by prisoners in the State convict camp and that J.
J. Mendenhall, one of the most notorious of prisoners was the agency through which the money was collected from prisoners who were afterward pardoned were the interesting features brought out by the legislative committee named to investigate rumors of bribery in connection with the pardoning of lifetime prisoners in Florida camps.
That he had paid for a pardon was J. J. Coleman, a white man, who was sent up from Bay County for life for killing a Deputy Sheriff.

Coleman's pardon was one of the most surprising acts of the former Governor, as the killing of the Deputy was cold blooded. Coleman, like others who testified before the committee, said he gave his money to Mendenhall, and that it was passed over to Catts.

The name of Jerry Carter, State hotel inspector, and an appointee of Catts, was brought into the investigation when a prisoner named Edward Wiggins told of giving Carter $300 and a new double-barreled shotgun for the pardon which he was later favored with.

These prisoners who paid were the ones pardoned, it was pointed out, and sometimes the pardon was issued even before the money was paid, some of them declared.

Disclosures explained the reasons for the indictment of Catts in Bradford County, for the State convicts' stockade is located at Rayford, in that county. He will be tried in Pensacola, this month on the two charges of peonage for which he has been indicted.

RAILWAY MILEAGE IN 1920
LOWEST ON RECORD.

Railway construction reduced nearly to the zero point and more than balanced by mileage of line abandoned, resulting in a net decrease in total railway mileage of the United States for the year 1920, is shown in the following statistics:

Only 314 miles of new line were built, the longest stretch being 37 miles on the Alaska Government Railway. This is the lowest record for many years and it is only in the past few years that the record has been below 1,000 miles/790 miles in 1917, 721 in 1918 and 686 in 1919.

On the other hand, there were 713 miles of line abandoned in 1920 (on which 240 miles of track were taken up), giving a net loss of nearly 400 miles in the total railway system. From 9,420 miles of line built in 1895 the record rose to 6,026 miles in 1902 and then declined to about 3,000 miles for each of the years 1911, 1912 and 1913, followed by a sudden drop to 1,532 miles in 1914 and 933 1915, with a slight rise to 1,035 miles in 1916.

SHEEP CULLING CAMPAIGN PLANNED FOR 10 COUNTIES.

Lexington, Ky.—A sheep culling campaign touching ten counties of the State will be started July 1 by the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture in an effort to assist farmers in selecting those sheep from their flocks which are the most profitable from the standpoint of wool and lamb production, according to an announcement made by R. C. Miller, who will have charge of the work. Farmers will also be given suggestions as to the proper mating of sheep. Counties which will be included in the work are Owen, Boone, Carroll, Fayette, Oldham, Jefferson and a number of counties which are to be selected in the western part of the State.

County agents in the various counties will arrange community meetings at which time extension specialists from the college will address the sheep raisers on problems confronting them. Moving pictures and lantern slides will be used to illustrate the lectures. The following day demonstrations on culling sheep will be held at a farm in the same community and farmers will be shown methods of selecting the most profitable animals from their flocks.

SMALLER GRADED SCHOOLS WORK FOR 9-MONTHS TERM.

Frankfort, Ky.—The Graded schools throughout the State, which have less than the 100 pupils required by law, rapidly are working out schemes whereby they can continue the nine months' school term and carry on high schools for the benefit of the children in the district, according to Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction L. N. Taylor. They are, however, being taken back into the county school systems.

In most cases, according to Mr. Taylor, the boards are providing for local taxation to pay for extension of the terms and to extend the course above the elementary grades. In this way, he expressed the opinion, some of the schools really are gaining the advantage over the ordinary graded school in that they are a part of the larger county system and have backing.

The chief trouble is, said Mr. Taylor, that the county schools have, in most instances, only a six months' term. It is to guard against this that local taxes are being planned.

A series of addresses covering the entire Bluegrass Burley belt, will be made by Aaron Sapiro, marketing expert, during the week beginning June 13th. It was announced by the organization committee of the proposed cooperative marketing association for Burley tobacco.

The points which Mr. Sapiro will reach, it has been definitely decided, are Lexington, Richmond, Shelbyville and Mayfield. Other towns, eight or nine in number, will be added to the list later.

Farmers and growers of tobacco, bankers, warehousemen, and all business men will be invited to these meetings to hear Mr. Sapiro's analysis of the marketing problem, and the solution which the cooperative association offers for tobacco growers.

HAW, HAW!

The Society of Minding Other People's Business is going to give the women folks a taste of the medicine it has been making the men folks swallow. And we doubt that the women will like it a bit. Men's habits having been regulated by legislation, women's dress is to be regulated in the same way. And it is more than probable that within the year a woman must wear what a lot of whiskered men order her to wear. The Utah Legislature has reported favorably on a statute fixing the length of the skirt at three inches above the ankle. Penalty, fine and imprisonment. The Virginia Legislature is to vote on a bill prohibiting a woman from wearing a skirt waist or one displaying more than three inches of her throat. She must not have skirts higher than four inches above the ground, and must not wear any garment of diaphanous material. In Ohio a bill has been drafted prohibiting the wearing of a waist or gown that displays more than two inches of the throat. The bill also provides no female over 14 years of age may wear a skirt which does not reach the instep. The bill further prohibits the wearing of any garment made of any transparent material, and also prohibits the wearing of the same in stores. A penalty is fixed for those who wear any garment which unduly displays or accentuates the lines of the female figure. And you'll have to fight your own battle, girls! We men folks are busy fighting the Anti-Tobacco and the Anti-Racings.

RAILWAY MILEAGE IN 1920
LOWEST ON RECORD.

RAILWAY MILEAGE IN 1920
LOWEST ON RECORD.

RAILWAY MILEAGE IN 1920
LOWEST ON RECORD.

Railway construction reduced nearly to the zero point and more than balanced by mileage of line abandoned, resulting in a net decrease in total railway mileage of the United States for the year 1920, is shown in the following statistics:

Only 314 miles of new line were built, the longest stretch being 37 miles on the Alaska Government Railway. This is the lowest record for many years and it is only in the past few years that the record has been below 1,000 miles/790 miles in 1917, 721 in 1918 and 686 in 1919.

On the other hand, there were 713 miles of line abandoned in 1920 (on which 240 miles of track were taken up), giving a net loss of nearly 400 miles in the total railway system. From 9,420 miles of line built in 1895 the record rose to 6,026 miles in 1902 and then declined to about 3,000 miles for each of the years 1911, 1912 and 1913, followed by a sudden drop to 1,532 miles in 1914 and 933 1915, with a slight rise to 1,035 miles in 1916.

Announcement of the order, which was telegraphed to Major Isaac Wilder, who is in charge of troops in the zone where the miners battled for several days across the Tug river, between McCarr and other Kentucky towns, and Mawson, Merimac and other West Virginia towns, was made by Adjutant General Morris.

"There has been no trouble along the border that we have heard of for the last ten days, and we cannot keep the troopers there indefinitely," Gen. Morris said in making the announcement. "The Senatorial committee appointed to investigate the troubles in the Tug river valley will meet a week from today, and I believe that the fighters will be on their good behavior at least until after the committee makes its report."

Besides the fact that the men in the three organizations now on the border are being kept away from their business, the State has not enough funds, even though it had there all of the time. The guardsmen are kept constantly on the alert at their home stations, and can be called out within a few hours if necessary.

VACATIONS ARE PLANNED FOR EMPLOYEES OF STATE.

Frankfort, Ky.—Superintendents of all State institutions will be allowed three weeks vacation on pay and other officers and employees two weeks. No one is allowed a vacation who has been employed less than six months, but for that period, if the discretion of the superintendent, an employee may have a pro rata vacation period.

ASKS COURT FOR NAME OF FORMER HUSBAND.

To restore a wife's maiden name is often a plea in a divorce suit. But Mrs. Tillie Jarboe wants the name of her former husband restored.

His name was Shunka, and she has come to a deeper appreciation of the name of Shunka after her experience with Robert Jarboe, whom she married March 12, 1919. He shandoned her a year later, she says, and is now in Boston.

So she asks to become Mrs. Shunka again.

LUKE McLUKE, DEAD.

James S. Hastings, "Luke McLuke" the author of "Rits of By-Play" died at Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati, last Friday following an operation for appendicitis. As "Luke McLuke" he was one of the most widely known newspaper humorists in the world.

KERR AND TIGERT ARE CONFIRMED BY SENATE.

Washington.—The Senate confirmed the nomination of John E. Tigert, University of Kentucky, to succeed Philander P. Claxton as Commissioner of Education.

Rumored opposition to his confirmation did not materialize, it was learned following the executive session.

Transfer of the office from Mr. Claxton to the Kentuckyian will be made as soon as possible it was said today.

At the same time the Senate confirmed the nomination of Circuit Judge Charles Kerr, Lexington, to be Federal Judge in Panama.

According to the Industrial Commissioner of New York State average weekly earnings in the factories of the State declined to $28.97 during the month of March. This is a very moderate decrease, and by no means represents the reduction in some wages. And fewer people are at work and those at work are working hard. Moreover, certain wage reductions became effective April 1, and are not included in the tabulation. Figures to be presented in three months' time of the average reduction over the same period a year ago will probably prove more instructive.

Sheriff's Settlement.

Settlement with L. A. Conner, sheriff of Boone County, for the year 1920 on account of school fund and county funds for said year. I find that said sheriff is charged with the following sums, to-wit:

Balance on hand last settlement $94,153.64
Received from Road Commission 9,758.01
Sale of 33 road bonds @ $500 15,500.00
Accrued interest on above bonds 75.90
Premium on above bonds 6.22
Delinquent taxes collected 119.19
Sale of dog tags 1,195.40
Harris & Meyers, release on contract 1,000.00
East Bend Road Commission 333.33
C. L. Griffith, refund on W. & V. R. 621.09
C. H. Youell & East Bend Road 25.00
J. M. Powers, refund on election 2.00
Sale of cement, coal and roofing paper 208.88
J. W. Kennedy, omitted tax judgment 18.95
On these sums the sheriff is not allowed any commission.
The assessors' book for 1920 calls for $13,997,990.00
I find that the sheriff assessed property omitted by the assessor to the amount of 22,975.00
Making a grand total assessment $13,120,965.00

Of this total assessment, $1,059,500.00 is tax on intangible personal property and, therefore, not subject to local taxation. I find that the County and Fiscal Courts have released from taxation on account of erroneous and duplicate assessments, property to the value of $42,185.00.

Deducting these two items, we have a total of $12,019,280.00, upon which the sheriff is charged with the collection of tax for general expense, road fund and sinking fund, amounting in the aggregate to 70 cents on the hundred dollars, and said sheriff is therefore charged $84,134.96.

The listed polls for the County are 2704. The Fiscal Court released the sheriff from 572, leaving 2132 polls with which the sheriff is charged $1.50 per poll, or $3,198.00.

I find that the sheriff is charged with the following sums collected from the various corporations required by the laws of the State to pay apportion and franchise tax in Boone County, namely:

American Tel. & Tel. Co. $ 216.78
Q. & C. R. R. 5,254.31
American R. R. Express Co. 25.75
Citizens Tel. Co. 8.25
Pulman Co. 12.24
L. & N. R. R. 3,098.16
Union Light, Heat & Power 208.49
Western Union Tel. Co. 88.55
Consolidated Tel. Co. 24.33
L. & N. tax judgment 74.10
Penalty on delinquent tax 115.47

Total collections for all County purposes other than school $96,459.42

The tax duplicate for school purposes had on which a tax of 30 cents on the hundred dollars is $7,237,180.00. This sum is arrived at in this way:

To the total valuation of $13,097,990.00 returned by the assessor, we add $22,975—the value of property omitted by the assessor but listed by the sheriff—and we deduct the value of property released by the County and Fiscal Court because of erroneous and duplicate assessments amounting to $42,185.00, and also the value of intangible personal property not subject to tax, amounting to $1,059,500.00, and also the value of property in the various graded school districts amounting to $4,782,100.00; leaving the net balance of $7,237,180.00, as stated. The tax on this sum at 30 cents on the hundred dollars is $21,711.54—to this we add a tax for school purposes of $1.00 on 1379 polls subject to school tax, or $1,379.00.

The franchise and tangible tax on the nine corporations is collected by the County School Superintendent for school purposes, under the new law. But the below named corporations paid same into hands of the sheriff and he is charged with said tax as follows:

Penalty on delinquent school tax 26.03
Total $23,187.56

Resume County Revenue Other Than School.

Tax on $12,019,280 @ 70c $8,414.96
2132 polls @ $1.50 each 3,198.00
Tax paid by A. T. & C. Co. 216.78
Tax paid by Q. & C. R. R. 5,254.31
Tax paid by A. Railway Express 26.75
Tax paid by Citizens Tel. Co. 8.28
Tax paid by Pullman Co. 12.24
Tax paid by L. & N. R. R. 3,098.16
Tax paid by Union, Light, Heat & Power 208.49
Tax paid by Western Union T. & T. Co. 88.55
Tax paid by Consolidated

T. Co. 24.33
L. & N. tax judgment 74.10
Penalty on delinquent tax 115.47
Total $96,459.42

Resume School Revenue.
Tax on $7,237,180.00 @ 30c $2,171.54
1379 polls @ $1.00 each 1,379.00
Tax paid by L. & N. R. R. 70.99
Penalty on delinquent tax 26.03
Total $23,187.56

The sheriff's commission for collecting all taxes for all County purposes, including school, amounts to $5,085.88. No part of this commission may be charged to the money collected for school purposes, and it is all, therefore, deducted from the $96,459.42 collected for purposes other than school, leaving a balance in this fund of $91,373.54. Of this sum $19,580.104 is appropriated to the general expense fund; $26,106.72 to the sinking fund, and $45,686.78 to the road fund.

Crediting these sums to the respective accounts to which they are assigned, we have the sheriff charged as hereinafter set out, giving credit for the claims paid against the various funds, to-wit:

1920 tax School Fund. $23,178.56

General Expense Fund.
Balance on hand last settlement $10,046.61
1919 delinquent tax collected 119.19
J. W. Kennedy tax judgment 18.95

FARM BUREAU MEETING.

The directors of the Farm Bureau held their regular meeting last Monday with President Geo. Penn Robt. McGlasson, Liston Hemphling, E. Y. Randall, Clem Kendall and J. Colin Kelly present. Each director was appointed a committee to look after buying coal for the members in their districts. It is expected that by the next meeting prices on coal will be obtained that will be much lower than those now quoted. The Bureau decided to make a drive to increase the membership to 500. J. L. Jones, Clem Kendall, Robt. McGlasson and Liston Hemphling together with C. O. Hemphling were appointed a committee to arrange for a farmers picnic to be held at Florence Fair grounds at an early date. The directors passed a resolution asking the Fiscal court to publish a quarterly report of the finance and expenditures of the county. (The law requires the statement to be published annually. See part of the statement in another column of this issue—Ed.) The directors adopted a resolution demanding the passage of the French-Capper, Truth and Fabric bill.

The Farm Bureau together with the Burley Tobacco Society, are preparing to have an all day meeting at the Florence Fair grounds July 18th. Prominent speakers for the occasion will be secured.

The bodies of Robt. Snow, Thos. Northcutt and Gussie Rich, who were killed in action during the world war on the field of Flanders, arrived in Walton last Tuesday morning. Thomas Northcutt was buried in Walton cemetery Tuesday and Robt. Snow was buried in Beaver cemetery Tuesday afternoon. Boone Post No. 4, American Legion, had charge of the funeral and together with a firing squad, and bugler from Ft. Thomas buried the bodies with impressive military funeral. Gussie Rich, who was the first Boone county boy killed in action, will be buried at Big Bone at 2 o'clock p. m., and his funeral will be in charge of Boone American Legion. The bugler and firing squad will also be present. The Post requests the relatives and friends to be present to assist in the services. All members of Boone Post and ex-service men will report at Big Bone in uniform to take part in the service.

The Bostonian Food Co., incorporated of Cincinnati, Ohio, will operate a factory in Erlanger for the baking and canning of beans, tomatoes and other vegetables, and also selling milk. They propose to interest about twenty-five farmers in the business, who are to furnish all raw materials and supplies are not to be purchased from outside sources. Dr. H. B. Hoffman, of Covington, is President of the company and other first class business men are connected with him, and it is expected that a market will be found for the entire produce of the farmer members. Next week's Recorder will contain an advertisement of their plans.

NOTICE.

All wool growers are requested to pool their wool at once so that the committee can get the report to the secretary by the 1st of July. Wool market is looking better now. Kenton county pool sold for 21.8c a pound recently.

L. T. CLORE, Secretary.

Boone Post American Legion, will elect officers next Tuesday night, June 14th. All members will please be present.

O. R. RUSS,
Commander.

A subscription paper, asking aid for Thos. Walton and wife, who lost all their household effects in the fire Tuesday, was put in circulation while the crowd was in town, and about $200 was raised.

Albert Underhill, of Bethel, O., spent several days last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Underhill, out on the East Bend road.

Philip Tallafiero, of Erlanger, was in Burlington, Tuesday in the interest of the Chataqua to be held at that place next week.

Newton York is the owner of a new Ford.

ALFRED DOLWICK,
CONSTANCE, KENTUCKY.

The Directors of the Boone Co. Farm Bureau in business session at Burlington Monday, June 6, feeling that the office of Representative is one of utmost importance to the farming interests of the county in the coming Legislature, unanimously voted that any and all candidates for this office publish a letter in the Boone County Recorder, giving their stand on organized efforts of the farmers to promote Agricultural interests of our County and State, and further to what extent they will support, without fear or favor, the bills and measures coming up for passage that will improve Agricultural conditions in our State.

BOONE COUNTY FARM BUREAU
J. COLIN KELLY,
Secretary.

NOTICE TO BOONE POST MEMBERS.

All members of Boone Post No. 4, will report at Big Bone cemetery in uniform Sunday, June 12th at 2 o'clock p. m., to take part in the burial of our comrade Gussie Rich, who was the first Boone county boy killed in action in France.

ROSS RUSS,
Commander.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT AT OLD GUNPOWDER BAPTIST CHURCH.

People from all parts of the county and a big day was enjoyed.

An all day meeting was held at Gunpowder Baptist church last Sunday. An interesting sermon was delivered by Rev. Claunch, of Erlanger, at the conclusion. Dinner was served by the ladies of the church and if any one left the church hungry it was their own fault, as an abundance of food had been prepared.

After noon excellent sermons were delivered by Rev. Parker, of Dayton, Ky., and Rev. Miller, of Big Bone. Mr. W. D. Perry, of Dayton, had charge of the singing, which was highly complimented. The members of old Gunpowder had made all necessary arrangements for the crowd that they expected and was present to spend the day with them in worship.

They never made a cigarette like this in my day—

The Camel idea wasn't born then. It was the exclusive expert Camel blend that revolutionized cigarette smoking.

That Camel blend of choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos hits just the right spot. It gives Camels such mellow mildness and fragrance!

The first time I smoked Camels I knew they were made for me. I knew they were the smoothest, finest cigarette in the world, at any price.

Nobody can tell me anything different.

SIXTH DISTRICT BANKERS

Royally Entertained at Maysville By Ninth District Bankers.

The Convention of the Bankers Association of the Sixth Congressional District, was held last Wednesday as the guests of the Maysville Ky. Bankers in the city park, Maysville. The representatives from Boone county were composed of A. B. Renaker, W. P. Beemon, C. F. Blankenbaker, A. G. Renaker, A. W. Corn, C. T. Davis, H. G. Buckner, D. B. Wallace, J. C. Miller, W. F. Moore, J. D. Mayhugh and R. C. Greene. A very interesting convention was held in connection with the delegates from the ninth district Judge Robert Bingham, of Louisville, was presented and he presented the co-operative plan for marketing tobacco to the bankers in his usual and brilliant manner. W. V. Peavyhouse, Deputy Banking Commissioner, presented a resolution which was unanimously adopted, that the interest rate in Kentucky be fixed at a legal rate of 6 per cent with a contract rate of not exceeding 8 per cent. The following officers were elected from the Sixth District as follows: President, A. B. Renaker; Vice President, D. B. Woolery; Secretary, B. J. Lineman.

The delegates are loud in their praise in the manner in which they were entertained by the Maysville bankers. Lunch was served with plenty of fried spring chicken and good old country ham. The convention adjourned in time for the delegates to make their train.

ACETYLENE PLANT STOOD THE BURLINGTON FIRE.

NOTICE.

To Whom It May Concern:

I bought a acetylene Star light plant from Mr. Jacob Hicks in the year of 1920, and it gave me perfect satisfaction. My store and stock of goods burned June 7, 1921, and the light plant was six feet from the building, and the fire fell all over the tank, and it stood as if nothing had happened. I will put the same plant back in the new building when completed, and will say it is one of the best, safest, cheapest light plants any one can install. The cause of the fire was from a gasoline stove exploding in the upstairs while the lady was getting dinner. I consider the light plant fire-proof.

D. R. BLYTHE.

The light plant was sold by Jacob Hicks, Cynthia, Ky., State Atty. Advertisement o-june23

THE PASSION OF PROPAGANDA

Formerly reading was a contemplative sort of act. People sat down to enjoy poetry and other works of literature in a mood of untroubled peace. Authors wrote about the beauty of nature, and drew charming pictures of society. Humanists made graceful fun of life. Reading was a restful pursuit.

Nowadays, whatever you read, is full of the intense desire of some one to convince people of the truth of some idea. People are assailed by a flood of arguments, not merely in reading newspapers, but novels and poetry are loaded with the same propaganda. Social reform economic revolution, changes in the institution of marriage, new forms of education, and every kind of "ism" and cult is hurled at our heads. Many of the ideas are good, but four-fifths of them are cranky.

All this may be a kind of yeasting that indicates some form of growth. But there is so much of all this ferment, that it unsettles the minds of a lot of people. They get away from the basic realities of life, and forget that propaganda must keep close to facts to accomplish any good.

The Recorder carries the announcement of E. J. Aylor as a candidate for Justice of the Peace from the Burlington and Bullittsville precincts. Mr. Aylor is now holding this office and has served his people honestly and faithfully, and if re-elected he will continue to represent the people in the same manner. Mr. Aylor was born and has resided all of his life near Hebron, and is of one of our old Democratic families, and the people of this district should not select a man who would represent them better than E. J. Aylor.

NOTICE.

I take this means of thanking all my friends and customers for their support and announce that I will continue in the general mercantile business in the Walton building until a building can be erected. I am in need of all money now due me, and I ask all persons indebted to me to please settle as soon as possible, as I will need all of it and more, to restock my store.

D. R. BLYTHE.

Very small acreage of tobacco has been pitched in Boone this season.

AFTER THE FIRE.

Burlington has had hundreds of visitors since Tuesday of last week—viewing the scenes of the wreck caused by the fire—the most disastrous in the history of the town which was started more than a hundred years ago.

One of the buildings destroyed by fire last week was the birthplace of Judge Geo. Perkins, who was for many years judge of the Kenton county circuit court, and who, only a few days before, came all the way from Washington, D. C., to view the home of his birth.

The contents of Judge Sidney Gaines' law office, which was on the second floor of the store building, were destroyed. The Judge was engaged in holding court at Williams-town when the fire occurred.

Many former residents of the town have visited the place to view the wreck of the building in which they spent many pleasant hours in their boyhood and girlhood days.

Everything in the safe in D. R. Blythe's store was found to be safe and not the least hurt after it was dragged from the debris, while the contents in the safe in Judge Sidney Gaines' office were burned to a crisp.

The walls of the brick buildings were blown down Thursday with dynamite and nothing remains but a pile of brick and mortar.

The beautiful shade trees along the streets were badly scorched and it is feared they were killed. Their dense foliage helped to keep the heat from the buildings across the street.

The tearing down of all the outbuildings back of the residences was a great help toward keeping the fire from spreading.

D. R. Blythe carried insurance to the amount of $4,750 on his stock of goods, which is about half of his loss; Mrs. Drucilla Goodridge had $1,000 insurance on her residence, while the Riddell heirs had $1600 on their property, and Geo. Blythe carried $1500 on the store building. Mr. Blythe expects to begin rebuilding in a short time.

A representative of the Anderson, Ind., Fire Apparatus Co., was in town Thursday, trying to sell the town a fire extinguisher. This is something the town should have had long ago.

The Walton fire apparatus was the first to arrive and give assistance at the fire last Tuesday.

John Brown ran a moonshine still, and he made lots of hooch; until it was raided, and now John is in jail.

ROUSE-WALLACE.

Miss Martha F. Rouse and James R. Wallace were quietly married at the home of the bride Thursday afternoon at four o'clock by the officiating minister, Rev. H. W. Whitaker. The ceremony was a very quiet affair, only a few very intimate friends being present.

The bride is the daughter of W. R. Rouse and is well known here having lived here all her life. She is a very charming young lady and has all the attributes to make an ideal wife.

The bridegroom is one of the publishers of the Advertiser and is well known throughout this section.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wallace accompanied by Mrs. Hattie Metcalfe and Robt. L. Aylor left for Cincinnati in Mr. Aylor's machine.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace have a host of friends here that wish them much happiness. After a short visit to relatives and friends at Newark, O., they will return to Walton where they will make their home.—Walton Advertiser.

Mr. Wallace is one of the editors of the Walton Advertiser. The Recorder extends congratulations to Bro. Wallace and his good wife.

NEGRO SEEKS OFFICE

President of Louisville (Ky.) Bank Aspires To Legislature.

Louisville, Ky.—Wilson Lovett, President of the First Standard Bank, the first negro banking institution in Louisville, today filed papers declaring his intention to run for the Legislature in the 53d Legislative District. Lovett will seek the nomination subject to the action of the Republican primary.

In 1919 William Warley, editor of the Louisville News, a negro newspaper, ran in this district. He was defeated by Dr. Lewis Rayna by 88 votes, and he charged that he had been "counted out" by Warley got a position with the Sinking Fund Commission later by the Republican organization.

Lovett ran for election to the Board of Education last November, but was beaten by William H. Camp and Mrs. Peter C. Leidingner.

The mail carrier between Burlington and Erlanger cannot make his trips on time as he is delayed in getting around where the new concrete road is being built. The contractor should be compelled to permit the mail carrier pass on his regular trips, which can be done with but little inconvenience to the contractor or his workmen, and with just a little accommodation on their part the mail could be dispatched with very little delay.

SCHOOL HONOR.

The boy who cheats in passing a school or college examination may think he has done a smart thing, and has gotten the best of the teachers. But actually he has injured only himself. He has thrown away the benefits that come from study, and by the process of cheating at the tests, has managed to escape detection in his act of self injury. He has no cause for jubilation.

A leading college recently expelled a number of fellows who cheated, and suspended others who did not cheat themselves but knew the fraud was going on. This action was taken at the request of the school government. Such a policy represents much advance in student sentiment.

Formerly it was not good form for a pupil to inform on others who were breaking rules. A child who did that used to be called a "tattle-tale." But students for their own self protection and for maintenance of good standards of work, are organizing in many schools to outlaw such cheating. When they require their own number to give information regarding dishonest practices the indolent and tricky will either have to quit or else go to work.

The spirit of lower schools is frequently one of combination against the teachers and professors. There is a spirit of trying to outwit the school authorities, and get the better of them through various tricks and subterfuges. The one who is the most skillful in these dodges gets the most applause.

But when young people have got up to high school age they should have passed beyond that point of view, and begin to realize that they are shaping their own future, and past the tests by crooked ways simply hurts themselves. They should unite to compel their own number to meet the school requirements fairly and honestly.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Crisler, who reside on the Burlington and Grange Hall road, attended the graduating exercises at the Deaconess Hospital, Cincinnati, Friday, May 28th. Their daughter, Miss Sara being one of the graduates. Miss Sara is now taking a ten week's course in Pediatrics Public Health Nursing, at the Clinician General Hospital, which will complete the Semestery of three years. She has a host of friends who congratulate and wish her the best of success.

Mr. Jacob Hicks, of Cynthia, who sold and installed in the store owned by D. R. Blythe that was destroyed by fire last week, the Acetylene plant was in Burlington last Thursday, and found that the tank was in good condition as before the fire.

NATURE PROVIDES

Bowling Green Sewage Drained Into Cavernous Limestone Rock Formation.

Bowling Green, Ky.—The only city in the United States boasting a sewer system in which all the "pipes" were made by Mother Nature is Bowling Green. Although has a population of 15,000, there is not a foot of man-made sewer pipe in any of the streets or alleys. The explanation is that the city is built over a formation of calcareous white limestone, which is a maze of connected services extending to a considerable depth below the surface; much the same formation as that of the famous Mammoth Cave, just thirty minutes distant. This limestone is said to be composed of the fossilized eggs of prehistoric marine animals. The "logs" of oil wells drilled in the Western Kentucky fields show that limestone of one kind or another is encountered as deep as drilling has ever yet been carried.

When a new residence is being built in the Bowling Green region, a "sink finder" is employed, who merely goes out in the back yard and digs about in the red surface soil, which is seldom more than three feet deep, until he locates a fissure. A garden hose is then placed in the crevice, and the water is allowed to run until it is free from obstructions. It is then approved by the city inspector, and the house has perfect sewer connection. No city has a more sanitary system. Chemists say the sewage would be purified in a very short distance by passing through the limestone. Sewage never comes to the surface, the explanation of geologists being that it flows through natural passageways in the stone until it finally finds an outlet in the river bed.

C. C. SLEET.

Announces For Justice of the Peace in Beaver and Union District.

The RECORDER in this issue carries the announcement of C. C. Sleet, of Beaver Lick, as a candidate for Justice of the Peace of the Union and Beaver districts. Mr. Sleet is one of our most respected citizens and has resided all of his life near his present home. He has made a success of his own business and there can be no doubt that if elected he will make the same success with the business of the county. If Mr. Sleet receives the nomination for Justice of the Peace, he aspires, his people will be represented by one of Boone county's most respected and influential citizens.

REFRESHMENTS PRIVILEGES FOR RENT.

The refreshments privileges for the 1921 Florence Fair will be rented on the fair grounds at Florence, June 25, 1921, at 2 p. m.

HUBERT CONNER, Secretary.

H. P. Wilson, wife and son, of Union neighborhood, were in Burlington, last Thursday, viewing the wreck caused by the fire, and while in town called at our sanctum and boosted his subscription up another year. May he and his good wife live to enjoy reading the Recorder many more years.

Farm Agent Sutton and President Geo. Penn attended a farmers meeting in Williamstown, last Monday. These men let nothing escape them that can be done in the interest of the farmer.

Many a man who in his time shucked one hundred bushels of corn in a day now has a son who finds it mighty hard to bite the grains off of a roasting ear.—Rochester (Ind.) Sun.

Wm. Stephens and Garnett W. Tolin, the two candidates from this county for the Legislature, were in Williamstown last Monday mingling with the large crowd day long.

Jas. Shyback who has been employed to clean the brick off the Riddell heirs lot, commenced Monday morning. He has quite a job.

Master Albert William Weaver has returned home from a visit of several days with relatives in Gunpowder neighborhood.

MAV TOBACCO SALES

Average Price for 1920 Crop was $3.02 and for Precious Crop Was $3.51.

Frankfort, Ky.—A total of 16,185,850 pounds of the 1920 tobacco crop were sold in Kentucky during May for a total of $49,671,744, the monthly report of the State Commissioner of Agriculture shows. A total of 1,013,250 pounds of the 1919 or previous year's crop, was sold for a total of $9,411,112. The average price for the 1920 crop was $3.02 a hundred pounds.

BASE BALL.

Bellevue

Burlington last Saturday by a score of 6 to 3. Fan had the locals at his mercy while the visitors were making timely hits. Burlington played a slow game while the visitors did not let any chances escape them. If the local team expect to win many games they must get busy with the bat and cut out costly errors.

Petersburg plays at Burlington Saturday June 25th.

Bellevue vs. Burlington at Bellevue next Saturday.

Taylorport defeated Saylor Park in a 18 inning game at Saylor Park, last Sunday by a score of 3 to 2. It was a fast and well played game.

In one of the best amateur ball games ever seen at Saylor Park, was played by Taylorport and Saylor Park, Ohio, Sunday. After going 14 innings 2 to 2 Taylorport finally winning by scoring one run. York was invincible, allowing only five hits. Wonderful fielding saved Saylor Park several times. A crowd of 1200 witnessed the game. Manager Zimmer wishes to announce that next Sunday Bellevue, Ky., plays at Taylorport. A good game is expected. Lets all go.

GET TOGETHER.

There is a movement on foot with the base ball fans at Verona and Walton in which they are trying to organize a ball league to be composed of six clubs in the county. Bellevue, Petersburg, Burlington, Walton, Verona and Big Bone. This would be a great thing for the fans of the county, and those interested should get together and put it over.

GUSSIE RICH BURIED.

Boone Post American Legion, with a firing squad, took part in the funeral of Gussie Rich who was killed in battle in France during the World War, at Big Bone, last Sunday afternoon. Services could not be held in the church as a crowd of about 2,000 was present. Religious services were conducted by the pastor of Big Bone church and the Modern Woodmen read their burial service after which the Legion members performed the last rite, the burial ceremony, which concluded with the firing of a volley over the grave of one who had made the supreme sacrifice. The friends and neighbors of Gussie Rich from far and near attended his funeral, showing their appreciation of a brave and fearless soldier.

U. S. TUBES
The same standard of quality built into U. S. Tires is put into U. S. Tubes.

Why some men seem to have all the tire luck —

YOU probably know a man whose car is a hobby with him. He knows just why it's the best little old car there is of its class.

And he'll stand up for that car against the world in any kind of an argument.

Year by year an increasing number of men feel the same way about U. S. Tires.

For a while they may try "job lot" stuff, "bargains," "big discounts" and "rebates."

But usually it doesn't take long for a man to sense the economy of the standard quality tire.

For years U. S. Tire makers have been building quality tires for sane tire users—for the car of medium or light weight no less than for the heavy car.

The tire buyers of the land have responded with a mighty U. S. Tire following.

The U. S. Tire makers meet the responsibility for supplying this nationwide following with characteristic energy.

Ninety-two U. S. Factory Branches are established, covering the entire country.

Find the U. S. Tire dealer who has the intention of serving you. You will know him by his full, completely sized line of fresh, live U. S. Tires—quality first, and the same choice of size, tread and type as in the biggest cities of the land.

PURE BRED BULL SALE IS SUCCESS.

130 Animals Are Bought for 1,000 Farmers in Nearly All Live Stock Counties.

PRICES ARE $30 TO $385

Kentucky farmers are leading figures in the State's livestock industry joined in attaching success to the first of a series of pure bred animal sales being conducted at the Bourbon Stockyards by the Louisville Livestock Exchange in connection with the "better sire" movement in Kentucky.

As the direct result of the sale, which was devoted entirely to registered Angus, Hereford and Short-horn bulls, 130 of these animals will be distributed in practically every livestock county in the state.

In addition, the 1,000 persons attending the sale heard talks by experts on the difference in value of the scrub animals now being raised in the State and thoroughbreds and the need for the production of high grade animals.

Following the talks specimens of the scrubs and high-grade animals were exhibited. Those who addressed the gathering were W. S. Bell, stock Exchange; Prof. E. S. Good, Assistant director of the Kentucky University College of Agriculture, and Prof. C. E. Marvin, president of the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association.

Officials in charge of the sale said at least 7,000 farmers were represented as various groups of farmers selected a representative to attend the auction.

C. C. Wheeler and F. D. Hengst are in charge of the auction. Purebred and high-grade sheep will be sold at the next sale August 11.

"Camp Roosevelt is doing a real-noble thing," said C. C. Wheeler, Superintendent of Chicago Public Schools, at a luncheon of the Executive and General Committees of held recently. "The combined military physical-educational work carried on at this summer vacation camp is a distinct contribution to sturdy American citizenship. So many requests from school superintendents throughout the country have come to me that I anticipate that the summer of 1921 will far exceed the past two summers in attendance at this out-door playground. It is an opportunity of which all who can should avail themselves."

With the approach of summer and the close of school vacation, the school boys and Camp Roosevelt offers the solution for a happy profitable summer's outing. This big enterprise, under the auspices of the Chicago Board of Education and the U. S. War Department, costs each student $16.00 for two-week period. This is a non-profit-making enterprise, in fact, it requires the subscription of several thousand dollars each year by public spirited men who maintain it.

Trained by regular army officers, and using regular U. S. Army equipment, the young citizens of the republic live an exciting and interesting life full of parades, reviews, guard mounts, and other military features which appeal to young Americans. Camp Roosevelt's democracy and influence for Americanization is recognized and praised throughout the United States. The entire summer is occupied with hiking, swimming, athletics, sports, games, and all other sorts of recreation. The camp is divided into three sections, summer high school, R. O. T. C., and Scoutcraft.

Enrollments are being made with substantial advance every day. Any twelve years or more will have the time of his life if he goes to Camp Roosevelt this summer. The periods begin July 3, and enrollment may be NOW at the Headquarters, Room 403-650 South Clark Street, Chicago.

The total number of horses on farms in Kentucky on January 1, 1920, was 382,448; the total number of cattle, 1,093,453; of sheep, 707,845; and of swine, 1,604,431. The pure-bred horses shown in the list represent 0.9 per cent of all horses on farms in the state; the pure-bred cattle represent 1.8 per cent of all cattle; the pure-bred sheep, 0.8 per cent of all sheep; and the pure-bred swine 2.2 per cent of all swine.

Out in the State.

Shelbyville, Ky.—The Deposit Bank of Cropper, Shelby county, closed its doors and went into voluntary liquidation under direction of U. S. State Banking Commissioner.

A warrant has been taken out against J. N. Kemper, cashier, charging him with embezzling $7,500, it was learned, following a conference between directors of the bank and representatives of the Banking Commissioner.

J. N. Kemper, cashier, was arrested in Louisville and taken to Shelbyville.

Frankfort, Ky.—When General Isaac Shelby, hero of Kings Mountain and the first Governor of Kentucky, founded the estate of Arcadia, in Lincoln county, during the latter part of the eighteenth century, little did he think that this estate would be the source of bitter litigation between two of his lineal descendants, Miss Mary P. Shelby and Miss Florence M. Shelby, sisters.

The feeling over the control of the estate, however, became so bitter, the Appellate Court said in reversing the Lincoln circuit court in the case of Shelby against Shelby, that it resulted in "unfortunate personal encounters."

Declaring that it no longer was safe to remain at "Arcadia," Miss Mary Shelby, 58 years old, left in January, 1918, but returned in July of that year when she filed a suit for the partition of the estate. Miss Florence Shelby, 43 years old, then in possession of the estate, contended that her sister had forfeited her rights in the place by abandoning it temporarily, and that the estate could not be partitioned unless by consent of all the heirs, 13 in number.

The Appellate Court brushed all of these contentions aside, however, and directed the lower court to appoint a commissioner to partition the estate, unless, in the meantime, the sisters could agree to a division. Under no circumstances, however, the court said, shall the portions of the estate allotted to the sisters be rented.

Louisville, Ky.—More than 1,500,000 pounds of barley have been pledged to the proposed co-operative marketing association in Carroll and surrounding counties, Mr. Ralph M. Barker, member of the organization committee announced at the headquarters of the association here. The signing of the contract has been carried on in that section, he said, since the meeting there Saturday.

PRESIDENT'S TRIBUTE.

Washington, June 9.—President Harding telegraphed a message of sympathy today to Mrs. F. W. Galbraith, Jr., widow of the National commander of the American Legion, killed in an automobile accident last night.

"Please know of my sympathy in the great and sudden sorrow which has come to you," the message said. "It was my fortune to know Colonel Galbraith not alone as the National commander of the American Legion, but as a fellow citizen of Ohio, and I have highly valued his commanding personality, his tireless zeal, and his intense devotion to country and his companions in arms."

Cincinnati again has opened her arms in her "Fighting Colonel," Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, but this time with all the honor that a city can extend to her dead.

"Flew at 11:21," mast, and thousands were mourning his untimely loss, one that was felt keenly by the entire municipality, when the body of Colonel Galbraith arrived in Cincinnati from Indianapolis Thursday of last week accompanied by a soldier escort and a large number of friends and relatives, and was escorted formally, with 11 honors, to Memorial Hall.

For Colonel Galbraith, who lost his life last Thursday in an automobile accident when in the prime of his life, was Cincinnati's popular war hero, a leader in civic affairs, a business man of highest ability and a man for whom the whole city had honor and respect.

He was killed instantly when an automobile in which he was riding with two other national officers of the American Legion plunged down a sixteen-foot embankment at Indianapolis, when the occupants of the car were hastening to make connections with a train.

PENNSYLVANIA HAS NEW DEAN OF WOMEN.

Denver Teacher Succeeds Miss Stimson, Who Will Go to Goucher.

Lexington, Ky.—Miss Myrna Boyce, Denver, has been elected to succeed Miss Dorothy Stimson, dean of women and professor of history at Pennsylvania College and will assume her new duties at the beginning of the next school year.

Miss Boyce has been head of the department of history in a Western college for two years. She is a graduate of the University of Iowa and has done graduate work at the University of Chicago.

She is the daughter of Prof. W. Boyce for many years head of the department of mathematics at Tulane University.

TESTS BEING MADE TO ERADICATE CATTLE T. B.

Lexington, Ky.—In order to assist farmers in isolated communities in eradicating tuberculosis from their dairy herds, the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture co-operating with the State Veterinary Department, the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry and county farm agents, has started a series of community tests in Wayne and Crittenden counties and made arrangements to carry the work into other counties, according to announcements made at the college. More than 325 animals including one or two cows from individual owners in four sections of Wayne county have already been tested while plans have been made to test 226 cows in Crittenden county. The College of Agriculture is being represented in the work by T. P. Polk, extension veterinarian.

A Chataqua will be held in Burlington on the High School campus Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 30th, July 1 and 2nd.

There has not been such coming and going in Burlington since the fire.

KEEP OUR SHIPS ON THE SEVEN SEAS

American ships, flying the Stars and Stripes will carry you and your goods anywhere

Two and three generations ago, the Stars and Stripes were all over the world. Then they almost vanished from the seven seas. But today they are back again.

Big splendid steamers, American owned and operated, carrying passengers and goods, are crowding their way into all foreign harbors with the Stars and Stripes proudly fluttering from their masts.

American exporters, importers, travelers—all can help by shipping and sailing under the Stars and Stripes.

JUNIOR FARMERS ARE TOLD HOW TO GROW SMALL FRUITS.

Lexington, Ky.—Points on growing, marketing and harvesting such crops as strawberries, red or black, raspberries and grapes are contained in Circular No. 98 which has just come off the press at the College of Agriculture and which is intended to be the guide for junior agricultural club members who are growing small fruits as their projects.

NEW CIRCULAR ON LINES POTATO GROWING POINTS.

Lexington, Ky.—It is seldom practicable to hold tubers from the first crop of potatoes for seed and for this reason the seed crop is usually planted from the middle to the latter part of July, according to Circular No. 100 which has just come off the press at the College of Agriculture and which is intended to be a guide for junior agricultural club members who are growing spuds as their club projects. The publication may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

LAYING RATION IS BEST FOR POULTRY ON RANGE.

Lexington, Ky.—Best results in feeding growing poultry stock on range are obtained by giving the birds a regular laying ration, according to results obtained by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. The ration fed was composed of a grain and mash feed, the mash being made up of 100 pounds of bran, 100 pounds of shorts, 100 pounds of corn meal, 100 pounds of ground oats and 100 pounds of tankage. The grain feed was made up of 300 pounds of cracked corn and 200 pounds of wheat. The mash was kept before the chicks at all times in a self-feeder thus allowing them to eat whenever they were hungry and saving much time and trouble. The grain was fed both night and morning. In addition to the dry mash which was given to the birds, oyster shell, grit and coarse ground bone were always available.

WHO GETS THE DIFFERENCE?

Cincinnati are paying thirteen cents a quart for milk. Farmers and dairymen are receiving only 5½ cents a quart for it. This leaves a difference of seven and one-half cents on each quart of milk handled and delivered to the homes in Cincinnati.

Investigation yesterday of prices and margins of profit revealed this great difference and showed how the consumers are forced to pay more than the total original cost to the companies acting as middlemen in Cincinnati, and how they are being made to pay a delivery and handling charge that in percentage is greater probably than any other commodity or food product on the market.

TIERSE THOUGHTS FOR BETTER BUSINESS.

Don't spend a few dollars on advertising and then say, "Advertising doesn't pay." Advertising does pay. The right kind of newspaper advertising pays best of all. Advertising is the artillery of business—long-range selling. Never misrepresent your goods. Make your advertising your "Store News." Every up-to-date store has "news" for the public. Put your personality into your ads. Use simple words and short sentences.

L & N DEPOT AT WALTON ROBBED BY NEGRO.

About 10 p. m., Monday night a negro with a pistol approached the agent of the L. & N. Railroad, R. L. Stephenson, and required him to open the money drawer, where he got about $20.00. The negro then fired the agent, and R. M. Colender who was with him, to walk ahead of him down the railroad track. The negro then disappeared and Messrs. Stephenson and Colender notified a number of the citizens who searched the neighborhood but no trace of the negro could be found.

SLACKER FINES PAID

By Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll—Cell Averted in Conspiracy Case.

Philadelphia — Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of the Bergdoll brothers, convicted army deserters, saved herself and her four co-defendants charged with conspiracy to aid Grover C. and Erwin R. Bergdoll to evade army service, from going to jail by paying $23,000 in fines which recently were imposed by the United States District court here.

A certified check drawn by Chas. A. Bruann, one of Mrs. Bergdoll's sons who changed his name because of the notoriety given the name Bergdoll by Grover, was given to the Clerk of the Court "under protest."

It is understood appeal from the conviction will be taken.

Judge J. M. Lansing was operated on Monday at Speers Hospital, Covington, for double hernia. He found the operation nicely and at last account was doing as well as could be expected. His many friends in the county wish for him a speedy recovery.

Briefly, the object of the Bostonian Food Company after the most thoro investigation of the probable demand for its product in consideration of the estimated cost of the undertaking and source of supply of the needed farm product, it is the company's object to cooperate with the farmers in order to do away with the middleman. By this method the farmer can realize more for his product, and the company will be in a position to sell at a lower price to the consumer.

The Bostonian Food Company, Inc. has spent a considerable amount of money for advertising and has opened a plant at Erlanger, Ky., for the manufacture of Ye Olde Time Baked Beans, Tomato Catsup, Pickles, Potato Chips, Preserves, etc. We have travelers on the road selling baked beans for which we have considerable demand, in glass jars. In the near future, we can add other food lines. Our principal object is, to interest farmers in our company in order to contract for beans, tomatoes, etc., from our own share holders.

Our aim is to put more stock on the market for the purpose of enlarging our plant. The Company can act as brokers in disposing of their other products. We want to call your attention to the fact that our Baked Bean business will pay all overhead expenses and make a profit. If interested cut and mail to the Co. one of the requests.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT.

Kentucky's wheat crop now promises 7,607,000 bushels compared to a prospect May 1, 1921, for 7,851,000 bushels, according to the June crop report issued today by the U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimates in co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna. The condition of the State's wheat crop dropped from 93 per cent May 1 to 87 on June 1. Last year the condition June 1 was 65 per cent and the final yield turned out 5,610,000 bushels, while the 5-year average, 1915-19 inclusive, was 9,878,000 bushels which included the increased war acreage.

Oats are doing fairly well in most counties, on a good acreage. The condition is 84 per cent of normal and the acreage about 346,500, indicating a production of about 7,859,000 bushels, compared to 8,225,000 bushels produced last year from 350,000 acres which showed a condition of 90 per cent June 1, 1920.

Rye condition is 91 per cent of normal. With about 38,000 acres in the state to be harvested for grain this indicates a production of about 484,000 bushels compared to 480,000 bushels produced last year.

Dr. S. B. Nunnally and Miss Selma Brill, were married at the residence of B. C. Gaines and wife at 11.30 a. m. Friday, June 10th, 1921. Rev. Tomlin, pastor of the local M. E. church performed the ceremony.

Ants Threatens Structure.

Wichita, Kan.—Hordes of ants, driving upward from the earth through mud tubes, are threatening destruction to the $100,000 Exchange building at the stockyards here. Oak lumber stored under the building had been practically consumed, and the ants have driven their way up along pipe lines to the wood work of the west end of the structure, which they have tunneled as far as the second floor.

Washington entomologists have identified the ravaging visitor as an Australian or South American ant which driven in armies, overwhelming in time any wood structure in its path. The cattle at the stockyards seem to be free of attacks.

An attempt to stop activities of the pests by placing fly paper in their path was frustrated when the ants built a dirt bridge across the obstruction and continued their operations. By insulation and shutting off the ants' return to the ground, it is hoped that the army will

PEACE—BUT UNDER VERSAILLES TREATY.

It seems that the much denounced Treaty of Versailles is to be the basis of peace between the United States and Germany, after all. Chairman Porter of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, has rewritten the Knox resolution which now declares the state of war at an end, cutting out the proposed repeal of the war declaration, provided all of our rights and interests are protected as stipulated in the Treaty of Versailles and the treaty with Austria, invoking the protection and benefits of the treaty rejected by the Republican Senate.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

"For Sale—My body and soul for a chance to work. I was wounded in France."

The advertisement in a local news paper brought the attention of Lecksville, Ky., to a face with the might of disabled and unemployed veterans. The soldier, Fred C. Rainier, of Birmingham, Ala., twice wounded while serving with the Rainbow Division, was taken in charge by his comrades in Louisville posts of the American Legion. He was formerly a deputy sheriff in Birmingham.

Seventeen posts of the American Legion and thirty-three units of its Women's Auxiliary were chartered during the week ended June 4, Legion national headquarters has announced.

Learning that blood transfusion was necessary to save the life of Weldon A. Crawford, veteran of the World War, struck and seriously wounded by a street car in Jackson, Miss., the local post of the American Legion asked for volunteers from its membership. Within a few hours twelve Legionnaires had responded and the transfusion was completed. The veteran will recover.

"Your presence is desired at Police Headquarters."

Former soldiers of Tampa, Fla., who received this notice signed by the chief of police lost at in reporting. The chief, an enthusiastic member of the local post of the American Legion, employed this unusual method to impress upon the ex-service men the needs of their post. More than 200 veterans were locked up in an office before the chief explained himself.

Citizens of Robinson, Ill., are rallying to the support of the American Legion post there which is endeavoring to rescue a deserted cemetery near the city. The Legion men found that three soldiers of the War of 1812 were buried in the abandoned plot. Markers will be placed over the graves of the long-forgotten veterans and the cemetery reclaimed from the wilderness surrounding it for many years.

Rows of white wooden crosses, replicas of those which mark the graves of France where American soldiers sleep, used in Madison, Wis., to advertise a Chinese relief drive, were removed upon the representations of the local American Legion post. The Legion members demonstrated their sympathy for the starving Chinese by subscribing to a fund but they remonstrated against cheapening the sentiment attached to their buddies' graves.

The only wearer of the Congressional Medal of Honor in Oklahoma is Harold L. Turner, adjutant of the 8th post of the American Legion in Seminole. Mr. Turner captured fifty Germans and four machine guns by charging the nest single handed when his platoon had been reduced to four men near St. Etienne on October 8, 1918, according to his official citation. He will be a guest of honor at the third annual national convention of fall.

The American flag is henceforth to be draped about the caskets of all ex-service men dying in hospital in this country, as a result of conferences between members of the American Legion's national legislative body and the U. S. Public Health Service and Director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. A Treasury Department ruling has now been obtained whereby the purchase of a flag for this purpose will be permitted as a part of the funeral expenses defrayed by the Government.

IDLEWILD.

Mr. Pink Rice continues gravely ill.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Martin have returned from a pleasant trip thru Central Kentucky.

Mr. Edwin Gaines of Milwaukee, was in the neighborhood the past week visiting his relatives.

Mrs. Kate S. Jones has returned to her home in Ludlow after a brief visit with her cousin, Mrs. Ben S. Houston.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Cropper, of Bullittsville, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Chester Grant and Mr. Grant.

A number of light rains have fallen in the past ten days, and though a light season, a great deal of tobacco is set.

Miss Maud N. Asbury is a member of the 1921 graduating class, one hundred and forty strong, at State University this week.

J. S. Asbury is in Lexington attending commencement week at State University. He is the guest of his son C. T. Asbury and Mrs. Asbury.

The remains of Benjamin S. Houston who departed this life June 2nd, were laid to rest in the Petersburg cemetery last Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Randall spent Sunday in Erlanger with their kinship, Mrs. Harriet A. Taylor. Mrs. Taylor and her accomplished daughter, Miss Anna, were former Boone county people but have purchased property in Louisville, and will make that their future home.

SAVING OUR OWN SKINS.

The ambassador of this country to England recently expressed the opinion that the American people entered the war merely to save themselves. The people who know best what the United States was fighting for, are the soldiers. Since the speech referred to was made, a great many soldiers have risen to say that the ambassador did not represent them. They feel that they were fighting to save the world from a terrible curse, and that the desire to save their own country was only one element.

In every army camp, the war was preached as a noble crusade, a movement to free the world from autocratic tyranny. The soldiers were told about the bloodthirsty acts of the German tyrants, and the outrages committed upon the women, the merciless attacks upon non-combatants. They were exhorted to go to the rescue like the knights of old. While the necessity of defending the rights of America was made prominent, an unselfish and idealistic vision of the conflict was tremendously powerful in inspiring the millions of fellows who gave up all both to serve their country and to save the world.

The Republican press has generally applauded the remarks of their representative to Britain. Thereby they fail to interpret the heart of the American Expeditionary forces. The soldiers who fought with a noble and unselfish purpose, with a broad conception of crusading spirit, do not like the thought that they were fighting merely for self protection, legitimate as that ideal may be. They know they offered their lives to serve humanity. The party and administration that takes this narrow view of our relations to the world, is likely to be selfish in all its dealings with the problems of daily life. The party that misinterpreted the purpose of the soldiers in the war, will misinterpret their desires and purposes in the time of peace.

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS.

The high school building at Lyons, New York, was destroyed by fire, one night this week. The property loss is $200,000. The lives of two entrapped students of the institution were sacrificed.

The cause of the fire was a lighted cigarette stub thrown by a heedless, lawless smoker into a waste basket. The blaze set fire to Yuletide decorations.

The high wind carried sparks that set fire to nearby buildings. Only for the fortunate intervention of a downpour of rain was a conflagration prevented.

Some day a fire prevention promoter or a cigarette foe will compile a list of the more important losses of property and the list of lives traced to the carelessness of smokers. It would make an appalling story.

If ever there is a ban put upon the use of tobacco, it will be because of the deadly and increasing peril of careless smokers. It will be for the necessary purpose of delivering the American population from the waste and tragedy of criminal carelessness in this connection. It will be to save millions of dollars of property value and hundreds of precious lives from those smokers who lack a sense of responsibility and do not have the sense to know the deadly relation existing between the lighted cigarette or cigar stub, or the match with which they have lighted the cigarette, cigar or pipe, and fire destruction.

There should be a law that would teach the careless smoker responsibility, and that would help eliminate him as a nuisance and a peril.

CENSUS REPORT.

The census report shows that from 1910 to 1920, value of farm property has increased as follows:

Land $566,288,063
Buildings $103,411,501
Implements & Machinery 27,503,011
Livestock 40,900,622

During this period the land increased 116 per cent, Buildings 68 per cent, implements 131 per cent and livestock 34 per cent.

The average farm in Kentucky consists of 79.9 acres valued at $5,587 and has farming implements and machinery for cultivating the land valued at $179.00 and contains livestock worth $85. The average value of land alone in Kentucky is $48.62 per acre.

Kentucky reports 514,917 dairy cows, including heifers one year old, and also 409,834 cows kept for milk. These figures represent an increase of 25.6 per cent while cattle for beef show an increase of 33 per cent.

THE "KING'S" ENGLISH.

A colored woman one day visited the court house in a Tennessee town and said to the judge:

"Is you-all the reprobate judge?"

"I am the judge of probate, mammy."

"I come to you-all 'cause I've been in trouble. My man—he's done died, defuncted and I've got three little infidels, so I've come to be appointed der excecotoigner."

The popular idea of a fair umpire is the one who gives all doubtful decisions to the home team.

WHERE TO BOOST YOUR OWN PRODUCT.

In a country town.
In a farmer's cooperative store.
In the heart of a dairy community.

In what is perhaps the nation's greatest dairy state, a product is being advertised and sold in large quantities it is helping to keep down the prices of dairy cattle, milk, and other dairy products. This product is "Mammoth," and the farmer is said to be the best customer. Unfortunately, this condition is not limited to one town but is common to the entire state. Dairy men should get back of their own product. It has no substitute as a food.

Produce clean milk.
Use more milk.
Use butter and cheese freely.
Fight filled milk.
Feed more milk on the farm.
In this state, farmers, townsmen, city men—everybody should boost the products of our farmers. When the farm products of a state are in good demand and bring a good and reasonable price, that whole state is prosperous; the vast majority of citizens are individually prosperous, you among the rest.

THREE CAUGHT THE SAME FISH.

H. T. Robinson and T. H. Pinkerton felt a craving for fish, so they went to what is known as "The Dust Hole" near Burton's Mill on Chaplin River. They met with the usual fisherman's luck until Mr. Pinkerton felt a heavy draw on his line and began to haul it in, cautiously, until he could see a big jumper playing about on the end of the string. As he jerked it from the water the line broke several feet up, and the catch made off with the hook, sinker and cork. Later Messrs. Robinson and Pinkerton again went after the finny tribe at the Dust Hole and strange to say, the jumper, not satisfied with one experience, decided to try Mr. Robinson's hook. Its investigation led it into the toils again, and when it was landed the two men were dumfounded to find Mr. Pinkerton's hook still in its mouth, with the sinker and cork trailing intact. He carefully strung it and tethered it to the bank by the little steel rod at the end of the string. In its struggles for release the fish dislodged the rod and swam off. But the end is not yet. The other day Chester Sanders sought the Dust Hole for a piscatorial spree, and again the guileless jumper fell a victim. Mr. Robinson's string and little rod were still hanging in its gill, but this time the catcher took no chances. He built a fire on the banks of Chaplin and cooked and ate that fish.

THIS BIRD HAD REAL TEETH.

Lived 25 Million Years Ago And Chewed Its Food Says Museum Curator.

Lawrence, Kan.—One of the two known specimens of bird's teeth was found in the chalk beds of western Kansas and has been preserved at the University of Kansas museum, according to Curator H. T. Martin, who found the specimen.

The other is at the Yale university museum. The Kansas fossil is of the cretaceous period, about 25 million years ago and includes ten teeth.

It is the most complete specimen that has been preserved. The bird was of the Hesperornis family, was five feet long, had a short vertebrae tail and possessed no wings. It was a marine bird.

The specimen is more valuable than any other, because it gives a clear idea of the semi-plumaceous feathering covering that the bird possessed. No other brown specimen gives this evidence.

Me-o-my, how you'll take to a pipe—and P. A.!

Before you're a day older you want to let the idea slip under your hat that this is the open season to start something with a joy's jimmy pipe—and some Prince Albert!

Because, a pipe packed with Prince Albert satisfies a man as he was never satisfied before—and keeps him satisfied! And, you can prove it! Why—P. A.'s flavor and fragrance and coolness and its freedom from bite and parch (cut out by our exclusive patented process) are a revelation to the man who never could get acquainted with a pipe! P. A. has made a pipe a thing of joy to four men where one was smoked before!

Ever roll up a cigarette with Prince Albert? Man, man—but you've got a party coming your way! Talk about a cigarette smoke; we tell you it's a peach!

Prince Albert is sold in every red bag, tidy red tin, handsome glass and half pound tin humidor and in the ground crystal glass humidifier with sponge moistener top.

ACETYLENE PLANT STOOD THE BURLINGTON FIRE.

NOTICE.

To Whom It May Concern:

I bought a acetylene Star light plant from Mr. Jacob Hicks in the year of 1920, and it gave me perfect satisfaction. My store and stock of goods burned June 7, 1921, and the light plant was six feet from the building, and the fire fell all over the tank, and it stood it as if nothing had happened. I will put the same plant back in the new building when completed, and will say it is one of the best, safest, cheapest light plants any one can install. The cause of the fire was from a gasoline stove exploding in the upstairs while the lady was getting dinner. I consider the light plant fire-proof.

INTEREST IN CIVIC MATTERS.

The average American citizen votes at his municipal election at certain regular periods, then thinks no more about public business unless some thing comes up to kick about. Then he finds fault good plenty. But he has not himself made any contribution of wisdom to the solution of local problems. He passed the buck over to the elected officials, and did nothing to help them.

In an ideal community people would all feel that they wanted an active share in public business. They would hold meetings to discuss matters of public interest. After such discussion they would pass resolutions to express their sentiment, and appoint committees to make sure of some definite result. If hearings were held by public boards to get the popular view on any public question, they would attend those hearings and express their opinions freely.

Many of the faults of public administration occur because the public has not made clear what it wanted. Public officials want to do what the people want done, but they have no means of knowing what the community desires. A suggestion of what can be done in either a large or small place to interest the public in municipal affairs, is found in the city of Philadelphia, in an organization called the Bureau of Municipal Research. This association is now working for cleaner streets, higher pay for teachers, better water supply, justice for the poor in the city's courts, and it used its influence to keep the tax rate down.

STUDENT SPIRIT.

A college professor was saying the other day that foreign born boys who never had many advantages usually do surprisingly well if they succeed in getting into college. "They assume," he said, "that if a certain study is given them, it must be useful and helpful and has proved so through long experience. That induces them to put their best effort into it, and they get the ideas and benefit the study is capable of giving."

"American boys," he said, "are very apt in this matter to say they are from Missouri. They have to be shown. If you can convince them that a certain study will help them make money, they will go in for it with some spirit. But very frequently they can't see where it will help them, and they won't take anybody else's judgment about it. So they dawdle through much of their work, and fail to get the benefit of their courses. And that is one reason so many American boys, not merely college graduates, but Hi School fellows just the same, never show much general intelligence," says the professor.

THE TARIFF BILL DELAY.

It begins to look as if the American wool growers who can now clip enough wool off fifty sheep to buy a suit of "shoddy" clothes will have to wait for any expected relief from a new tariff schedule. The tariff was the one definite policy of the present administration, but even this has struck a snag by reason of the reported row over the wool schedule. A tentative schedule (K) was drawn up by a sub-committee headed by the grand panjandrum of high tariff, Chairman Fordney, which only resulted in a disagreement, and the U. S. Tariff Commission has been asked to draw up that schedule for the tariff bill. This, it is said, will take from three to six weeks, with the certainty of a long debate when the bill is framed.

While there is no denying the fact that the weather has been unseasonable in many sections of the State and particularly distressing to the interests of the farming element, yet we feel that there is but little cause for alarm concerning food for both man and beast. Through a Kind Providence our people have always been blessed with food and raiment and it would be base ingratitude now to question God's goodness.

HIS LIFE'S WORK O'ER

He Lays His Pen Aside to Rest--His Soul Takes Its Flight as the Gentle Breezes of a Sabbath Day Kissed the Earth.

Former Editor and Owner of the Boone County Recorder Passes Away After a Lingered Illness In the 73d Year of His Age.

NEARLY HALF CENTURY IN THE NEWSPAPER WORK

Shocked and saddened beyond measure was the town and community Sunday afternoon when it became known that W. L. Riddell, founder and former owner and editor of the Boone County Recorder for more than forty years, was dead. He passed away at his home in Burlington Sunday afternoon at three o'clock after a serious illness in the seventy-third year of his age. On account of bad health he retired from newspaper work last September, hoping to regain his health.

William Lewis Riddell was a son of John and Florida McKay Riddell, the former a native of Boone and the latter a native of Kenton county, both dying while he was but a youth.

He was born in Boone county in the brick building now owned by Ezekiel Rice, at the junction of the Burlington and Waterloo road with the Middle creek road on the 25th day of July, 1848. He was reared on the farm, and at the age of nineteen began teaching in the common schools of the county, which occupation he followed for two years. He came to Burlington in the early seventies, where he made his home until the death summons came.

W. L. Riddell was a leading, prominent citizen of the county and town in which he lived from his infancy, and served his people in many positions of honor and trust, and in all of them, served them with fidelity and ability.

It is with deep regret that all who knew him heard the news of his death. But he, full of honors, has paid the debt from which there is no exemption to any of us, and, sooner or later, we must all follow him. All honor to his memory.

His death has not only cast a shadow of gloom over the town in which he lived, but the county which he loved, and its people has been deprived of an able and faithful citizen, poverty and distress were left of a kind and sympathetic friend, and justice lost a devoted champion.

After moving to Burlington he engaged in the retail grocery business for three years, he served as deputy county clerk one year, and as deputy sheriff two years. In 1875 he began publishing the Boone County Recorder, which for many years was the only paper in the county, which he edited and published continuously until failing health caused him to retire. He was elected circuit clerk in 1880, and reelected in 1892. He was also Master Commissioner and Trustee of the Jury Fund up until the time he retired as circuit clerk.

He was married to Miss Carrie Pace, of Kenton county, in 1880, and to them were born two children, both dying in infancy. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and of the I. O. O. F., and was a leading spirit in all enterprises that affected the good of the town or county.

He leaves but one brother C. G. Riddell, of Rabbit Hash, and several nephews and nieces, and in his taking away they have lost a dear companion and counselor, and it is some solace to them to feel that the name honored, esteemed, and beloved is theirs. Sorrow for his loss did not come to them alone, but his loving wife has been left to go down the path alone without the dear companion and protector with whom she "climbed the rugged hill of life" for nearly a half century, as a loving and devoted help-meet. She has the sympathy of all in her bereavement, in which time only will dull, as it ever does, the keen edge of grief.

He was a man of singular uprightness and purity of character, of unquestioned honesty and integrity, he enjoyed the confidence and respect of all who knew him and held fast to the end the love of his many friends. Quiet in manner, dignified and somewhat reserved, he made an impression on all who knew him, and the esteem in which he was held by the people in the county in which he lived and died was attested to by the large crowd that attended his funeral.

His life's work was given to the Recorder, and in the years of its existence did much for the good of the county and community and the people among whom he lived. He printed a clean paper which stood high with the press of the State.

During an association of over forty years, in a business way, the writer never heard him speak an unkind word of his fellow man, nor did he ever see him turn down an appeal for aid.

There was in his make up the finer qualities and instincts which portray the southern gentleman, just enough of the old-fashioned frankness and cordiality to make you feel a freedom and confidence in his association, just enough of that genuine hospitality to give you the assurance of its naturalness and sincerity, and that hospitality bespoke itself through every hour, whether within the portals of his home or out in the walks of the world.

We look back fondly to the days of our association with such nobler souls, and the heart throbs in the deeper memory of their splendid existence, and in the days to come we will treasure the remembrance of their regard and good will.

He loved to be out in the open air, and when not busy in his office, he could be seen with some friend or friends motoring through the country. July 25th, 1920, he was in his birthplace, and took a last look at the hills and valleys over which he romped in childhood.

But "Will Riddell," as he was usually called, is no more with us, only the remembrance of his life is left to us, his tired and worn body sweetly sleeps 'neath the green sod in beautiful Highland cemetery.

Another home has again been made sad and lonely by death, but time rolls on like mighty river and in its swift course brings many, many changes. Some lives are made happier, some hearts lighter, while on the other hand some are made dark and dreary. To some all is sunshine and no shadows for awhile, but we must remember the words of the poet:

"There is never a day so sunny but a little cloud appears, There is never a life so happy but it has its time for tears."

Funeral services were conducted at the residence by Rev. David Blythe, Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, after which the remains were taken to Highland cemetery on the Dixie Highway, and laid in their final resting place in the family lot in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends.

The pall-bearers were G. C. Kreyll, W. A. Gaines, A. B. Rouse, Sidney Gaines, W. D. Cropper and B. B. Hume.

REDUCED TAXES.

The Republican party made the issue of government extravagance and high taxes very prominent in the last campaign. They talked about the way the Democrats had poured out money like water. The people rushed to the conclusion that if the could put those good Republicans in, the taxes would come down.

The Republican platform of 1920 was frank enough to say that the taxes could not be reduced. But the people do not read platforms. When the campaign orators groaned about high taxes and promised relief, the people took their words literally and voted Republican. Now that the responsibility of carrying out this pledge is upon them, the Republican leaders begin to feel that there is no possible way of getting these costs down for many years. It is one thing to criticize, and another thing to get in the game and do things any better.

Senator Smoot, the best financier on the Republican side in Congress, now says frankly "It is my opinion that federal taxes in the future must go up instead of down." If this opinion had been stated last fall by Republican speakers and newspapers, it is very doubtful if the country would have given Mr. Harding any majority at all. They thought they were going to get lower taxes, and now they are going to see their illusions shattered.

The United States has a debt of about $25,000,000,000 on which it must pay over $1,000,000,000 annual interest. And it must be accumulating the funds with which to pay off the principal. Also the burdens created by the war must be taken care of. The American people must be prepared to spend a very large sum in caring for the soldiers and educating them and in fulfilling the contracts entered into under the war risk bureau.

With these payments to meet, there can not be much progress at reducing taxes for many years. The people cherished one big misconception when they voted last fall, as time is now beginning to show.

PUTTING INCENTIVE INTO SCHOOL WORK.

If you look into the school rooms in some places, you would see tired and bored looking youngsters leaning on their elbows, trying or pretending to study, but not really doing anything.

If you visit corresponding schools in some places, you find children so keenly interested that they are willing to stay after school to finish their tasks. Manifestly the latter kind of school can accomplish two or three times as much for its pupils. What makes the difference?

One thing that creates this keen interest, is providing some form of hand work, to take part of the time of children who do not take easily to books. It is wonderful how you can awaken the dormant energies of a backward boy, by giving him some manual task that his undeveloped mentality can grasp and find pleasure in conquering.

HIS VISIT TO BURLINGTON.

322 Second Street, Covington, Ky.

Dear Sir:

I remember very pleasantly my visit to Burlington and read with interest the copy of your excellent journal of the 2nd inst., which you gave me.

I am enclosing some stamps and will ask you to send me the two succeeding issues of the Recorder--the issues of the 9th and 16th--the latter about the unfortunate conflagration which, I fear, reached the old home of the Perkins family.

Give my love and reverence to Miss Mary Thompson when you see her. I hope to see her and you, and other friends at some early time. Yours Fraternally, GEO. G. PERKINS, Cheva Chase, Maryland.

Candidates for the various offices are making a quiet campaign--rather upon the sly and order--quite different from the days when whisky governed as a rule, the result of elections in Kentucky. Men no longer go to the polls in a maudlin state of intoxication, but with a clear head and with a clear conscience. Their vote for their favorite candidate, who for their favor to the days of whisky buying votes and the consequent contamination of the ballot? God forbid such a possibility.

GOOD JOKE; FEW CLOTHES

He--Will you marry me? She--Do you think you could keep me in clothes? He--Well, partly. In you would not want to dress out of style would you?--St. Paul Dispatch.

As the warm weather progresses greater are the reasons for looking after the sanitary conditions of your premises. Only through such precaution can our people hope to escape an epidemic of disease.

FARM RESIDENCE

Destroyed by Fire--Building and Household Goods a Complete Loss.

Robert E. Grant, who resides on the Petersburg pike about three miles from Petersburg, lost his residence by fire Thursday morning, June 16, 1921, at five o'clock. The fire started from a kitchen flue which had been rebuilt only a short time ago. Mr. Grant made a fire in the kitchen stove and the fire spread to the barn to milk, and his wife started to get breakfast, and as she opened the pantry door flames met her. The alarm was given and the neighbors from far and near responded but too late to save the building, and only a dresser and a few other articles of furniture were saved. Good work was done by those present in saving the barn and other outbuildings. Mr. Grant carried $1,100 insurance on the house in the Boone County Mutual Fire Insurance Co., which was not over one-third of the loss.

THE EXIGENCIES OF WORK

Some one was telling the other day of a typical instance showing how many folks fail to meet the situations that arise in their work. A girl was put on to operate an addressing machine. She seemed to run the machine perfectly well. In about two hours she reported that it did not print well. Examination showed that one of the machine parts had got loose. Meanwhile the girl had run through a large number of envelopes and many of them were so faintly printed that the address was illegible. It never seemed to occur to her that the printing had to be clear, or it was of no use.

The managing editor of a large newspaper was speaking recently of the reason why so many fellows do not succeed in journalistic work. "They can not adjust themselves to a new idea," he said, "but work along in a routine way. Take the job of making up our paper. It is necessary of course to feature the big news prominently. The ordinary type of man will make up his mind early in the day which news stories to feature prominently, and will write his headlines and arrange his page to fit that plan."

"Then about an hour before we go to press, something really big will often break loose. But the fellow can't adjust himself to the new idea. He goes ahead with his plans already formed, and lets the really big news take a subordinate place. As the result the paper gets the reputation of not covering the big things the way it ought to."

To make a success in life people must learn to adjust themselves quickly to new ideas. Business education ought to give them some kind of exercise in this way, something should come up requiring a complete change in their plans and arrangements, so they could get this idea of promptly meeting the exigencies that arise in every man's job.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS.

In flush times business men think the good conditions will last a long time and they buy much ahead of their needs. Then when business slacks down a little they find they are overstocked.

Many business men in dull times get discouraged and think good conditions will not come for years. They allow their stocks to run way down, neglecting the excellent chances to buy always occurring--such periods. Then one day they wake up and find their stocks very low and they cannot supply the public demand. Then all at once they begin to holler for more goods.

That is probably about the way it will be before cool weather comes again. The merchants of the country have been operating on the surplus stocks they accumulated in 1920. When those get a little lower business will revive before you know it. The public would better watch the advertising in the Recorder to note the many chances now existing to buy.

Mrs. Emma Cleek Dennigan.

Mrs. Emma Dennigan, wife of Elmer Dennigan, of Beaver Lick neighborhood, died last Friday morning, June 17, 1921, at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, Ky., following an operation for appendicitis. Mrs. Dennigan accompanied her husband to the different cemeteries of the county May 29th, at which the American Legion held memorial services, and on Tuesday following she suffered an attack of appendicitis, but she had apparently recovered when she had another attack last Wednesday afternoon. She was immediately taken to the hospital and operated upon Thursday morning and lived about twenty-four hours. Mrs. Dennigan was a daughter of John Cleek and was born and spent all of her life near Beaver. The entire community extends their sympathy to the husband, relatives and friends of the deceased.

A HANDY MAN.

A farmer is not a man who merely decides to have corn, wheat and potatoes. Instead of wild grass, grow on a certain piece of land, and plants the seed that will produce them.

In point of fact, more knowledge and skill are required for producing his craft than that of any city artisan. It requires more skill to handle a plow than a shovel. It is more difficult to manage a reaping machine than a machine that turns out a brick. Greater knowledge is needed to sow grain than to move switches in a freight yard. Much more information, experience, and skill are needed to raise tobacco plants, to cultivate them, and properly to cure the leaves that are to make them into cigars. Laying drain tile is a more difficult art than laying brick. Properly to remove a fleece from a sheep demands as much dexterity as to shave the beard from a face.

The successful farmer is necessarily a skilled laborer. He is master, not of one trade, but of many, and a long time is required to learn each of them. He is also a merchant, and to be prosperous he must be a judge of the quality of many things, and know how to buy and sell them to the best advantage.

CENSUS REPORT.

The report of the United States census Bureau on the live stock situation in Kentucky showing that only 8 per cent of the more than 700,000 sheep in the state in 1920 were purebred or high grade points to a more serious condition than was indicated in the earlier surveys of the livestock field by the experts of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Reflections of this situation have been daily apparent in the shipments of lambs and sheep to the Bourbon Stock Yards in the last few weeks.

Where the disposition of buyers was to bid for the best offerings there was, apparent a slump in the disposition to purchase the inferior grade animals. This, buyers explained was due to finer discrimination shown by the consumers who were willing to pay well for quality but reluctant to take less than the best.

The result has been that those that had quality to offer made a good margin on their animals. According to W. S. Bell, president of the Louisville Live Stock Exchange no more important movement in the sheep field was anticipated than that for the production of better grade sheep. This action on the market points the moral to the purebred sheep campaign being conducted by the Louisville Livestock Exchange and the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association.

SHORT CROP OF MAPLE SUGAR AND SYRUP.

Fewer maple trees were tapped last spring than in any one of the last five years, and only about half as much sugar was made as during any of the preceding four years and about three-fifths as much syrup, owing to the unfavorable weather says the Bureau of Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture.

The average producer's price of maple sugar in the middle of April was 25.7 cents per pound, compared with 37 cents in the same month in 1920, and 26.9 cents in 1919, although above the 22.5 cents of 1918 and 16.3 cents of 1917. Maple syrup had the average price of $2.21 per gallon in April, about the same as the price of $2.92 in 1920 and below which were the prices of the preceding three years.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

It has been stated in many parts of the county that various people were to be my deputies if I am elected Sheriff.

In order to correct any mistakes along this line I desire to say that if I am elected Sheriff L. T. Utz of the Florence precinct and Herbert Snyder of the Petersburg precinct will be my deputies.

B. B. HUME.

ELECTED OFFICERS.

Boone Post No. 4, American Legion, at the regular meeting held Tuesday, June 14th, 1921, elected the following officers: R. T. McGlasson, Commander. Omer W. Cleek, V. C. J. C. Aylor, Adjutant. G. S. Kelly, Finance Officer. Rev. Garber Chaplain.

Last week a fire started in a residence in Walton caused by a defective coal oil stove, and the fire was confined to one room by the use of the pump and fire apparatus that they sent to the Burlington fire. If Burlington had had a pump as has Walton, the disastrous fire of June 7th would have been prevented.

Examination for teachers was held in Burlington High School building last Friday and Saturday. Thirteen applicants for certificates took the examination. Under the ruling of the State Supt. of Schools each subject must be completed on a fixed schedule.

KELLY REUNION.

Big Crowd Present and A Grand Day Spent.

One hundred and thirty-two members and friends of the Kelly family met at the home of J. Colin Kelly in annual reunion June 19th. Z. T. Kelly, who is the eldest member, of has family, has been instrumental in maintaining the close relationship of the family until it was possible for this large number to be with him on this day.

Those living outside of Boone county who were present included the following: Waldo, Lucinda, Martha and Hester Kelly, of Carrollton, Ky.; Henry Kelly and family, Geo. Kelly and family, Harvey Preble and family, Perry Barley and family, B. R. Ezehle, Geo. Shalton, Fredus Preble and wife, of Dillsboro, Indiana.

Those present from Rising Sun, Indiana, were:

Mrs. Isidore Fiske, S. N. Riggs and wife, H. S. Anderson and family, J. N. Perkins and Harrietta Perkins, J. M. Pate and wife, Will Craig and family, Robt. McConnell, Elizabeth Barbour, Donald Merrill, E. B. Rockefeller and wife.

Jennie Kelly Stanley and son, of Lebanon, Ohio.

Hester Ryle and Rose North, of Aurora, Indiana.

GUNPOWDER.

Dr. L. E. Rouse and family, of Ludlow, spent Saturday night and Sunday with friends in Big Bone neighborhood.

Ed. Slayback and family, of Crescent Springs, and Robt. Tanner and wife, broke bread with Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Zimmerman, last Sunday. Redmon Gossett and family spent Saturday night and Sunday with Cincinnati friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rouse entertained several of their city friends at dinner last Sunday.

B. A. Rouse and family dined with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Horton, last Sunday.

After a siege of about two weeks with a case of rheumatism, this writer is able to resume business again. Wheat is nearly ripe and the work of harvesting will begin in a few days.

A splendid rain fell here last Sunday which was very beneficial to the growing crops, and putting new life into all kinds of vegetation.

WOOLPER HEIGHTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seikman are the proud parents of a baby girl since June 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Walker entertained several of their friends and relatives Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Mylydia Utzinger, of Sand Run, visited Mrs. B. E. Aylor the past week.

Roscoe Akin spent Wednesday night with his aunt, Mrs. Edward Easton.

PAINTING OBLIVION.

"Paint me a picture of oblivion," Thus spoke the chief editor to the chief artist.

And the artist summoning all the aid he could find, began a picture—one that, if it realizes its full possibilities, should be one of the remarkable canvasses of the world.

Can you visualize oblivion? It isn't nothing. It is something that has become nothing. Looking at it in a little different light, it is the place to which something goes when it has become nothing. It is not chaos. It does not possess enough substance to become chaotic. It is—well, just oblivion. Specifically, it is the place to which the United States Department of Agriculture is consigning the scrub sire.

FARMERS' MEETING.

Farmers Union meeting will be held at Verona school house Saturday afternoon, June 25th. State Organizer E. B. Hognis will address the farmers and explain what the Farmers Union means to you, and you can see how you need the Union. Now Mr. Farmer, if you are interested in your farming as a business, you want to attend these meetings, get busy and see what other counties are doing.

As water is very scarce, our city should be very careful with fire during this hot dry weather. No rubbish should be permitted to accumulate or be burned on the streets.

When you don't like the town in which you live don't knock it, move out. It is easier for you to move than all the rest of the people who compose the town and do like it.

The suspicion exists that the girls who win the beauty prizes feel that it is not necessary for them to know how to make muffins.

Students in some schools not permitted to have automobiles, although they sometimes descend to give the teachers a ride.

The scant timber supply in this country does not seem an adequate reason for turning out quite so many wooden heads.

The June bride usually carries a shower bouquet of roses, while the old man later gets a shower bouquet of bills.

None of the kids has objected to the daylight saving movement on the ground that it makes meals come earlier.

BELLEVIEW.

Mrs. James Smith, Sr., is quite ill at this writing.

Andy Cook and family Sunday with J. J. Maurer and family.

The many friends of W. L. Riddell were grieved to learn of his death.

Mrs. J. E. Rogers is entertaining her sister and niece of Harrodsburg, Ky.

Miss Maud Ryle, of Latonia, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Coe.

Mrs. Harriet Stephens and Mrs. Belle Beemon are visiting Mrs. Eliza Riddell and daughter.

Rev. C. E. Baker and family have returned home after a visit with relatives in Campbell county.

Mrs. B. F. Rogers left for Kansas Sunday to attend the funeral of her son-in-law, W. W. Williamson.

The Missionary and Ladies Aid societies of the Christian church met with Mrs. E. W. Rice Thursday of last week.

After an extended visit with her aunt Mrs. W. W. Williamson of Kansas, Miss Jennie Rogers returned home last week.

R. W. Rice wife and son were called to North Manchester, Ind., on account of the death of Mr. Rice's brother-in-law, Mr. S. Smith.

Robert Brashier died at his home above town last Sunday. He is the father of Capt. James and Charles Brashier, who ply the Ohio river between Cincinnati and Louisville.

Word reached here Saturday of the death of Weed Williamson, of Kansas. He was a son of the late Dr. H. A. Williamson, and has a host of friends here who sympathize with his relatives in their sad loss.

The series of meetings that began at Bellevue Christian church June 6th, closed Saturday night, June 18. Rev. H. W. Veltus, of First Christian church Covington, conducted the services. He is a brilliant man and an earnest speaker and presented the truth in a powerful and impressive manner, and that he was appreciated was testified to by the large crowds that were in attendance each night and week.

His singing was one of the features of the meeting. He was a splendid leader and rendered some beautiful solos, also he and Mrs. J. W. Rogers favored the audience on two nights with a duet which was greatly enjoyed by all present. There were added to the church, namely: Mrs. F. M. Walton by letter, Miss Elizabeth Kelly and Allen Rogers for baptism.

GRANT R. D.

Cliff Sutton is spending a short vacation with his mother.

J. H. Walton shipped lambs last week which brought $7.25 a head.

Mrs. Jimmie Stephens is visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. H. Stephens.

Mrs. Hester O'Neal, of Aurora, papered the Baptist church last week.

W. G. Kite and Solon Ryle are hauling 65 cent corn from East Bend.

Paul Aylor and family were Sunday guests of his brother William Aylor.

Mrs. Etta Stephens and Mary Ann Merick who have been quite sick, are improving.

Mrs. Bluffe Clore and family visited her brother Clarence Ryle, at Georgetown, last week.

G. W. Walz returned to his home at Marietta, last Tuesday after a week's visit with relatives here.

Marguerite Hodges has returned from a week's visit with her uncle Reuben Hager and wife, of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Z. T. Stephens has returned home from Marion, Ind., where she was called by the illness of her brother, Tom Hankinson.

Mrs. Bessie Gant and children, who have been visiting relatives here, will leave this week for Nashville, their future home.

Mrs. Lizzie Stephens and Adie Scott, Mrs. B. W. Clore and Robert Hodges, were delegates to K. of P. Grand Lodge at Lexington, last week.

Quite a crowd attended the Kelly reunion at J. C. Kelly's Sunday. A beautiful lunch was spread under the trees on the lawn, and notwithstanding the rain everyone enjoyed the day very much.

The weather has been very warm here.

A few from here attended the ball game at Taylorsport, Sunday.

A large crowd attended the Kelly reunion at Z. T. Kelly's last Sunday.

A good many from Rising Sun attended the Memorial services at the K. of P. Hall Sunday week.

Charley Craig's folks, Roy Ryle wife and son and Mrs. Anna Ryle, spent Sunday with John Ryle and wife.

B. W. Clore and family spent last week in Georgetown visiting Dr. C. G. Ryle and wife, also attending the Grand Lodge in Lexington two days.

CARD OF THANKS.

We want to express to all the many friends and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent trouble, our deepest appreciation and thanks for all the consideration and help given us.

THE U. S. ROYAL CORD

A famous tire—and a famous tread. Acknowledged among motorists and dealers alike as the world's foremost example of Cord tire building. Always delivering the same repeated economy, tire after tire, and season after season.

The stripe around the sidewall is registered as a trade-mark in the U. S. Patent Office.

How you can measure tire value in 1921 —

"Any U. S. Tire is a universal full money's worth."

OFTEN it's surprising the number of different tire views that come out in a chance talk at the curb or in the leisure of a friend's garage.

Almost every day you come across the man human enough to believe he can outguess the cut-price tag on "job-lots," "discontinued lines" and "surplus stocks."

His opposite is the hard-pan car owner who sticks year in and year out to a standard brand as the only rational economy.

Many will remember the scarcity of U. S. Tires last year.

A hardship at the time, but a benefit now. There are no U. S. Tires to be worked off—no accumulations—no forced selling of any U. S. brand—no shipping of tires from one part of the country to another to "find a market."

There are 92 U. S. Factory Branches. Each one gets its share of U. S. Tires. There is a broad, constant, even distribution of U. S. Tires always going on from these Branches to the dealer.

Buy a U. S. Tire anywhere—in a community of 500 people or even less—and you get a fresh, live tire of current production—with all the original service and mileage the factory put into it.

The owner of a medium or light-weight car stands on equal ground with every other car owner.

Any United States Tire is a universal full money's worth—backed up with a leadership policy of equal quality, buying convenience and price for everybody.

"The different tire views that come out in a chance talk."

GROW TWO CROPS OF TURNIPS IN GARDEN.

Top Make Excellent Greens in Southern States.

If Sown in Drills May Be Stirred Between Rows and Plants Kept Growing Rapidly—Will Stand Considerable Cold.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Turnips are one of the most universally grown of all garden crops. In the northern states turnips are planted in midsummer and stored for winter use. In the southern states they are planted early in the spring for early summer use, also in the fall for use during the winter. Turnip tops make excellent winter greens throughout the greater part of the southern states. For early spring culture it is customary to sow the seed in drills about a foot apart and thin the plants to about three inches in the drill. By this method the soil may be stirred between the rows and the plants kept growing rapidly so as to attain reasonable size before the heated term of early summer sets in.

In the North it is customary to sow the seed broadcast about the 25th of July on land from which early peas, early potatoes, or some other early crop has been removed. The land is raked smooth and the small seeds simply scattered over the surface, then covered by again raking the soil. No cultivation is required where the seeds are sown broadcast.

In the southern states turnips are frequently destroyed by plant lice that suck the juices of the leaves. These insects are rather difficult to control, spraying with nicotine preparations being about the only remedy.

Turnips stand considerable cold, but those that are to be placed in pits or in the cellar for winter use should not be allowed to freeze before being stored. If they become frozen in storage, they should not be disturbed until they thaw naturally.

NO MORE NEED FOR INSURANCE.

The editor of the Eaton (Colo.) Herald suggests to his subscribers that in order that they may keep track of the expiration of their subscriptions they date their subscriptions on their birthday and make it a point to always come in and pay a year's subscription on their birthday. He adds:

"The beauty of this scheme is that you are bound to live for another year. No man ever died who was his subscription paid up. Nine times out of ten when a man dies he owes the editor for subscription. This will beat any old life insurance company."

VALUE OF FOOLS.

If the fool-killer were always on the job, few would live to grow wise, since most of us gain our wisdom through our experience in folly.

Many base ball batters give a winking nod should he succeed in being successful in mowing down the daisies in the hayfield, but it is not very effective in putting the ball into that empty space between the shortstop and the baseman.

Also the demand for sporting pants is said to exceed the request for overalls.

KENTON COUNTY FLOCK LEADS IN EGG PRODUCTION FOR MAY.

Lexington, Ky.—A flock of 401 White Leghorn hens owned by Jos. A. Anderson, Kenton county, led the State's 47 demonstration flocks in May egg production with an average record of 20.1 eggs a hen, according to an announcement made today by J. H. Martin, in charge of the poultry work of the College of Agriculture which is cooperating with the owners in conducting the demonstrations. A flock of 253 White Leghorns owned by John Reid, Daviess county, was second on the list with a record of 19.2 eggs a hen while a flock of 912 White Leghorns owned by A. J. Colver, Christian county, was third with an average record of 18.3 eggs a hen.

COME HOME.

Each week in sending out the Recorder to friends and patrons who are scattered over nearly every State of Uncle Sam's Domain, we wonder if they are in their present location, there to permanently remain, or as they older grow, will they long for the place of their childhood? Come home, dear friends, Burlington and other towns in the county will welcome you with open arms.

A fine shower of rain fell in this part of the county last Sunday.

INGALLS' TRIBUTE TO GRASS.

Beautiful Word Painting of Kansas Statesman That is Recognized as a Classic.

Lying in the sunshine among the buttercups and dandelions of May, scarcely higher in intelligence than the minute tenants of that mimic wilderness, our earliest recollections are of grass; and when the fitful fever is ended and the foolish wrangle of the market and forum is closed, grass leads over the scar which our descent into the bosom of the earth has made, and the carpet of the infant becomes the blanket of the dead. Grass is the forgiveness of Nature—her constant benediction. Fields trampled with battle, saturated with blood, torn again with the rust of cannon, grow green again with grass, and carnage is forgotten. Streets abandoned by traffic become grass-grown like rural lanes and are obliterated. Forests decay, harvests perish, flowers vanish, but grass is immortal. Belegged by the aullen hosts of winter, it withdraws into the impenetrable fortress of a subterranean vitality and emerges upon the first solicitation of spring. Sown by the wind, by the wandering birds, propagated by the subtle agriculture of the elements which are its ministers and servants, it softens the rude outline of the world. It bears no blazonry of bloom to exult in the senses with fragrance or splendor, but its humbly true is more valuable than the lily or the rose. It yields no fruit in earth or air, and yet should its harvest fail for a single year, famine would depopulate the world. From a "Collection of the Writings of John James Ingalls."

STATE UTILIZING ALL

U. S. ROAD AID.

All Federal Funds Available To July 1 Contracted For By Kentucky Board.

$6,800,000 IS TOTAL.

Frankfort, Ky.—All the Federal aid for highways available up to July 1 has been contracted for by the State Highway Commission, and contracts were sent to Louisville and forwarded from there to Chicago, the district office, whence they will be sent to Washington for the signature of the Secretary of Agriculture to the project agreements.

Contracts awarded bring the total Federal aid obtained by Kentucky in contracts under way or completed to $6,800,000. The total for the present year is $1,850,000 and another $1,953,000 remains to be tied up before July 1, 1922.

Three State highway contracts were let today. One was 2.5 miles of penetrating asphalt on the Manning Road from Middletown to the Tennessee line, where it connects with a road completed through to Knoxville. This was let to the Cordell-Byers Construction Co., Winchester, for $81,354.29. Bell county appropriates $37,000 toward it.

The last half mile linking Covington street with Latonia, will be of Kentucky rock asphalt on a concrete base. The contract was let to Metzger & O'Rearn, Covington, for $25,765. The project is half mile long. Kenton county has completed another half mile of the same material. It is on the Falmouth Pike and is a full-width street.

The Commission let four and three-tenths miles of grading and drainage on the Hartford-Owensboro road, Ohio County, to Costello Bros., & Mays, Knoxville, for $50,206.07. Ohio county contributes $20,000. It is part of a projected Owensboro.

PUBLIC CO-OPERATION.

In several recent issues the Recorder has tried to suggest some of the purposes entertained by a good community newspaper. It has tried to make it clear that a newspaper is not simply a business enterprise of the ordinary kind, but that it has certain functions to perform as a representative of the community.

It interprets that community to the outside world. Also it is its duty to ally itself with every force in the community working for progress. It must work to arouse public sentiment in favor of all advance movements, to distribute information that shall familiarize the public with such efforts, and try to convince the people that they should co-operate with projects formed for the good of the community.

No journal can perform these functions efficiently and thoroughly unless it has good public support and the backing of the people and the business men. The better financial backing a newspaper gets, the more actively it can work to help organize community movements, and to spread abroad in other places the impression that its home town is an advancing and wide awake modern town.

DESTROY ROADSIDE WEEDS.

Because—

1. They act as centers of weed infestation for adjoining fields.
2. They may be carried for many miles by passing vehicles and animals.
3. They harbor harmful insects and plant diseases.
4. They create insanitary conditions.
5. They are unsightly.

Methods for destroying roadside weeds, approved by specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture are:

1. Moving twice a year while they are in full bloom, usually in June and August.
2. Utilizing the roadsides for growing hay.
3. Grazing with tethered animals.
4. Converting weedy roadsides into lawns.

Grass all roadsides so the weeds can be controlled.

DEVON.

(Too late for last week.)
Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bristow, of Sharpsville, Ohio, entertained last Sunday week with a family reunion. There were twenty-seven present.

A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Saturday week and gave him a surprise. It happened on his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morten Peyer are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a son whom they have named Albert Raymond.

Will Haycock and wife, and Mrs. Hannah Miller, of Covington, were guests of friends here last Thursday week.

Certainly the town in which you reside and affords to you school and church privileges, has a right to expect that you at least speak kindly of it. Let it be a pleasure to you to say something good of your town, that the stranger who perchance may be in your midst may think well of your loyalty to your home surroundings. It pays, try it.

From present indications the United States seems to produce more ball bats than broom handles.

KEEP OUR SHIPS ON THE SEVEN SEAS

Importers, exporters, travelers — ship and sail under — the Stars and Stripes

NEW triumphs in steel, steam and electricity have carried the Stars and Stripes back again to the seven seas. On more than fifty trade and passenger routes American owned and operated ships, flying the flag, are ready to carry your goods, or to carry you, to every foreign land.

They are splendid ships, the pride of American genius, designed and equipped to give the finest passenger comfort, service and safety, and to handle your goods in the most economical way.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

Rev. John W. Inzer, national chaplain of the American Legion, has begun a six weeks speaking tour on which he will speak chiefly upon the subjects of Americanization and citizenship. The following cities are included in his itinerary: Nashville, Memphis, and Jackson, Tenn.; Little Rock and Pine Bluff, Ark.; San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene, Texas; Oklahoma City; Los Angeles; San Diego; San Francisco; Ore.; Salt Lake City; Denver, Topeka; Kansas City, Mo., and Paducah, Ky.

General Pershing, in a recent address at a banquet in his honor at Lincoln, Neb., said that "no plan for preparedness can be carried out without the support of the American Legion." The general subject of the toasts was "National Preparedness." Among the speakers were: Chancellor Avery of the University of Nebraska; Earl Cline, past state commander of the American Legion; Gen. Omar Bundy, commander of the Seventh Army Corps and Robert G. Simmons, department of commander of the American Legion.

The American Legion Employment Bureau at Los Angeles obtained employment for 1,662 former soldiers and sailors during the month of May. This number is about 500 less than the jobs obtained for former service men in April, but the reduction is ascribed to the continued bad weather in May and the marine strike.

John G. Emery, the new national commander of the American Legion, was born on the 4th of July forty years ago. His election, which was by acclamation of the National Executive Committee, took place at the National headquarters at Indianapolis. At the same time Thomas J. Bannigan, of Hartford, Conn., was elected vice-commander, succeeding Mr. Emery, who now fills the vacancy caused by the death of F. W. Galbraith, Jr.

Mr. Emery is a real estate operator. He has served as president of the Grand Rapids Real Estate board and as one of the commissioners of the city. He is president of the First Division Club. His military record dates from his entrance to the second officers training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., August 27, 1917. He attended various schools in France and was assigned to the 18th Infantry of the First Division. He commanded F. Company of this regiment in the Montdidier-Noyon and Amiens-Marne offensives and became a major September 1, 1918 following the St. Mihiel and Argonne offensives. He was severely wounded by shell fire October 9, and was immediately sent to the U. S. He was discharged from the hospital and from the army March 31, 1919. He has been active in the American Legion affairs ever since.

Mr. Bannigan, the new vice-commander has served as adjutant of the Connecticut department of the American Legion three years. During the war he served as a captain and is a member of the Legion's national committee on war risk insurance and compensation.

ONE-FIFTH OF SOILS ARE BADLY WASHED AND ERODED.

Lexington, Ky.—About one-fifth of the tillable soils in Kentucky or 2,500,000 acres for the State have become seriously washed and gutted with the result that their usefulness in producing crops has been greatly reduced, according to R. E. Stephenson, of the soils and crops department of the College of Agriculture. Much of the leaching and washing could have been prevented by the use of a winter cover crop, according to the specialist. A thickly seeded crop of rye or sod have been found to give soils protection from leaching and washing during the winter.

During the thunder storm early last Sunday morning lightning struck and killed a cow belonging to Ralback & Cloyd, near Harvest Home, it struck Courtney Pope's house near Union, and damaged it considerably, and a large locust tree on Henry Clor's place, on the road was completely destroyed.

WORLD PRICES LOWER FOR MEAT AND LIVE STOCK.

The recent declines in live stock and meat prices in the United States appear to be part of a world-wide movement toward lower price levels, say specialists of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. According to a report of the consul general at Auckland, recently received by the department, rump steak in New Zealand brought on April 1, 20 cents a pound; sirloin steak, 15 cents; corned brisket, 8 cents; legs of mutton, 11 cents; mutton chops, 13 cents; neck, and breast of mutton, 7 cents; side of mutton, 10 cents, and veal 9 cents. These prices are based upon the normal rate of $4.8655 to the pound sterling.

The report also shows that between March 1, 1920, and March 1, 1921, fine steers in New Zealand dropped $3.65 per 100 pounds, selling at $10.46; prime and choice steers, $3.25, at $9.49 to $10.21; plain and ordinary steers, $4.01, at $7.30 to $9.00; cows and heifers, $5.22, at $4.87 to $9.73. Best weathers lost $2.71 per head, selling at $4.82 to $7.47; ewes, 67 cents, at $3.89 to $6.98; lambs $1.82, at $3.40 to $6.44.

Comparisons of these prices with prices in American markets is impossible because of a difference in standards of grading in the two countries. For example, a choice steer in New Zealand might be placed in some other grade in the United States.

FALL CULLING CAMPAIGN TO COVER 100 COUNTIES.

Plans are being completed by the poultry department of the College of Agriculture for an extensive poultry culling campaign which will be conducted during July, August and September and which will cover approximately 100 counties in the State, according to an announcement made today by J. H. Martin, in charge of the department. The object of the demonstrations which will be given will be to show farmers and their wives how to distinguish between the heavy-laying and the "loafer" hen. The campaign will be a part of the poultry standardization work being carried on by the college.

Specialists from the department will spend two days in all counties having farm or home demonstration agents at which time demonstrations will be made on farm flocks in such a way that the farmers can go home and cull the non-laying hens from their own flocks. Demonstration also will be held in counties not having agents in which their is sufficient interest shown in the work.

A. S. Chapin, J. H. Bardaley, J. R. Smyth and Mr. Martin will conduct the demonstrations. Culling demonstrations were held in 47 counties last year at which time 11,200 birds were handled, one third of which were found to be "loafers."

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF BUSINESS ASSOCIATIONS

Business Men's Associations of the Chamber of Commerce type have had the strong and the weak points of the commercial community. Business men are engaged in the competitive management of industry, with personal reward as the motive. When they unite for advancement of the business of a city they show much the same characteristics that they do in their own daily labor.

They have the initiative and drive that goes with an individually owned enterprise. The competitive struggle develops the qualities of self help and impatience with delays and the tendency to measure the success of the effort in terms of money gain or loss. These qualities will appear in a well managed business man's organization, and they give it the power that accomplishes large results.

A good community organization, however, demands something more. It must manifest the spirit of co-operation and getting together, of harmony between business rivals, of tolerance of conflicting views. The organization must not expect its results can be wholly measured in terms of dollars and cents. It must work also for social happiness and welfare of the people and for service to all interests in the community.

A good many business men's organizations have failed to accomplish much, because they looked to commercial profit alone. If their money making enterprises happened to fall down, they had accomplished nothing for civic life, and the people would feel that their effort had been fruitless.

A broad and modern business man's movement will make civic advance and human welfare its first objective. When it attains that business gains will follow as a necessary incident.

PACKAGE GOODS VS. BULK GOODS.

While much has been said pro and con about the advisability of stocking bulk or package goods, I believe this article approaches the subject from a new angle.

Advocates of the "bulk idea" claim that package goods are the wasteful and that they increase the high cost of living. All of which may be very true, but—there are these factors to consider:

Suppose a customer asks for a half-pound of cakes in bulk. What does the grocer do? Simply this—go to his barrel or box, take out the required amount (he makes a bad guess most of the time) put them in a paper bag, walk over to the scale, adjust same, weigh them. That's all. Very simple, I don't think.

When package goods are called for the grocer reaches for the package and hands it to the customer, in a fraction of the time.

The difference in the time it takes to make the "bulk" sale could have been used to serve other customers. Thus increasing the merchant's opportunities for business.

If all the grocer's sales were as time-consuming as the one mentioned above, he would have to hire additional clerks (which is an expensive plan) to wait on his customers—or else let a portion of his trade go to the "other man's store" for service.

Most people don't like to wait. They want "what they want when they want it." The wise merchant knows this and naturally stocks nationally advertised package goods because they reduce the time in selling and satisfy better when they are sold.

THEY REMEMBER.

Chat—My remembers always those who aided the little French village in its hour of distress.

In a cablegram yesterday to Marcel Knecht, French High Commissioner, at New York, and relayed by Commissioner Knecht to Dr. Theodore A. Christen, French Consul in Cincinnati, the inhabitants of the little town request that a palm with a ribbon of the tricolor of France and an appropriate inscription be placed on the coffin of Colonel Galbraith in its behalf.

The inscription is to be: "To one of our bravest liberators, from the city of Chateau Thierry." The tribute is in recognition of the liberation of the town in July, 1918, by the American troops.

HOW MANY HENS?

The average novice can reasonably expect to get an average of at least 10 dozen eggs from each hen each year from his small flock in the back yard. On the basis of two hens to each member of the family this will give 20 dozen eggs a year to each person, which amount is about halfway between the average of farm and city consumption.

No backyard poultry keeper should be satisfied with less than this, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Every backyard poultry keeper should try to get as much more as possible.

To provide an egg a day for each person, hens would have to lay 183 eggs each a year.

The candidates are losing no time

ICE A LUXURY.

Fifty years ago it was considered a luxury to have ice for use during the hot summer months. Today it is a necessity and the visit of the ice man is a common occurrence in the average American home.

Refrigeration by means of natural ice and snow has been known for centuries. It is said that the Greeks and Romans packed snow in deep underground caves and managed to preserve it for use during the hot seasons of the year. Nero, no doubt, about the time he amused himself by burning two-thirds of Rome, established icehouses for his own convenience. At the end of the seventeenth century, dealers in ice and snow were quite common in France.

The modern ice industry began in the United States early in the 19th century with the transportation of ice in sailing ships from cold northern to warm southern ports. The first cargo was cut from a pond near what is now Canal St., New York City, and shipped to Charleston, South Carolina. During the winter of 1805-06, Frederick Tudor of Boston, entered the ice field in earnest, and after some heavy losses, succeeded in building up a paying export trade in ice that was the beginning of the industry.

It has been during the last fifteen or twenty years that the artificial ice industry has attained the prominent position it now holds. Ice was manufactured in Cleveland fifty years ago, but at that time manufactured ice was looked upon as somewhat of a joke and the fellow who attempted to make it usually had a hard row to hoe. And there evidently was some system for ice delivery about the time of the Civil War for Philip Bishop, one of the old ice pioneers, left his ice wagon standing on Eagle Street when he went to enlist in the army.

TWO KINDS OF SELLING.

Many salespeople induce people to buy things they don't want. In the palmy days of the book agents for instance, a lot of people had shelves filled with volumes that they never read. Some canvasser filled them up with his loquacious talk, until finally they bought to get rid of him.

The true idea of salesmanship, is to help people find what they want. A big hardware merchant, says Fred C. Kelly in "The Nation's Business" recently said that he was going to require the man on his garden tool department to make a study of horticulture and become an authority at it. "If he knows all about each kind of garden seed" he said, "if he can tell when to plant it and how to cultivate it, a great many people will come in and buy from him. They may not think I have any better stuff than my competitors. But they will feel they get valuable information."

Now if that garden tool man will not merely read up on the subject, but if he will plant a good sized garden this year, cultivate it according to the best scientific information he can get, and carefully note all results, and keep it up for several years, he will be in a position to give more valuable advice. He would probably sell three times as much stuff as a fellow who had equally good merchandise, but had no special information to give out.

VALUE OF PURE BREDS CONSPICUOUS.

The value of purebred live stock say specialists in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is most noticeable in those cases in which the capability of the animals is measured most directly. Among farm animals the best illustration is to be found in dairy cattle, though careful veterinary tests of milk and butterfat production are relatively recent affairs. The enormous differences among the dairy cows when given the same opportunity have been brought out, and these differences are strongly inherited through both the sire and the dam. The average production for purebreds and grades is much above the average of milk cows, which is about 4,000 pounds of milk and 160 pounds of butterfat annually.

MIGHT ASK THEM THESE.

(El Paso Times).

Thomas Edison might ask his young college graduates these questions, which sooner or later, they must learn to face nightly as their eager feet enter the home portal: Did you order the coal?

Where were you when I telephoned your office and they said you were out?

Did you mail that letter I gave you this morning?

How did those theater ticket stubs get into your pocket?

Why don't you buy more than one collar button?

How could you dance with that awful cat? Know I despise her.

Who is the "Babe Ruth" person you appear so interested in?

Why don't you buy a new hat?

Have you any regard at all for how you look?

Where did you get the idea you can roll home for dinner any old time and find it steaming hot?

Quick, satisfactory answers to these questions will qualify any man for a degree as Bachelor of Domesticity.

FIRE SUBSCRIPTION

Amount Received and How Disposed Of—Letters Acknowledging Receipt of Funds.

The citizens of Burlington generously subscribed to a fund to present to the different fire companies that responded so promptly to our call for assistance during the fire that destroyed an entire block June 7th, and without their assistance other parts of our town would now be in ruins. This fund was sent to the fire departments and acknowledgment of the same follows:

City of Cincinnati
June 17, 1921.

Mr. A. B. Renaker,
Burlington, Ky.
Dear Sir:

Your kind letter enclosing check in the sum of $100.00, donation to the Widows' and Orphans' Fund of the Firemen's Protective Association has been handed to Mr. Wm. Hilsinger Secretary, this day. Kindly accept the most sincere thanks from myself and members of the department for this donation as the same is most heartily appreciated.

BARNEY J. HOUSTON,
Chief Fire Department.

City of Covington,
June 23, 1921:

Mr. W. D. Cropper,
Cashier Boone County Bank,
Dear Sir:

I received your check for $100.00 and placed same to the credit of the Firemen's pension fund. I wish to thank you and your good citizens for this donation and at any time we can be of any service to your citizens just call.

Yours Very Truly,
Edward A. GRIFFITH,
Chief Fire Department.

Cincinnati Firemen's Protective Association,
Cincinnati, Ohio, June 20, 1921.

Mr. A. B. Renaker,
Cashier Peoples Deposit Bank,
Dear Sir:

Check for $100.00 sent from town to Chief Houston was turned over to me today and same has been placed to the credit of the Widows and Orphans Fund of the Association.

In behalf of the Fire Laddies of Cincinnati, we desire to extend to you the unanimous vote of thanks from our Association for your kind donation, which will be always gratefully remembered by the entire membership.

Respectfully Yours,
WM. HILSINGER, Secy.

SETTLEMENT OF FIRE FUND SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Paid Cincinnati Fire Dept...$100.00
Paid Covington Fire Dept...$100.00
Paid Walton Fire Dept...$33.50
Paid Erlanger Fire Dept...$15.00

Total...$248.55

None of the above companies made any charge for their services but the citizens of Burlington desired to show their appreciation any way by making these donations.

The Covington and Cincinnati Departments will place their donation in the Firemen's Protective Association for the benefit of the widows and orphans of members of the Fire Department.

Erlanger and Walton will use their donation in securing extra fire equipment.

The citizens of Burlington are very grateful to every one who rendered such valuable services at the fire.

ANGLING BAUGH-LYONS.

Dee Forest Lyons, 44, and Edith E. Angnbaugh, 40, of Medina, O., obtained a marriage license at the county clerk's office last Thursday, and were married by Rev. C. C. Omer. These people motored from Medina to Burlington as the bride desired to be married in Kentucky. Announcement cards had been printed which were mailed immediately after the ceremony.

ROBERT POPE.

The Death Angel has again visited our community and taken from our midst the dear little son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Pope, aged 1 year, 9 months and 21 days. All that loving hands and tender hearts could do was done to ease the precious little life but God knoweth best and he was called to the Great Beyond Tuesday, June 7th, 1921.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and many friends for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our darling baby. Also Bro. Baker for his comforting words at the grave and those who gave floral gifts.

COUNTY HEALTH BOARDS.

The tendency was to leave the protection of the public health largely to state authorities. Local boards of health were not commonly regarded as important. They were paid little attention and they did little. Now all over the country there is a movement to organize municipal health departments with the same efficiency considered necessary for school, police and highway work, and to start county movements to promote ideas in the rural districts.

After your public officials have done everything possible in the way of health regulation, then you must depend on the co-operation of the people. Where there are many families that live in a carelessness way, it takes a lot of propaganda to remove disease germs.

No matter what precautions you take, if you have people who spit in the public streets, who take no pains to keep garbage and manure covered, who permit flies to swarm unchecked through their dirty homes you have a disease peril always existing that no amount of public health efficiency can offset.

Splendid work is being done in many localities to promote health information and ideas among the common people. In Morgan county, Alabama, for instance, they have newspaper articles prepared once a week by the county health officer, lectures on health subjects with lantern slides, health posters in public places, exhibits at the county fair showing how disease germs are carried, and a physical inspection of every school child in the county.

The schools are the most promising of all these lines of effort. If you teach health and sanitation principles to young folks at an age when they take in new ideas easily, they will not forget them.

PRICES OF FARM CROPS

The prices of six of the important crops on May 1 of this year were below the prewar average prices for that date, according to figures collected by the Bureau of Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture. These crops are corn, oats, barley, flax, potatoes, and cotton. The report showed that the prices of the three grains, wheat, rye, and buckwheat—were above the prewar average prices. During April the average price of wheat declined from $1.50 to $1.23 per bushel. The report shows that in general the industrial crops, such as flax, cotton, and broom corn, are the most depressed in price, and that food crops, such as wheat, rye, potatoes, and apples, show relatively less decline.

The prices in various parts of the country vary, with South Dakota being the center of the low-price district. The May 1 report shows the average price of wheat in that State was 90 cents per bushel, and in some counties it was as low as 70 cents. Corn was selling at an average price of 32 cents per bushel in South Dakota, while the average price of the United States was nearly 60 cents. The price of oats was 23 cents per bushel in South Dakota, the average for the United States being 36.8 cents. The report showed a big decline in the price of old potatoes, especially in Michigan, where the average was 29 cents a bushel, which was 20 cents below the average for the United States.

COMMENCEMENT ESSAYS.

It is customary for cynical people to poke fun at the many suggestions for public improvement and reform made in the commencement essays of school and college graduates. These views are commonly looked at as idealistic and chimerical.

Young folks who have had a good course of study see many wrong conditions in the world. Assuming that everyone would wish to act in a fair and sensible manner, it is natural for them to think that the people generally would want such evils removed and would co-operate for the same.

But when these young folks get out into life, they often find that these hopes can not be realized. The trouble may not be with the ideals more likely it is because the average run of people are selfish and petty, disposed to consider their own personal interest and to take a very short sighted view of that. So the trouble is not with the point of view of the young people, so much as with the tough and hardened old world that refuses to see the light and act on it.

The Court of Appeals decided that the County Clerks are not entitled to 5 per cent commission for issuing automobile licenses and this means a loss of something like $800 per annum to the county clerk of Boone county.

Hon. E. C. O'Hara, of Grant county, who is a candidate for Senator from this district, spent a few days last week in Boone county. Mr. O'Hara will get a large vote in Boone as he is a Kentucky gentleman of the highest ideals.

FEDERAL-AID ROADS

Under Construction or Completed Nearly Sufficient to Enroll the Globe.

Of the 22,080 miles of Federal-aid roads which have been built or are under construction, more than two-thirds are earth roads, sand-clay, or gravel, says the chief of Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture. These have cost less than one-third of the total amount expended as compared with nearly 50 per cent of the estimated cost applied to 4,890 miles of hard-surfaced roads. A study of local conditions by an engineer of the bureau is necessary before a road project may receive Federal aid.

Type Determined by Traffic.

The type of road to be used and the most suitable surface with respect to the traffic of the locality must be determined. Service must be satisfactory while costs must be kept low, both for building and maintenance. There must be a careful analysis both of the engineering and economic conditions for each particular project. There are individual considerations in every case which affect the determination as to the best type of road materials for that locality.

The mileage of Federal aid roads which have been built or are now under construction is nearly sufficient to encircle the globe. This is the record of work accomplished since July, 1916, when the Federal Government first stepped in to aid in the enormous task of building highways that are now called upon to carry more than 9,000,000 motor vehicles plus a very substantial horse drawn traffic in the 48 States.

The Federal-aid law is well named. The Department of Agriculture has given the broadest possible construction to the law for the purpose of providing the greatest mileage of highways suited to the traffic to be carried over them at the minimum expense. An analysis by the Bureau of Public Roads of the projects under contract shows that all types of roads, from the graded earth road up to the finest paved surfaces, have been built.

No Particular Type Recommended.

The cost must always be considered in determining the type of road surfaces which are selected, and the allowable cost must be determined by the traffic which is to be borne. Local conditions vary to such an extent that very careful consideration must be given to each project before determining the character of type of roads to be built. This principle was recently expressed to a chamber of commerce asking for information in the following language: "Types of highways should not be specified by law. This is a matter to be decided by the State highway department, in which should be lodged full authority both to construct and to maintain. Competition between different types of material should be maintained and selection made to fit requirements in each case. The bureau does not recommend any one type to exclusion of others."

WILLIAM LEWIS RIDDELL

Had there been no William Lewis Ridgell there would have been no Recorder. As I had known the former editor of the Boone County Recorder more than twenty years, to him, to his courage, his devotion to principle, his supreme confidence in humanity, and to these alone, be due the honor, the glory and the credit for the existence of the Recorder. As the writer of this article was the first editor of a weekly paper in Boone county, that's why I have a high esteem for Editor Ridgell. The past twenty years the former Editor has favored me with the publication of many of my articles, the last three score years I have seen the passing of old Boone county friends of bygone days. Death is triumphant everywhere. All alike must obey its mandate. From the infant cooing in the cradle to the tottering age, one by one they fall on every hand. What lies beyond we do not know. We may go down to the side with them but each must cross alone.

THE DOOM OF THE SHORT SKIRTS.

News from Paris is all to the effect that the short skirt for women has had its day at that capital, and that, beginning in the fall, Paris styles will decree much longer dresses. In fact, the reaction has already set in, more so, as is told that at the opening of the great race meeting at Chantilly a few days ago a majority of the well dressed women walked about the enclosure "wearing gracefully trailing skirts that covered the ankles" and the verdict upon that style of dress was, we are informed, "decidedly favorable."

The politicians don't step on the gas. They merely turn it on.

SMALL BRUSH DAMS HOLD SOIL FROM WASHING AWAY.

One of the big problems that extension workers are giving their attention to this year in saving the soil, according to extension specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. In many sections of the Central and Western States every effort is being made by extension workers to prevent washing and erosion of soil by building dams and placing brush heaps in gullies. A representative of the department who returned recently from southwestern Nebraska gives the following as an example of what is being done there:

In April, 1920, a county agent assisted in building 19 small brush dams in a large ditch on a farm where large amounts of fertile soil were being washed away. By March of this year the ditch was filled with soil. Following this demonstration many farmers in the neighborhood who had been watching the outcome of the soil-saving work, built brush dams in washouts on their farms.

The representative reports that in Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, and Indiana the extension workers are holding soil-service meetings and demonstrations, and farmers are being taught to make use of soil surveys.

Durability of Wood Not Affected by Time of Cutting.

Many of the theories advanced regarding the durability of wood are properly cared for after it is cut. The method of handling logs at different times of the year, however, does influence their durability. Timber cut in late fall and winter seasons more slowly and with less checking than during the warmer months, and when proper storage or handling is impracticable, winter cutting is best. Insects and cold do not attack wood cut in cold weather, and by the time warm weather arrives the wood is partly seasoned and somewhat less susceptible to attack. It is for these reasons that winter cutting is advantageous, and not on account of a smaller amount of moisture or sap in the wood in winter, as the popular belief has it. There is practically no difference in moisture content of green wood in winter and summer.

NO OPPOSITION.

The time has expired in which candidates for Circuit Judge, Commonwealth Attorney, Senator and Representative can file their notification and declaration, and the entries in those races have been closed.

Judge Sidney Gaines will receive his certificate of nomination as the candidate for the Democratic party at the November election, as will Hon. Jno. J. Howe receive the certificate of nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney. These certificates are the equivalent of an election, as the district is largely Democratic and the Republican party may not give them opposition. Two gentlemen were entitled to these certificates for the fearless and intelligent manner in which they have performed the duties of their office and in recognition of these qualities the people have endorsed their administration by electing them for another term without opposition. When Judge Gaines and Commonwealth Atty. Howe announced their candidacy for reelection the Recorder stated that on account of the efficiency and manner in which they had discharged their duties they were entitled to this endorsement.

DISTRICT RACES.

The Senatorial race is composed of three candidates, J. A. Lee and L. C. Littrell, of Owen county, and C. E. O'Hara, of Grant county. The district is composed of the counties of Pendleton, Grant, Owen, Gallatin and Boone and as Owen county has two candidates which will divide the vote in that county, Mr. O'Hara starts with an advantage, as he votes in his own county, and if he makes an even break with his opponents in other counties he should easily get a majority of all the votes cast.

The Representative district is composed of Boone and Grant counties. Grant has no candidate. The two candidates for this office are Hon. Wm. Stephens and Hon. G. W. Tolin, both residing in Boone, and this race may be decided by the vote that is cast in Grant.

Many people are convinced that it makes no difference if the railroad does run up a deficit, as the government can make up the difference, and nobody will kick but the taxpayers and they do not count.

GOOD BREEDING

How Profits May Be Made On Quality Lambs—Pure Breeding Necessary.

How profits may be made on quality lambs where the range for inferior animals runs seriously less is told by Prof. L. J. Horlacher, of the Animal Husbandry Department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture in an article in support of the Louisville Livestock Exchange campaign for better grade sheep and the Farmer's Better Sale of 200 pure bred bucks and ewes and 2,000 high grade ewes to be held at the Bourbon Stockyards August 11. The campaign for better grade meat animals is being conducted by the Exchange and the Kentucky Purchased Livestock Association supported by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture.

The article by Prof. Horlacher follows:

With the present spread of from five to six cents per head cull and choice lambs no other argument should be necessary to convince farmers of the necessity of selecting good breeding stock in preparation for the sheep breeding season which will soon be here. Not only do lambs sired by purebred rams sell for more than those sired by scrub rams but they also weigh at least 10 pounds more a head when 5 months old. This factor alone may mean the difference between profit and loss for the sheep raiser. For early lambs it is well to begin breeding from the first to the middle of August in order to have the lambs arrive in January and first of all he should be purebred since rams of this kind are now cheap enough that every sheep raiser can afford one. Rams of the Down breeds such as the Southdown, Hampshire and Cheviot will give best results for the production of market lambs. Experiments have shown that it is not profitable to grade up the native sheep by use of Cotswold, Lincoln or Leicester rams since their wool is too coarse and is selling for about two-thirds as much as that from the Down breeds at the present time. The quality of their meat is also poor.

"The ram should be vigorous and hardy, of good mutton conformation, square, blocky, compact, symmetrical, low-set and with a strong top line. He should also possess plenty of quality but at the same time show masculinity. A vigorous yearling ram will serve 35 to 40 ewes successfully."

"Lambs which come from ewes which are uniform in breeding will be more uniform and make a better appearance when placed on the market. The ewes should be one to four years old and should be sound in their mouths and udders. While they need not be pure bred, they should possess good mutton type and have plenty of capacity. Their fleeces should be dense and well distributed over their bodies."

KLOPP-WHITE.

A beautiful wedding ceremony was solemnized on the afternoon of June 21 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Klopp near Brookville, when their daughter Miriam Francis became the bride of Mr. Wilson White, of Petersburg, Ky., Rev. R. H. Carter, of the Petersburg Christian church officiating. The attendants were Miss Gladys Klopp and Enoch White, Miss Rosalie Klopp and Kirtley Klopp.

The wedding march was rendered by Miss Talitha Evans, of Covington, Ky. At the first notes of the music Kirtley Klopp and Miss Rosalie Klopp entered the parlor followed by the bride and her cousin Gladys Klopp and the groom and his brother Enoch White. The bride looked beautiful in a gown of white lace edged with a veil of tulle, she carried a bouquet of fern and white roses. Misses Gladys and Rosalie Klopp wore yellow gowns carrying ferns and yellow roses. The house was beautifully decorated in yellow and white. A reception followed the ceremony. Those present were the immediate relatives and a few friends. The happy couple will reside in Brookville where Mr. White has employment.

BAD LUCK AND VERY GOOD LUCK.

Last Tuesday evening while detouring on the Buffington Road between Erlanger and Florence, the breaks went wrong on the truck belonging to Brown & Dunson while going up a steep hill and would not hold the truck. Russell Mitchell, who was driving the truck luckily steered it off the road to miss a buggy in which a woman and two children were riding, when he jumped off and the truck went down into a ditch. Brown & Dunson express their appreciation to C. W. Myers, A. C. Scott, Roy Butler, Wilford Akin, Grover C. Bledsoe, Ted Hamber, Clarence Adams, Mr. Barton and several more men of Florence who in a few minutes were on the scene ready to give assistance and in about twenty minutes the truck was unloaded and pulled up on the road.

TARIFF RETALIATION.

The news dispatches the other day brought word that in view of the duty on sugar provided by the Republican tariff law, the government of Cuba had asked the Congress of that country to pass a law retaliating by a heavy duty on American products. This is the kind of thing that will happen all over the world if the Republican administration carries out its projected tariff policy.

If the Republican party had been willing to help stabilize Europe by joining the League of Nations these countries today would be more prosperous and could be buying more of our products. So the Republican party has a very considerable responsibility for the great decrease in exports that has already taken place.

The feeling at Washington is that Congress will pass a tariff bill making great increases in rates. Some observers predict that it will provide the highest duties on imported goods ever established by any customs law.

If that prediction is fulfilled, what will happen? Is it not as clear as daylight that importations will fall off very sharply from their present reduced total? It would not be surprising if they dropped 50 per cent below their present low level.

What will the governments of Europe, Asia, and the southern hemisphere be doing all that time, with any such restrictions on their products? They will not take it passively. You will see new duties placed on American products in almost all countries.

If these nations are not permitted to pay for our goods in merchandise of their own, they will have to pay in gold. They have no practical gold. A lot of them will stop buying our stuff altogether. Our exports under such a policy would probably be reduced one half, and perhaps a lot more than that. While business is now bad, it would be worse under any such policy of folly.

BASE BALL.

No game at Burlington next Saturday.

Burlington will play two games at Petersburg Monday, July 4th. A band concert is also on the program for the day.

Taylorport will play two games at Bellevue July 4th.

Taylorport met the strong Saylor Park team at Taylorport, last Saturday, and in a well played game lost by a score of 2 to 1. The game was worth going miles to see and the best that has been played in the county this season.

Bellevue went to Walton last Saturday and met the Walton boys on their own lot and came away with the game tacked under their belts, score 9 to 5, with Bellevue on the long end.

Petersburg came to Burlington and with their war clubs touched up in the pitchers of the Burlington aggregation to the tune of 12 runs, while the Burlington sluggers could only get 7 men to make the circuit. The Burlington club made a very strenuous objection to a decision of the umpire and it looked for a while like the game would not be completed. Players and spectators have criticized umpires so much that it is now almost impossible to get a competent man to officiate. Play the game, boys, overlook the mistakes of the umpire, he is only human. A number of men who understand the rules and the game, and who are good umpires will not call games as they can not stand the criticism and abuse of players and spectators.

MASONIC PICNIC.

The Masonic Lodge of Ludlow, will have an outing at the Harvest Home grounds July 4th. All members of this lodge and their families will be there. Music will be furnished by the Masonic band, and also string band for the dance music.

COMMENT OF STATE PRESS ON THE BLAIR PARDON EPISODE

MORROW PULLS OFF

ANOTHER BIG STUNT.
(The Oldham Era)

When Governor Morrow issued a pardon to Frank Blair, a congressman to the penitentiary for 5 years for holding up Capt. Jim Hendricks' child parlor in Louisville, he broke to "smithereens" one of the principal planks in the platform on which he made his race for Governor, the plank on pardons. It pledged the Governor to the following: "No pardon or commutation will be granted in any case without public notice; none will be granted without having obtained a full statement of the facts; none will be granted without a statement of opinion from the State's judicial and prosecuting authorities; none will be granted save for just cause. All of these the Governor has violated."

The Evening Post deserves great credit for the publication of the facts in this case. The Times and the Courier-Journal have also censured the Governor, whose action is far from commendable. The whole affair looks bad and smells bad. A complete investigation must be made.

Governor Morrow went up and down the State two years ago and harped upon this same weakness in Gov. Stanley. But when "occasion" arises, Morrow delivers the pardon. It convinces us one thing, that running for Governor is different from being Governor. Morrow's race was won on a misrepresentation of facts and Democratic misdeeds. Facts distorted then as they were in the Presidential race last year. This kind of business will thrive for a time, but "the truth will out."

Gov. Morrow has been in the limelight frequently of late, and not to much advantage. We want to be charitable to him as Governor of Kentucky, but no good citizen can approve the "bone head" stunts he continues to pull off. His record of broken promises is another blow to his party, greater than the loss of its chieftain, A. T. Hert.

Those Democrats who voted for him two years ago and those who stayed at home should learn a valuable lesson from the acts of "Howdy Ed." When 1923 comes there will be little difficulty in persuading them to vote right. A strong candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket is all that is needed. The voters will see that he is elected.

The prison guards at Frankfort have still got it on Morrow. They turn them loose faster than Morrow can pardon them. It is said competition between the Executive Mansion and the State penitentiary is very keen. It is safe to say that each has a splendid record and each appears to be a winner.

HOW TO KEEP FROM BEING SORRY.

(The Herald-News, Hodgenville.)

The Governor says he made a mistake and is sorry he pardoned Blair, the bankrobber and crook wanted in other States.

We believe the Governor is sorry in several ways.

Let us suggest that he only read the plank in his platform on which he was elected. If he will only carry out that plank and keep the pledge as worded he will have no trouble whatever.

If he will publish notice that the application for pardon is pending he can hear from the people if a pardon should not be granted.

If he will inquire of judicial and prosecuting officers, as he promised, they can help keep him from doing things for which he is sorry.

Read the plank and promise, and one can see why he is sorry and where he failed. He gives no notice to people.

ONCE TOO OFTEN!

Falmouth Outlook.

The old pitcher may make many trips to the well, but it finally falls and smashes to pieces. Morrow has been running his pardon mill pretty regularly ever since he has been in office. The pitcher has slipped from his hand a time or two but not until last week did it fall hard enough to be smashed into pieces. The Governor pardoned Frank Blair, a notorious criminal with a bad record, and has made a mistake that has caused him humiliation. He has acknowledged the corn, but that does not pacify an enraged public. It is difficult to send a man to the penitentiary, and when he is placed there the keys should be thrown away. Gov. Morrow has two more years to serve, and if he sustains his pardon record through these next twenty-four months he can convert the penitentiary into a sleeping porch.

EARACHE.

Earache is so painful that the person suffering from it thinks of little except the pain. The physician, however, is interested in it as a symptom. It may have various causes, generally and owing to the state of the ear itself, it may be what we call indifferently a reflex, a sympathetic or a referred pain; that is, one caused by trouble not in the ear but in some other part of the body.

Earache may attack either the young or the old, but it often attacks children. When babies are in acute pain the doctor should observe them closely until he discovers the seat of the pain. If the ear is at fault, the baby will scream or start when anyone approaches it; or it may roll its head on the pillow or lift its hand to the ear.

In older children earache means that the nasopharynx is in an unhealthy state or that the teeth need more harm than good. It is painful to the child has adenoids, for a child with adenoids catches cold easily, and the cold may result in inflammation of the Eustachian tube.

Parents used to regard earaches as one of the inevitable ills of childhood and thought they had done their duty when they had applied some old wives' remedy, which did more harm than good. It is painful to reflect on the dreadful tortures that young children then endured.

If your child has persistent earache, you should call a specialist in ear diseases, for the pain caused by inflammation of the middle ear is relieved most quickly and permanently by making an incision in the ear drum. That not only gives relief to the sufferer but often prevents his becoming deaf in later life. The ear specialist is the only person competent to decide whether or not the incision should be made, and he is the only person who is competent to make it.

TWO FAMILIES BURNED TO DEATH

Mayfield, Ky.—Charred beyond recognition and with only parts of limbs, trunks and skulls recovered, 11 persons, representing two families, were found to have been burned to death at the home of Ernest Lawrence, six miles north of this city, near Hickory Grove.

The fire which destroyed the log and frame three-room farmhouse, was started shortly after midnight and lasted until nearly 4 o'clock this morning. When the fire had subsided enough for neighbors to reach the victims there scarcely was enough left to identify the victims.

Candidates must not forget to file their notifications and declaration with the county clerk. DO IT NOW.

TROUBLE BREWING.

The New York Herald, staunchly Republican in politics, and in times past advocate of a highly protective tariff, lawns this blistering indictment of the first schedule in the tariff bill to be adopted by this Republican Congress:

Chairman Fordney's proposed duty on lumber is so excessive and so indefensible that it has opened a rift in the Republican membership of his worst Ways and Means Committee. It is a certainty that it will split even more widely the majority of the House, where it is denounced roundly as a barrier to relief from the housing shortage and an outrage against the rent paying public of the nation.

But what damage will be caused to Republican solidarity in Congress by this extortionate tariff schedule, which will put an insufferable lumber tax on builders and rent payers and deprive the country of construction material when it is starved for lumber, is not to be mentioned in the same breath with the political havoc it will work among the voting members of the party from Maine to California.

Party wrecking may seem a little thing to Chairman Fordney so long as he is taking care of the selfish clique which wants to turn its inadequate logging camps into gold mines at the expense of the more than 100,000,000 people in the U. S.

But if party wrecking, at such a time and in such a detestable cause, does not appear to the whole membership of Congress to be a thing big with national danger as well as repulsive greed, the legislative branch of the United States government is in a very bad way.

But lumber is only one of the many articles on Mr. Fordney's little list. He is proposing to write into statute the famous Schedule K applicable to wool, that schedule which President Taft branded as "indefensible," although he later signed the bill containing it. And after lumber and wool come a long series of other proposed extortions, the fundamental idea being to make money for a few men at the expense of the mass of the people.

And serious trouble is looming up for the dominant political party in this matter of a tariff. The Payne-Aldrich bill destroyed Mr. Taft's administration; Mr. Fordney seems anxious to play the same role in the administration.

FURTHER REDUCTION IN FLOUR PRICES PREDICTED.

According to information secured the best grades of flour will probably be reduced a dollar to a dollar and a half a barrel when the mills secure enough new wheat to be able to run steadily. At the present time the retailer is paying around $10.25 a barrel, and it is anticipated that if wheat markets do not climb at much above $1.25 a bushel, it will be possible to reduce prices as $10.50 flour was figured from wheat costing around $1.55 and $1.60 a bushel.

Some mills anticipate securing enough wheat to run a couple of days late this week, but are making arrangements to start operations no later than Tuesday, July 5.

It is reported that some of the new wheat that has been delivered weighs out at 58 pounds to the bushel, indicating a glutinous berry and strong flour for the new crop year.

NOTICE.

It has been reported that if J. S. Cason is elected Tax Commissioner I would be appointed as his deputy. The report is an error, as I would not accept that appointment, and I will continue in the Raleigh business.

STATE NEWS.

Frankfort, Ky.—A bolt of lightning played queer pranks at the home of Mrs. Anna Crutcher, on the Versailles road. The lightning struck a tree, ran along a clothesline and struck three more trees, tore up the brick pavement and killed several chickens, jumped to the telephone wire, entered the house, dashed the telephone box to the floor and set fire to the wall.

Frankfort, Ky.—Four prisoners, all negroes, escaped from the Pike county road camp according to word received by Superintendent H. V. Bain, of the Frankfort Reformatory.

Geo. Greenup and son Analeof, of Mayfield, Graves county, were in Burlington last Tuesday.

Latin and Greek are not popular

The government clerks should not agitate for a vacation, as they are taking one a good deal of the time.

It's Toasted

In its proper place in this issue of the Recorder will be found the announcement of R. H. Tanner, of Florence, as a candidate for relection to the office of Justice of the Peace from the Constance and Florence precincts. Mr. Tanner is now holding this office and has been a member of the Fiscal Court for several years, and he has served his people honestly and faithfully, and if re-elected will continue to represent them in the same manner.

Mr. Tanner was born and reared near Florence and comes from one of the largest Democratic families in the county, and the people of this district could not select a man who would represent them better than R. H. Tanner.

Men who risk their lives are not ably superstitious, but probably none more than racing drivers. Some carry lucky pocket pieces, others tote rabbit's feet, but it remains for Eddie Pullen, who has won many dirt track races to carry the most unique talisman ever known—a pair of baby shoes hung on his steering wheel.

They're the tiny "creepers" of his first-born—and they bring good luck and safety from injury. Eddie admits it because he has never suffered injury while so protected, although he has taken many spills.

Where foreign drivers have miniature figures of their patron saints mounted on the car, Pullen puts his faith in the diminutive "dogs" of his baby.

Eddie claims this is his last year in racing, maybe because the shoes are wearing out—and if he can't have the first pair of shoes of his first-born hanging on his steering wheel, Eddie doesn't want to tempt the fates on speedway or dirt road.

 Meet in Louisville.

Louisville—What is termed by Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, "just about the most successful of the ten conferences for county and city health officers and public health nurses ever held under the auspices of the State Board of Health," was concluded here with a round table discussion of the problems of public health officials and automobile trip to the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Hazelwood. About sixty county and city health officers and half as many nurses spent the week here attending the sessions of the conference.

Among the prominent persons not attached to the State Board of Health who addressed different sessions of the conference were Dr. F. J. Underwood, director of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the Mississippi State Board of Health; Dr. Edith B. Lowry, United States Public Health Service; Elwood Street, retiring director of the Louisville Welfare League, who has just accepted a position with the St. Louis Welfare League; W. W. Lovejoy, chief chemist of the Louisville Ice Company, and Dr. John H. McMullen, trachoma specialist of the United States Public Health Service.

The program of the conference was so arranged that the visiting doctors and nurses would have opportunity to hear lectures on the problems most frequently encountered by them and in addition would have ample time for round table discussion of their particular difficulties. The field covered by the lectures included child welfare, sanitation, the work that is being done in the State to combat the spread of tuberculosis and of venereal diseases, trachoma and the peculiar problems of rural public health work.

STUDIES ON FEED AND LABOR COSTS OF PRODUCING MILK.

Dairymen throughout the country should be interested to know how many pounds of grain, hay, and silage, and how many hours of labor it takes to produce 100 pounds of milk in the different dairy sections of the United States. The Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, began a series of studies in 1915 on groups of dairy farms to obtain accurate information of this kind.

The results are shown for southeastern Louisiana in Department Bulletin 955. The figures for northwestern Indiana are contained in Department Bulletin 858; North Carolina and western Washington in Department Bulletin 919; and for Vermont in Department Bulletin 923, which may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., at 5 cents the copy. The various tables are based upon figures obtained during a two-year study, and weighted averages of the records are used whenever they would express the results more accurately. The surveys include also an inventory of their dairy buildings, live stock, and equipment used.

This part of the county was visited by a hard rain last Friday evening.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

Lexington, Ky.—Forty-eight Kentucky dairy cows owned by twenty-three dairymen in 10 different counties won a place for themselves on the May Honor Roll by producing more than three pounds of butterfat during the two days that they were tested under the supervision of the College of Agriculture, according to an announcement made today by J. J. Hooper, head of the dairy department. A total of 69 cows from 38 herds were tested during the month. This number included 151 Jerseys, one Guernsey, and 17 Holsteins.

Christian county had the largest number of cows on the May list, 14 being entered from that county. Shelby county had seven, Mason six and Jackson, Jefferson and Todd counties, four each. Oldham was placed three high producers on the list while Campbell, Fayette and Boone counties had two each.

Dairymen who had cows on the list included J. C. Askew, Trenton; Gray-Von Allmen Dairy Farm, LaGrange; Allen Dale Farm, Shelbyville; C. M. Hebron, R. J. Shipman, Shelbyville; Perrault Bros., Dover; George Weimer, Augusta; Hurstbourne Farm, St. Matthews; W. J. Newell, Maysville; Sommeo Farms, Hopkinsville; J. B. Garth, Trenton; Ray F. Feaghan, Brooksville; R. K. Catlett, Petersburg; J. C. Gary and Son, Hopkinsville; Adina Farms, Dover; Alfred Eisen, California; G. H. Stowe, Hopkinsville; H. H. Fulcher, Pembroke; T. A. King, Hopkinsville; W. W. Hampton, and Son, Goshen; Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington; Maurice Harrison, Hopkinsville and Geo. Wanner, Jr., Newport.

Lexington, Ky.—Work done during the past year by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station has been more productive than that done during any previous year in the history of the institution, according to a statement made by Director Thos. P. Cooper, in connection with the thirty-third annual report of the station which is being prepared for the year ending June 30, 1921. The report is virtually completed, the data now being in the process of being worked into shape for final publication. More than 45 major lines of work dealing with problems of Kentucky agriculture were started during the year, the report shows.

IN THE WAKE OF FLOOD.

When thousands of people at Pueblo, Colo., were made homeless by a terrific sweep of flood waters, a great deal of personal suffering was created. Many people have been made homeless, and they lack clothing and food. Many of them have lost all their personal belongings and money, and they can't earn anything more until the factories and stores and shops can be restored. The total loss is around $200,000,000. The Colorado people have been sending out urgent appeals for aid, but the contributions have been regrettably small.

People who live in comfortable homes far from any such scene of desolation, can form no conception of what it must be to fall victim of such a calamity. Those who have lost their little all in such a catastrophe, and are dependent upon the uncertain help of charity, must feel as if life were scarcely worth living. Some of them perhaps wish they had been swept away in the boiling flood that may have carried away some of those nearest to them.

Everyone would say this was the kind of cause that would appeal to all kinds of people, and that a perfect outpouring of money should be coming in. Yet for all that, recent reports have had it that funds were coming in very slowly, and there must be a lot of unrelieved suffering on those bleak plains.

There is a great deal of kindly sentiment in the world that amounts to nothing because it does not get to the point of doing anything for cases of distress. Some people always offer the excuse for not giving to such a cause, that they do not know where to send the money. Any bank or newspaper will gladly assist by assuming responsibility for forwarding any such contributions.

LARGE FERRY PURCHASED.

The Chamber of Commerce has purchased a ferry at Ashland, Ky., and will send a force of men after the boat Friday. It is 24 feet wide, 65 feet long and has a 35 hp boiler and engine. The boiler and engine are set opposite so as to balance the boat and in order that one man may run it. There is cabin room for passengers and deck room for six Ford cars or four large touring cars. The boat is expected to be in operation by July 3 in order to care for the traffic on July 4th.

The Chamber of Commerce will give it much publicity which will mean a travel over Kentucky roads to and from Cincinnati on Sundays. —Rising Sun Recorder.

It is reported that the road between Florence and Erlanger will be opened for its travel within the next ten days. This is only a rumor and the Recorder has not been able to verify its correctness.

After quoting several yards of statistics, the financial experts reach the conclusion that if the stock market doesn't go up it will go down.

COME EVERYBODY.

"WHO SPEAKS FOR THE ADMINISTRATION?"

In his speech opposing the Porter Peace Resolution Mr. Barkley (Dem Ky.) after quoting President Harding, Secretaries Hughes and Hoover, Senator Lodge and Ambassador Harvey and calling attention to the conflict of opinion among them won generous applause when he said:

"Who speaks for the administration? Is it President Harding? Is it Hughes? Is it Hoover? Is it Lodge? Is it Knox? Is it Porter? Is it Harvey? The American people are disposed to be patient and long-suffering but they would like to hear some responsible voice on this great subject. It has been six months since the election and more than three since the 4th of March. If it is proposed to ratify the Versailles treaty, why has it not been resubmitted to the Senate? If it is proposed to negotiate a new and separate treaty with Germany, why has it not been sent to the Senate? The American people want peace. We all want friendly relations with Germany. But the American people want an honorable and upright peace, a peace which our fighting men won on land and sea, a peace that will restore our beloved Nation to its proper place in the vanguard of nations, a peace which will leave no stain of cowardice or betrayal upon our fair escutcheon."

Two Ways of Negotiating Peace.
If the Senate and House agree upon a declaration of a technical state of peace, the next step will be for President Harding to begin negotiations for a treaty of peace. The two methods by which he can do this are now being discussed. He can through Commissioners figuratively take his hat in his hand and say to Germany: "As a victorious nation in the late war I come to you, the vanquished nation, to sue for peace," but, according to Senator Lodge, "no American President would do such a thing nor would any American wish him to." On January 24, 1899, when it looked as if the treaty of peace with Spain might be rejected by the Senate on account of the acquisition of the Philippines, Senator Lodge said:

"The President cannot be sent back across the Atlantic in the person of his Commissioner, in his hand, to say to Spain with bated breath, 'I am here in obedience to the mandate of a minority of one-third of the Senate to tell you that we have been too victorious, and that you have yielded us too much and that I am very sorry that I took the Philippines from you.' I do not think any American President would do that or that any American would wish him to."

Sauce for Sims is Sauce for Harvey.
Senator Pat Harrison, the dynamic and eloquent young orator and statesman from Mississippi, sees no justice in the recall of Admiral Sims for his alleged slander of a part of the American people unless Ambassador Harvey, whom he accuses of slandering all the people as well as the Government, is also recalled. He has introduced a resolution requesting the President to report whether he (Mr. Harding) was consulted or knew of the speech before it was made; whether he or the Secretary of State have protested or reprimanded Harvey; whether there is as much reason and justification for the reprimand or recall of the Ambassador as there is for the Admiral; whether the order recalling Admiral Sims was issued at the direction or with the approval of the President, and why a similar order was not issued against Ambassador Harvey; whether the President or Secretary of State has received any communication from the Ambassador in reply to any protest, and if so, to transmit the same to the Senate. The resolution on objection from Senator Curtis (Kan.) the Republican Whip went over under the rules.

Senator Harrison paid tribute to General Pershing, the men of the American army and navy, naming Surgeon Alvin York, Col. Whittlessey, and Quentin Roosevelt for their special acts of heroism, and said: "This statement of Ambassador Harvey is an insult to every soldier and sailor and marine who helped to win this war. There is not a mother's son of them who was prompted by the thought that they were 'afraid not to fight' when he went into this war and blazoned in letters of gold glory for the Stars and Stripes. There was not a mother in this land nor a woman who went across or stayed here and contributed her mite to win it and sustain the boys who thought it was a war that was being fought because 'we were afraid not to fight.' There is not a man in this country, I care not how poor and humble he may be, who bought a Liberty bond or did the minutest thing to win the war, who believed that we were fighting simply because 'we were afraid not to fight.'"

HONORS STATE HEALTH OFFICER.

Medical Veterans of the World War
Elect Dr. A. T. McCormack President.

Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, was elected president of the American Medical Veterans of the World War at their convention held jointly with the meeting of the American Medical Association in Boston last week.

The American Medical Veterans of the World War is an organization of physicians who were with the American armies during the war with Germany. It is the American Legion of the medical profession, counting among its members doctors from all over the United States. The support of the movement for better bred and more meat animals in Kentucky being conducted by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange has been the announcement by Herbert Myrick, medical expert, that after analysis of the livestock situation in the United States that the sheep population of the country has shrunk nearly two-thirds since 1900. Mr. Myrick criticizes reports of the United States Department of Agriculture charging that their surveys have for years overestimated the number of livestock in the country. He declares that the census of 1920 shows only 34,900,000 sheep as compared with the department of agriculture's estimate at the same date of the census report of 48,600,000 sheep.

His figures extended to hogs show that the census reported 14,000,000 hogs fewer than the department of agriculture's survey reported.

From these figures Mr. Myrick pointed to the serious condition of the livestock field in America declaring that the average of all classes of livestock showed that the meat supply was only about half as great for each person as formerly.

Encouragement to all movements for better grade and more livestock is suggested. Emphasis is given to the Farmer's Better Sire Sale of 200 pure bred bucks and ewes and 2,000 high grade ewes to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards August 11 by Louisville Livestock Exchange and supported by the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association, the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Farmers are reminded that they will make their own prices at this sale and that the Exchange and all concerned are agreed not to derive one cent of profit from the transactions.

Last Sunday morning lightning struck the line of the Consolidated Telephone Co., just south of Florence on the Dixie Highway, and completely demolished two poles and damaged about ten more so that they are only fit for kindling.

All incorporated towns in Boone county will elect a board of trustees at the regular November election. The citizens of these towns should be considered who they desire to hold these offices.

SOME UNUSUAL GOOD THINGS.

Those who like olives and anchovies will enjoy this little relish or savory.

Olives Stuffed With Anchovies.—Cut the olives spirally using large selected olives, removing the stone. Wipe the oil from fillets of anchovy and press one into each olive. Set them on a glass dish on a bed of cream; serve with bread sticks either before or with the soup.

Spiced Tomato Soup.—Take the juice from a quart of tomatoes, one small can of tomatoes, one potato, one onion, three tablespoonsful of butter, salt and pepper, chopped parsley, cayenne and one whole clove. Chop the onion and parsley and fry in the butter five minutes. Pour over the tomato juice; add potato, chopped fine, and the seasoning. Cook for 30 minutes, adding water if needed.

Popcorn Pudding.—Take two cupfuls of popped corn, finely pounded, three cupfuls of milk, three eggs, slightly beaten, one-half cupful brown sugar, one tablespoonful of butter and three-quarters of a teaspoonful of salt. Scald the milk, pour over the corn and let stand one hour. Add the remaining ingredients, turn into a buttered dish and bake in a slow oven until firm. Serve with cream or maple syrup.

Lemon Cheese Cake.—Line patty pans with puff paste or rich pastry, and fill with the following mixture: One pint of well-drained cottage cheese, mashed very fine, three eggs, well beaten, one tablespoonful of flour, one tablespoonful of butter, the grated rind of a lemon, all well mixed in the cheese; add one and a half cupfuls of thin cream and sweeten to the taste. After filling, dust the top with grated nutmeg and sugar. Bake in a hot oven.

Syllabubs.—Take a quart of heavy cream, sweeten to taste and flavor as desired; whip until stiff, skimming off the top and putting into a sieve, so that every bit of the unwhipped cream can drain through. When all is drained pile high in stemmed sherbet glasses and serve with sponge cake.

SPRING HATCHING

Farmers Turning From Mongrel to Pure Bred Poultry

Lexington, Ky. — During the spring hatching season which has just ended 553,475 purebred eggs and 21,895 baby chicks were distributed by the 51 county agricultural agents to farmers in their particular communities in the interest of the purebred poultry campaign, which is being conducted by the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture on the county standardization plan, according to a report which has just been made of the work. Since the start of the work in 1915 it has steadily grown until at the present time 73 counties are handling with one or more of the principal breeds of poultry. The report shows that as a result of the work 8,162 farmers have turned from mongrel to purebred poultry, while 6,471 have already established flocks of the standard breed for their country.

Eighteen girls in the Central Grove community, Ohio county, have become charter members of a junior agricultural club organized by County Agent M. L. McCracken. Two local leaders have been appointed to help carry on the work of the new club.

Thirty boys and girls in the Lowmansville community, Lawrence-co., have become charter members of a junior agricultural club recently organized by County Agent G. C. Barker.

NOTICE

Changes in Petersburg, Bullittsville and Walton voting Precincts.

BOONE COUNTY COURT, REGULAR TERM 8th DAY OF MARCH, 1921. "HON. N. E. RIDDELL, JUDGE PRESIDING."

ORDER

To conform with Chapter 64, Acts 1920, Kentucky, it is now ordered that the Bullittsville Precinct be divided into two voting Precincts, the line dividing same to be as follows:

Beginning at a point on the Ohio River at the mouth of Sand Run Creek—thence with the center of said creek to the public road just south of the Sand Hill School House; thence in a South Easterly direction to a point in the road in front of G. E. McGlasen's gate; thence in a southerly direction to a point in the Bullittsville and Dry Creek pike— $\frac{3}{4}$ of a mile west of the residence of Cecil Burns, thence South to a point in the Burlington Precinct line.

All that portion west of said line shall be known as Bullittsville Precinct and that part east of said line shall be known as Hebron Voting Precinct.

Polling places shall be in Bullittsville and Hebron respectively.

It is also ordered that Petersburg Voting Precinct be divided into two Voting Precincts, for the reasons stated above:—The line dividing the same to be as follows:

Beginning at a point in the line dividing the Burlington and Petersburg Precinct in the center of Wooler Creek, thence, with the center of the pike to the center of the Burlington and Petersburg pike; thence with the center of said pike to the town of Petersburg; thence north through said town to the Ohio River.

That part of said precinct East of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 1—that part west of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 2. Voting places for both Precincts shall be the Town of Petersburg.

It appearing that the vote cast in the two Walton Voting Precincts, at the last Election, showed that said Precinct was not divided as the law requires, viz:—There being 237 votes cast in Precinct No. 1 and 442 Votes cast in Precinct No. 2 and said division is now set aside, and it is now ordered that said Walton Precinct be divided into three voting Precincts as follows:

Beginning at a point in the center of the Cruises Creek Road in the Boone and Kenton county line; thence with the center of said road to the L. & N. R. R.; thence with the said R. R. to the L. & N. Depot in Walton; thence Southwest to a point in the Walton and Stephenson Mill Road just South of a small bridge; thence with said road to Mud Lick Creek.

That part North of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 1—and that part South of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 2. Voting places for both Precincts shall be in Walton.

STATE OF KENTUCKY COUNTY OF BOONE

I, W. R. ROGERS, Clerk of the County Court, in and for the County and State aforesaid, do certify that the foregoing are true and correct copies of orders made in the Voting Precincts of Bullittsville, Petersburg and Walton, as appears of record in my office.

Given under my hand this 28th day of March, 1921.

W. R. ROGERS, Clerk.
I, L. A. Conner, Sheriff of Boone County, give this notice of the changes in the Petersburg, Bullittsville and Walton precincts this June 15th, 1921.

A GOOD TIME.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Easton entertain the Young Folks with a Play Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Easton entertained the young folks with a play party at their beautiful country home out on the Petersburg pike, last Saturday night. Games of all kinds were enjoyed until a late hour when refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served. Games were played on the lawn which was beautifully lighted. A large crowd was present and all pronounced Mr. and Mrs. Easton and their estimable family excellent entertainers.

LEGION NOTES

Members of the American Legion in Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida have been notified that their efforts to exclude a colony of Mennonites from those states have been successful. The Mennonites are going to Mexico. Members of the Legion opposed the settlement of the Mennonites because they evaded military service on religious grounds.

The Hurley Lee Spicer post of the American Legion at Harrisonville, Mo., has installed an emergency call system by which members of the post can be called to service in case of fire or police emergency.

American Legion posts throughout the United States will read the last public speech of Col. F. W. Galbraith at their Fourth of July celebrations. The speech a plea for the Citizens' Military Training Camp, was delivered by the late national commander a few hours before he met death in an automobile accident at Indianapolis. "I come to you," declared Mr. Galbraith, "as one of those thousands of Americans who went into the world war without the benefit of a training camp. We believe in preparing the young men of this country for citizenship. A part of this citizenship consists of being ready to defend our country in the time of need." Copies of the speech are being forwarded to the posts from the national headquarters of the Legion at Indianapolis.

A movement has been started by a number of posts of the American Legion to have the body of the unknown American soldier to be brought back from France, buried under the dome of the National Capitol instead of in Arlington National Cemetery. The George Washington post has appointed a committee to formulate and have introduced in Congress a resolution changing the place of burial.

Five hundred and fifty-six trees were planted recently along the new victory memorial drive at Minneapolis, Minn., by American Legion posts of that city. One of the trees is dedicated to the memory of F. W. Galbraith, Jr., late commander of the American Legion, whose accidental death prevented him from attending the tree planting ceremonies. The other trees are for the 555 gold star heroes of Hennepin county.

A national fund for the erection of a memorial to F. W. Galbraith, Jr., late commander of the American Legion, has been started by the Homewood Post of Philadelphia. A check covering the first contribution to the fund has been forwarded to the national headquarters of the Legion at Indianapolis. The Legion's committee of memorials of which T. Semmes Wainwright, of New Orleans, is chairman, has just announced a plan for a memorial.

Members of the Kings County New York American Legion posts will visit the grave of Col. Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, July 14, to deposit a memorial wreath at the site of a brief service.

"The super-slacker of the United States" as he describes himself is being sought by federal authorities aided by members of the American Legion throughout the northwest. He has written to Gov. Hart of Washington, requesting that his name be placed at the top of the slacker list. He wrote that he was P. E. Saylor of Genesee, Idaho, and although he successfully dodged the draft by giving another name, he has enjoyed the glories of a returned A. E. F. hero through the purchase of a soldier's discharge and several war medals. "And you ought to hear me tell the girls of all the battles I was in," he writes.

The Elk lodge of Lafayette, Ind., has withdrawn plans for a Fourth of July celebration to avoid conflict with a celebration of the American Legion.

The American Legion of Nebraska is preparing to fight the suit instituted in the district court by the Nebraska district of the Evangelical Lutheran synod to test the constitutionality of the Reed-Norval language law passed by the last legislature. The contention of the synod is that the law, which prohibits the teaching of any foreign language in any school in the state below the eighth grade, restricts religious liberty. This contention is refuted by the Legion.

An American Legion home to cost $125,000 will be erected this summer at Dalles, Ore.

Members of the St. Charles, Missouri, post of the American Legion held a "hammer and saw" meeting to which a portable dance floor was erected in four hours. Members of the local labor unions donated their services in assisting the Legion in the construction of the floor.

The personal property of Mrs. Martha Collins, deceased, which was sold last Saturday, found places in many homes here.

I have been correspondent for this paper since 1874 and have chronicled many deaths, but to chronicle the demise of my dear and near friend, W. L. Riddell, with whom I spent my boyhood days on the farms on which we lived adjoining, and associated with him almost daily found him to be the same true playmate and schoolmate, always ready and willing to help his associates in any way that he could, and when we grew to manhood I found him to be the same true and trusted friend when each of us were held ing the trust of office in the county. No one called on him for assistance that was refused, and he was always ready to render any assistance and to comply with your request. I am one year his senior but never will the memory of him pass from my life as long as I live. May all the readers of his paper be found trying to emulate his footsteps. The correspondents and readers extend their heartfelt sympathy to his lone companion, praying that our heavenly Father may send a comfort angel, that he may whisper words of comfort in her ear which may be a solace to her aching heart; one on whom she can place her trust.

MANY INDUSTRIES TIED TO TOBACCO

Prohibition of Weed Would Mean Big Financial Loss to Allied Trades.

WHO USES THE MATCH?

The Smoker Mainly—Also Responsible for Spending Hundreds of Millions Annually for Licorice, Sugar, Coal, Cigar Boxes, Tin
Foil, Etc.

By GARRET SMITH

"Got a match?"
How many times a day is that question asked in these United States? How many more times is the question unnecessary because most pockets are kept well supplied with the useful little article? Anyhow, inasmuch as it is estimated that there are 30,000,000 tobacco users in the country, we would guess that the answer to that question would run into the hundreds of millions.

For if it weren't for the smokers in these days of electric lights how many matches would be used? A pretty small proportion of the number of these "sticks of bliss" produced in the country every year. Abolish tobacco and the match business would be short to pieces.

But the match business is only one of a dozen or more allied industries which derive large revenues directly or indirectly from the tobacco trade. And would suffer heavily if national prohibition of tobacco were to go into effect as some of our reformers would have it. The annual sales of tobacco products, based on retail prices, is estimated at $1,937,000,000. Of the cost of producing and selling this quantity of cigars, cigarettes and other forms of the weed, some hundreds of million dollars are paid out for other things than the raw tobacco and labor of making it up.

$25,000,000 a Year for Boxes
For example, the tobacco trade consumes each year 45,000,000 pounds of licorice, 50,000,000 pounds of sugar, both used in flavoring tobacco, and 650,000 tons of coal. It is estimated that the value of wooden cigar boxes used is $25,000,000 a year, quite an item to the lumber business and to manufacturers of the boxes.

In making these boxes 550,000 pounds of nails are employed. Other large items used in making and preparing tobacco for sale are tin and lead foil, paper for bags and cigarette wrappers, cloth for tobacco bags, labels, coupons, etc., involving the printing trade extensively.

Then building contractors and manufacturers of machinery are largely interested. Investments in plants and machinery employed in manufacturing tobacco are estimated at $12,000,000. Replacement, upkeep and interest on the investment make no small sum annually.

And let really men note there are approximately 325,000 tobacco farms in the country, with a total estimated valuation of $100,000,000. Of further interest to real estate men is the fact that there are 700,000 retail establishments selling tobacco, involving a total rental and up-keep impossible to estimate, besides the large amount of office space occupied by administrative branches of the general business.

The insurance men, too, have their share of the pickings. The tobacco business pays out annually $7,000,000 in premiums in the United States.

And there are the railroads who reap revenue from 2,210,000 tons of tobacco products every year.

As for the advertising business here again it is impossible to form any estimate of the enormous annual outlay.

The prohibition of tobacco would also knock a good-sized hole in the receipts of the United States government. The internal revenue receipts from tobacco for the fiscal year 1920 amounted to $295,809,355.44. Customs duties provided an additional $25,000,000 in round figures, making the total revenue return to the government $320,809,355.44.

Influence on Popular Sentiment
It is this interlocking of the tobacco business with so many other interests and the vast amount of financial loss that would be involved in the abolition of tobacco that is one of the most serious aspects of the proposal to prohibit the sale of tobacco, a proposal, however, which has little support in public sentiment if the newspaper editors of the country are correct in their estimate of that sentiment.

In a poll of the editors made recently by the Tobacco Merchants' Association of the United States, through the Press Service Company of New York City, 95 per cent of the 7,847 editors who replied expressed the opinion that the people of their communities were opposed to any law against tobacco. As these editors represent some 80,000,000 readers the results form a pretty general test of national opinion.

In their remarks accompanying their replies many of the editors expressed it as their opinion that the opposition of their communities to the abolition of tobacco was based to some extent at least on the damage such a change would do to the business interests of the community. This was particularly true in the tobacco growing states and centers where there were large tobacco plants.

But when the extent of the business involved in the allied interests of the tobacco trade is considered, as above briefly outlined, it is clear that there is a very large section of the country that would be affected directly or indirectly by the abolishing of tobacco.

BLESSED BY A BULL FIGHT.

Jane Adams went once to a bull fight in Spain. She saw five bulls killed and as many horses. When her friends expressed their surprise at her indifference to the bloody sport, she said she had not thought much about it. Then she began to think. The more she thought, the more her conscience troubled her. She had been contemplating engaging in some form of social work. It suddenly was impressed upon her that she had been juggling her conscience to sleep by a dream of service that was reminding only a dream, that she was not really in earnest. It was the memory of her attitude of indifference to the bull fight that acted as a mirror to her soul and stirred her to action, says Dr. Dumb Animals. She returned to America, and the famous Hull House of Chicago came into being. This is the only good thing we ever heard as connected with a bull fight, except when the tortured bull got even with his torturers.

Perhaps it is hypocritical of us. Riding in a limousine is a magnificent and awful thing, and how should any plain mortal be expected to endure it without amendment, to his soul? Still, from our sidewalk, we do observe and protest, says New York Tribune. Can no human being, even though to the limousine born, learn to ride in a closed car and avoid the closed face, that blank, tophiety aloofness of expression so alien to normal American ways and cheerfulness? The limousine look attracts any happy, laughing debutante or bank president the instant the door slams and they sit back in what is technically known in motorcar literature as "mildly's drawing-room on wheels." It comes on or off the face very much as do the detachable tops that convert the ordinary touring car of commerce into a miniature palace fit to stand before the blazing glory of an opera house with a uniformed attendant handing in a very charming and expensive wife.

The experiment stations are the sources of accurate, reliable agricultural information. The progress being made in agriculture in each state centers around the experiment station of the state. The growth of agricultural colleges and the work of the extension departments means that the experiment station must, with redoubled energy, continue investigation work. This of course means that ample funds must be provided by the state for the support of the experiment stations.

It is said that American manufacturers are now in the position of being able to supply the toy demand of the country. This is a large and important industry; in fact, there are millions in it, and these millions formerly went to Germany which had the practical control of the toy market. That the business of supplying the children of the nation with necessary amusement is now in the nation's own hands is a fact gratifying at once to national feelings and national pockets.

It is said persistent efforts are being made to smuggle Bolshevik propaganda into the United States, and that they are at work in other countries. How their missionary work can accomplish anything in the face of the miserable failure of their doctrines in Russia itself, it is hard to see. Common sense would suggest that Bolshevism is its own worst demonstrator.

Appropos of hazing, it is an odd feature of human nature that the average student would rather be a bully than a gentleman, arguing the old definition of a gentleman as a man of kind heart, considerate ways and a just mind.

Rather than further reduce prices, speculative holders of hides are said to be selling them to be made into glue. The public has suspected that most of them were being transformed into paper for use as soles.

If the report that three Americans have been brutally killed by Bolsheviks is true, Americans thrown into contact with Bolsheviks hereafter will probably take pains to conceal their nationality.

Home bread-making is urged to drive the price of the loaf down. A good many husbands, however, rather than face that extremity, would prefer prices to remain as they are.

Nobody cares greatly to read the story of the breaking off of a marriage engagement in high society. The story of the divorce later would be so much more spicy.

The African pygmies who dance the shimmy have been identified as the gentlemen who put the "hot" in Hot-tent.

The coal men also may operate on the theory that what the people don't know won't hurt them.

"Is tobacco going to have its scalp added to the belt of the prohibitionist beside that of the lamented but as yet not altogether late alcohol?" is the question asked by Garrett Smith in an article in the current issue of Leslie's Magazine.

The writer reaches the conclusion that while there has been increased agitation and legislative activity on the subject of tobacco following the success of the drive for prohibition of liquor the efforts of reformers seeking to abolish tobacco have no general support. This opinion is based on the results of the questionnaires on the subject sent out to newspaper editors of the country by the Press Service Company of New York City.

The questions asked were:
(1) Do you favor the enactment of laws prohibiting the personal use of tobacco by adults?

(2) In your judgment does the general sentiment of your community favor such legislation?

(3) Is the use of tobacco personally objectionable to you?

No arguments accompanied the questionnaires from their form it was impossible for any editor to determine the attitude of the questioners. Out of 12,518 editors questioned, 7,847 replied according to the summary given. These editors, it is estimated, represent a combined circulation of 21,870,046. Of the 7,847 editors replying, 7,393, or 95 per cent, represent public sentiment in their communities as opposed to anti-tobacco legislation. Only 260 editors, or 3 per cent of those replying believed there was any considerable sentiment favorable to tobacco prohibition. There were 174, or 2 per cent, in doubt, while 20 failed to record their judgment.

Editors' Judgment Unbiased
"It is of special interest to note that 520 editors in answering the first question, personally favored such legislation, although only 290 of them reported that public opinion also favored the prohibition of tobacco—an indication of the conscientious effort made by the editors to distinguish public opinion from their own personal opinions, the article continues.

"The highest percentage of replies reporting public opinion favorable to prohibition of tobacco came from Utah, where 42 per cent of the editors thought the public were for such a movement. Utah is the only state which has since adopted an anti-cigarette law. The result was foretold by several of the editors who stated that the influence of the Mormon Church was against tobacco. The Mormon Church is also strong in Idaho, which is the other state where the use of tobacco was recently prohibited, but the governor has signed the bill just passed, in which the prohibitory legislation is repealed. In this state 89 per cent of the editors estimate sentiment in their communities as against tobacco prohibition, which, nevertheless, is 6 per cent below the average reported opposition.

"The legislature of Tennessee some weeks ago passed and the governor has signed a bill repealing the anti-tobacco law of that state. The questionnaire showed 93 per cent of its editors believed the public against anti-tobacco legislation. The legislature of Arkansas has also passed a bill repealing its anti-cigarette law. In this state 94 per cent of the editors reported against tobacco prohibition.

Arizona's Practical Joke
"A bill, introduced in the current session of the legislature of Arizona to prohibit smoking in public dining and other public places, was first amended to prohibit the consumption in public of peanuts, chewing gum, tea and coffee and then defeated by the senate. The questionnaire returns from that state were 92 per cent 'no'.

"In Iowa where the 'no's' were 95 per cent a bill to repeal the anti-cigarette law has been passed and signed by the governor.

"A bill to repeal the anti-cigarette law in Kansas, with 80 per cent 'no's', is receiving the attention of its legislature. Last year a petition for a referendum in Oregon to prohibit the use of tobacco failed of sufficient signature to bring the question to a vote, and 95 per cent of the editors declare their public against legislation. In Oklahoma an anti-cigarette bill has been reported unfavorably in the house. The editors of that state reported 94 per cent against its public support.

"Outside of Utah, where Mormon influence predominates," the article concludes, "the anti-tobacco movement appears, as in the case of Tennessee, Arkansas and Iowa, to be losing ground and is not to any considerable extent supported by the people."

The friends of tobacco feel particularly vindicated over this showing, inasmuch as 1920-21 was a maximum year in legislative circles with 42 state legislatures in session and the tobacco subject received an unusual amount of consideration.

ONE YEAR

In Jail Is Sentence For W. J. Foertmeyer, Pleading Guilty As Slacker.

Judge Regrets That Term Is Not as Long as Period American Cases Served Abroad.

"It would seem that those who are drafted and thus escape military duty might well be made to serve in the penitentiary as long as those who responded to the requirements of the draft served in France. But inasmuch as it appears that the present limit is one year it is impossible under the law to impose a penitentiary sentence. The sentence of the Court is that the defendant be imprisoned for the term of one year in Hamilton County Jail and to pay the costs of prosecution."

These were the remarks of United States District Judge John Weld Peck one day last week when Walter J. Foertmeyer, 32 years old, 642 West Seventh street, alleged draft evader, pleaded guilty to an indictment returned in December, 1918, charging him with having failed to register for selective service June 5, 1917.

Foertmeyer was represented by Attorney Edward F. Alexander who, in a statement to the Court, said he had advised his client to plead guilty because being unable to obtain bond, Foertmeyer would have to remain in jail until October awaiting trial and for certain other reasons, Alexander said he believed the indictment could be attacked successfully, on technical grounds.

He then entered a plea for clemency for his client. He said Foertmeyer arranged to leave the United States and go to Mexico before the selective service law was passed. He exhibited a passport obtained by Foertmeyer from the Mexican Consul in Cincinnati on May 7, 1917, and visaed at New Orleans on May 11, just before Foertmeyer sailed from that port to Yucatan, Mexico. He said his client registered as an American citizen with the American Consul in Yucatan upon his arrival there. He declared also Foertmeyer was a resident of Mexico when the draft act became a law on May 18, 1917.

Assistant United States District Attorney Thomas H. Morrow produced a letter from the American Consul in Yucatan in which it was stated Foertmeyer declined to register for selective service when asked to do so by the American Consul. He also read a report from a Department of Justice Agent at Laredo, Texas, in which Foertmeyer was reported to have stated he left the United States to evade military service in Mexico City from which place he was deported by the Mexican Government just before his arrest at Laredo.

Foertmeyer denied he made the statements reported by the agent. He admitted he had been deported as the result of an accusation that he had led in an attack of radicals of Mexico City upon the Mexican Chamber of Deputies, but said he was not concerned in the attack in any manner and knew nothing of it. He stated also that he has succeeded in convincing the Mexican officials of his innocence and expects to return to that country as soon as he obtains his freedom.

SAMUEL GOMPERS.

The victory of Mr. Samuel Gompers before the American Federation of Labor is one of the most important events of the calendar year, and it is a proof of the warped attitude that which people maintain toward labor problems that this happening is not more generally acclaimed as a triumph for 100 per cent. Americanism.

Samuel Gompers is a 100 per cent American if there is one in this country. His conduct during the war was, perhaps, nothing more than should have been expected from a patriotic American, but he was extraordinarily useful and always ready for his country's call.

In civil life Mr. Gompers is, and has been for many years, president of the American Federation of Labor. He stands for the rights of labor and for organization of labor into trade unions. There is never any doubt of which side he is on in a contest. That he has gone, at times in his zeal for the cause to which he has given the best part of his life, too far we will not deny. We think he is clearly mistaken in believing that government ownership of railroads would be the best thing the railroads, the employees, or the public. But Mr. Gompers has a right to his opinions and a right to present and argue them before the court of public opinion. He has done this in a temperate, reasonable way, and he has often been answered in a manner that has been neither temperate nor reasonable.

Upon the fundamental principles of political economy Mr. Gompers has a firm grasp. He has never been deluded by the will-o-the-wisp of Socialism. He opposes and denounces "direct action." He contends for labor's right to strike, but he has always opposed, and in the Federation of Labor always defeated, the revolutionary radicals.

Samuel Gompers is the wisest and ablest leader organized labor in America has ever had, and in character, in achievement, and patriotism compares favorably with the leading men in any other profession.—Louisville Post.

SHORTS.

Stock cars will have their innings on September 5, when the annual Pike's Peak hill climb will be held. Interest is greater than ever before, with 12 speedy and sturdy makes ready to face the stiff gradient of the twelve and a half mile course.

All entrants are out to better the wonder record made last year by the Lexington driven by Ralph Mulford. At the same time the Lexington company is out to keep the hill climbing title and will have its entries on the ground in August.

The Pike's Peak event is probably the most interesting of the season, and also because of the severe test of steep grade, rarified air and dangerous turns.

AUTO VICTIM

Frank McGrath, Well Known Democratic Leader Killed By An Automobile.

Mr. Frank McGrath, of Louisville, was crossing Walnut street when run down by the automobile driven by 13-year-old Hyman Godfrey, Traffic Officer Thurman Smith had opened traffic north and south and Mr. McGrath had just stepped from the curb. At his side was Miss Emma Casper, 25, a stenographer, of 404 Tenny avenue. John May, a negro messenger boy, was in the crowd riding on his bicycle.

Suddenly the Ford machine driven by the Godfrey boy swept wildly around the traffic officer in the center of the street, going at great speed. It swerved and struck Mr. McGrath, pinning him against the electric light standard. The next moment Mr. McGrath was pinioned under the car. Miss Casper was lying in the street and May was in the wreckage of his bicycle near the street intersection. Louis Godfrey, 10 years old, sat in the machine, his face cut by broken glass. Hyman Godfrey, the driver, was unhurt.

Mr. McGrath was taken out from under the car and carried into St. man's store. An improvised couch was made, and physicians summoned. Drs. R. E. Sullivan, Mohr and O'Reilly arrived in a moment later. Mr. McGrath was conscious a few moments. He asked that a priest be called and that some one fan him. Father Rock came immediately from the Cathedral and administered the last sacrament.

The accident happened at 4:20 o'clock. At 4:38 he breathed his last.

KIND WORDS

In Memory of a Departed Friend and Associate.

Hamilton, O., June 27, 1921.

Editor and Friends of W. L. Riddell.

I was sorry indeed to see in your paper of last week an account of the death of my old friend W. L. Riddell. I knew that he had been sick for some time, but was of the impression that he was getting better. He and I were associated together as members of the school board for several years, about fifty years ago. As I knew him he was an amiable, honest, honorable, just christian gentleman, loved and respected by all who knew him. I wish we could have many more like him. I met him at the Florence fair about three years ago, the first time since I left the county in 1883. It was a happy meeting, and it makes me very sad to think we will not meet again in this life, yet the thought that we will meet in the Great Beyond some sweet day, affords me and all his family, great comfort. Please extend to all my sincere sorrow and deepest sympathy in this time of affliction, trusting that we may all emulate the good we saw in his life, and thus prepare to meet him around the Throne of God where there will be no more parting, pain nor death.

Your Friend,

J. W. HOWE.

The Merchants Association of Boone County will hold a meeting at the Court House in Burlington, on Monday, July 11th, at 1 o'clock p. m. Don't fail to attend this meeting.

GRATIFYING

Are the Contributions to China Famine Relief Fund From Kentucky to Date.

The Chairman of the China Famine Relief Committee, Mr. E. Y. Mullins, announces that as the campaign draws to a close, the record of contributions from Louisville and Kentucky is most gratifying. The total receipts for China Famine Relief from Louisville and Kentucky have been as follows:

Up to June 22, 1921 the amount sent through the Louisville office at the Board of Trade has been $65,272.24.

The amount sent direct to the New York office from various points in Kentucky has been $23,800. The amount sent to Atlanta, Ga., from various points in Kentucky has been $2,108.01.

China Famine Relief Committee has been $91,180.25.

If there should be added to the above receipts the gifts that have been made by the various denominations through their mission boards for the relief of China famine sufferers, it would be necessary to add from $75,000 to $100,000 to the above total, making a grand total of $166,000 to $175,000 contributed from Kentucky for China famine relief. It is anticipated by the when all reports are in of the various county organizations throughout the state, that Kentucky will have subscribed its voluntary assumed quota of $100,000.00.

The China Famine Relief Committee considers that in view of the many appeals which have been made to Kentucky givers in recent years, this is a most creditable showing. It is announced by the General Committee that any money received after the close of the campaign will be used to care for the children who have been made orphans by the famine and to further prevent the spread of the famine in China. When the campaign is officially closed the Committee has made arrangements for the treasurer, Mr. Joseph Burge, to continue in this capacity to receive and forward any additional funds that may be contributed. Contributions may be sent, therefore, as heretofore to Joseph Burge, Board of Trade Building, Louisville, Ky.

BASE BALL.

Burlington journeyed to Petersburg to celebrate the fourth, but the joy of winning went to Petersburg. The morning game was one of the best games played by the locals this season, but they lost by a score of 2 to 0. The afternoon game was won by Petersburg easily by a score of 9 to 4. A large crowd was present and enjoyed both of the games. Hon. E. C. O'Hara, candidate for State Senator, was present and delivered a patriotic address in that masterly manner of his. The address was agem and those present were held spell bound by the Grant county orator.

Taylorport journeyed to Bellevue Monday and showed that they can play ball but the Bellevue boys stood their ground and when the smoke of battle had cleared and the final count made Bellevue was victorious in both the morning and afternoon games. The morning game was won by Bellevue by a score of 4 to 1, and the afternoon game by a score of 4 to 0. Both games were well played and kept the large crowd present excited until Finn made the last Taylorport man beat the air in the last inning. One of the runs scored by Bellevue was the result of three hits thrown in succession, which should have resulted in the latter being thrown out at first.

The fast Avalon team of Cincinnati, met defeat Monday in both games they played with Big Bone Monday. The first game was won by Big Bone by a score of 5 to 3. Black pitched this game and feeling fine, went on the rubber and pitched the afternoon game, winning by a score of 2 to 0.

Walton was defeated by Newport in a fast game Monday morning by a score of 8 to 6. In the afternoon Newport put up another good game and defeated the Walton boys by a score of 4 to 0.

Walton and Petersburg met on the grounds of the former last Saturday and in a well played game Walton won by a score of 3 to 1. This was an interesting game and the spectators got their money's worth.

At Verona last Saturday afternoon Bellevue with their club met the strong Verona club, and after nine innings of fast playing and good battery work by Scott and Ryle for Bellevue and Farrell and Gordon for Verona, the final result was 6 to 3 with Bellevue the victors. The game was the best that had been played at Verona this year. Those who saw this game say that it was well played but that Bellevue won by making hits that counted and put men over the plate.

THE VALUE OF PATRIOTISM.

When the Fourth of July orator talks about patriotism, the pacifists and socialists frequently say this is an old fashioned ideal and that it must give way to internationalism and love of humanity everywhere.

The human mind however, is so constituted that it needs more definite and nearby objects to arouse its better sentiments. You can persuade a man to make sacrifices by showing him what his country has done for him. In loyal responses to the noble deeds of his forefathers, he can be incited to give his effort or his life to the common cause.

Patriotism is the mother of many virtues. When you get a good patriot, you find a man who takes broad views of life, who is willing to sacrifice for the common good. His spirit of co-operation is so developed, that he will usually do for humanity the world over than a man who has nursed the misty dreams of internationalism. Let us do our utmost to make sure that every young person brought up in Boone county goes out into life a good patriot.

WELCOME

Awaits Boys From Twenty-One States at Camp Roosevelt.

Final arrangements have been completed, and Camp Roosevelt stands ready to welcome the boys from twenty-one states in the union to its midst. Officers and non-commissioned have been ordered to the camp by the U. S. War Department, the high school faculty, athletic directors, Y. M. C. A. secretaries, Red Cross physicians and nurses, and other welfare secretaries, stand ready to do their share in giving to those American lads the best summer's outing that ever a boy could have.

It's going to be a healthy, happy summer for those boys. The program for the day consists of drills and lectures in the morning, and recreation and sports in the afternoon. Each student has a chance to compete for honors constantly, as competitive drills, athletic meets and meets are held every week. Swimming, shooting, boxing and excellence in drill are all recorded. The Roosevelt medals are open for competition, and are admitted an honor worth winning.

Although registrations for the first period have closed, this does not mean that boys may not enter the second, third and fourth periods. Many vacancies still exist in those periods, and applications will be accepted if sent direct to Camp Roosevelt, Mushogon, Michigan.

Sheep Culling

Campaign for Boone Co. Farmers to Be Held First Week in August.

Farmers of Boone county are to receive special help with their sheep problems during first week in August, according to County Agent W. D. Sutton who announced today that a sheep culling campaign would be held in the county during that time by the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture, which is cooperating with him in the work. The object of the campaign will be to help farmers select those sheep from their flocks which are the most profitable both from the wool and lamb production standpoint and to suggest methods of mating which will improve the flocks of the county.

A number of community meetings will be arranged at which time R. C. Miller, sheep extension specialist from the College of Agriculture, who is in charge of the campaign, will discuss problems of sheep raising with the farmers, County Agent, Sutton, announced. Moving picture films and lantern slides will be used to illustrate the lectures. The day following the night meeting a demonstration will be conducted on some farm in the community to between the profitable and unprofitable animals in their flocks. Count that four night meetings and five suggestions will be held.

John F. Hornberger, aged 76, a prominent business man and life long citizen of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, died at his home in that city on Sunday of last week.

The candidates will be kept pretty busy interviewing the voters until August 6th. Just 30 days left before the voters will decide by their ballots the names of the successful candidates.

The community would probably be better off if some of these fellows who are playing cowbells in three jazz orchestras would go out in the country and tinkle the cowbells by driving the cattle out to pasture.

JUNE

The Month of Roses, Beginner of Summer Time Has Passed Away—July Is Here.

June the month of roses, beginner of summer time, has passed away and July is here. Now come the days of splendid heat which the corn absorbs and springs fast into fulfillment of June promises. Now the wide breaths of wheat yield to the reaper and the shocks stand comfortably close upon the land. The timothy harvest is on and is for the most part a fine one, while alfalfa makes widths of lively green as it comes toward its second cutting. July is a month of marvels, hurrying things forward toward final fruition. Now the farmer sees whether his plans have been wise or not, now the shooting corn tells the story of fertility. July is time for leisurely movements in men and beasts; it is if one does not hurry beneath a July sun. Early in the delicious mornings wise men are away with teams; during heat of midday the plowmen and control go. Wise is he who waters often his teams when afield under the July sun. Luxuriant growth marks July, in spite of hot sun and drying winds. Everything should be done to see that plant growth is not checked. Corn should be given to man and beast. Fly prevention and control go a long way. Anything conducive to coolness is welcome, whether fruit-juice beverages or visits to the old swimmin' hole.

July is, as a rule, the warmest month of the year, with frequent periods of high temperature in most sections of the country, and some extremely hot weather. Occasionally the hot waves are of extended duration and in some of the heat periods may be attended by "hot winds," which prove disastrous to vegetation.

The average summer temperature in the Southern States is considerably higher than in the Northern, but at the same time higher temperatures are of record in the Dakotas and Montana than have been known in Alabama, Mississippi or Florida.

July rainfall results largely from local thunderstorms, this being the month of their greatest frequency. Along the west coast of the Florida peninsula they occur on the average on more than 20 days of the month.

July rainfall is somewhat less than that of June over the Great Plains States, but in Western Texas, New Mexico and Arizona this is usually the wettest time of the year. The dry season is at its height on the Pacific slope.

MUD AND BREAD CRUSTS.

A diet of mud and crusts of bread alone, on an island in Salt River, was the plight of two children, a boy and girl found by officials of one of Kentucky's counties. That was several years ago and today from their memory have been effaced the hardships of childhood thru the care and home life surroundings of the Kentucky Children's Home Society, Louisville.

The two little waifs were discovered by their whimpering cries which led the county officers to the retreat on the island. Their parents were no where to be seen.

"Where are your parents?" the children were asked.

"They have gone," was the reply.

By questioning, it developed that the children had often been left for days at a time on the island by their parents and when the meager crusts of bread left them had been exhausted, they ate mud.

Their physical condition was deplorable, so after an investigation by the County Judge, he committed them to the care of the Kentucky Children's Home Society.

The Society is now building a model cottage village at Lyndon, Ky., and it is expected that the buildings will be far enough advanced to move 150 children there by October 15.

THIS IS THE MONTH.

To long for rain.

To forget such things as coats and starched white collars.

To spend the day to keep the flies away. It means relief for you as well.

To keep the milk pails clean. An ounce of sanitation is many times worth a whole can of milk these hot days.

To take those long pulls from the jug of cold water, and to be thankful no reformer has yet tried to prohibit "Adam's Ale."

To be patient with the boy in the field these days. Remember there are many rows of corn ahead of him yet to be hoed before he is an old man.

Reported the government expects to get $1,000,000 out of the war profiteers, which would be $50 out of each family in the country. Some of us would accept 50 cents each for our share of the claim.

MRS. L. H. VOSHALL DEAD.

Mrs. Liberty V. Stanfield Voshall, wife of L. H. Voshall, of Union, died very suddenly in Union Saturday evening July 2nd, 1921. Mrs. Voshall was born near Union April 25th, 1848, and was married to L. H. Voshall April 26th, 1877, and to this union one child was born, it having died in infancy. Funeral services were held at the residence in Union at 2 o'clock p. m., Tuesday, July 5th, Rev. Edgar C. Riley, officiating. Mrs. Voshall was well known by a number of people in Boone and adjoining counties and thought of in the highest terms by all. Mrs. Voshall was known for miles around as "Aunt Lib" and the children always found her to be their warm friend. Young and old will miss her as her counsel and advice was sought by them. The Recorder joins with all in extending to the husband their deepest sympathy.

SEVENTEEN

Become Ill at Picnic at Harvest Home Grounds—Tainted Ham Is Blamed.

Seventeen persons, two of whom are Cincinnatians and 15 of whom are widely known residents of Ludlow, Ky., suddenly became ill of ptomaine poisoning shortly after they had eaten ham sandwiches at the joint outing of the Ludlow Lodge 759, F. and A. M., and the Samuel Reed Lodge 478, F. and A. M., at Harvest Home picnic grounds, near Burlington, Monday afternoon.

Doctors C. R. Slater and L. C. Hafer, of Ludlow, who were attending the outing, were several hours in reviving a number of the victims.

All the stricken members of the party were removed to their homes in ambulances improvised from trucks and automobiles.

All those affected were members of the same party.

Derra White, who, according to Dr. Slater, suffered most from the effects of the poisoning and who for several hours was at the point of death, became ill earlier in the afternoon after he had sampled some of the lunch. As he soon recovered members of the party did not connect his sickness with the food because up to that time none of the others had eaten.

In the afternoon those attending the outing, numbering approximately 200, divided into separate parties and spread their lunch on the grass. By prearrangement the 17 persons who were poisoned made up one party. Each member had met Saturday evening and assisted in preparing the lunch which was taken out Monday in a truck. Mr. White said that the ham from which they made the sandwiches were not spoiled when they purchased it, but must have become tainted between Saturday night and Monday due to the hot weather.

Several members of the party said they had noticed the ham had an unusual taste, but each, believing the sandwiches were not spoiled, ate when they purchased it, but must have become tainted between Saturday night and Monday due to the hot weather.

SCHOOL NOTES.

An important announcement has just been received from the State Department as follows: An examination for elementary, state and high school certificates will be given at Franklin in the office of the State Superintendent on July 22nd and 23rd, beginning at 8:30 a. m. A special examination will be given throughout the State on the 5th and 6th of August if reports are received indicating demand sufficient to justify it, as I believe they will and the above notice is sufficient to cause teachers interested to act as their judgment requires.

J. C. GORDON,

Superintendent.

ONLY DEMOCRATS CAN VOTE.

The question has been asked the RECORDER, if a person voted the Republican ticket last November can he vote in the primary election to be held August 6th? No. Only persons who voted the Democratic ticket at the last November election and Democrats who have arrived of age or who will be 21 years of age before the November election are entitled to vote. A person in order to change from one party to another must do so at the regular November election. No Republican or person who voted the Republican ticket at the last November election is entitled to vote at the coming primary election to be held August 6th.

NOTICE.

A call meeting of the directors of the Farm Bureau will be held at the office July 9th, at 9 a. m., to complete plans for the Farmers picnic and other business that may come up. Let every director be present.

J. COLIN KELLY,

Secretary.

FLORENCE.

Glad to report Mrs. Lee Eddins out after a two weeks severe illness. Phil Lambert sold his property and entire business to Ross Conrad, one day last week.

The truck drivers are having some trouble getting into the city, as the Burlington road, is almost impassable.

Rev. Garber will begin a revival at the Baptist Church the 4th Sunday of this month.

The colored people had their church building wired for electric lights last week.

There seems to be a fairly good crop of blackberries and a splendid crop of pickers.

Several are complaining of their late potatoes rotting before they sprout.

J. R. Whitson cannot forget old friends. He visits them every week. Florence defeated Big Bone 7 to 3 Sunday at Florence.

G. F. Schram is improving the appearance of his residence with a coat of paint.

Will Boyer spent Sunday with his sister in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Lute Tanner is home after a visit with her son Claude Tanner and wife, of Union.

Glad to report the sick in this neighborhood improving.

Candidates are busy now looking after the votes in this vicinity.

Dr. W. S. Cole and son Winfield, of Columbus, motored over Sunday to spend the fourth here.

GUNPOWDER

L. M. Rouse and wife and P. J. Allen and wife broke bread with this writer last Sunday.

Redmon Gossett and family spent Saturday night and Sunday with this writer last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rouse entertained several of their friends at dinner last Sunday.

Spent from Saturday until Monday with his father S. J. Robbins.

Wm. Quigley of Lima, was joy riding on our ridge last Sunday. His machine quit on him, and he called Ross Conrad, and in a short while he had it running and he went on his way rejoicing.

Hay harvest is on and rather a light crop is being harvested, and some of the meadows are of rather poor quality on account of the heavy crop of weeds.

After an illness of several weeks little Bulah May, daughter of Albert Robbins and wife, died the first inst., at the age of 2 years 9 months and 2 days. A very impressive funeral service was conducted by Rev. Royer at Hopeful last Sunday after which the remains were interred in the Hopeful cemetery in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends. The family have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

FRANCESVILLE.

Several from this neighborhood witnessed the ball games between Bellevue and Taylorsport at Bellevue, the 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. John Whitaker and little son, and Frank Estes spent Sunday at W. L. Brown's.

Jerry Estes visited relatives at Shelbyville, Ind., last Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Amanda Koons and Sadie Reiman had as guests Friday night and Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Harris and father, of Cincinnati.

Miss Bessie Swamy of Addyston, is visiting relatives here.

Rev. B. F. Swindler spent Sunday at W. H. Eggleston's.

The members of Sand Run church aided by Rev. W. A. M. Wood and Bro. Swindler organized a B. Y. P. U. Sunday evening. This Union will have a meeting every week, and will be very profitable and interesting.

Gordon Souther, of Constance, has announced as a candidate for Justice of the Peace from the Constance-Florence precinct. Mr. Souther was born, and has resided all of his life near P. Pleasant, has been a life long Democrat and this is his first entrance in the political game. Mr. Souther is one of our foremost young men and if he is elected he will exert his best efforts in discharging the duties of the office. In asking your support Mr. Souther pledges himself to honestly and fearlessly take care of the interest of his people.

COL. ARMSTRONG'S COMMENT ON CENSUS REPORT OF KENTUCKY HORSES

The War Department is interested in the increase of Pure-Bred Horses

"There is the utmost need in this country today of increasing the number of pure-bred horses, particularly those of the thoroughbred type, on which the War Department must depend for its cavalry mounts in case of national emergency."

The above is a passage from the statement by Col. Frank S. Armstrong, Chief of the U. S. Army Remount Service, relative to the 1920 census of Kentucky horses.

The uneasiness of practical patriots like Colonel Armstrong over the situation was amply justified by the lesson of the last great war, which so strikingly demonstrated the value of the horse in connection with modern warfare and revealed what would have become a pitiful shortage, had the Germans held out only a very few weeks longer than they did.

Nor must we forget the importance of breeding better horses more extensively in times of peace. Better bred horses mean better work horses; better prices for them, and a readier market.

The 1920 census figures indicate that Kentucky, as usual, will lead her sister states as to both number and class of horses, but even here are far from approaching what should be our quota in either count.

Colonel Armstrong's statement in full is as follows:

"Despite the very small amount of pure-bred stock, as compared with the total number of horses in the state, I believe that when similar figures for the other states become available, a comparison of all will show that Kentucky still holds its rank as the foremost state in producing thoroughbreds."

"The relatively small percentage of thoroughbreds and of other classes of pure-bred stock included in the total number of horses in Kentucky, is a general, and not a local, situation, and the other states probably will show even smaller percentages. The same conditions, I am told, prevail with livestock other than horses, though probably not to the same extent as with the latter."

The American Remount Association that there is the utmost need in this country today of increasing the number of pure-bred horses, particularly those of the thoroughbred type, on which the War Department must depend for its cavalry mounts in case of national emergency, and which it met with great difficulty in procuring in sufficient numbers during the recent war.

The national need of upbuilding and increasing American thoroughbred horses can not, in my opinion, be over-emphasized."

NOTICE

Changes in Petersburg, Bullittsville and Walton voting Precincts.

BOONE COUNTY COURT, REGULAR TERM 8th DAY OF MARCH, 1921. HON. N. E. RIDDELL, JUDGE PRESIDING.

ORDER

To conform with Chapter 64, Acts 1920, Kentucky, it is now ordered that the Bullittsville Precinct be divided into two voting Precincts—the line dividing same to be as follows:

Beginning at a point on the Ohio River at the mouth of Sand Run Creek—thence with the center of said creek to the public road just south of the Sand Hill School House; thence in a South Easterly direction to a point in the road in front of G. E. McGlasson's gate; thence in a southerly direction to a point in the Bullittsville and Dry Creek pike— $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile west of the residence of Cecil Burns, thence South to a point in the Burlington Precinct line.

All that portion west of said line shall be known as Bullittsville Precinct and that part east of said line shall be known as Hebron Voting Precinct.

Polling places shall be in Bullittsville and Hebron respectively.

It is also ordered that Petersburg Voting Precinct be divided into two Voting Precincts, for the reasons stated above:—The line dividing the same to be as follows:

Beginning at a point in the line dividing the Burlington and Petersburg Precinct in the center of Woodper Creek thence with the center of the pike to the center of the Burlington and Petersburg pike; thence with the center of said pike to the town of Petersburg; thence north through said town to the Ohio River.

That part of said precinct East of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 1—that part west of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 2. Voting places for both Precincts shall be the Town of Petersburg.

It appearing that the vote cast in the two Walton Voting Precincts, at the last Election, showed that said Precinct was not divided as the law requires, viz:—There being 237 votes cast in Precinct No. 1 and 442 Votes cast in Precinct No. 2 and said division is now set aside, and it is now ordered that said Walton Precinct be divided into voting Precincts as follows:

Beginning at a point in the center of the Cruises Creek Road in the Boone and Kenton county line; thence with the center of said road to the L. & N. R. R.; thence with the said R. R. to the L. & N. Depot in Walton thence Southwest to a point in the Walton and Stephenson Mill Road just South of a small bridge; thence with said road to Mud Lick Creek.

That part North of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 1—and that part South of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 2. Voting places for both Precincts shall be in Walton.

STATE OF KENTUCKY COUNTY OF BOONE

I, W. R. Rogers Clerk of the County Court, in and for the County of Boone, do hereby certify that the foregoing are true and correct copies of orders made in the Voting Precincts of Bullittsville, Petersburg and Walton, as appears of record in my office.

Given under my hand this 28th day of March, 1921.

W. R. ROGERS, Clerk.

I, L. A. Conner, Sheriff of Boone County, give this notice of the changes in the Petersburg, Bullittsville and Walton precincts this June 15th, 1921.

L. A. CONNER, S. B. C.

The Chataqua held last Thursday, Friday Saturday and Sunday was well attended, except the extra Sunday evening program. Some of the people who attended enjoyed the different programs. The entertainment given by the young people of the community in connection with the Chataqua people was by far the best program given. It seems that the people are tiring of the Chataqua as they did not take the same interest as in former years.

"WAIT" AND "HUSH."

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, (Rep.) continues to hide the present administration for its policy of "drifting." Under the caption "Nobody Knows."

"In Washington nobody knows just what the inner circles of the Administration are doing about the three greatest of our foreign problems. There is silence; a silence that may mean anything or nothing."

"This is June 20. The Harding Administration came into power on March 4. More than a hundred days have come and gone since. We are in the fourth month of a new Administration pledged to action on peace, the limitation of armament and a world association of nations."

"What has been done? Just what are the accomplishments in these pledged matters?"

"The House and Senate are having a tug-of-war over the form and scope of a 'declaratory peace resolution.' The White House, to all appearances, is troubled over the deadlock."

"The foreign policies of the Harding Administration retain their wrappings of uncertainty and their mists of vagueness. There is a wall of silence around them. Cryptic utterances are the rule. The oracle when it speaks as did the Oracle of Delphi."

"The passwords are two: 'wait' and 'hush.' But what of peace? Of the limitations of armament? Of the association of nations? Outside of the inner circle nobody knows."

"Is it possible the Administration inner circle itself does not know?"

PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

The Chamber of Deputies in France recently passed a law requiring physical education of all children through the 16th year. Japan has had physical education of children for 20 years. Sweden has had universal physical education for a long time. Great Britain provides national co-operation with local communities having physical education.

The United States claims to be the most progressive country in the world. Yet it is away behind these other nations in physical training. Not over one tenth of our school pupils have this form of development. Recent school surveys have shown that more than half of the country. The experience of the draft boards demonstrated that one third of our young men are not physically fit.

It seems strange that the United States, which is as rich as when it entered the war, can not do as much for its children as the debt laden nations of Europe. There are differences of opinion as to whether physical education should be a federal or state enterprise, but that is a minor point. The essential thing is to do something to turn out a physically efficient race of young people.

A great deal of industrial inefficiency is caused by poor physical condition. The boy or girl who has a half developed body feels perpetually tired. The army did not want him, because he could not stand the strain. He is equally a detriment to a store or a factory. He drags thru his work in a half hearted way. He lacks the mental energy to improve the quality of his performance, and drags along from year to year looking at the clock and hoping for quitting time.

The country can not attain a high range of well being, until it takes steps to build up a new generation having strong bodies, able to cope with the work of life. There are many young people who will be condemned to failure and discouragement unless they get this kind of training in the schools.

THE NEW CHIEF JUSTICE.

William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, is the new Chief Justice of the United States, succeeding the late Edward Douglass White.

He was nominated by President Harding for the highest judicial office of the nation. The Senate, as an act of courtesy to a former President, confirmed the nomination without the usual reference to a committee.

For the first time in the history of the republic, will have been the experience of one man to have filled the offices of President and Chief Justice of the United States.

Among the famous citizens of Cincinnati few, if any, have surpassed in their dignity and value the public services of William Howard Taft. With a record which covered years of distinguished service in broadly different fields of activity, it is gratifying not only to his fellow citizens of Cincinnati and the state of Ohio, but to all patriotic citizens that he has been called to the highest office in the gift of the republic, save that of the Presidency.

As jurist, diplomat, colonial administrator, lawyer, citizen and President of the republic, Judge Taft has won the respect and admiration of the American people. There is no slightest blot on his escutcheon either as private citizen or public servant.

It would be difficult to estimate at their true worth the services of Judge Taft to America and the world. He was the pioneer in the matter of some constructive agreement between the nations which might bring abiding peace throughout the earth. As an international lawyer he probably has no peers. As a vital educational force in the work of assisting society toward the attainment of a broader and nobler humanity he has few equals.

The country is to be congratulated that the great lawyers who so distinguished this position in the past will have in their latest successor a man worthy of, and able to sustain, the proudest traditions of the office.

D. K. Stimson, a Henderson county farmer who is cooperating with County Agent D. W. Martin, will conduct a wheat variety demonstration this fall, according to a report from Burlington. He will plant fifty bushels of Ashland wheat, the new pedigree strain developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Two other farmers in the same county will conduct similar demonstrations.

Farmers of Fulton county cooperating with County Agent O. L. Cunningham and Assistant County Agent J. P. Ricketts have started a better sire-better stock campaign. They are also making plans to organize a livestock shipping association.

August 24 next, the planet Mars will come the closest to the earth for many years; the gap will then be only about 35,000,000 miles. People who have any idea of moving to Mars should be all ready to jump when the proper moment comes.

IS THE NEGRO PASSING.

(Charleston News and Courier.)

The figures made public by the Bureau of Census giving the population of the United States by races are exceedingly interesting to the whole country and especially to the people of the South. They show some very remarkable developments which cannot fail to arrest the attention of all thinking men and women.

It will take some time to fully analyze and digest these figures and their implications, but the most striking things which a casual examination reveals is the fact that in the decade from 1910 to 1920 the white population of the states of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas and the District of Columbia, listed by the Census Bureau as the "South," showed an increase from 20,547,420 to 24,133,527, or a net gain of 3,586,107 whites. The negro population of the States named increased during the decade only 162,832. The gain in white population was therefore 22 times as great as the gain in negro population; in other words, for every negro added to the South's white population in the decade twenty-two white persons were added.

For the South this is a development of the importance of which, and the possibilities of which, if continued, are tremendous. Scarcely less striking is the fact, revealed by the census figures for the country as a whole, that the total white population during the past decade has been only 535,250. To comprehend the meaning of so slight an increase in negro population during the past ten years it is necessary to point out the manner in which the negro population has increased in the United States by decades during the past one hundred years.

A NATIONAL BUDGET.

A bill to establish the budget system has received the President's signature. In all its more important features the bill is the same as the one voted by President Wilson last June, but avoids his constitutional objection by requiring the President's approval for removal of certain appointive officials provided for in the act.

The passage of the bill marks the culmination of efforts to secure such legislation which have extended over the past twenty years or more. For many years prior to the world war, economy had not been a pressing problem with legislators, because existing sources of revenue had been amply sufficient to meet all governmental expenses. As the income tax began to provide a large proportion of the Federal revenue, interest in budget legislation increased, and it has been recognized that our war bill would probably not have been so heavy if an efficient budget system had been in operation during the years when governmental expenditures were mounting at unprecedented rates. Certainly any financial machinery that will assist the administration in exercising strictest economy is most appropriate just now when there is so great a demand for tax reduction. Although it is self-evident that reduction in the cost of government must precede reduction in tax bills, that fact has hardly been sufficiently stressed in current discussions.

The new budget bill will correct the wasteful system under which department estimates of expenditures were merely transmitted to Congress without review or correlation by executive authority. It creates in the Treasury Department a Bureau of the Budget, the heads of which are appointed by the President and made directly responsible to him. Under his direction and for him the Bureau is charged with compiling an itemized estimate of the receipts and expenditures of the government for the ensuing year. The President submits these estimates to Congress and recommends methods of adjusting revenue to estimated expenditure.

The gain is significant. The President, the one official of the administration who is directly accountable to the people for the efficient and economical operation of the government, formulates the initial balance between income and outgo. In place of the haphazard methods of finance heretofore in use in our national government, we may now look forward to business-like planning of outlay in the light of expected income. A similar system has been found to work well in state governments and should result in real cooperation in financial matters between the executive and Congress, except possibly when political differences render these two branches of our government entirely out of harmony with each other.

It is hardly fair to say the superfluous office holders don't do anything, as they are working hard to establish political pulls to save their jobs.

The kids who hang around the outside of the ball grounds and look through the knot holes, aren't objecting to all these home runs being knocked.

The men who think women's place is in the home, are sometimes the same ones who can't hold their own in competition with women.

MENTAL ATTITUDE AND BUSINESS.

Many panics and depressions have started, not because there was sufficient reason for the same, but as the result of pessimism in the business community. And on the contrary, if you could create the general feeling at the present moment that highly prosperous times are immediately in sight, you could have all signs of depression cleared away within 10 weeks.

Financial authorities say that the recently perilous conditions of speculation and extravagance no longer exist. But the business is held back by the lack of faith of many, who can't seem to believe that the country will buy a normal volume of merchandise at present. As the consumption of commodities even in hard times is something enormous, there is business for those who will get out and hustle. And those who have faith in the future are the ones who fail to secure the advantage of prosperity waves when they come.

If in every community you can get a group of hopeful men working to spread the spirit of business optimism, it will not be long before the reports of unemployment have disappeared, and business men will be shouting to the factories to hurry up delayed shipments.

The people who rise in the business world are almost invariably optimists. Their spirit of sunshine shows out in the trifles of daily life. When other people think the weather looks bad they remark cheerfully on the brightening skies and the passing clouds.

If others think the country is going to the dogs, these fellows see basic conditions sound, and unfavorable influences being dissipated. The "can't be done spirit" fades out of sight in their presence.

A fellow who has that temperament quickly wins friends and attention. If there is a question of promoting anybody, or finding a man for some big position, a fellow of that type gets it. He inspires confidence by his persistent feeling that anything that needs to be done can be done.

WITH THE STATISTICIANS.

Iowa has 208,120 farms, of which nearly one half are operated by their owners.

The American bale of cotton is 500 pounds, the Egyptian 700 lbs., and the West African 400 pounds.

In Pennsylvania approximately three women are at work in some division of the farming industry to every man.

Only 13 women in every 100 in this country have a regular vacation.

One farmer in every 17 in Pennsylvania employs women helpers.

Berlin is the third largest city in Europe.

Shrimps in the North Sea, in waters as far from Ostend, are the choicest in the world.

More than 25 per cent of the working women in this country in 1910 were married and more than 15 per cent widowed or divorced.

SQUIBS.

$1,000,000 TO BE HAD FOR FARMS IN KENTUCKY.

Washington.—Indications were indications were that before the end of the fiscal year Thursday midnight, more than a million dollars in Federal aid road money will be awarded Kentucky. To assist in awarding this money before Thursday midnight, State Highway Commissioner Joe Boggs arrived Wednesday. He was summoned by telegraph. Projects in Laurel, Whitley, Bell, Henderson and Boyd counties are to be approved.

Even at that the little American hen is still doing all she can to redeem the situation, and if everybody else would only do as well, everything would come out all right. An Oklahoma farmer is quoted as having made more money the last year from 48 hens than he made from his 14-bale cotton crop.

GREATEST SPRING LAMB MARKET.

Louisville's claim to being the greatest spring lamb market of the world is rapidly being substantiated in figures of sales at the Bourbon Stock Yards this year. All records of the past four years are being broken by shipments from the South into the stockyards here.

From the figures compiled by G. A. Birch, general manager of the Bourbon Stock Yards, a comparison with the same period of last year is made showing that the increase in lambs to June 25 is 53,836. From the first of June to June 25th, 96,112 lambs were sold in the Bourbon Stock Yards. In the first five months of the year the receipts were 59,425 making a total with the June figures of 145,537. In the same period of 1920 the total receipts were 91,701.

But the magnitude of the receipts is not the only remarkable feature of the Louisville market, this year. The bidding has at all times been active, particularly for the best grade lambs. Tops have been in steady demand and despite frequent fluctuations in the general average of choice prices tops have had a decided influence in giving the market tone.

Analysis of the market this year shows that spring lamb is experiencing rapid strides in favor with a discriminating public. Eastern buyers have been particularly sensitive to this disposition on the part of the consumers, quality of the Kentucky spring lamb also has created a demand in itself with those who are growing in appreciation of this delicacy.

Because the presence of this buying element at Louisville and the recognition by the shippers, always sensitive to the best paying market—of the fact the prices have been inviting, the indications are that the receipts at the Bourbon Stock Yards this year will exceed those of last year by 100,000 head at least, if the present increase is sustained throughout the year. The total receipts for 1920 covering the entire year were 248,248.

In connection with the demand for high grade lambs the Louisville Live Stock Exchange is actively engaged in promoting the Federal Government's campaign for better bred and more numerous animals. A second Farmer's Better Sire Sale will be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards August 11, when 200 pure bred bucks and ewes and 2,000 high grade ewes will be sold.

Support to this movement is being given by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association, the latter sharing with the Exchange in conducting of the sale by supplying thru their members the pure bred and high grade animals to be offered at the sale.

BUSINESS SITUATION.

Business at the beginning of 1921 faced three primary obstacles to the conduct of affairs on anything like a normal plane. Commodity prices were still in many cases grossly inflated. Wages were still on a war basis. The banking position was obviously strained. These obstacles are not to be regarded as entirely overcome, but much progress has been made.

Six months ago it scarcely seemed possible that by this time prices for many raw materials would have reached a point of approximate stabilization; that wage reductions would have been accepted by workers in widely diversified industries in the realization and finally that the banking position as a whole could have improved to the extent indicated by the substantial reduction in the borrowings of reporting member banks at the Federal reserve banks. Such borrowings have declined nearly 40 per cent, from the maximum reached last fall.

Sentiment with respect to business will naturally fluctuate in time these. The reaction from the spurt in spring business has caused disappointment. The end of the premarital revival in the automobile industry and the renewed downward movement in the prices of some commodities, notably sugar and petroleum, have been factors in bringing about a spirit of pessimism which is not entirely justified when the improvement in fundamental conditions is considered.

On the other hand, it is unwise to expect other than quiet business during the summer months. Satisfactory recovery can come only after a protracted period, during which price liquidation must be completed as to manufactured and semi-finished goods and confidence in the future restored. Closely connected, too, with domestic business is the state of trade abroad and especially in Europe where political considerations may be a powerful influence in shaping the future. But in this direction also encouragement may be found in the fixing of a definite schedule of reparations payments as well as the now plainly discernible determination of most of the peoples of Europe to resume productive enterprise as rapidly as possible.

Who says that "bargain" tires are what the people want

MOST everybody knows the easy-going sort of man who never takes a tire seriously until he gets a blow-out.

How long he will resist universal tire education is a question.

But this is sure—

More people are finding out every day that between leaving things to luck and getting real economy there is a big difference.

Many a car-owner has come to U. S. Tires because he couldn't afford to keep on paying that difference.

Probably seven out of ten users of U. S. Tires came to them only after they'd had enough of "discounts," "bargain offers," "clearance sales of surplus stocks" and other similar appeals.

They have found economy—and they stick to it.

They pay a net price—not "something off list" that may not mean anything in the first place.

They get fresh, live tires, being made and shipped while this message is being written.

No matter where they live there's a nearby U. S. Dealer with his nearby U. S. Factory Branch.

U. S. Tires keep moving.

No opportunity to get old and dried out. No shifting here and there trying to find a market.

Every U. S. Tire a good tire, wherever you find it anywhere in the country.

Because the U. S. policy is a good policy that serves the car-owner all the time.

Doing the very best for him that human good faith can do.

THE ZEAL FOR LEARNING.

At school commencements of former years the orators used to tell about the noted scholars who were so anxious to perfect themselves in their lessons that they used to "burn the midnight oil" as the phrase was. The only midnight oil burned by students in these times is that at dances, supper parties and other festivities. This does not mean that the present race of young folks is decadent. In our grandfathers' times, there were no athletics to take up the attention. Many young people studied because that was the only form of competition existing and there was not much else to do.

Yet such an enormous volume of literature is offered the public in these times, that many people become indifferent to the printed page as the result of being surfeited with it. They never acquire that thirst for information that was characteristic of the older days when reading matter was scarce and precious.

The story is told of a boy who used to live in a remote village where the only periodical his family was able to buy was a weekly newspaper which gave but a meager record of events. But it was all that he had, and he was so eager to get it that he would walk a mile or more each Friday, the day the paper was issued, down to the cross roads where the carrier would bring the little old sheet. He wanted the paper so badly that he used to go there about a couple of hours before the carrier, hoping that by some chance the mail man would come along early so he could get the beloved journal quicker.

That spirit of intense thirst for knowledge has helped many men climb the ladder to fortune. This boy referred to grew up to become a prominent figure in politics and newspaper work in his state.

The young people who in these times of abundant knowledge have something of that spirit, will find that the thirst for knowledge is always rewarded. Those that know how to use the tools of life, who have been willing to study and inform themselves while others fooled and frittered, are the ones who will take the positions of trust and responsibility.

EARLY FLOWING

For Fall Wheat Generally Favored By Farm Specialists.

Early plowing for fall wheat is now generally accepted as good practice. It is true that early plowing increases theyield where the soil is not very fertile, says the Nebraska College of Agriculture. Where the soil is very rich early and deep plowing may result in too rank a growth of the straw. When plowing is done early somewhat more fertility becomes available in the soil.

There is likely to be less weed growth to draw on the food and water supply, the loose soil takes in more of the rain, and the stubble and weeds that are turned under have a longer period to decay and benefit the crop. The soil has more time to settle and become firm and hence a better seed bed is frequently possible, and disking and harrowing will result in a mellow and compact soil for seeding.

In order to get the harvested wheat out of the way for early plowing many farmers stack instead of waiting to thresh out of the shock. Rain and other interference with threshing frequently delay work until early plowing is out of the question.

The office holders believe strongly in the theory that frequent changes in official positions prevents building up any consistent policy, while the office seekers are convinced that what the government needs is new blood.

SPECIALISTS

Estimate That 3,143,279 Hens In Kentucky Will Stop Laying During July and August.

Lexington, Ky.—During July and August approximately 3,143,279 Kentucky hens will stop laying and loaf until the following spring, according to estimates made by specialists in the Poultry Department of the College of Agriculture.

The estimates were made from results obtained last year in the poultry-culling campaign which showed that one third of the hens in the state loafed after the months named.

These hens are the early molters of the flock and certain characteristics which they show at this time of the year make it easy for the farmer to distinguish them from the layers and cull them from the flock, according to the specialists. The factors which are important in determining the loafers are summarized in Circular No. 101, which has just been issued by the college.

"When a bird stops laying in the summer she usually starts molting. The later a hen lays in the summer or the longer the period over which she lays the greater will be her production, so that the high producer is the late-layer and hence the late molter. The length of time that a hen has been molting or has stopped laying can be determined by the rate of a renewal of the feathers. First the molty feathers are shed, the tail feathers next and then those of the wings.

"Color changes due to laying take place in the beak and shanks. Laying uses up the surplus fat in the body and especially removes the fat from the beak. The different parts of the body tend to bleach and become white as the stored fat is used.

The color goes out of the beak beginning at the base and gradually disappearing until it leaves the front part of the upper beak. The shanks are the slowest to bleach out. A bleached shank usually indicates fairly heavy egg production for at least 15 to 20 weeks.

"Heavy production is also shown by the quality of the skin. Heavy producers have a soft, velvety skin that is not overlaid with layers of hard fat. The head of a high layer is also fine, the wattles and earlobes fitting closely to the beak. A good layer is more active and nervous and yet more easily handled than a poor layer.

"If the comb, wattles and earlobes are large, full, smooth and waxy the bird is laying heavily. If the comb is limp the bird is only laying slightly, but not laying at all when the comb is dried, especially at molting time."

RICE A DELICIOUS FOOD WHEN PROPERLY COOKED.

Many Americans do not realize that millions of people eat rice as regularly as Americans and Europeans eat bread. It is a palatable food, too, and when properly cooked it can be combined in many ways with more expensive and highly flavored foods into nutritious dishes. Farmers' Bulletin 1195, Rice as Food, just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is filled with directions for cooking rice in many attractive ways not now known to American housewives who are concerned daily with the task of providing properly balanced meals.

Although the Orient produces about 97 per cent of the world's rice crop, the United States now grows more than enough for its present annual consumption. Cultivation began in the Carolinas and Georgia in colonial days, and has now assumed commercial importance in Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, and the Sacramento Valley in California, and there are scattered plantings in Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, and Missouri. The rice fields here are large, often several thousand acres in extent, and modern machinery much used for seeding, harvesting, and threshing wheat is used.

The varieties of rice grown in this country rank among the best in the world. Of the many tested here two varieties, Carolina Gold and Carolina White, seem best adapted to the Atlantic coast fields; the Honduras and several Japanese varieties to Louisiana, Texas, and Arkansas, and the Japanese to California. The U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Plant Industry, has been authorized to the Division of Agriculture, U. S. D. C.

How Many Objects in this Picture Start with the Letter "C"

The Picture above contains a number of objects beginning with the letter "C." Just take a good look at the picture. There are all kinds of things that begin with the letter "C"—like cow, calf, cane, etc. Nothing is hidden; you don't have to turn the picture upside down. Make a list of all the objects in the picture, the names of which begin with the letter "C." See who can find the most. Don't miss any. Fifteen Prizes will be awarded for the fifteen best lists of words submitted. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of words will be awarded First Prize; second best, 2nd Prize, etc.

Everybody Join In

The "Cincinnati Post" announces a most interesting and amusing puzzle—a puzzle that is different and in which all can participate—from the finest child to grandfather and great grandma. It is really isn't a puzzle at all, for all the objects have been made perfectly plain with no attempt to disguise or hide them. None are so small but what the poorest eyesight can see them; it is a test of skill. Your ability to find "C-words" determines the prize you win. Right after the dishes are done this evening, gather all the members of your family together, give each one of them a pencil and sheet of paper—and see who can find the most "C-words." We know you will enjoy it, for everyone loves a puzzle.

Open to All—Costs Nothing to Try

The "Post" invites you, Mr. and Mrs. Reader and Family, to join in this puzzle game. We know you will find it to be the best game ever—full of fun and excitement; educational and interesting to all. Now that is saying a lot but wait until you have tried it. We venture to say: "You will never have as much fun." It doesn't look hard, it isn't hard. Write down those C-words you have in mind right now. Study the picture carefully. It is an interesting picture, just bubbling over with fun for puzzle lovers.

This is a puzzle game just for our readers outside the city of Cincinnati. No one living in Cincinnati is allowed to compete.

Observe These Rules

1. Any man or woman or child residing outside the city of Cincinnati who is not an employee of the "Cincinnati Post" or a member of an employee's family may submit an answer. It costs nothing to try.
2. All answers must be mailed by July 23, 1921, and sent to Puzzle Manager, "Cincinnati Post."
3. All list of names should be written on one side of the paper only, and numbered consecutively, 1, 2, 3, etc. Write your full name and address on each page in the upper right hand corner. Do not write subscribers' names or anything else on list of words; use separate sheet.
4. Only words found in the English dictionary will be counted. Do not use obsolete words. Use either the singular or plural, but where the plural is used, the singular cannot be counted, and vice versa.
5. Words of the same spelling can be used only once, even though used to designate different objects. An object can be named only once; however, any part of the object may also be named.
6. Do not use hyphenated or compound words; nor words formed by the combination of two or more complete English words, where each word in itself is an object.
7. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of names of visible objects shown in the picture that begin with the letter "C" will be awarded first prize, etc. Neatness, style, or handwriting have no bearing upon deciding the winners.
8. Candidates may cooperate in answering the puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to any one household; nor will prizes be awarded to more than one of any group outside of the family where two or three have been working together.
9. In the event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be paid to each tie participant.
10. All answer will receive the same consideration regardless of whether or not a subscription by mail for the "Cincinnati Post" is sent in.
11. Three Cincinnati business men having no connection with the "Cincinnati Post" will be selected to act as judges and decide the winners. They will use Webster's New International Dictionary as their reference and participants agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.
12. The judges will meet on August 3 and announce the list of Prize Winners and correct list of words will be published in the "Cincinnati Post" just as quickly thereafter as possible.

THE PRIZES

Winning Answers will receive Prizes as follows:

	Prizes Given if no subscriptions are sent	Prizes Given if ONE subscription is sent	Prizes Given if TWO subscriptions are sent

14th Prize	2.00	10.00	20.00
15th Prize	2.00	10.00	20.00

NOTE—In the event the winner of first prize has not qualified with subscriptions and fails to win the full $1,000, the balance of this prize money shall be divided proportionately among the remaining prize winners who have qualified with subscriptions.

You Can Win $1000

This C-word Picture Puzzle Game is a Campaign to increase the popularity of the "Cincinnati Post" outside the city of Cincinnati. It costs nothing to take part. It is not a subscription contest, and you do not have to send in a single subscription to win a prize.

If your list of "C-words" is awarded first prize by the judges, you will win $350.00, but if you would like to win more than $35, we are making the following special offer during this big Publicity and Booster Campaign, whereby you can win bigger Cash Prizes by sending in ONE or TWO yearly subscriptions BY MAIL ONLY, maximum two (subscriptions to the "Cincinnati Post" at $5.00 a year).

HERE'S HOW: If your answer to the "C-Word" Picture Puzzle is awarded first prize by the three independent judges, and you have sent in ONE yearly subscription to the "Cincinnati Post" by mail at $5.00 (new or renewal), you will receive $350 instead of $35.

Or, if your answer is awarded first prize by the judges, and you have sent in TWO yearly subscriptions to the "Cincinnati Post," $10.00 in all, you will receive $1,000 in place of $35.

How is this for a liberal offer? But look! We will give extra amounts on all prizes in the same manner. If your answer is qualified by TWO subscriptions and you win second prize, you will receive $750, and so on down. (See 3rd column in prize list above.)

It takes but TWO subscriptions (new or renewal) to qualify for the BIG $1,000 REWARD ABSOLUTELY! Two subscriptions is the maximum. Your own subscription will count, or subscription to start at some future date. Just write on the order when you want the paper started and it will start promptly on that date.

Anyone residing outside the city of Cincinnati may submit an answer but only R. F. D. mail delivery subscriptions, or subscriptions to be delivered by mail in towns where the Post has no carrier, will count in the contest.

ASKED TO HELP

DR. MCMULLEN.

All County Health Officers urged By State Health Officer To Co-operate.

Louisville, July 2.—Every county health officer in Kentucky has been urged by Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, to co-operate with Dr. John McMullen of the U. S. Public Health Service, now in this State waging a fight on trachoma, to the fullest extent and to aid him in his work in every possible way.

Dr. McMullen, according to Dr. McCormack, in evolving methods, for the diagnosis and cure of trachoma in its early stages has made one of the world's greatest contributions to preventive medicine. His actions in calling on Kentucky county health officers to render assistance in this campaign, Dr. McCormack also stated, is in keeping with a resolution passed at the recent National Convention of State and Provincial Health Authorities of North America in which united support was pledged to Dr. McMullen in his "systematic and well planned campaign for the eradication of trachoma."

Tomatoes formerly were regarded as poisonous.

THREE BLOCKS FROM THE GRAND CENTRAL DEPOT

Some of the most famous flocks of purebred sheep in the world will be represented at the sale to be held by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange August 11 at the Bourbon Stock Yards, when 200 pure bred bucks and ewes and 2,000 high grade ewes will be auctioned to the farmers of the State. Indications of the rapid awakening of the farmers of the state to the advantages of raising only high grade animals are shown in the fact that the finest bred flocks in the world are located in Kentucky some of the quality or the animals to be offered at the Bourbon Stock Yards sale may be gathered.

As in the case of the purebred bull sale the Exchange will make no profit from the sale the auctioneer conducted to aid the better bred animal movement fostered by the United States Department of Agriculture, the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association, the latter supplying the animals for the sale.

The picnic given at the Harvest Home grounds Monday evening was attended by a large crowd of young folks who enjoyed the evening trip, the light fantastic. The music was first class and to the liking of the dancers.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

Lexington, Ky.—More than 100 farmers in 27 Kentucky counties are endeavoring to find out which variety of corn is best for their section of the State by conducting demonstrations during the summer in cooperation with their Farm Bureaus, the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture and their county farm agents, according to an announcement made today by Ralph Kenney, crops extension specialist from the College.

Varieties which are being used in the demonstrations include Boone County White, Hickory King, Iowa Silvermine, Reid's Yellow Dent and Pride of Saline, the latter being a Kansas variety. Seed for the tests was furnished by the College of Agriculture to each of the farmers who also grow three or four of the most popular local varieties in each of the tests. Seed was planted in both the bottom and upland soils of each of the 27 counties. The work will be continued for several years until it has been demonstrated beyond reasonable doubt that two or three varieties of corn are most reliable and highest yielding in every section of the State.

Lexington, Ky.—More than 500 acres of Ashland wheat, the new pedigreed strain developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, have just been harvested in Kentucky, according to estimates made by specialists in the soils and crops department of the station. The acreage was divided among 32 farms in 16 counties and is expected to produce between eight and 10,000 bushels of grain which will be available for seed this fall.

Ashland was developed at the station in 1913 and has been the highest yielding wheat grown there during the last six years. It yielded an average of 33.6 bushels during that time. Jersey Fultz averaged 33.3 bushels an acre for the same years, Fulcaster 30.2 bushels and Currell's Prolific 28.5 bushels.

Lexington Ky.—One of the important services performed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station during the last year for farmers of Kentucky was the analysis and inspection of fertilizers according to the thirty-third annual report of the station which shows that there were 815 different brands registered in the State. These were 402; acid phosphate, 113; nitrogenous superphosphates, 164; phosphates with potash, 81; bones, tankage, etc., 53; sulphate of ammonia, one, and nitrate of soda, one.

The laboratory work of the fertilizer control department of the station included the analysis of most of the brands registered in addition to the analysis of samples which were collected by inspectors of the station or sent in by farmers.

THE PATRONAGE RUSH.
Accounts coming from Washington indicate that the rush of faithful Republicans for government jobs is something overwhelming. It is taking up the time of the administration heads, and preventing them from giving proper attention to the people's business. But that is the least evil in all the scramble of this hungry horde.

The Republicans made very full promises that they were going to give the country business government. Yet the complaints being made about poor appointments, and the tendency to make appointments on party lines, do not encourage the people to believe they are going to get the business efficiency that has been promised.

Theoretically congressmen may believe in business government. But actually the great majority of them will work hard to put their political friends in office and to find jobs for faithful party workers. The Republican party may be no worse than the Democratic in that respect. But the point is that the Republican party made the emphatic and definite promises that it would reorganize the government on a modern efficiency basis. If it is going to keep these pledges it should tell many thousands of clamorous party workers to go home, as the administration under its pledges, must be looking for different type of men to conduct government business.

From all indications so far, there is just as much indication of belief in the old spoils system in politics as there was under the former administration and probably a little more. A great body of experienced officials are likely to be turned out to make place for Republican party men.

Even if they are just as competent, the new men do not know their jobs. The former incumbents have acquired an experience which is an asset for the people, which is thrown away when a good man is thrown out or fails of reappointment so that his position can be given to some politician.

Many people go out of town to board in the country in search of health, and put up at farm houses where they drink water polluted by the barn yard.

It only costs $25.00 to buy a wife in Mexico, and probably that price is reduced by war conditions.

To get down the pay of a soldier is a crime.

475,000 POUNDS

BURLEY. PLEDGED.

Sixty-Five Madison Growers Sign Up in Advance of Drive to Be Begun Next Week.

ALL PAY ENTRANCE FEE

Lexington, Ky.—More than 475,000 pounds of tobacco have been pledged by the proposed cooperative marketing association of burley tobacco growers in Madison county, according to a report received at headquarters of the organization committee here.

T. S. Burnham, county chairman and members of the organization committee, reported that every signer of the contracts had paid the entrance fee of the association, which is $5.

Sixty-five contracts have been obtained in Madison county, though the active campaign will not begin until the first of next week. The local organization in Madison county will be complete even to precinct workers by that time.

George Powell will be county chairman for Trimble county and R. B. Brown for Gallatin county, it was announced. Mr. Powell will be assisted by Prentice Heath and D. A. Bell, while Mr. Brown will be assisted by B. F. Mylor.

John Woodford, Paris, was added to the organization committee to represent Bourbon county. He will work with Samuel Clay in that territory. Ralph M. Barker, who has been instrumental in pushing the organization in Carroll and surrounding counties will be assisted in Carroll county by C. A. Meek and J. A. Doldridge.

Mr. Barker will extend the campaign to Indiana at a meeting at Vevay, Ind., Saturday afternoon. Stanley Reed, Maysville, member of the organization committee, will speak.

INDEPENDENT AGRICULTURE.

Farmers have to decide between one or two lines of policy: shall they seek to cultivate the maximum acreage, and keep the greatest possible amount of stock, thereby making it necessary to hire a lot of help and buy many tools and machines. Or shall they do a small business hiring as little help as possible, and making a farm a nearly independent unit, in which they shall pay out the least possible quantity of cash?

While the United States was on top of the inflated wave of war prosperity, the tendency was strong for farmers to go ahead along the first line. Men who branched out too far have suffered since prices began to decline.

Many farmers are now going to the opposite extreme. They say they will hire little help or none at all, and will simply sell what they can raise themselves. They are making more effort to raise their own household supplies so that the outflow of cash shall be very small.

The spirit of overcaution is not to be commended, because no one can succeed without something of enterprise and venture. But most country homes could raise more of their own supplies, particularly if they encourage their children to take up little enterprises with gardens and poultry.

A young man who worked during recent summers on a large and well managed farm, says he was surprised to see how little food those people bought. They lived to a large extent on the product of their vegetable garden and their poultry yard, and it was rare that they bought any kind of meat.

They had abundance of luscious fruits raised on their home place, which helped make the table seem rich and abundant. A farm home that runs on this basis can make money even on low priced crops. In this period of low prices many homes in Boone county are producing more household supplies than ever before and are thereby keeping out of debt.

HOT WEATHER RULES FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE HORSE.

Load lightly and drive slowly. Stop in the shade if possible. A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry it is worse than nothing.

Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, water in small quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still.

If the thermometer is 75 degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a damp sponge, using vinegar water if possible. Do not wash the horse at night.

Saturday night give a bran mash, lukewarm; and add a tablespoonful of saltpetre.

Watch your horse. If he stops sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop or if he stands with his legs braced sideways he is in danger of a heat or sunstroke and needs attention at once.

If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him two ounces of aromatic, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre, in a pint of water; or give him a shall of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.

If the horse is off his feed, try him with two quarts of oats mixed with bran, and a little water; and add a little salt or sugar. Or give him oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.

Clean your horse at night, so that he can rest well, and clean him thoroughly. The salt does not dry on his skin makes him uncomfortable, and often produces sores under the harness.

Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his hay. If you don't he will be thirsty all night.

If it is so hot that the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside, with bedding under him. Unless he cools off during the night, he cannot well stand the next day's heat.

OH, THESE CANDIDATES.

(Candidate in Mt. Vernon Signal.)

As to my sobriety, ask my neighbors; they know and will tell you the truth. Don't ask me, I am a candidate. As to my educational qualifications, will say that I can read, spell figure and write a little with either hand. I wish to say that I have tasted defeat once, and it hurt so bad that I fear the second dose would prove fatal. So for Bill's sake, please don't let it happen again, for he sure does love to live and mingle with the good people of old Rockcastle.

A MODEST GUY.

(Candidate in Mt. Vernon Signal.)

How I do wish the stockholders in Rockcastle county could pull back the veil and see and know me as I am. I am not for one of those county offices sacrifice my principles, honor, my integrity, and honor for all of them and a deed to Rockcastle county. I am proud of myself when I think and know that I have no ambition and selfishness within me to be honored, as it is oftentimes called, with a county office. If a man could only appreciate his position as an executor of the law there is no honor, but he is a public servant and a hired hand on the job.

GOOD QUALIFICATIONS.

(Candidate in Pineville Citizen.)

I was raised up as a farmer boy and after I retired from school teaching I took a thirteen year practical course in mining coal. I promise if elected to keep all my records open at all times for inspection and will accord such courtesy and assistance in my office that will make my business transactors proud. I have been married three times.

ATTA BOY.

Here's an optimist! A candidate for Sheriff in Boone county declares it a hardship for the people to go to the county seat to pay their taxes and he will make the collection at their homes.—Cynthiana Democrat.

UNQUALIFIED APPROVAL.

I hereby announce and declare my sincere, unreserved and everlasting approval of the dear women's styles in clothing, whether such styles run to furs and flounces or to fig leaves and blouses.—I. D. Claire in Hartford Republican.

The Government has to date made a total disbursement of $226,486,831.34 in meeting both the compensation claims of former service men disabled by reason of wounds, injuries or disease incurred in the world war, and the death claims of the dependents of those who made an announcement of Director C. R. Forbes of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. The disbursements for disability have aggregated $192,477,559 and the death disbursements $33,899,301.86.

For the month of May alone the total amount disbursed by the Bureau for compensation purposes was $10,575,416, the monthly payments on disability compensation claims for that period amounting to $9,445,288 and the monthly payments to the dependents of deceased soldiers amounting to $1,130,128.00. Between June 1 and June 15 the Bureau mailed checks to cover this disbursement to former service men.

The increase in the number of claims filed with the Bureau has exceeded any estimate. The number of claims filed from the inception of the Bureau to May 1919 was 209,700 while on June 1, 1921, the number in file was 631,980 showing an increase during that period of 422,280. The number of awards for death and disability for the first period was 41,073; the number of awards at the end of the second period was 323,415, an increase during the second period of 282,342. For the first period the ratio was one claim pending to every two filed. For the second period, the ratio was one claim pending to every eight claims filed.

Cash prizes and pigs amounting to $300 will be awarded to Fayette county pig club winner at the Blue Grass Fair this fall, according to a report of County Agent W. R. Gahbert.

Now that women have become full-fledged voters, tactful politicians will think twice before they use the favorite old stock phrase, "the common people," in their speeches again.

Some folks seem to think they can improve their own condition by running the country.

You can't beat a Camel, because you can't beat the tobacco that goes into Camels.

That's why Camels are the choice of men who know and love fine tobacco. They know what makes Camels so smooth, so fragrant and mellow-mild.

Edgar Berkshire, Mart Williamson, Herbert Kirkpatrick, Judge Sidney Gaines and N. E. Riddell down on the "Old Mill Dam" down on Woolper creek last Friday with a firm determination to land all of the good bass that stream. A fine assortment of bait was obtained, but none of it was to the liking of the large fish that are supposed to be inhabiting those waters, although the parties worked hard from early in the morning to night, but before the day was over Mr. Williamson had landed a bass with a spinner, Mr. Berkshire two bass and a catfish Judge Gaines a cat fish, but all together they might make a hungry man a good meal. The catch made by Kirkpatrick and Riddell need not be spoken of at this time, as they had good sport, only. This party is not satisfied and at another time in the future expect to land a fine lot of large bass.

The 1920 census reveals the fact that there are 2,000,132 more males than females in this country, due partly to the fact that the majority of immigrants are men.

In some countries, such a disproportion would mean that practically all the adult women would marry, many of them preferring to wed an alien rather than make their way alone. In this country of abundant education for women, that sex requires higher standards of matrimony, and will not take up the first offer that comes along. The coming generation would be of a higher type if more of these independent and intelligent women would marry, but this will not happen so long as so many men fail to manifest qualifications for the married state.

T. J. McNeal, a former resident of Boone county, and for many years a resident of Ludlow, where he served one term as mayor, but is now making his home with his son, William, who is proprietor of the Cumberland Hotel at Carlisle, Pa., spent a few hours in Burlington last Thursday, meeting old acquaintances and friends of years ago. Mr. McNeal seems to be enjoying good health and looks exceedingly well for a man who has passed his "three-score and ten." While in town he called at the RECORDER office and paid his dues for another year that he might keep posted with what his relatives and friends are doing back in his "Old Kentucky Home."

Proposals by the Louisville Livestock Exchange that the Ky. State Fair Commission take over the fat cattle show originally planned by the Exchange and carry on the show with all its premiums and features were accepted by the board yesterday and the fat cattle show and sale will be held at the State Fair grounds September 15th and 16th dates on which the show was previously announced to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards.

Herman Wingate, who drives one of the road trucks had one of his legs badly mashed while working around the rock crusher, last Thursday. He was brought to Burlington in an auto, where medical aid was given him, and then taken to his home out on the Petersburg Pike. It will be several days before he is able to resume work again.

Robt. Dickerson, one of the bustling young farmers of Union precinct, was transacting business in Burlington, last Friday, and while in town called at this office and left $150 to boost his subscription up another twelve months. He reports that they have had no rain in his section since May, and that the outlook for crops is very poor.

Total taxes received by the Government for the year ending June 30 were $4,593,933,245, of which $3,212,713,499 was derived from income and profit taxes, the Bureau of Internal Revenue announces. The statement shows that of the total collected, Kentucky, $26,090,385 from income and $50,391,608 from profit taxes.

In any flock some hens will be found to be much better producers than others. Often there are a few hens that are such poor layers that it doesn't pay to keep them. Where the flock is small the owner can determine by observation which hens are merely boarders; and these are the ones to eat.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

Lexington, Ky.—Farm girls of Kentucky are no longer isolated and denied those things which gladden the hearts of their city sisters, according to Miss Irene Piedale, field agent in foods from the College of Agriculture who reports that there are more than 4,460 girls in the State who are receiving instruction in various home economics subjects through the cooperation of the College Extension Division and county home demonstration agents. Of this number 2,272 are conducting clothing projects, 879 food projects and 1,272 canning projects.

Work under each of the projects is divided into well-defined classes, girls of different ages being entered in the different ones according to the amount of instruction which they have received. Work in the different projects includes the making of dresses, the planning of meals and the serving of them and the canning of fruits and vegetables.

Lexington, Ky.—That Ashland, the new pedigreed variety of wheat developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station was the popular one among the farmers of the State when the wheat-sowing season arrives is shown by the fact that requests have already been received by the agronomy department of the station from various Kentucky farmers for more than 1,000 bushels of seed from this variety. Only 100 bushels will be available for distribution from the station, members of the department said, but farmers who wish the seed are being referred to the 25 farmers who have just harvested all the Ashland wheat grown in the State during the past year. During the six years that it has been grown at the Experiment Station Ashland has exceeded all other popular varieties of wheat grown in Kentucky in the yields produced.

Lexington, Ky.—Three new circulars dealing with cooperative livestock associations, school lunches and swine fattening projects for junior agricultural club members are being distributed by the College of Agriculture to interested persons in the State. Circular No. 104 which discusses cooperative shipping associations takes up in detail the organization and management of these associations. The circulars deal with other subjects which are of special interest to livestock shippers. Circular No. 95 deals with hot school lunches in rural schools of the State and gives details which are designed to be helpful in starting the hot lunch in country schools. Circular No. 103 is a circular of the swine fattening project for junior club members. It discusses all problems connected with this project and is designed to be a program for farm boys and girls who are raising pigs. The publications may be obtained by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

SHEEP CULLING CAMPAIGN
A series of four community meetings in the interests of the sheep culling campaign which will be conducted in Boone county by the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture in cooperation with County Agent Sutton was announced today by the County Agent. The first meeting will be held in Beaver Lick Monday July 25th, the second in Rabbit Hash, Tuesday July 26th, the third in Burlington Wednesday, July 27th, the fourth at Verona on Thursday, July 28th, Hebron Friday July 30th. Each meeting called at 8 o'clock p. m.

R. C. Miller, sheep extension specialist from the College will address the farmers at the meeting and discuss problems of sheep raising with them. The lectures will be illustrated with lantern slides and motion pictures. The following lecture a demonstration will be held on some farm in the community to show farmers how to tell the profitable sheep from the unprofitable ones in their flocks.

"No phase of farming offers greater possibilities for profit than sheep raising provided attention is given to the selection of foundation stock and subsequent mating in order to produce the best lambs as well as the largest wool clip."

County Agent Sutton said in speaking of the campaign. "It is hoped that the campaign will help farmers in their sheep raising problems to the extent that they may increase the profits from their flocks."

FARMING TO THE FORT.
A writer in the agricultural press says that agriculture is right now the important problem in this country—the problem of the manufacturer and merchant, the banker and the general public, just as much as it is the problem of the farmer. He believes that agriculture, above all industries, is entitled to some constructive publicity. "It needs boosting," he says. "It cannot get along without it and still keep up with the times."

A nice shower of rain fell here last Saturday afternoon.

ARSENATE OF LEAD CONTROL FOR TOBACCO WORMS

Tobacco hornworms which usually give tobacco growers considerable trouble at this time of the year are best controlled by arsenate of lead which should be used instead of Paris Green, according to H. H. Jewett, of the College of Agriculture. Experience has shown that arsenate of lead adheres to the plants longer than Paris Green, and that it may be used in unsettled or rainy weather, that it rarely injures tobacco leaves when used in excessive amounts and that its use is not attended by any irritation to the operator.

"Tobacco hornworms hibernates in the pupal stage during the winter and the adults appear from the first week in June to about the middle of August. Because of this long period during which adults emerge from the over-wintering pupae there is a confusion of broods of worms in the field in the latter part of the season. However, there are two distinct broods. The maximum number of worms is reached about August 1st."

"Arsenate of lead is applied to the tobacco by means of a dust gun. When the gun has a fan less than 10 inches in diameter the arsenate of lead powder should be mixed with an equal bulk or more of dry, sifted wood ashes. A thorough and even application of the poison is necessary to get good results. The dusting should be done when there is no breeze, either in the evening or in the morning when dew is on the plants. An active operator can dust several acres in one day.

"The first application of the poison should be made when the worms become too numerous to be kept in check by hand picking. Poison the worms when they are small, not more than one week old. Two applications of the poison should be made to the tobacco and even a third if the worms are abundant. Under average conditions from three to five pounds of arsenate of lead an acre is sufficient for one dusting depending on the size of the plants and worms. This means actual arsenate of lead and not more the mixture."

"Effective control of tobacco worms depends largely upon the grade of the arsenate of lead used. It should be guaranteed to contain at least 30 per cent of arsenic oxide of which not more than one per cent is free or water-soluble."

HAD AN ENJOYABLE TIME.

Mr. and Mrs. James Snyder, of Hickertown, entertained with a party last Saturday night in honor of Misses Edith White and Honoraria Low, of Williamstown. This was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. About two score of the young ladies and gallant gents of the neighborhood were present and enjoyed themselves immensely until a late hour.

A DELIGHTFUL TIME.

Miss Georgia and Albert Kirkpatrick entertained about sixty of their young friends with a party at their home just east of town, last Saturday evening. The guests were all highly entertained and spent a most enjoyable evening until about 12 o'clock when all departed declaring they had a delightful time. Delicious refreshments was served.

A BOONE COUNTY BOY.

Hon. W. W. Gaines, who is chairman of the Board of Education of Atlanta Georgia, has sent the Recorder copies of the program of the commencement exercises of the Commercial High School, Girls High School, Boys High School, Central High School and Theological High School. At these exercises Mr. Gaines as chairman of the Board of Education, presented diplomas to two hundred and forty students.

MUS' BE A DEMOCRAT

In order to vote at the August primary you must be a member of the Democratic party and shall have affiliated with the Democratic party and supported its nominees, and no person shall be deemed to have affiliated with the Democratic party if he voted against the nominees of the party at the last general election. The foregoing is the law governing the right to vote at the primary.

Mr. T. J. Maloy, of Bullittville neighborhood, while putting up hay in his barn one day last week, fell from the loft and was considerably bruised, but fortunately, no bones were broken. Outside of a cut above one eye, which required several stitches to close he escaped serious injury.

Thirty-three Fulton county farmers have become charter members of a cooperative livestock shipping association recently organized there with the help of County Agent O. L. Cunningham.

A credit agency reported in regard to a certain applicant for a loan, that his assets consisted of eight children and a Ford. It could be said in his behalf that he had every incentive to save money.

ALLOWED $120 DAMAGES

The case of John A. Borne against E. Cooper was tried in Boone County court last Thursday. S. W. Tolin for the plaintiff and Ray R. Rogers for the defendant. Borne said that he loaned a Ford truck to Cooper to move his household goods to Boone county and that the truck was not to be used for anything but the Bullittville pike but in violation of that promise the defendant permitted the driver of the truck to go down Garrison creek, and while attempting to cross the creek one of the drive chains broke and before the machine could be moved the creek raised and washed the truck down the creek about one hundred yards, turning it over, breaking the top and damaging the mechanical part of the machine amounting in all to $200. The defendant, Cooper, said that he did not borrow the machine but that it was loaned to Cooper's son-in-law and the son-in-law made the same statement. These people all lived together in Covington and household goods of both parties were on the truck which was washed over a series of dishes and another piece of furniture before the creek got so high that the truck was washed down the creek. The parties to the transaction made conflicting statements but the court found for Borne and fixed the amount of his damage at $120.

THE SMALL LOAN BUSINESS.

During the silk shirt period the people who make it a business to loan small sums of money reported their trade quiet. A lot of folks who previously were behind the game, for once found money sufficient to pay the bill. But with the passing of the flush times and considerable unemployment, the small loan man finds his business picking up. Some of them find so much demand that they are not giving accommodation except to old and tried customers.

Some small loan men charge exorbitant rates of interest, defending themselves by the claim that they make many losses. Many of these small borrowers have to pay such high rates of interest that they eventually pay the principal several times over. The business men of any community ought to make some provision by which people who have a legitimate reason for borrowing small sums of money, can get them at reasonable rates of interest. While the poor man who needs money the most has to pay far higher to get it than the business man, the community is not giving him the equal opportunity that America is supposed to provide.

HORSES IN HOT WEATHER.

Human beings find many methods of escaping the worst of the suffering caused by hot weather, but the dumb animals who serve man do not always find corresponding means of relief. If a man becomes exhausted on a hot day, he can go into a shady place and recuperate. Most employers of labor are merciful enough so that they do not put their workpeople as hard on a hot day as they do in cooler weather. But a tolling horse commonly has to drag his heavy loads with the thermometer at 90° as if it were 60. If he shows signs of fatigue, many drivers hit him a good cut with the whip, until he staggers on almost stumbling from weariness.

It does not always indicate a hard heart to treat a patient animal this way, because in the majority of cases it is done in heedlessness. But if people had a little more sympathy for their dumb animals they would not see these patient workers give out at an early age as so often they do.

W. B. JOHNSON, Executor.

The Congressmen deny that they are idle, as most of them have introduced bills calling for the expenditure of more money.

COINING "CARTWHEELS."

For the first time in seven years the United States mint has now begun coining silver dollars, and is to produce $270,000,000 to take the place of an equal amount sold to Great Britain.

These silver dollars will never again circulate so freely among the people as they used to. Some folks however like the big white dollars, as they seem to give such a substantial sense of money, and a roundness which looks as if it ought to buy a lot more than a greasy bill. It used to be a favorite trick at dances and excursions for the boys to agree to pay their dues for the same to the collector all in silver dollars. The latter would soon be loaded up with a heap of heavy and jingling coins, and announce his presence for some distance.

In these times when a dollar does not go far, the fellow who is paid off in silver would find himself well weighted down. Women in particular would never like the big silver coins again, as they will not fit into their tiny little change bags and fancy purses.

NOT MAKING PROGRESS.

The American people voted Republican last November principally on the theory that it would lower taxes and make business better. A most terrible condition of unemployment had been created by the most awful war in history, and the Republicans jauntily claimed they could straighten it out.

The country was willing to let them try it, and it has not been inclined to find much fault until it had a chance to see what they could do. But as time goes on, the business situation shows no particular improvement, and Congress is showing great tardiness in shaping any program of legislation. The country demands the lightning of the tax burden, relief for the farmers, and co-operation with the rest of the world so that the recently warring countries can get on their feet and buy American goods freely again.

In one respect the Republican party has had a distinctive policy, and that was to scrap the league of nations. That had precisely the same effect as when a business man refuses to co-operate with the rest of the community. Just as the public dislikes and is inclined to avoid such a man, so the world has become disgusted with the aloof attitude manifested by the U. S. and Europe would be well pleased to secede from this country. This does not help our trade.

By the time this Democratic administration had been in power four months in 1913, they had made much further progress in shaping their program of legislation. The Republicans in Congress lack leadership. As they had so bitterly denounced Woodrow Wilson for interfering with Congress, President Harding can not well take an attitude of strong initiative, without doing much the same kind of thing for which he had so often denounced Mr. Wilson. So the party is drifting along, and the people are not so far able to see the results for which they voted.

POULTRY CULLING CAMPAIGN

A schedule of farms on which the poultry culling demonstrations for Boone county farmers and their wives will be conducted July 18th, 19th and 20th by County Agent Sutton in cooperation with the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture.

Monday July 18th, 2 o'clock, J. F. Cleek's farm, Dixie Highway, Walnut Run, near the bridge. Tuesday July 19th, L. R. Barlow's farm, Grange Hall road; 2 o'clock Ben Allen farm Normansville and Rabbit Hash road; Wednesday, 20th, 10:00 o'clock, W. B. Arnold farm, Bellevue pike; 1:30 o'clock, Ben T. Kelly farm, East Bend road; 4:00 o'clock, Emmett Riddell farm, Constance and Hebron pike.

Farmers in the vicinity of the various farms will meet there at which time specialists from the poultry department of the College will assist County Agent Sutton in demonstrating to the farmers and their wives the difference between the loafing and the heavy-laying hen. Birds of both types will be selected from the flock on the farm and the details of culling explained so that the farmers and their wives can go home and pick out the unprofitable hens from their own flocks. Circulars will also be distributed outlining in detail the difference between the hen that is a heavy producer and one that loafs from now until spring.

CARD OF THANKS.—We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and friends in the illness and death of our little daughter Beulah Mae Robbins, and also Bro. Royce for his consoling words and Philip Tallaferro for conducting the funeral.

THE FAMILY.

America is the land sought by the oppressed of all nations, particularly by those who want a place where they will never have to defend the country or pay taxes.

The elegant side-wheel steamer "Primary" is now on the docks being overhauled for the trip up "Salt River" which trip she makes every four years. All those who expect to take the trip on this delightful excursion will please notify the Captain by 12 o'clock Saturday night, August 6th, as the boat will leave the wharf at 5 o'clock Sunday morning, August 7th, 1921.

BASE BALL.

Verona came to Burlington Saturday afternoon and played the local team, which resulted in a score of 7 to 6 in favor of Burlington. Verona took the lead in the early part of the game and held this until the eighth inning when the locals began using their heavy artillery, driving four men over the plate, which was enough to win the game.

Petersburg and Bellevue met on the grounds of the latter Saturday afternoon, and after nine innings of play Bellevue put nine men over the rubber while Petersburg could only get six men into counting territory. These teams put up a good game as they are pretty evenly matched, but Bellevue now has won the majority of the games from Petersburg.

Next Sunday Taylorsport and Dam 38 will play at Taylorsport. A good game is looked for as it takes a good team of ball players to take Taylorsport's scalps on their home grounds.

Petersburg ball team journeyed to Taylorsport last Sunday afternoon to take the scalps of the Taylorsport boys but they found that Taylorsport was armed to the teeth, and while Petersburg put up a good game their sluggers could not connect at the proper time, so they only got two men on counting territory while Taylorsport made four men out, so the game ended four to two in favor of Taylorsport. It takes some team of ball players to beat Taylorsport on her own mound.

Petersburg will play at Verona next Saturday.

ENTRIES CLOSED.

There are only 15 candidates for county office in Boone county. This is probably the smallest number of offering themselves in the memory of any one living. We can remember when there were that many candidates for a single office. The lists closed last Wednesday, July 6th, for all entrants. For the offices of County Judge, Circuit Court Clerk and County Attorney there was no opposition, so these candidates will be declared the nominees and their names will not appear on the ballots at the primary. The lists for district offices closed on the 27th ult., so Judge Gaines, for Circuit Judge, nor John Howe, for Commonwealth Attorney, having no opposition they will be declared the nominees. In the six magisterial districts there are ten candidates announced, and in only three of these there more than one candidate.—Florence and Constance district having four candidates.

WILLEFORD-HALBERT.

Miss Stella Willeford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Willeford, former residents of Verona, Ky., was married June 8th, to Mr. Jack Halbert, at Modesto, Cal. The marriage taking place at the Methodist church. Only the immediate families being present at the wedding. Mrs. Halbert claims a host of friends around Verona, where she went to school before moving to California. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rust, of Walton. Mr. and Mrs. Halbert will make their home at Modesto, Cal.

BANKERS HOLD MEETING.

The Boone County Bankers Association met on the Florence Fair grounds last Thursday. The same officers were elected for the next year, and at the suggestion of the State Banking Commission the Banks resolved to do all in their power to prevent the practice of overdrafting. No overdrafts will be permitted by any of the banks in Boone county. The question of purchasing calendars was left to each individual bank.

Elijah Stephens and wife attended the State Rural Life Convention at Harrodsburg, Monday and Tuesday of last week. This was the largest convention ever held in the State in the history of the association. Mr. Stephens was elected one of the delegates to the National Convention to be held in Washington, D. Peculiar Philippine Buffalo.

When Americans first went to the Philippines they were much interested in the odd-looking beast known there as the "water buffalo"—a smaller variety commonly used as a draft animal, but giving little milk. It is extensively utilized in the same way in China. The brute cannot endure hard work in the sun unless its skin is frequently wet, and hence its habit of wallowing in mud or water. It overcomes by the heat it may go crazy and is liable to be dangerous. But the milk buffalo, kept for dairy purposes, needs no water help.

A Novel Diet.

A correspondent sends us a capital Sponsoniam, one that is entirely new to us. It appears that a young clergyman was temporarily filling a city pulpit and in his prayer he said: "May the brother who ministers in this hour be filled full of fresh real and new vigor."

Let's Gather It In.

It is computed that the earth's atmosphere contains at least 4,000,000,000,000 of tons of nitrogen directly accessible. The quantity in the air over one square kilometer of land is sufficient to enrich the earth of the whole world for twenty years at the present rate of consumption.

Some of these people who step on the gas in crowded streets should be invited to step into the jail.

Work on the new pike from Burlington to Locust Grove neighborhood, is being pushed along nicely.

The boys who are looking for summer jobs do not object to working in the offices where the girls are employed.

It is hard for the ice man to show the proper degree of regret, when the people are suffering with the hot weather.

The citizens of the town subscribed enough money last week to put a new roof on Mrs. Jennie Barlow's residence.

Quite a number of people from Florence attended services at the Methodist church in Burlington, last Sunday night.

Many people are neglecting the large opportunities that come to those who keep their mouths shut and get busy.

President Harding has decided to make no speeches for six weeks, but none of the Congressmen have made any such rash resolve.

The I. W. W. ites are reported not distributing much literature this year. Perhaps they discovered that the above activity is work.

The next big things on the program, in the way of outdoor attractions are the Harvest Home and North Kentucky Fair at Florence.

A lot of the people who bitterly condemn government extravagance, are hustling mighty hard to get some federal money for their state roads.

Although our statesmen are called slow, a congressman can make very fast time up to the capitol when it comes to landing a job for a constituent.

Quite a number of Burlington base ball fans witnessed the game of ball between Taylorsport and Petersburg at Taylorsport, last Sunday afternoon.

The vandals who injure public property, should be given a chance to show their great strength and ingenuity on the inside of a cell door in the jail.

The firm of Brothers & Leidy, of Limaburg, has been dissolved. Mr. J. P. Brothers has purchased the interest in the business and will continue the business.

Many men who always were too busy to help in the kitchen work, have found it necessary to spend much time therein since the home brew business began.

The taxpayers who are indignant at the lack of intelligence manifested by the common people, often kick terribly at having to put money for new school buildings.

No wonder our wives refuse to stay in the kitchen where they belong, when the other day they put in a woman to preside over the National House of Representatives.

Some people who reselling their liberty bonds at 85 because they think they are going lower, will probably buy more some day at 100 because they believe they will rise.

President Harding ask Congress to speed up, and if showing it the oats bag does not produce results, it may be necessary to pull old Ticker out from the bottom of the wagon.

The Dearborn county fair will be held at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, August 17, 18, 19 and 20. The directors are doing their utmost to make the 1921 fair one of the best that ever been held in Lawrenceburg.

Farmers in the Meadow Creek community, Taylor county, are planning to raise purebred Jersey hogs, according to a report of County Agent J. L. Miller. George Griffin has purchased a purebred sire which will be used by several farmers in the community who already have purebred sows.

INTEREST RATES ADVANCED ON SHORT LOANS TO FARMERS

Interest rates charged by banks to farmers of the United States for short-time loans averaged in April about 7.95 per cent, as compared with 7.61 per cent a year ago and 7.75 per cent in 1913, according to reports compiled by the Bureau of Crop Estimates, U. S. Department of Agriculture, based on figures received from country banks. The main purpose of the inquiry was to ascertain the difference of the averages of the various States and sections, together with what changes have occurred since the previous investigation made by the bureau in 1913.

The reports show that in Georgia the average rate is 10.36 per cent, which is the highest of any State average. This is about 73 per cent higher than the lowest State average—6 per cent—reported from several North Atlantic States. The report shows that in 1913 the highest State average was almost 100 per cent higher than the lowest average.

The figures generally indicate that the present spread in the different sections of the country is not quite as wide as formerly. In the nine North Atlantic States the average interest rate in April was 6.08 per cent. In the eight South Atlantic States it was 7.43 per cent. In the five North Central States east of the Mississippi River it was 8.33 per cent; in the eight South Central States it was 9.06 per cent; and in the eleven Far Western States it was 8.55 per cent.

SCHOOL NOTES.

IMPORTANT NOTICE—In the last issue of the RECORDER we called attention to the teachers' examination which would likely be held on August 5-6, but the 6th of August being election day, and it would probably interfere with some voters, the State Department has set July 29th and 30th for an examination for Elementary, State and High School certificates. So an examination will be held accordingly in Burlington—Friday and Saturday July 29th and 30th, beginning at 8:30 a. m. All teachers interested or those expecting to teach will be present when the examination begins.

USE WATER TO WASH MUD OFF CUTTER BAR OF MOWER.

In some parts of the South the mower is not started until after the dew is off on account of trouble caused by mud clogging the knife. This mud is caused by the dirt from crawfish chimneys mixing with the dew from the grass. After the dew is off, the dry dirt does not do much damage. One large hay-grower keeps a barrel of water and several quarts bottles in the field that is being mowed. When the mud begins to dry and clog the knife, the mower is taken to the water barrel and driven in a circle, while in gear, and water is poured from the bottle on the knife and the mud is soon all washed out. This practice allows a full day's mowing. It is one of the suggestions contained in Farmer's Bulletin 987, Labor Saving Practices in Haymaking, which can be obtained free by writing to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

STATE NEWS.

GAY VACATION SEASON.

Elizabethtown News.
No wonder the penitentiary has lost its terror for evil doers, when a convict can ride over to Lexington to see a picture show and another can have a private meeting with his best girl.

A HOPEFUL COMMUNITY.

(Hopeful cor. Mt. Vernon Signal).
The drought still continues in this part, but the people, men and women, and also little children, are still hoeing and digging, waiting and hoping for a good rain to come and we believe it will come in due time for us to raise something to eat, for we all know that if we do our part the Lord will do His, and we will get through, even though we may have hard times.

SWARM IN WAGON SEAT.

Georgetown Times.
Melvin Hamilton, of near Spring Ground, found a large swarm of bees at work in the cushion of a spring wagon seat at his home. The wagon was under a tree in a lot and had not been used for some time. It is probable that the bees have made their home in the cushion for quite a while, as they had begun making honey.

BEDEVILED INTO RACE.

Wilmore Enterprise.
The unique plea of a candidate in one of our Kentucky counties that "despite his wishes he has been so bedeviled by friends and well-wishers to make the race that he has finally consented to do so," stands fair to be changed to a wail, the burden of which will be the sentiment attributed to Benj. Franklin: "God deliver me from my fool friends. I can always take care of my enemies."

DOG KILLS FIVE COONS.

Falmouth Outlook.
Miss Nan Perrin, who lives just Northeast of town, was out in her woodland pasture about 4 o'clock, looking after her cows, when her big English bulldog, Jerry, ran across a big mother raccoon and four young ones. The coons quickly ran up trees and pretended to be asleep. Miss Perrin sent for a neighbor, Albert Pettit, who cut three small trees and let the coons to the ground. Mother coon and her brood gave the bulldog a run for his money and fought like tigers, but they were soon dispatched. These coons had been out foraging during the night, and were late getting back to their den.

VEGETABLES ORIGINS.

Pumpkins and squashes are of American origin. Watermelons and cucumbers are of Asiatic origin.
The common bean is a native of South America and was introduced into Europe in the sixteenth century. More than 150 varieties of the species have been listed.

Asparagus is a native of Southern Europe, where it grows on the banks of rivers, in meadows and in bushy places on sandy soil.

The potato, which originated in Chili and Peru, arrived in England about 1538 and was introduced in North America Dec. 2, 1621.

The eggplant, bean, cucumber, cabbage, onion, turnip and watermelon have been cultivated for more than 4,000 years.

The onion was an object of worship by the Egyptians 2,000 years before the Christian era. It originated in India.

Cabbages and carrots were unknown until about the middle of the sixteenth century.

There are more than 70 varieties of cabbages.

Southern California produces 87 per cent of the world's crop of lima beans.

The most nutritious root crop, after the potato, is the beet, which contains 12 per cent sugar.

More pounds of potatoes are produced, the world over, than of any other food crop.

Logical Habit.

"Why is it that musicians have such long hair?" "I suppose they think they ought to have plenty of locks to match their keys."

NATURE, SCIENCE AND HISTORY.

More than 5,000 pieces of one meteor which fell in Iowa were picked up after it had burst.

Friday is regarded as an unlucky day, because for centuries it was the day chosen for public executions.

Tramways derive their name from the fact that the first American who introduced street cars drawn by horses in England.

There's more cheer in Akron, O., the rubber center of the world, these days. Great improvement in the tire business is making the wheels go round in the big rubber factories at a great rate, and as a result hundreds of men have been added to the factory forces.

Following the announcement of a few days ago that the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company was increasing production and re-hiring former employees, now comes the announcement of further increases both in production figures and in the number of men to be taken on in the Goodyear factories. This will necessitate the employment of hundreds of additional men.

The increase in production is explained by the fact that tire stocks are low for this time of year and must be immediately increased to take care of the increase in sales to tire dealers all over the country. And in addition to this sales to car manufacturers, which have been materially curtailed for some months, are showing a marked improvement with the increased sale of new cars. While not anticipating any boom in business, it is believed that the tire industry is getting on a sound and substantial basis.

Business experts have all along continued to express the belief that the automotive industry would be one of the first to show improvement and be the forerunner of the revival of general business conditions, and from indications in Akron this improvement has commenced.

Our New Type Setting Machine

With a good deal of satisfaction the editor of the Boone County Recorder announces the installation of a new Linotype. This mechanical marvel qualifies us to serve efficiently the large number of persons who look to our publication for enlightenment and entertainment, and who patronize our job-printing department.

The rapidly increasing circulation of the Boone County Recorder, together with our desire to place at the command of our advertisers and others the highest grade of typography, induced us to secure a fine composing machine for the quick and accurate and pleasing presentation of the news of the day, and the production of superior job work. Our new Linotype enables us to set by machine many forms of composition that previously necessitated tedious work by hand. Our plant is now capable of turning out composition consisting of correct type faces in many different sizes, and the change from one size to another is made very quickly. At a high rate of speed the versatile operator—whose hand is made famous by the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., as "the hand that keeps the world informed"—produces line after line of the sort of composition desired.

This installation is a testimonial to the prosperity of Burlington and vicinity. And that the good people of the community are duly appreciative of our efforts to serve them in all departments of the printing business is manifested by the many compliments received from individual patrons since the arrival of our new machine.

The accompanying illustration will give our readers some idea of the marvelous mechanism of the Linotype, which is a machine on which are assembled matrices (or little brass molds) and lines of type cast—lines such as you are now reading.

Besides enabling the operator to set various faces and sizes of type, our new Linotype makes it possible for him to produce the rules and dashes and borders which are used in various advertisements in each issue of our publication. When employed in the composing of advertisements, newspaper headings, booklets, catalogues, and various other kinds of printed matter, our new machine enables one operator to set in the same time more type than ordinarily could be produced by five or six men or women doing the work by hand—and the composition is incomparably better.

While for a long time we have received the patronage of a host of subscribers, advertisers and printing buyers in general, we look forward to the handling of an even greater volume of business now that we are so well qualified to render the sort of service most to be desired.

It has been our aim to present the news of the day without fear or favor, and to reflect faithfully the ideals and ambitions of our constituents; and we shall continue to devote our talents and resources to the fulfilling of this aim. And of great help to us in the carrying out of our purpose will be our new Linotype.

SHADE TREES.

Students of chemistry will tell you that shade trees remove impurities in the air, and the civic improvement folks will show you how their beauty makes a town more attractive. Even then they have not told you all of the benefits that accrue to a tree planted city.

It is astonishing what a change there will be in the temperature and feeling when you come out from sun-baked territory, and enter some town where years ago people planted shade trees liberally. On a hot day there would frequently seem to be ten degrees of difference in the temperature. A life giving breath of cooler air surrounds you on coming under these trees, and you honor the memory of the men who created the grateful shade.

An unshaded street on a hot day does not seem like a home street. It appears like a desert place where man was not meant by nature to dwell. But enterprising people effect a wonderful transformation in such a place by planting shade trees. Even in a few years quick growing varieties produce quite a little foliage.

In some towns people seem to have no conception of the value of shade. If an old tree was so planted that it grows into the sidewalk a little and slightly obstructs passing, some modern "improvers" will rip out the ancient landmark. They can cut down in an hour what it took 50 years to grow.

In more intelligent communities they frequently leave a fine tree right in the middle of the walk, even though pedestrians do have to turn out for it. Anyone who appreciates the beauty and comfort given by a tree is willing enough to do this deference to its dignity.

Some folks argue that it will be 18 or 20 years before newly planted trees amount to much, and they think they may be dead then. But people who can not plan ahead that length of time do not deserve the comforts of life. Anyway a tree planted place keeps growing in value every year the little trees climb up.

EIGHT POINTS OF BUSINESS SUCCESS.

Many of our young people are starting in this fall to begin their business career. Others are away on vacations and will return full of pep and energy, determined to make a new start. In fact all of our folks who have any enterprise and ambition are constantly trying to think out ways for improving their work and for achieving larger success.

The RECORDER will shortly present a few pocket edition editorials, telling in brief space what it conveys to be the fundamental qualities that help people on to business success. Those of us who want to win in the competitive struggle, will like to look over these suggestions, and ask ourselves if we are living up to these standards of achievements.

Genius has been said to be mostly a capacity for hard work. Almost anyone can achieve some degree of success in life, if he will only play the game and obey the rules thereof. If the ball player spends his time out in the field looking at the girls in the grand stand, he will not catch the hot liner when it comes bounding up to him. It is just so in business. This series of little editorials will tell you the hot liners you have to catch, if you are going to make the winning score.

CHARLES MAURER, M. C. R. C.
NOT THE DEADLY AUTO BUT THE DEADLY FOOL.

Thirty persons were "killed in the streets" of Tulsa, Okla., the other day in a riot between white and negro gunmen, both sides probably consisting almost of pretty tough citizens. Nevertheless, the 30 deaths in streets caused an enormous sensation all over the country.

But nobody seems to be startled at all over the fact that three times 30 persons are killed "in the streets" of New York every month in the year by auto vehicles alone. Nobody is at all sensational because more than 30 persons are killed by "motors" every month, on the average, in the streets of cities of the general grade of Cleveland, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

The number of fatalities from automobile accidents in our cities, is increasing all the time. Only a few years ago, the average in New York City, for instance, was one a day for the year. Then it crawled up to two a day and now it is three a day. Next year, no doubt, four a day will be killed in the city by motor cars, or the appalling number of 1,460 in a year.

Our streets are filled with these locomotives, some of them run by boys and girls, and many more of them by reckless people having a mania for speed, a mania to get somewhere quicker than safety allows.

The automobile is a convenience and a pleasure and it has come to stay. But it is high time that the laws put a brake on some of the fools that own and run machines.

Crop Outlook Generally Good.

Although crops in some localities have suffered from lack of sufficient rainfall, the outlook in general is very good.

Winter wheat harvesting has started in southern Ohio and present indications are that the crop in the northern part of the state will be ready to cut about the first of the month. Pennsylvania wheat has been damaged somewhat by rust.

The oats crop is reported to be growing nicely although rain is badly needed in some localities.

Average in Burley tobacco has been reduced and the farmers are making an effort to improve the quality of this year's crop. Weather conditions have not been very favorable and planting was delayed somewhat.

In spite of the fact that the farmer has been receiving very low prices for his products and has suffered some severe losses, he appears to have taken the stand that good crops produced at low cost will go far to offset the loss of last year.

Bituminous coal production during the past four weeks has been running about even with a weekly average of around 8,000,000 tons. Figures for the week ending June 11 show a slight falling off, but in comparison with those for last month, an upward trend is noted.

According to the United States Geological Survey, the point of production for the year 1921 is about 28 per cent behind the war years, 1917 and 1918, 23 per cent behind 1920, and 7 per cent behind 1919 when the demand for coal was influenced by a mild winter, an industrial depression and a heavy accumulation of stored coal carried over from the preceding season.

It is reported that some railroads which can readily secure coal from the mines, are carrying forty-eight hours' stock of coal, and that it is not unusual to have orders placed on Friday morning with the understanding that they will be filled no later than Saturday night.

Many coal users are depending on their reserve supply of coal while awaiting the solution of the transportation problem, and in some cases the supply is running low. Production in the Kentucky fields is reported at low ebb.

The week ending June 4 showed a further decline in the production of beehive coke which at the present time is but little over a third that of 1920.

LARGER LEGUME ACREAGE RECOMMENDED FOR STATE

That the 500,000 acres of legumes now grown annually in Kentucky should be increased to 1,500,000 acres in order to furnish nitrogen and organic matter to build up soils of the State is the statement of R. E. Stephenson, crops extension specialist for this end of Agriculture. To this end a legume such as crimson clover or vetch can be grown by farmers as a cover crop with a double gain. She legume not only answers all the other requirements of a cover crop but also gathers nitrogen from the inexhaustible supply in the air.

"Since nitrogen is one of the limiting factors in crop production, and since when purchased in commercial fertilizers it is very desirable to use a cover crop which can supply the element by growing on the soil when the land would otherwise be idle. Unfortunately crimson clover is not a success on many Kentucky farms and those farmers who are able to grow it are very favored."

"Only legumes gain any fertility other than that in the soil. The non-legumes, when used as a cover crop and turned under, only conserve and render more available the plant food already present. Any crop is a more efficient soil improver when turned under, as one-third of the organic matter, one-fourth of the nitrogen and phosphorus, and one-tenth of the potassium are lost by feeding, even under the best conditions of manure saving. If a legume cover crop can be used, however, the nitrogen supply in the soil can be increased even though the crop is used for feed."

"A ton of legume is just equivalent in manurial value to four tons of stable manure. Crimson clover should make one and one-half tons where it is a success. A crop of this kind turned under is therefore equivalent to a coating of six tons of available manure. More than this, the legume has taken from two-thirds to three-fourths of its nitrogen from the air while manure made from non-legume feeds contains only elements taken from the soil by the feed used. The supply of manure also is limited while a legume can be grown on the whole field. Therefore, this type of crop has a special value as a cover crop."

Purebred Livestock.

Attention is called by those interested in the better bred meat animal movement now under way in Kentucky to the steady and growing demand for only the best quality of spring lambs in the present market. Never before has the difference in price between the tops, No. 2s and No. 3s been as marked as now, at the Bourbon Stock Yards Louisville.

Typical of the situation has been the market for the last few days with the wide range between the fancy tops, No. 2s and culls. Tops ran $7 per hundred weight higher than No. 2s while culls were selling for $2.50.

Great interest is being shown in the market by the staff of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture who have been watching and supporting the movements of the Louisville Livestock Exchange and the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association for better bred livestock.

The market is particularly valuable, these representatives declare in proving the importance of the Farmer's Better Sire Sale of 200 pure bred bucks and ewes and 2,000 high grade ewes to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards August 11, by the Exchange and the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association.

Buying of the spring lambs this year has focused on the very best grades obtainable. Most of the finest animals are going direct to the New York packers who are killing for the big hotels of New York. Buyers for these packing houses say that the demand for the spring lambs was never better and that the hotels are turning to the Louisville market for the best as experience has taught these blue grass spring lambs are unequalled in quality.

"The man who breeds for the market next year, using only the best breeding stock, should find an excellent market awaiting him," says W. S. Bell, president of the Louisville Livestock Exchange. "Now is the time to improve the quality of his flocks. The reputation of the Kentucky spring lamb is established and if he has quality to make he will find buyers next year at prices that will surprise him."

HOW NAMES OF CANDIDATES WILL APPEAR ON BALLOTS

The names of the different candidates for county offices will appear on the ballot at the August primary as follows:

FOR COUNTY CLERK—

A. G. McMullen,
Mary Elizabeth Rogers.

FOR SHERIFF—

Clarence Norman,
B. B. Hume,
Charles Maurer.

FOR TAX COMMISSIONER—

L. L. Stephens,
J. S. Cason,
H. W. Riley.

FOR JAILER—

C. A. Fowler,

She positions was decided as the law requires by drawing; the names were placed in tin tubes and the tubes shaken. The drawing was done by Harold Conner, B. H. Riley and N. E. Riddell.

A. B. Corbin, formerly of Bellevue, this county, but now living at Erlanger, sends us a $1.50 for another year's subscription to the Recorder. He and his good wife like to get the news from their old home.

RUNNING A BUSINESS.

In running a business men's organization or civic progress society, one of the chief problems is how to win the attention and secure the cooperation of the most forceful personalities of the community.

"The Nation's Business" magazine, describing the work of a commercial organization secretary, remarks that "much of his time is spent in talking with drifters into the office, which is the recognized place for such citizens as have little to do and much to say."

Such persons have time on their hands, and are full of suggestions of things that ought to be done. Many of their suggestions are good. But to get things done, it takes a different type of people. You could not persuade these talkers to serve on a committee that had to go around from home to home and get the public to walk up and join in with some movement.

The real business leaders often get disgusted with civic movements because there is so much talk and so little action. They have no time to waste on discussions that do not result in actual accomplishment.

There ought to be in any community a few of the business and social leaders who would be willing to give time to public work. Many business men help out such movements a lot by letting their office help do some of the clerical tasks thereof. But for the actual work of arousing the public and soliciting cooperation, it is commonly necessary to depend on young hustlers who have their reputation to make. Elderly people who have never done anything but talk have proved a dead weight on many civic efforts.

KEEPING COOL MATTER OF SIMPLE PRINCIPLES.

Keeping cool in summer is largely a matter of observing a few simple principles in every-day life, according to specialists in the home economics department of the College of Agriculture. A sound-minded, well-nourished, sensibly clothed person will not suffer much from the heat, the specialists state. On the other hand persons who eat heartily of winter foods, who get less than eight hours of sleep out of every 24 and who wear badly-fitting shoes for instance are liable to heat prostration.

"The housewife should take advantage of the opportunity which presents itself during the summer months of training her family in health and food habits. It is no trouble to get children or adults to take cold baths during the summer and once started this good habit is apt to be continued. Fruits and vegetables are never so well received as during their own season while tea and coffee can be replaced daily by the more refreshing cool fruit drinks."

"It is unnecessary for any housewife who is willing to plan out her work to spend long hours in a hot kitchen. Except in the houses where there are a number of men doing manual labor, and requiring heavy food, the cooking for the day can be done in the early morning. In summer the protein elements of the diet should be filled by eggs, milk, fish, fowl and cheese, instead of by heavier meats. Vegetables, particularly the succulent ones, many of which can be eaten raw, should be used in abundance. Fruits and berries should appear as such, not combined with rich pastries. In canning by the cold pack process much of the heat and worry of canning is eliminated."

"The dining room should lose all of its unnecessary draperies and bric-a-bac, in order that dusting may be reduced to a minimum. Very attractive stenciled cloth doilies and paper napkins not only will make the table look and feel much cooler, but also will save heavy washing and ironing. All heavy rugs should be removed in the summer. Heavy upholstered furniture should be covered with cool-colored chintz. It is well to close the windows about eight o'clock and pull down the shades so as to keep out the sun and hot wind. When the windows are opened at 5 o'clock or thereabouts the house is cool and comfortable for the evening."

Chas. Westbay, who is with Ro-lander's threshing outfit in the East Bend bottoms, came home Saturday evening and remained over Sunday. He reports the wheat crop in that part of the county as very good—some crops threshing out as high as 800 bushels.

FARMERS BRANDED AS "PROFITEERS."

The last member of the Harding administration to get into hot water by making speeches is Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger, the personal appointee of President Harding, whose recent speech is arousing the ire of the farmers. The speech, made on June 24 at the Convention of the New York State Bankers' Association at Atlantic City, has not been widely reported. The following extracts will be of peculiar interest in agricultural communities:

"American farmers are caught in the wreck of their own super-prosperity which is the direct result of their profiteering during the war. Cuba is in great distress because its good fortune tempted it to extravagance, speculation, inflation of money, credit and prices during the war."

"Yet, if you smile the smile of superior sophistication at little Cuba, or—bit in the wreck of its super-prosperity, I will retort that Cuba and our own mid-western farming country are in precisely the same pickle. The farmers made money so fast on the high prices that everybody did exactly what everybody did in Cuba; went to speculating in farms, forcing the prices higher and higher, selling and reselling on small payments, and discounting the notes which represented deferred payments. Then the price of cotton and wheat and corn and hogs started downward on the same path that Cuba's sugar was following, and our farmers and agricultural speculators found themselves in full fellowship with Cuba's planters."

"So we see that the profits of the profiteer, whether in Cuba or here, have disappeared. He cannot meet his notes, the banks cannot afford to carry him, and both he and the banks are being squeezed."

As in the case of Ambassador Harvey who has not been recalled and so far as anyone knows has not been rebuked for his Pilgrim's Society speech, Comptroller Crissinger has neither been rebuked nor dismissed. It is pointed out, however, that Comptroller Crissinger had as good grounds as Ambassador Harvey could have had for believing his utterances in harmony with the views of President Harding, for on Feb. 26, 1917, discussing the Revenue Bill and arguing against further corporation taxes, Mr. Harding then a Senator, said:

"I venture to say that if the corporations of this country are holding back food products for advanced prices, as does the American farmer, there would be an outcry from one end of this country to another."

He may have found justification in a speech by Senator Harding in the Congressional Record of August 31, 1917, containing this statement: "I said that raising one dollar wheat was a profitable occupation in times of peace; and I say to the Senator from North Dakota that the knowing farmers of the country are buying land in Ohio at $150 an acre for the very purpose of going into a commercial proposition of raising wheat profitably at one dollar per bushel."

Louisville.—There is a distinctly increasing interest in public health work throughout Kentucky, Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, declared here today upon his return from a tour of inspection of eight county health departments. "I found," he said, "the county health board in every county I visited alive and on the job—and I was in Bath, Clark, Madison, Scott, Harrison, Laurel, Bell and Knox counties. Generally I encountered a popular interest in public health such as I never ran into before."

"We are getting reports," he said, when asked about health conditions in the counties visited, "of very unusual prevalence of dysentery and summer complaint in children all over Eastern Kentucky. This seems to be due largely to the unusual drought, which has concentrated the infection in the reduced water supplies."

"In the cities and towns where the water supply is properly filtered and chlorinated and where the milk is pure or effectively pasteurized there has been no increase in diarrhoea, but there is a serious danger of an epidemic of this disease in many sections of the State. To guard against this the State Board of Health is urging everyone in Kentucky to have himself vaccinated against typhoid."

LEGION NOTES

Two hundred and fifty members of the American Legion, headed by Frank D'Olier, former national commander, and representing every state and every branch of service, will sail for France August 8 on a pilgrimage to the former battle zone of the world war. The pilgrimage is at the instance of President Miller, and who on behalf of the French Government, invited the American Legion to send a representative delegation of former men to attend the unveiling of the Flirey monument and to participate in a series of events planned especially for the Americans.

The Flirey monument at Flirey, France, is a tribute of the citizens of that town and Lorraine to the valor of the American troops who delivered their soil from German occupation. Flirey is in the old Toul sector and once was the regimental headquarters of several American divisions.

The F. W. Galbraith, Jr., Post of the American Legion of New York City is the first post named for the late national commander of the Legion, to receive its charter. It is composed chiefly of Legionnaires attached to the American Legion Weekly headquarters. Two other Legion posts have organized in honor of the late commander, one at Cincinnati, Ohio, and the other at Rock Island, Ill.

The first railroad to announce reduced rates for delegates to the annual convention of the American Legion at Kansas City this fall is the Frisco. A one-cent a mile rate will be extended to all American Legion men, their wives and others who are members of the Women's Auxiliary.

A trial trip of the "American Legion," the new 21,000-ton twin screw passenger-cargo liner of the Munson Lines, was the occasion for a gathering of American Legion officials from Eastern States. The trip lasted two days. It started from Camden, N. J., and ended in New York. The ship was built for the United States Shipping Board by the New York Ship Building Corporation. It was allocated to the Munson line for service between New York and South America.

A replica of the Flirey monument was presented recently to President Harding by Ambassador Jusserand, who at the same time transmitted President Miller's invitation to the American Legion through its national commander, John G. Emery. Because of stress of Legion matters in this country, Mr. Emery will not go to France with the pilgrimage having selected Mr. D'Olier for the leadership.

One of the many impressive ceremonies in which the American Legion delegation will participate on their trip to France this summer will be the laying of a corner-stone of the new bridge to span the Marne at Chateau-Thierry. The new structure will be known as "Post Roosevelt" in honor of the late Theodore Roosevelt and his son Quentin. The latter fell in combat near Chateau-Thierry.

Life size replicas of the old "tin hat" of the A. E. F. days will bear the names and service records of Illinois soldiers on trees of memorial highways of the state, according to a recent decision of the Illinois department of the American Legion.

The 250 members of the American Legion who tour France this summer as guests of the French Government will visit the battle-scarred town of St. Die, well known to Americans who served on the old Lunerville front. Not many of the defenders of St. Die knew at the time that they were defending the house in which America got its name. In St. Die lived the Alsatian monk, Waldece Muller, whose suggestion it was that the Western Continent take the name of the navigator, Amerigo Vespucci.

Marshal Foch, who is coming to the United States this fall to attend the national convention of the American Legion at Kansas City, will meet the American Legion delegation in France this summer. If possible he will receive the Legionnaires in the old house in which he was born. The house is in the Pyrennes and the Legion men will mark it with a memorial tablet.

Feeding a balanced ration to his pig following the recommendation of County Agent T. H. Jones proved profitable for Jas. A. Hieronymous, a Junior agricultural club member in Lee county. His pig gained 50 pounds in 27 days and now weighs 100 pounds.

PARTISAN POLITICS NOT WANTED

Authorities On Both Sides Agree That School Offices Should Not Be Political Plums

TIGERT APPOINTED NEW COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION.

John J. Tigert, college professor of Lexington, Kentucky, who has been appointed Commissioner of Education to succeed Philander P. Claxton.

CLAXTON ALSO APPROVES.

That men and women in both of the great political parties think alike concerning the management of the public schools of the state, should go without the saying. For fear the average voter might allow partisan politics to sway him or her at the November election, some quotations from a recent article by the Hon. P. P. Claxton, are given here. Mr. Claxton of Tennessee served as Commissioner of Education for the United States under President Woodrow Wilson.

The reader is asked to compare what the new Commissioner has said above and what the retiring Commissioner has to say below concerning the very grave danger of mixing politics with the school affairs of the state. The reader should bear in mind the fact that these men represent in a measure the two great parties.

"Like Topsey, our state departments of education have just 'grewed up.' Few of them can look back to any definite birth as state departments of education. Very few, if any, except those that have been re-elected by recent acts of legislature or constitutional amendments, have been thoughtfully created and organized in full consciousness of the functions they should perform.

Office Is Not Political.

"In most of the states the mistake was made of supposing that the office of State Superintendent could be made a political office subject directly or indirectly to the vicissitudes of partisan government, as if, forsooth, the political parties as such ever advocated different educational policies, and as if the people would tolerate partisan influences in their schools. As a political office, elective or appointive, it did not formerly and in some states does not now, rank with other offices, either in pay or in importance within itself, or as a stepping stone to political preferment considered of a higher grade or more desirable.

All Equally Interested.

"From the standpoint of statemanship and the public welfare, all people are interested alike in the schools. Our political parties do not differ in regard to educational principles or practices any more than they do in the Ten Commandments or the moral code; and to attempt to make education a matter of partisan politics is good neither for education nor for politics. Education is the largest and most important part of what has been called our 'purposive government,' through which all the people are served and united, rather than controlled under policies on which people are divided into parties."

John J. Tigert

cerning the proposed amendments from the Hon. J. Tigert. What Mr. Tigert has to say on the important subject of schools, should carry a great weight as he has lately been appointed Commissioner of Education for the United States by President Harding. Mr. Tigert was one of the faculty of the University of Kentucky prior to his appointment as Commissioner.

Mr. Tigert's statement is given below:

"In reply to your questions suggesting an expression in regard to the proposed constitutional amendments, one to take the State Superintendent of Instruction out of politics, and the other to allow a reappointment of the State funds for school purposes, allow me to say that I do not know anything which would advance the cause of education in this Commonwealth more than the passage of these two amendments."

Keep Out of Politics.

"If the State Superintendent could be selected upon qualifications and aside from the issues of political campaigns, and then be allowed to continue in office after he has reached a high degree of efficiency, this one thing alone would improve the efficiency of our schools in an immeasurable way. I do not know of anything so important for the betterment of education in Kentucky.

Child Needs Square Deal.

"Hardly less desirable would be the amendment which would bring about a reappointment of the funds so that educational opportunities might be equalized throughout the state. Giving a square deal to the children in the rural communities, to my mind, would be an inestimable benefit coming from such a re-appointment. It would give me great satisfaction if both of these amendments could be passed. In the name of the children of our great state, let us put them through."

P. P. Claxton.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

At any season of the year frozen dishes are agreeable and something a little different is always welcomed.

Ice Cream With Toasted Marshmallows and Chocolate Sauce.—Crush one junket tablet and dissolve in one tablespoonful of cold water. Have ready the can of the freezer, with the dasher in place; put in one quart of rich milk, one cupful of double cream, one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of vanilla, mix and let stand over water until just lukewarm and the mixture jellies; then cool and freeze. Serve in glasses with a hot chocolate sauce and a toasted marshmallow above.

Frozen Fruit Salad.—Cut six slices of canned pineapple in small, wedge-shaped pieces; add the same quantity of canned peaches, pears or quinces, with the liquid from the fruit to fill a quart mold; spread a paper over the mold, press down the cover and pack in equal measures of ice and salt. Let stand two hours. The mixture should not be frozen too stiff. Serve cut in slices on nests of lettuce, with salad dressing. A mayonnaise is especially good with this salad.

American Pate de Foie Gras Sandwiches.—Pour boiling water over half a dozen chicken, turkey or duck livers, and let simmer in salted water until tender. When cold, add three hard-boiled egg yolks and press the whole through a sieve; add half a teaspoonful of onion juice, a teaspoonful of fine chopped parsley, five drops of tabasco sauce, a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce, one tablespoonful of olive oil or melted butter, and lemon juice. Mix well and spread on buttered bread.

Cider Cake.—Take three cupfuls of flour, two cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of butter, three eggs, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of soda, one cupful of cider, one teaspoonful of cinnamon and allspice mixed. Mix and bake in a moderate oven and when cold cover with a brown sugar frosting.

SETTLING SOME IMPORTANT POINTS.

(Omaha Bee.)

When Isaac Newton lay under an apple tree one drowsy autumn day and received a bump on his somnolent noodle from a dropping apple something was started. Out of the train of thought then engendered he evolved the theory of gravity, which later was accepted as a law, and the principles of which have controlled science ever since. Einstein was not satisfied with the Newtonian law, and worked out one for himself, presented to the world as the Einstein theory of relativity. It involves the fourth dimension, which its author presents as time, and on which he bases his argument. Following his lead, another eminent observer suggests that possibly there are other dimensions which must be given due weight, and so the problem is expanding rather than contracting. Now comes the Philosophical Society, in session at Philadelphia, and shoes both Newton and Einstein out of the arena, with a new theory that has for its substratum the proposition that gravitation does not affect all substances alike. One recorded experiment shows a variation of one twenty-millionth part. This is not a great deal, even at the end of one's nose, but when dealing with such bodies as Betelgeuse, where mass is considered and weight must be determined from that, such a divergence amounts to something. However, the discussion is still open, and pending the determination ordinary mortals will rest safe in the conviction that whatever goes up must come down, cost of living to the contrary notwithstanding.

IMPROVED METHODS OF PACKING
EGGS FOR SAFE SHIPMENT.

"Handling eggs for Profit" is the title of a little mimeographed circular issued by the Food Research Laboratory of the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, which gives directions and drawings for the construction of egg cases so as to reduce loss from breakage while in transit from the producers to consuming centers. The specialists of the Food Research Laboratory have made a study of methods for packing and shipping eggs in order to reduce the great losses from breakage that have occurred in the past. This work has been done in all parts of the country in cooperation with railroads and with egg shippers. Experimental shipments in different kinds of shipping cases and with the different methods of packing the eggs in the cases have been made and the results compared. An instrument has been devised for measuring and recording the shocks to which cars containing eggs were subjected while in transit.

As a result of these experiments the specialists have recommended methods of packing eggs which reduce breakage to a minimum. These methods have been tried practically under a great variety of conditions, and have been incorporated as requirements in the railroad and express classifications for the transportation of eggs.

Copies of the mimeographed circular may be obtained upon application to the department's Food Research Laboratory, 22 Jackson Place Indianapolis, Ind.

REPUBLICAN DISCONTENT GROWING.

The almost painful notes of discontent over the inaction and apparent inability of the administration continue in the Republican press, which is much severer in its criticism than the Democratic press, because the latter has shown a disposition all along to give the administration a fair chance to make good.

The Boston Transcript, an undyed Republican paper, commenting on what it calls the "Republican Failure" and the explanation of some of the President's friends that the Republican majority in Congress is too large to be handled easily, says:

"We think we can easily promise the President.... a considerable reduction in the Republican majority in each House."

The staunch Philadelphia Inquirer, spokesman for Pennsylvania reactionary Republicanism, commenting on the prediction of former Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Good, who recently resigned from Congress, that unless the expenditures of the government are materially reduced and the burden of taxation subsequently lightened the Republicans will be swept out of power, says:

"Beyond a doubt the American people have been greatly disappointed by the up-to-date sum of accomplishments in the directions indicated."

It warns Republican leaders in Congress that they should heed Mr. Good's warning, but sees no evidence of such a desire.

Blackberry pickers from the city were out in full force early Sunday morning in all parts of the county.

Fewer cases of sudden and distressing illness are expected after the anti-medical beer bill passes.

BRIGHT SIDE OF COUNTRY
EDITOR'S LIFE.

(Elizabethtown News.)

Everybody has written about the trials and tribulations of a country editor but nobody has ever written about his joys.

He stands ahead of the preacher, the lawyer and the public speaker because he never talks to empty benches but speaks in all the homes where his paper goes. He never makes impromptu speeches which generally disgust the audience but writes with deliberation and premeditation. The preacher's influence for good seldom reaches further than his congregation, while the editor's field for good reaches all the congregations in the county. The lawyer makes a great speech in the court house and only one or two hundred people hear him, but when the editor writes a good editorial it is copied in the various papers in the State.

The editor distributes more flowers than a florist and he asks nothing in return for them but thanks. The editor has an opportunity to do the individual citizen a service and he never hesitates to do it if consistent with his obligations to the public. The editor has the greatest opportunity to convert men and women to his way of thinking on all public questions he thinks right. As the lighthouse on the shore warns the ships from the rocks the editor can warn the public from frauds and fakers. The editor has the greatest opportunity to protect society from evil by standing for the law and creating public sentiment for it.

The editor never tires of boosting his town and county and if both do not grow it is not his fault. He helps the deserving young men with words of commendation and restrains the old words of warning. His field of usefulness is broader than any one else in the community and if he does not get any returns for his efforts for betterment he has a sufficient reward in seeing things get better. He rejoices in his opportunity for service to his fellow man his town and his county and goes on his way rejoicing, whether or not he gets any returns for it.

HOME TOWN BUSINESS.

The old idea of a town was that it was a group of people who gathered in one location to obtain certain conveniences, but who were isolated in their business relations. They never seemed to feel that they had close business interests in common. It was everyone for himself, and the devil take the hindmost. As a consequence the devil usually took them all.

The modern idea is that a town is a community of people whose business and civic relations are inextricably interwoven. They are not competing rivals grabbing for the biggest share of a certain limited business. They are partners in a joint effort to render the most efficient service to the state and country. Their success depends on all elements working harmoniously together to produce a maximum result.

The first result of this conception, should be the realization that people do well to support all the enterprises of their home town. If they give a large part of their business patronage to dealers living somewhere else, they defeat the ends for which they are working, and place prohibitive limits on the growth of the community.

That means, stated in the simplest way, that anyone here in Burlington who wants his home town to grow, must do his part in the first step toward such growth, by buying his home and business supplies so far as possible of the dealers in his home town. This subject is not a new one, but it is one that should be emphasized constantly.

WHEN YOUR GARDEN GROWS.

(Indianapolis Star.)

The torrid, showery, "muggy" weather is uncomfortable for human beings, an official Government reporter has it that there are more gardens in the United States this year than ever before. The report says that 5,000,000 home gardens are under cultivation this season in back yards and vacant lots. These figures refer only to the gardens that have been brought into being by the vacant lot movement and the special efforts, begun during the war to induce people as a measure of economy to raise their own vegetables. The ordinary gardens cultivated by people who have had them time out of mind, on farms, in suburban places or in city back yards, and would not think of doing without them, are not counted by Uncle Sam's agent.

The same enthusiast says the year will be the biggest the home-gardening movement has ever experienced and should result in more than $125,000,000 worth of vegetables, even taking the drop in prices into consideration. At least one in every four families in the United States has a garden this year, he says, and here, it may be, he is including all gardens. It is necessary to "repeat a garden" several times before it develops its full attractions. At its best it should be close to the home premises. One who cultivates a vacant place loses much of the reward of a garden, for the reward is not all in the vegetables successfully raised, though they are the crowning achievement.

There is the pleasure of watching the first break of the eaves through the earth, of seeing the plants grow of stirring the soil about their roots, of destroying the worms and bugs and other pests that prey on them, of pulling the weeds that crowd them—of doing all this with a sense of wrath against the insects and the weeds as if they had no rights on earth. The sense of personal possession comes out strong in the owner of a garden. What he plants he feels to be emphatically his.

No one really appreciates a garden who does not like to walk in it, to make plans for a better arrangement next season, for trying this or that new variety of peas or beans or potatoes. No one fully enjoys it who is not willing to work in it. It takes labor to make a garden grow. One has to act as he does and weeds and sprays and sprinklers and does all the varied services that help to make his plot a real garden. It will not grow if he does not do these things and it is easy to pick the garden that is a labor of love as well as of desire to have fresh vegetables.

It is particularly hard work in weather such as the middle of June, having now to work in the garden even in the early morning for there is very little "cool o' the morning" with the mercury in the late 80s at 4 a. m. But what if it is hard? So is the playing of tennis hard work, yet men and women will rise in the morning to play and call it pleasure. Golf is no child's play, yet elderly men will toil and sweat on hot afternoons in pursuit of a little ball who would shudder at the thought of hoeing the cabbages in the garden. It is all in the point of view, and it is encouraging to know that so many Americans are taking an interest in gardens.

THE SAP IS RISING.

Even lands where summer is a permanent institution and where sunshine and flowers do not hibernate, still even there the vernal awakening comes to the most hurried of the grimed city throngs.

Maybe you want suddenly to go fishing; or perhaps the travel bug bites you without warning; perhaps it's the gardening mania that lays you low, and maybe you only need the extent of taking home violets to the wife, thereby giving her the shock of a twelve month.

But in everything that breathes the breath of life the vernal impulse stirs. And they worry about race suicide! They needn't.

Happy about all men, if only he had time to look about him, which usually he has not, is the farmer in the spring.

The scents of the meadow with its clovers and rye grasses, its sweet vernal and its tender flowers, are an intoxication.

Flowing, now there's a poem. Plowing behind sedate team that knows its business, with a plow that is hung just right, in land that is neither too wet nor too hard.

One becomes hypnotized by the smooth unwinding of the narrow ribbon of turf just ahead; his movements become mechanical; his mind sets on no coherent thought; for minutes one lives as the tree lives, merely a part of nature, sensing the thrill of the south wind, the scent of the meadows, and the kiss of the sun but unconsciously.

Spring evenings, when the browsing cows come slowly up the winding hill to the milking shed; contentment in their very atmosphere; the sound of the tiny gushers of milk steaming against the pale, expectant purr of the house cat, arching its back and rubbing its lean sides against the milker; the calm and philosophic munching of the field team in its stalls, the far off tinkle of a cow bell and the last defiant of the neighbor's cock, hankering to its roosting haven; these sights and sounds and smells bring the spell of spring down upon the Gladstone's Umbrella.

Gladstone's umbrella is a catch phrase for the Gladstone policy. When in September, 1885, Mr. Gladstone issued his manifesto to the Midlothian electors. It was said that he "opened his umbrella." His ministry was said to shelter under his umbrella, and that is why in caricature he was frequently shown with a "gamp" under his arm.

TOO MUCH LAW.

Judge Complains of Disrespect and Urges Repeal of Legislation.

(Louisville Courier-Journal.)
Law-making is becoming one of the nation's large industries. What with Congress, 48 State Legislatures and thousands of City Councils turning out statutes and ordinances, and commissions, bureaus and boards multiplying rulings and regulations, the country is in a fair way of becoming flooded and inundated with things not to do. "Verboten" is the legend on the national signboard, but it fails to forbid.

"Let me venture to say," said Judge Carroll at the meeting of the Kentucky Bar Association, "that the crying evils of the day are disrespect of law and the consequent lack of law enforcement, the enactment of too many trifling, unsubstantial laws interfering with business as well as pleasure. Let me suggest what we need is better law enforcement, and not more laws; that if all the unnecessary regulatory laws now in force thru statute and ordinance were repealed, and the remaining few were enforced, the respect for law would be the rule and not the exception."

Thus a man whose profession dictates respect for the law's majesty is moved to make a just complaint against the busybody lawmaker who turns out laws as a packing house turns out sausage. The effect of such wholesale regulation is obviously bad. Men in business and private life, finding themselves surrounded with a thousand enmeshing statutes and being denied a normal liberty of action, solve the problem by breaking them.

Meanwhile, the men employed by state and nation to enforce the law are given a task which is humanly impossible to perform. Since they are not argus-eyed or hydra-headed or yet equipped with the magical powers of invisibility and omnipresence, they come soon to despair of success. The result is demoralization on all sides. The citizen finds he can disregard the sovereignty of the law and that, therefore, the law is not sovereign. The officer becomes content with vacuous routine, and his vision obscured by petty infractions, fails to detect larger crimes against society.

The silly law irritates, annoys and exasperates. Not only does it fail to achieve what it sets out to achieve, but it is a corrosive influence on the good and worthy body of laws. It is a trouble maker and a demoralizer. It ignores the fundamental right of the American people to walk in the pursuit of happiness. It declares that the law which is contrary to the will of the people cannot be enforced.

But, since the silly law emanates from the same place as the good law, the latter suffers. One rotten apple infects all the rest of the barrel. She barrel should be searched and cleared of the rotten apple. The statute books, likewise, should be fumigated of the silly laws. With the decks thus cleared, the guardians of the law can have no excuses for laxity in protecting the good laws. Once the good laws are enforced, respect for them will follow naturally.

EIGHT POINTS OF BUSINESS SUCCESS.

The old proverb that "Where there is a will, there's a way" sounds trite, but it expresses a profound truth. The first element in any commercial achievement is determination. A man may be a steady worker, he may have studied diligently, and he may be a serious business man. But unless there is in his mind the fixed purpose of success, the unconquerable determination to rise above the mass, he will not get very far out of the ordinary run.

It is the power of will that leads a man to make one more effort when others have given up. It is this that keeps his mind active out of working hours, studying the problems of his business, trying to figure out better ways of serving the public.

The world is full of fellows who do just average good and faithful work. So outnumber all these ordinary people, a man must show special and sustained initiative, and it takes resolute purpose.

Carroll Cropper and wife chaperoned a camping party of Gunpowder last week. The party was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Cropper, Misses Louise Walton, Mary Evelyn Row, Shirley Tolin, Francis Riddell, Messrs. Harold Conner, Kirtley Cropper, Walton Dempsey and Robert Gaines.

Good showers of rain fell in different parts of the county last week. In some sections rain was badly needed.

The deep interest manifested by the politicians in the welfare of your family, is not so conspicuous as before the election.

UNTAUGHT CHILDREN.

A recent investigation revealed that only 573 children out of 1374 in a New York school are familiar with the Ten Commandments. This ancient moral code embodies the fundamental principles of modern community life, and children ought to know it. District Attorney Lewis of that city, thinks this ignorance helps to explain why two thirds of the criminals in New York are between 16 and 21 years of age. These young people have not lived long enough to learn life's lessons, and the school failed to teach them moral standards.

If schools teach merely information, and do not instruct children in the necessity of right living, their work is but half done. It is not safe to look to the Sunday schools for instruction in the fundamental virtues because half the children do not attend the Sunday schools, and the latter are handicapped by having no legal control over the children. The first lesson the day schools have to teach is that people must obey the law. If they don't learn that, all other lessons are wasted.

Personal Mentions.

Earl Walton and family, of Petersburg, spent Saturday evening with friends in Burlington.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shearer, of Newport, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hall.

Mrs. L. H. Clark and son Ralph, of Evansville, Ind., visited her cousin, Mrs. W. D. Sutton, last week.

Hon. A. B. Rouse, wife and children, of Covington, were calling on friends in Burlington, Sunday afternoon.

John Sandford and wife, of Bromley, Kenton county, spent several days the past week with his brother, Tim Sandford and wife.

Rev. Thomas Chapman will begin a series of meetings at the Burlington Universalist church Wednesday night July 27th and continue over Sunday. All are invited to attend.

Dr. B. K. Menefee and wife, of Covington, and Jno. L. Vest, and wife, of Walton, were in McVie last Wednesday assisting in the institution of a lodge of the Eastern Star.

Robert Gaines who has been employed in Washington, in the Government service, is spending his vacation with his father and mother Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gaines, in Erlanger.

Alexander Yelton after a visit of two weeks with Wayne and Weindel Phipps, near Lawrenceburg, Ind., returned home one day last week. Weindel Phipps accompanied him home for a few days visit.

Ryburn Williamson and wife, of Fullerton, are visiting with parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Williamson, of near Rabbit Hash, and other relatives in the county. Mr. Williamson is delighted with California and he and his wife expect to be in the county for a month. He is engaged as driller in the oil fields of that State at a good salary.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT

Estimates placing Kentucky's 1921 tobacco crop at approximately 386,000 acres compared to 550,000 acres last year (or 30 per cent decrease) and wheat crop at 6,764,000 bushel last year, are the features of the July report for Kentucky issued today at Louisville and Frankfort by the United States Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates in cooperation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna. This is a decrease of 943,000 bushel from the June 1st estimate of the Kentucky wheat crop, due chiefly to poor filling of heads in many counties even the acreage was nearly 10 per cent more than in 1920.

This month's preliminary estimate of the acreage of corn indicates a crop of about 92,791,000 bushels compared to 100,050,000 bushels last year, while oats are estimated at only 6,655,000 bushels compared to 8,225,000 bushels last year. Many fields of oats in various parts of the state were so short they had to be cut with a mower or be pastured.

All these 1921 estimates are subject to revision downward or upward as the season progresses, depending on favorable or unfavorable weather and other conditions hereafter. The tobacco and corn estimates are the first of this season, and as planting of both crops was continued very late this year such estimates may be subject to considerable change either upward or downward before the end of this season.

Hay has been a short crop (in yield per acre) in most counties, though in some places it is good. Much of the hay is very wet, especially with white-top, the average condition of all hay being only 68 per cent. Pastures generally are only fair. Fruit is irregular, but generally a very short crop. Apples are only about 18 per cent of a full crop, but Peaches and pears are only 8 per cent of a full crop. Melons generally are in fair condition.

FOCH'S TESTIMONY

Gives America Glory of Entering War at Decisive Moment.

(Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.)

The fourth of July greeting to the people of the United States from Marshal Foch is entitled to a place on the permanent record, as an official acknowledgment of the part the United States played in winning the World War. The commander in chief of the combined armies of the allies and associated powers was the military leader of unprecedented forces, numbering 6,000,000 men. He indulges in no rhetoric but cites figures with precision of an annihilator to show that a mighty and marvelous effort of the American nation saved civilization in its hour of greatest need.

America gave a wonderful demonstration of its energy and adaptability in the concentrated efforts of the whole people, which were directed to the one end of winning the war. If the decision to become a belligerent was late, the following action was quick and effective. Marshal Foch bears witness, and there is no appeal from his judgment, that "to the American nation is due the glory of having thrown herself wholly into the struggle at the decisive moment, and in order to insure victory, to have made every branch of the national activity an unparalleled effort."

Because of this titanic energy of the aroused Republic, the illusory German hope of settling the fate of the Entente before America could come effectively to aid was shattered and destroyed. The share of the United States in the victory will be judicially appraised by the historians in the future. But the testimony of Marshal Foch is an assurance that the verdict of posterity cannot differ from contemporary opinion.

SELLING A TOWN.

The city of Hopewell, Virginia, was built up during the war for war industries. At one time it had a population of 30,000, and was a complete modern city, with factories, paved streets, hotels, theaters, etc.

When the war closed the big factories stopped and the population vanished. There seemed nothing to do but to sell off the buildings as scrap. But as told in "System," Mr. Hunter Grubb of the DuPont company, who was sent down there to dismantle the place, believed that the town could be saved by the proper promotion spirit. So instead of ripping it to pieces, he began to boom it. Now they have secured 23 substantial industries to move into the place, which seems likely to be prosperous.

Any city that is apparently down and out, and which was built on such transitory foundations, can be restored to life and progress, how much easier it should be to put the breath of new advance in to other places which are built on permanent and substantial foundations.

The experience of Hopewell in securing good industries shows that it is not impossible to obtain new enterprises when people understand how to get them.

The thing that seemed to be the most powerful factor in inducing business men to locate in Hopewell, was the appearance of life. Before they invited any "prospects" to visit it, they had all the restaurants, hotels, stores, churches and other functions going in good shape. It was the appearance of life and progress that sold the place and induced business men to move in.

A place may have natural advantages, but if there is a spirit of dead conservatism business men do not want to locate there. If the place seems alive and its business men appear full of determination to go ahead, the town naturally attracts new residents and enterprises.

LAWS BEING VIOLATED

If reports are true the liquor laws of the State are being violated in Boone county. Under the law it is now unlawful to sell, haul, or give away any intoxicating liquor in Boone county and the penalty for a violation of the law is a fine of from $50 to $200 and in addition imprisonment in the county jail for not less than sixty nor more than sixty days. If these reports are true and boot leggers are plying their trade in Boone county they must stop that nefarious practice as the people will not stand for that traffic. A boot legger is not entitled to the respect of a citizen. Bootlegging is much worse than the open sale of liquor as he plies his trade with the young as well as the old.

Any person who brings any intoxicating liquor into this county or who transports it in the county is liable to a fine and imprisonment. The people of Boone county have the power to stop the practice of bootlegging by reporting any and all violations to the officers.

IRONING MADE SIMPLE BY TRYING PIECES SMOOTHLY.

Ironing is one of the disagreeable household tasks of the housewife that can be made easier by drying some of the pieces smoothly and thereby dispensing with the ironing of them, according to home economics specialists in the College of Agriculture. Many flat pieces such as sheets, pillow cases and towels, if hung on the line carefully will dry smooth and when taken down will need to be only neatly folded. This practice also is much more sanitary than ironing and helps the pieces retain the fresh fragrance of the sunshine and out-of-doors.

Much ironing can be saved by making children's dresses and older persons' undergarments out of such materials as crepe. All that is necessary to complete the laundering of these is to hang them on the line and allow them to dry smoothly. White clothing is recommended as the best material for clothes during the summer not only because it is cooler but also because it is easier to launder and does not require the care in laundering and drying that colored clothes do.

The use of paper napkins, oilcloth or heavy cloths in place of the usual table linen is another means of saving ironing. Since these simple necessities do not require the care and attention that more elaborate table linens do.

Where there are many flat pieces to be ironed the purchase of a mangle is the simplest and most efficient method of making the summer laundry work easier. The damp clothes may be folded and pressed between the rollers which are heated with gas, gasoline or electricity.

For those pieces that cannot be ironed with the mangle there are many kinds of irons on the market that are self-heated and do away with heating up the kitchen range. The most commonly used and most satisfactory of these is the electric iron. The gas iron also has been found to give satisfactory results as well as those which are heated by denatured alcohol and gasoline.

The gasoline iron has been found especially satisfactory and is highly recommended by those who have used it. The gasoline is generated into gas which is burned to heat the iron. Best results are obtained by straining the gasoline before using it. A good iron of this type is safe and easily regulated to any heat desired.

PLANS COMPLETED

For Sheep Culling Campaign in Boone County by County Agent, Sutton.

Plans have been completed by County Agent Sutton for the sheep culling campaign which will be held in this county July 25th to July 30th for the purpose of helping farmers select the most profitable sheep from their flocks and suggesting the best methods of mating to them, according to an announcement made today. Five community night meetings and six culling demonstrations will be held in connection with the campaign. R. C. Miller, sheep extension specialist from the College of Agriculture will assist County Agent Sutton in the campaign.

Lantern slides and moving pictures will be used to illustrate the lectures which will be given at the night meetings. Mr. Miller will address the farmers on timely sheep subjects and discuss their problems of sheep raising with them. The day following the night meeting a culling demonstration will be held on some farm to be used to illustrate which time the specialist will show the farmers the indications of the profitable and unprofitable sheep.

The communities and dates in which the meetings will be held are as follows:

Beaver Lick Monday night 8:00 p. m., July 25th.
Rabbit Hash Tuesday night 8:00 p. m., July 26th.
Burlington Wednesday night 8:00 p. m., July 27th.
Verona Thursday night 8:00 p. m., July 28th.
Hebron Friday night 8:00 p. m., July 29th.

CANDIDATES BUSY

Candidates for county offices are busy shaking hands with the voters and trying to better their positions in the race and most of them look pretty well fagged out after a long and tiresome campaign. So far there has been little bitterness engendered in the canvass and a fairly clean race is being made. Reports that some candidates will spread some propaganda and throw sand toward the close are current. So far as this newspaper is concerned no matter of this kind will be handled. Our columns are open to any candidate who wishes to run legitimate advertising, but not to those who wish to throw mud.

STUDIES

Losses During Ensiling of Corn Caused by Leaching and Fermentation.

Every farmer who has a silo knows that some change takes place in the substance of the corn or other crop conserved by this means, and is generally assumed that some loss in substance of both moist and dry matter takes place as a result of fermentation and leaching. To ascertain as definitely as possible the amount of this loss, its causes, and means for wholly or partially preventing it, the Dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture has been conducting a series of experiments. The results of two years' tests are covered in a professional paper, Department Bulletin 953, Nitrogen and Other Losses During the Ensiling of Corn.

Samples of Silage Analyzed.
Samples of silage in cheesecloth sacks were buried at various depths and positions in a silo 42 feet high by 14 feet in diameter, holding approximately 150 tons. The bags were weighed when put in, and samples of the silage analyzed. When the bags were reached in feeding out the silo the contents were again weighed and analyzed.

The two years' work furnishes evidence of a downwash of the juice in the silo carrying with it soluble food materials, so that the silage in the lower part of the silo may gain in food material at the expense of the upper part. There was an average loss for all the bags of nearly 10 per cent of the dry matter, which apparently is due largely to the fermentation of the carbohydrates and to the carrying away of soluble material by the juice. The sugars almost entirely disappeared. There was a considerable loss of crude fiber and of the furfural-yielding bodies. There was a loss in total nitrogen, which was larger when the corn put into the silo was immature than when mature corn was used. It is probably that this loss is due largely if not entirely, to the nitrogenous compounds in the juice. The albuminoid nitrogen suffered a loss of over 50 per cent, while the non-albuminoid forms increased several times their original weight.

There was a gain in ether extract, probably due to the formation of new ether-soluble bodies. The second season nearly 10,000 pounds of juice escaped from the silo. This juice carried a considerable percentage of nitrogen of various forms which in ordinary practice would remain in the silo.

The results are as yet incomplete, and the tests are being continued.

FOR JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

T. C. Bonar, well known citizen and farmer of the Ft. Pleasant neighborhood, announces in this issue of the Recorder as a candidate for Justice of the Peace in the Florence and Constance district, subject to the action of the Democratic party at the primary election to be held on Saturday, August 6th, 1921. Mr. Bonar is a young man and his experience as a farmer and business man fits him admirably for this position which is one of the most important in the county. All the money that the county spends comes thru the Fiscal Court. Mr. Bonar has made a financial success in private life, through industry and economy, and if elected to this office he pledges to spend the taxpayer's money with the same economy that he would his own. Mr. Bonar is a conscientious christian gentleman and will make good on every pledge he makes in this campaign. Through an oversight his announcement failed to appear in last week's issue.

CONCRETE CURB USED TO KEEP WATER CLEAN.

Many Kentucky farmers who depend upon springs as a water supply for their stock are protecting these springs and making them more sanitary by placing a concrete curb around them according to J. B. Kelley, head of the farm engineering section of the College of Agriculture. After the spring is surrounded with the curb the water is allowed to flow through a pipe by means of gravity to a concrete tank placed several feet below the spring at a point where the stock can conveniently reach it. By this means running water is provided for the animals instead of the muddy water in which they wade. Detailed information concerning the making of tanks and the installation of such water systems may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

The picnic at the Harvest Home grounds last Saturday evening, which was given by McGlasson and Zimmer, was enjoyed by the large crowd present. The music was furnished by the Kohn family of Petersburg, which was to the liking of the dancers.

CAR SHORTAGE IN WHEAT BELT.

Kansas City, July 14.—Although the heavy movement of wheat from the Southwest has not yet gotten fairly under way, there is a marked shortage of freight cars and for wheat belt. Appeals from farmers are going out to the railroads to supply additional equipment at once. The farmers are unable to understand the shortage, as railroad tonnage has been low for months and the yards have been filled with idle cars. Much of the shortage is attributed here to the number of cars out of commission for repairs, little work having been done in railroad shops for months.

JULY AND AUGUST ARE BEST FOR CRIMSON CLOVER SOWING

Crimson clover seeding can be done successfully in Kentucky from July 20 to August 20, according to a circular from the College of Agriculture which is being distributed to interested farmers. The publication states that the first 15 days of August comprise the most favorable period for planting the crop. The circular takes up in detail the various problems connected with the growing of the crop. It is No. 81 and may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

Base Ball

Walton journeyed to Bellevue last Saturday with a team composed of several youngsters and for innings held the Bellevue boys to one run, but in the sixth they made four hits which netted them four runs, and in that same inning the Walton boys on two doubles and a single scored two runs. The final score was five to two in favor of Bellevue.

At Verona's last Saturday Petersburg suffered their worst defeat of the season. Verona turned loose sixteen inch guns and when the game was over and the score tabulated it was found that Verona had scored 14 runs while Petersburg scored 5. The Petersburg team was not as strong as usual on account of several of her regular players being out of the line-up.

Bellevue went to Taylorsport last Sunday afternoon with their sails all set to distance the Taylorsport boys, and they started in with a full determination to defeat them and put three men over the plate while Taylorsport had only one man in counting territory, thus goes the story about the eighth inning when the Taylorsport boys woke up and turned loose a battering ram, and at the end of the fusillade they had put eight more runs over the rubber which they thought was enough and called off hostilities for the afternoon, so the final score was 9 to 3 in favor of Taylorsport.

NEXT SATURDAY'S GAMES.

Petersburg and Bellevue will play at Petersburg next Saturday, and this should be a very interesting game as these teams are pretty evenly matched.

Burlington will play at Verona next Saturday afternoon.

Next Sunday Taylorsport plays Bromley at Bromley. A great game can be looked for as the teams are well matched.

A SAD AFFAIR.

Mrs. Laura Clore, 43, wife of Lon Clore, who resides about two miles south of Burlington, took her life Sunday morning about 7 a. m. Mrs. Clore had been in failing health for several months and her mind had become impaired. Sunday morning she took a 22 rifle and went into a thicket near her home and fired a bullet into her brain. She was still breathing when found but died shortly after. The funeral service was held Tuesday morning at the residence, burial in I. O. F. cemetery, Burlington.

Mrs. Clore leaves to mourn her untimely death her husband, a son, father, mother and a number of other relatives and friends. She was the daughter of Henry Clore and wife, C. Scott Chambers, of Walton, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

TO THE VOTERS OF BOONE CO:

Following my usual custom, the greater part of the remainder of July will be utilized by me in putting the Court House in readiness for the August term of Circuit court. As this means the washing of all of the windows, etc., along with my other duties, among which is the present disaster incident to the installation of an electric lighting system, I will be required to spend most of my time at my work, thereby being restrained from visiting with the voters as widely as I would otherwise. However, I will do the best I can and thank you sincerely in advance for your support.

Respectfully,
C. A. FOWLER, J. P.

DEARBORN CO. FAIR EXPECTED TO SURPASS ALL THE PREVIOUS SHOWS

Lawrenceburg and Dearborn County people are planning for the greatest fair in the history of the town this year.

The fair opens on Wednesday, August 17, and runs till Saturday, August 20, which means that Lawrenceburg will be all life and action during the whole week.

Wednesday, August 17, will be Soldier's Day, a day devoted to the soldiers of our war. Special attractions are billed for that day, with ideal weather it is expected that the attendance will break all records, as the attractions promised are to excel all previous shows.

LAWRENCEBURG FAIR A WEEK OF PLEASURE AUGUST 17 to 20

ATTRACTIVE PREMIUM LIST.

Premiums in all departments are especially attractive and exhibits will be confined to residents of Dearborn county, thus making it impossible for professionals to come in and take all the prizes.

This is your opportunity to encourage a fair which will really benefit our county. Come and bring your live stock, agricultural products, chickens or entries for the department of home economics. This is Dearborn County's Fair — YOUR FAIR. Every one will have an equal chance in displaying his products and premiums will be awarded because of merit by competent judges.

PLANS OF FARM BUILDINGS ARE SENT OUT TO FARMERS.

A number of suggestive farm building plans are being distributed by the farm engineering department of the College of Agriculture to farmers of the State who are interested in remodeling the buildings on their properties, according to an announcement by J. B. Kelley, head of the department. The list includes plans for general barns, dairy barns, tobacco barns, hog houses, poultry houses, machine sheds and sheep barns. Any of the plans may be obtained on request by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

FERRIS WHEEL GIRLS

To Be at Lawrenceburg Fair.

When Eli Ferris invented the Ferris Wheel, which first appeared at the Chicago World's Fair, he provided an idea for a new gymnastic performance that has been incorporated in the "Ferris Wheel Girls" who will appear at the Dearborn County Fair, August 17, 18, 19 and 20. So unique is this act that it was a feature at the New York Hippodrome for one season and startled the staid New Yorkers, just as much as it has the thousands of spectators who have since seen it on the vaudeville stage and at 275 fairs throughout the U. S. Identically the same act which appeared at the famous Hippodrome will be shown those who attend the fair.

Upon the whirling Ferris Wheel, which stands 35 feet above a specially constructed stage, five beautiful girls perform, while the nickel plated apparatus circles at a dizzy speed through the air.

Feats which other performers present on stationary equipments these five young women whose wardrobe is as beautiful as money and material can make, perform while traveling through the air like so many birds, absolutely unafraid. The act is as thrilling as it is beautiful.

The musical program offered by the same and perfectly constructed and executed bill which is a strong rival for popular favor performance given by performers who have not the added grace and gymnastic ability of these charming Ferris Wheel Girls.

Delco Light Plant Installed by H. R. Leidy.

The Delco Light Plant is an ideal installation in farm dwellings as the wife can connect all of the labor saving devices such as irons, sweepers, washing machines, water pumps and the water system in the home, thus adding to a country home all of the conveniences of the city dwelling.

Mr. Leidy is the agent for the Delco Plants in Boone county and can install a plant in your home that will meet all your needs. The prices of the plant ranges from $250.00 up, according to the number of lights and labor saving devices that will be used.

Mr. Leidy is a practical electrician and will be glad to call on any one interested and explain the operation of the plant and tell you the exact cost of installing the plant in your dwelling, barn and other out-buildings so that you will know in advance just what it will cost you to have your property lighted.

He has just installed in the Court House one of the Delco Plants, which was badly needed. As Mr. Leidy is a practical electrician you can rest assured that if you contract with him for a Delco Installation you will get a first-class job, that he will render you all the necessary service. Mr. Leidy can be reached by letter addressed, Florence R. F. D., or Consolidated Telephone—Advertisement.

GRANT COUNTY.

(Grant County News.)

J. J. Marquette and Ed. Duncan, of Big Bone Springs, Boone county, were court day visitors and called at The News office, ordering The News sent to them at their new home. They are former Dry Ridge boys and have a host of friends in this county.

E. K. McClure died at his home in Crittenden on Wednesday evening, July 13th, from ailments incident to old age. He was about 85 years old and was probably the oldest citizen in Crittenden. His health had held up remarkably well until about a year ago when he began to fail.

Garnett W. Toll, of Burlington, candidate for Representative from the joint legislative district composed of Grant and Boone, was here Monday. He stated that he expects to receive a good majority of the votes cast in Boone county. He has a good following in Grant and looks like a winner.

T. M. Flynn, well known citizen of Boone county, was a court day visitor and paid his subscription to The News. Tom is a former Grant county boy and is prospering in his new home. He stated to the News that O'Hara is very strong in his part of Boone county and thinks there is no doubt that Boone will roll up a good majority for the Grant county candidate.

While grading a road back of the old coal chute in Williamstown last Tuesday, workmen unearthed a full quart of real whisky evidently made in the good old days before we ever heard of Volstead. The bottle was labelled "Belle of Nelson," a popular brand of prehistoric days before the great drouth set in. What the finders did with the contents may easily be guessed. Those who sampled it say it was very fine. As the coal chute has not been used for nearly 20 years it is likely the bottle has been lying there all these years, growing mellow with the passing of time.

DIRECT SHIPPING PAYS BEST

When cream is ready to sell the hard work has been done and you should not permit any outsiders to make an extra profit off your efforts.

You can ship your cream DIRECT to the Tri-State and save from 3c to 7c per lb. butter-fat. It is just as easy to deliver the cream to a railroad station as to a cream buying station. The Tri-State pays the transportation and guarantees your cream against loss in transit.

We guarantee your cream cans against loss. We pay express or baggage charges.

Not true that the American people know nothing about history, as they can give a full account of the Silk Shirt Era.

Being urged to cultivate habits of observation, the young men are giving the girls very minute and careful inspection.

Some people think the government should support them in idleness while they go on strike and tie up the country's business.

The Japanese situation is viewed with much less alarm since their best batsman was struck out by the American college pitchers.

The railroad men seem to want to strike and thus hit business so hard that more of their number will have to be thrown out of work.

After the business girls get all fixed up for fascinating the men of the office, then they are ready to take hold and do a little work.

Great consternation is caused by the reduction of the army appropriation, as some of the useless army posts may have to be abandoned.

The anti-drys claim their parade in New York was ruined by the hot day. Thirsty people naturally suffer more from hot weather than others.

The prosperity of the concerns that sell sporting goods to the boys' schools, is equalled by that of the ice cream parlors located near the girls' colleges.

After running an ad for several months without telling the public of any new thing in their store, some merchants complain that advertising doesn't pay.

C. H. Youell lost a good mule one day last week while at work on the East Bend road. It fell while going down a steep hill and the wagon ran over it, killing it instantly.

The Tri-State Butter Co. is paying 40 cents per pound for butter fat this week. This company always pays the highest market price to the farmers who ship their cream to them.

Under the budget system it is hoped that Congress will not feel it has to appropriate another $500,000,000 merely because the appropriations may be overrun only by 1,000,000,000.

The sporting crowd don't know much about Gettysburg or the Argonne, but they are prepared to prove that the Dempsey-Carpentier fight was the greatest battle in American history.

While advertising is useful, it is not necessary for the tooth brush manufacturers to feel they must advertise their product by leaving a lot of bristles in your mouth every time you clean your teeth.

Water was found to be an item when the county road force started to roll the rock on the Petersburg pike, last week. Scarcely any one had water in their ponds and creeks along that road were mostly all dry.

Hon. C. E. O'Hara, of Williams-town, candidate for State Senator, spoke at Union on the 18th inst., Florence the 19th and Verona the 20th inst. He will speak at Walton on the 25th, Bellevue the 26th and Rabbit Hash the 28th. Mr. O'Hara is one of our best speakers and delivers an interesting speech.

The Bureau of Census furnishes figures to show that there were in the United States when the 1920 census was taken a total of 4,917,305 white farmers of American birth. Of the remainder there are 581,064 foreign-born whites and 928,287 negro farmers. The number of negro farmers, assuming as we do that this means farmers who work their own land, is gratifyingly large. Booker Washington always urged the Southern negroes to work and save in order that they might cultivate their own land.

WHO CAN BEAT THIS BOY?

Ivan Ryle, son of Leroy Ryle, pig club member in the Carlton precinct, is, so far as we know, the champion hog feeder of the county. He started with a registered Poland China gilt weighed to him May 14th at 51 pounds. On July 12th 58 days later this young lily tipped the scales at 145 lbs., making a gain of 94 lbs. Still he was not over fat, but just good growing condition.

Ivan's ration is corn, middlings, a small amount of ground oats, tankage and skim milk. She has the run of a small pasture lot. Who can make a better report?

AN ENJOYABLE TRIP

Boone County Boys and Girls
 Visit Camp in Campbell County.

Shortly after sunrise last Thursday morning twenty-six of our Boone county boys and girl club members, accompanied by County Agent Sutton and wife, journeyed over into Campbell county for a day's visit to the Boy's and Girl's Club Encampment being held at Twelve Mile Creek from Monday until Friday of last week.

This camp was promoted by County Agent Link and State Club Leader, Buckner. Prof. T. R. Bryant, Assistant Director Experiment Station, was Superintendent and was assisted by District Health Nurse instructor in health and hygiene; District Home Demonstration Agent in charge of the camp cooking, sewing and canning work; District Y. M. C. A. Leader in charge devotional and athletic and bathing program, other assistance was given by livestock men from the college of Agriculture. The entire program was on a merit basis as to instruction, contents and department. The entire groups of campers were divided into four tribes, each contesting for honors and medals awarded.

Each boy and girl contributed his portion of bacon, eggs, potatoes, etc. to stock room for the four days. Interested mothers in the county assisted in the preparation of meals, also serving as chaperons.

Two large tents were pitched—one for girls and other for housing boys, other smaller tents were used for cooking, stock room, etc.

Our boys and girls were loud in their praise of the camp and are anxious that we have one later this year, or next year without fail.

The following were on the trip to the neighboring camp:

HEBRON.

Hubert Conner had a good horse to ride last week.

Wm. Russell in "LEAVE IT TO ME" Saturday night at Hebron theater.

Grange Hall crossed bats with the Hebron boys last Saturday at Hebron. Score 12 to 18 in favor of Hebron.

A shower was given for Mr. and Mrs. James Aylor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bullock last Tuesday night. A nice lot of useful presents were received.

Dr. Wallace Tanner of Florida, Mrs. Emma Rouse and daughter and Mrs. Mallie Beemon, of Florence, and L. C. Acra and family, of near Hopeful, attended church here last Sunday.

Miss Edna Garnett attended the wedding of Miss Dolly Reinhart and Mr. John Westerman of near Creston Springs. They were married at the home of her sister Mr. and Mrs. Alix Donith, of Dayton, Ky., Thursday July 14, at 3 p. m., in the presence of the immediate relatives. The attendants were Miss Edna Garnett and Mr. Clifford Reinhart, brother of the bride. The bride wore white of Georgette, the brides maid wore white crepe de chine.

FACTS ABOUT ASBESTOS.

Washington, July 14—The care of weaving the mineral fiber in asbestos, which is ordinarily indestructible, was rediscovered at a comparatively late period of civilization.

Woven asbestos was used in the ancient pyre to preserve the royal ashes.

Charlemagne is said to have had a tablecloth made of asbestos and to have cleaned it by throwing it into the fire, which consumed the dirt, thus illustrating in a spectacular manner one of the most valuable properties of the material.

The fibre of the best grade of asbestos is beautiful and silky and has great flexibility, elasticity and tensile strength, according to the U. S. Geological Survey, Department of the Interior.

It can be spun into thread so fine as to run 225 yards to the ounce, and as it is incombustible as well as a nonconductor of heat and electricity and resists the action of most ordinary acids, its field of use is large.

The possible applications of asbestos are far from fully appreciated not only by the general public, but by manufacturers who are in search of material for special uses to which asbestos may well be applied.

Perhaps it is most generally used to make fireproof cloth for theater curtains.

It has been used also for making firemen's clothing.

Everywhere in cold countries it is extensively used for covering furnaces, boilers and pipes to prevent loss of heat.

NOTICE.

Bids will be received at the office of the Superintendent of Schools for the erection of a school house about 1 1/2 miles north of Grange Hall, in Boone County, on the Big Bone and Burlington road. Bids may be for labor only, to include painting, or for labor and material furnished by the same party or parties.

The time for closing bids is 12 O'Clock noon July 28th 1921. The board of Education reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Plans and specifications may be had at the Supt. office.

J. C. GORDON, Supt.

An all day meeting of the Farm Bureau, Burley Tobacco Society and Milk Producers Association will be held at Florence Fair grounds August 14th, 1921. Good speakers will be present and a day will be spent that will be of great benefit to all people in Boone county. These associations would like to have the largest crowd that was ever on the ground present for this day.

MUCH GRAIN WASTED BY CARELESSNESS IN THRESHING.

Hundreds of thousands of bushels of grain are lost to consumption each year on American farms because of improper adjustment and lack of efficiency in the operation of threshing machines. The United States Department of Agriculture has given considerable attention to this loss with a view to ascertaining how far improved methods can be economically introduced to adjust waste. It is true, experts point out, that sometimes the time and labor involved in checking a small loss is worth more than the saving. Nevertheless, there are many leaks on almost every threshing job which might easily be stopped if the farmer or machine operator would spend a few hours in the study of the problem and a few dollars in replacing worn and damaged parts.

Feeding the grain into the machine, adjustment of the cleaner, and other small items go to make up a total that may mean gain or loss. Much grain is wasted by failure to clean up at the end of the setting. The United States Department of Agriculture has issued Farmers' Bulletin 9991, "The Efficient Operation of Threshing Machines," which contains much good advice on this subject. This bulletin may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

HE SAID A MOUTHFUL.

A certain man decided he must have an automobile. Walking was not being done any more and car fare cost as much as gas. Whereupon he mortgaged the old home and bought a 1921 model twin-six with wire wheels, a coat of bright yellow paint and everything. The first day he hit a pedestrian and compromised with the victim's lawyer for $500 iron men. The second day his engine died, and the garage man separated him from another 25 bucks for using the pulmotor on it. The third day he made junk of the whole blamed bus trying to teach it to climb a telephone pole.

Also, said he, getting what you must have is not all it is cracked up to be. There are too many ding-busted accessories that go with it.

FOREIGN BEET CROP SHORT.

New York, July 14.—Preliminary reports of crop conditions in Europe received here indicate a decided shortage in the crop of sugar beets. Bankers who keep in close touch with the foreign demand, declare that if later reports confirm this shortage, the slack will soon be taken out of the sugar market here.

UP TO THE LAWYERS.

The meeting of the Kentucky State Bar Association this year was interesting, and no doubt, productive of good, but the Evening Post feels inclined to hold that body for failing to take what we consider the proper interest in what is the most pressing legal reform needed in Kentucky.

That reform relates to the administration of criminal justice in our State. It is true that the Bar Association took steps to secure the appointment of an excellent committee to consider that subject, and we do not doubt that that committee will make an intelligent report. But this is not what we mean. The Bar Association should appoint a legislative committee consisting of all of its officers, and sub-committees from every county in the State to come to Frankfort next January, and stay there until the few simple acts are passed that must be passed before we can hope to enforce criminal justice in Kentucky.

Little will be gained by devoting space here to a narrative of the reforms needed. All the members of the State Bar Association know what they are. As things stand, the officers of the Commonwealth who have duty it is to try to punish crime. The most frequent illustration is that of promissory challenges in a jury panel. Although it is not seriously more difficult to convict than to acquit, the law gives the defense fifteen preemptory challenges and the Commonwealth but three. And a constitutional amendment should at once be proposed to enable nine in a panel of twelve to make a verdict in a criminal case.

But the lawyers of Kentucky know as much about these things as does any newspaper. Unfortunately the most influential of our lawyers have been but mildly interested. They do not themselves go into the criminal courts, and they have fallen into the error of believing that civil justice can, in some mysterious way, be secured even if criminal justice fails. But they are mistaken. Unless we learn how to enforce the criminal laws, we may not hope to secure sure justice in our civil courts.

The railroad employees of the country seem to be behaving with good sense in the matter of the wage decisions of the Railroad Labor Board. The 12 per cent cut in wages has been accepted without serious demur, and it is now predicted that the changes soon to be promulgated in working conditions will be accepted in the same spirit. The Railroad Labor Board has been wrestling with a hard problem, but, so far at least, it has handled itself in such a fashion as to retain the confidence of both sides.

A VISIT TO COLDSTREAM FARM.

By Edward O'Fallon, Jr.

The announcement of a special swine sale at Coldstream Farm, set for the 16th day of August, reminded the writer of a visit he had been promising himself to this beautiful Blue Grass home of the Duroc and the Holstein.

A magnificently located and improved tract of some 1,500 acres, Coldstream stretches away along Newtown Pike Road three miles outside of Lexington. As one passes through the imposing entrance, he reads: "Visitors Welcome." As he departs by the flower-flecked drive, the words, "Come Again," bid him a cordial adieu.

Coldstream was once home to the immortal Hanover and other famous race horses. Since the property was acquired by Mr. C. B. Shaffer, its fertile acres, for the most part, have been transformed into a veritable Eden for the Duroc and Holstein.

Under the direction of General Superintendent F. O. Bible, spacious, ultra-modern buildings and enclosures for stock, dairying and implements, and dwellings for employees and their families, (twenty of the latter in all), have sprung up. The former include the enormous cow-barn which stands adjacent to Mr. Bible's office. Tons of feed are stored in the loft of this building, and below are quarters for a hundred head of milch stock; their progeny and the two noble heads of the herd, King Pontiac Hengrave and Fayne, and the promising three-year-old sire, King Segis Korndyke Pontiac Fox.

Within these walls of buff-colored brick that rest on a concrete base of gray, effectively relieved by red terra-cotta gables, also may be seen, lurking in her special box stall, Rolo Mercena De Kol, holder of the world's records, among which is that of being the first and only cow in the world to produce 200 pounds of butter in thirty days.

Impressed as he was by these features and the magnificence of the property as a whole, the writer, however, traveling about the place by auto mobile on its twelve miles of private driveways, with his mind on the importance of the coming swine sale, naturally was most interested in the massive sows and daughters of Tax-

LIMESTONE WOULD INCREASE CROP YIELDS OF MANY FARMS.

Substantial crop increases could be obtained on many of the farms by the use of limestone, according to soils and crops specialists who state that this material is badly needed on most soils of the State. Soils containing less than one per cent of calcium have been found to respond to treatment with limestone and for this reason the specialists believe that this form of fertilizer could be profitably used by Kentucky farmers. Poorer soils need the material more than those which are in a high state of fertility. Some soils of the State are so much in need of limestone that even a light application of from 500 to 1,000 pounds of ground lime would be helpful in obtaining a stand of clover, according to R. E. Stephenson, crops extension specialist from the College of Agriculture.

"The question, 'What soils need limestone?' could be answered by the statement that soils which do not have large amounts of loose limestone rock or fragments in or near the surface generally need an application of the material. Limestone is being generally used, some of the Blue Grass soils, the fertile corn-belt prairie soils and the poorer soils of all types being treated with it. Any practice which was unnecessary and unprofitable would not meet with such universal approval. Where the soil needs an application of limestone to make it as a 'sour' or 'acid' soil which means that most of the lime has been removed from it.

"It is a matter of experience that as a rule limestone soils are more productive than other soils. Poor soils on the other hand are usually poor in limestone. When a field ceases to grow clover it is generally an indication that limestone is needed. On soils where lime is extremely deficient poverty grass, moss, goldenrod, sorrel and briars are prevalent. Such a soil is usually poor in organic matter and becomes hard in dry weather with the result that crops produced on it are usually of a poor quality and low yield. "It is commonly believed that soil overlying limestone will not need liming. This is often a mistaken conclusion. The fact that large stones are present in the soil and scattered about the surface is not a sure indication that finely ground lime stone will not benefit the soil. The fine stone leaches rapidly and a soil may become sour in a short time in spite of the limestone formation. Except in the Blue Grass region it is necessary to use phosphate preferably acid phosphate with limestone in order to get best results."

The experts are trying to find out why it is that some soils are physically frail, but they are not reported to have found any evidence of such weakness at the dances.

payers Model, the greatest Duroc Boar in the world, and Wals Great Top Col.—a young boar, standing, as a senior yearling, 44 inches high on a 16-inch bone, with 42 inches over his back, between his eyes and the root of his tail, and weighing close to 1,000 pounds, not to mention several other sires of extraordinary merit.

Primarily, it is to be understood, Coldstream was not acquired by Mr. Shaffer for the purpose of making money. Rather, it is the instrument by means of which he aims to serve the farmer and breeder of Kentucky on the side of their swine and dairy stock—better hogs and milch cows throughout the State is the main object of the reasonable for the work that is being accomplished on the place today.

As witness that in view of present conditions, the August sale, considered strictly on its merits as a business venture, undoubtedly will prove to be unprofitable to Coldstream, it cannot reasonably be expected—and, indeed, it is not—that the animals to be auctioned will bring prices nearly approximating their true value. The object of this sale is, therefore, right in line with the main purpose of the farm as stated above.

The actual and material gainers will be the farmers and breeders who attend and purchase stock. The sale will be for Kentuckians exclusively; it remains for Kentuckians to make the most of it.

Probably the auctioneer will offer no single animal from the choice lot of pure breeds to be sold that weighs less than 500 pounds; and all the sows have been bred for early September farrowing—most of them to Walter Great Top Colonel.

Moreover, we are permitted to say that terms will be arranged where purchasers who can furnish satisfactory bank references so desire.

To those who love fine livestock and an admirable habitation for them, the writer, in conclusion, suggests a visit to Coldstream Farm. His best word to the farmer and breeder of Kentucky is: Remember the date of the swine sale—August 16th—and by all means arrange to attend it.

IMPORTANT ADVICE

To Farmers Now Raising Sheep and Prospective Sheep Breeders.

Important advice to the farmers now raising sheep and to the prospective sheep breeder is given in an article written by Prof. L. J. Horlacher, in charge of Sheep Husbandry at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. The article is written in support of the better sire movement being conducted by the Louisville Livestock Exchange and the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association and to encourage attendance at the second Farmers Better Sire Sale of 200 purebred bucks and ewes and 2,000 high grade ewes to be held by the Exchange and Association at the Bourbon Stock Yards August 11.

The sale is to be conducted by the Exchange and Association with out profit and is backed by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture, both are deeply concerned in the better bred cattle movement underway throughout the United States.

The article by Prof. Horlacher follows:

HOW DOES YOUR RAM IMPRESS YOU?

Have you examined your ram critically? Does he suit you in all of the important essentials? Did you find him well filled in the quarters? And well down toward the heels? This is where a lot of rams of all breeds fail. It is an important point. If well rounded and deeply meaty fairly close to the body a good impression is always made by those who look your ram over. Width across the buttock is desirable.

If you examined your ram closely did you notice whether there seemed to be quite a liberal covering of meat all along the back and loin? That is very important. It is high priced meat—if it is there. If it isn't there—better get another ram. The depth of the flesh covering and the width of it also has a great deal to do with the impression your ram is going to make when a real practical sheep man gets to looking him over.

Have you noticed whether your ram has a long measurement from the topline to the underline? You see the distance from one point to the other is all taken up in your ram—the more distance the more ram. But this is much more emphasized by distance from one side to the other. A deep-bodied ram is to be desired. But a wide, deep-bodied ram is to be highly prized. A few inches across and up and down added to or subtracted from means a ram—or the lack of one.

Just as fullness of the quarters always causes favorable comment, so the fullness of the chest attracts favor also. It doesn't mean so much added mutton, necessarily, but it does give the impression of ample room for vital organs, which is a good deal to do with the vigor and constitutional of the animal. Then too it balances him up, gives him a more pleasing outline. More than that, it will help sell his lambs, especially if they show similar strength there. The fullness in the foreleg, just back of the legs, bears a pretty close relation to the size of the chest. The rear flank should come down to make level underline. There seems to be a close relation to a low flank and a full quarter. A high cut flank doesn't add to attractiveness of a mutton sheep. It won't help your ram in the least. What we want is a low flank. His lambs will look better with low flank along with the meat on their backs and loins and ribs and the wide deep carcasses.

Should your ram have a head? That is a question easily settled. Here is the answer: "Yes, if it is a good one." Look your ram square in the face once. He won't know what you have in mind. And while you are doing this take note of the width of his forehead. A lot of rams fall down there—high enough in the forehead but too narrow. A ram's mouth and nose should be wide and his nostrils of generous size.

The neck needs only length enough to attach the head to the shoulder, and permit the ram to eat off the ground and also raise his head to a steady level as related to the rest of the body. If the neck connects smoothly to the shoulders and tapers off to fit the head the ram will have a great advantage in his appearance and outline. Style in the ram has a value just as style anywhere attracts our attention and wins our admiration.

Then there are the legs. They should be firmly attached to the ram and reach clear to the ground, tapering gracefully and supported by feet of ample size. The legs should be of suitable straightness but not too straight.

The wool covering should be typical of the breed which the ram represents. Above all, the fibers should be fine, strong, of medium length, and entirely free from black spots. A well extended fleece usually indicates plenty of weight.

Now that there is a remarkable opportunity to acquire rams of much worth at moderate prices, a situation that may be of short duration, it will be good business to examine your ram very critically just as though you didn't have a dollar in him, and decide that he isn't of the class you need, go in search of a better one.

COWSUCKER CHICKEN-EATER.

The other night something disturbed the chickens in the henhouse on the farm of H. B. Bonta, near Mt. Zion, Washington county, the commotion being so great among the small chickens that Mr. Bonta immediately went to the scene with a lantern, thinking rats had possibly made a raid on the chicken coop. Soon after arriving at the door of the house Mr. Bonta saw something move along the side of the building, and upon investigation found a house-cow-sucker snake calmly swallowing a chicken. An axe served the purpose, and soon his snakeship was minus a head and several inches of his body. The following morning the snake was measured and was found to be five feet four inches in length, several inches around, and inside was found the chicken stolen the night before, which was almost as large as a partridge.

COVER CROPS CAN MAKE PLANT FOOD AVAILABLE.

Growing a winter cover crop is one of the best means of making plant food which the soil contains available for growing crops, according to specialists on soils. The roots of such a crop are active throughout the fall and spring in bringing lime, potash and phosphate into solution after which these materials are built into plant structure as fast as liberated and saved to feed future crops.

"Plant foods become available somewhat in proportion to the total amount present and it is therefore necessary to increase the total stock before the highest yields of crops can be obtained," said R. E. Stephenson, crops extension specialist from the College of Agriculture. "Nature has provided that live plant acids which they give off when dissolved in water, can attack and slowly dissolve even the most inert rocks and minerals. This is one means which the plant has for getting minerals from its food. When the soil is rich in organic matter incorporated with organic matter the supply of available plant food will be increased partly because greater root growth has been stimulated. toward the loosening of bound plant food when the cover crop is turned under in the spring. The green and tender material through the action of millions of soil organisms decays rapidly and gives up its own elements at the same time that more minerals are dissolved by the acids produced in the processes of decay.

"Soils are spoken of as "dead" or "lifeless." This is literally true. A "dead" soil has little active organic matter to feed soil bacteria and consequently there are few there. A rich soil will contain many times as many active organisms as a poor one and the soil is rich because it contains the organisms and conditions necessary to support their activity.

"A green cover crop turned under furnishes the necessary food for the soil organisms and thus puts life into a dead soil. As the organisms become more numerous and active more plant food is unlocked for the crop that is being grown."

HOME TOWN BUSINESS.

In the good old days when boys used to trade jackknives down back of the barn, there were some adventurous spirits who used to trade "unsight and unseen" as the phrase went. The idea was that they were to swap knives without either seeing what the other had. The boy with a gambling instinct would think that the other fellow probably had a better knife than he had.

Trading jackknives was one of the earliest manifestations of a business instinct. Innumerable boys who began that way graduated into successful merchants. But those who had a real gift for it never ventured into the "unsight and unseen" game. They were from Missouri. They wanted to see a knife before they acquired possession of it.

The sporting crowd that would chance it on an unseen swap were commonly disappointed. The smart looking kid who looked as if he might have a good knife, was apt to produce a rusty and battered kind of a tool, that had suffered by neglect and abuse.

It is much the same with the type of people who have contributed to the business of the big mail order houses in other cities. A good many people think they can do better to order of these stores than they can to buy of their own home town dealers. They are essentially buying "unsight and unseen."

Good purchasing is an art requiring close inspection and careful comparison between different offerings. "Unsight and unseen" trading would never go in the business world, and it is poor policy on household supplies.

The buyer needs to talk with a good salesman who has made an intelligent study of merchandise, and can give sensible advice. When you send off to some distant city to make a purchase, dealing not with some individual who feels specially interested in pleasing you, but with some clerk who is a mere routine cog in a great machine, you play what is essentially the old game of swapping jackknives without seeing them, and the results are apt to be the same.

DREAMLAND TROUPE

Masters of Sculpture in Sculpture Posing.

Visitors to the Dearborn County Fair, to be held at Lawrenceburg August 17, 18, 19 and 20, will have an opportunity to see one of the famous presentations of American Amusement enterprise in the Dreamland Troupe, five beautiful women, chosen for their perfectness of form to appear in a series of sculptor posing numbers which have won the plaudits of public and critics at more than 275 fairs throughout the United States.

This posing act is different from all others. It is true to art and presents standard statues which appear in the world's famous galleries and exposition halls. It will be shown in front of the grand stand on a huge revolving stage and with fitting costumes and background. Masters of sculpture have placed their approval on this presentation. Special lighting effects, arranged by the company's own electrical expert, make this act particularly beautiful at night performances when the beautiful young women look even more like the statues they represent.

The entire act is an appeal to the higher sense and appreciation of the best and most beautiful in art.

HYDRAULIC RAM WILL SOLVE WATER SUPPLY PROBLEM FOR FARMER.

On many Kentucky farms where there are good springs a hydraulic ram can be installed at a fairly low cost to solve the problem of obtaining water easily at the place where it is needed, according to specialists in the farm engineering department of the College of Agriculture. In order to assist farmers who are interested in installing such an appliance, the farm engineering department of the College of Agriculture is prepared to give detailed information on request. Before information concerning the installation of hydraulic rams can be given it is necessary to know the fall of the water in feet from spring to ram, the number of gallons of water which flow from the spring each minute, the elevation or height in feet the water is to be lifted, the length of the drive pipe and the length in feet of the discharge pipe. This information should be included when inquiring about hydraulic rams.

The fall of the water should be measured as the vertical distance from the surface of the water in the supply or spring to the proposed level of the ram. This fall should not be less than two feet. There should be one foot of fall for every five to ten feet of elevation which is the vertical distance from the ram to the point of discharge. The number of gallons of water which flow from the spring each minute may be measured by timing how long it takes to fill a three-gallon bucket. The elevation or height in feet should be measured as the vertical distance above the ram at which the water is to be discharged. The drive pipe should not be shorter than five times the fall to the ram.

CONGRESS APPROPRIATES A QUARTER MILLION DOLLARS FOR HORSE BREEDING.

Money To Be Spent Under Supervision of Army Officers To Raise More Thoroughbred Horses for Cavalry Purposes.

OTHER GOVERNMENTS SPEND MUCH MORE.

Realizing the necessity of government interest in supervision and participation in breeding of thoroughbred horses, if the United States is to take her rightful position with the other countries of the world, the United States Congress has made an appropriation of a quarter of a million dollars to be expended in horse breeding.

While this is a very small amount when compared with the millions of expenditure made by the governments of England, France, Italy and Spain in this work, it is being effectively used to enlarge the number of thoroughbred horses suitable for cavalry mounts.

In explaining the plans of the United States government for the breeding of more and better horses, Col. C. E. Hawkins, Quartermaster's Corps, United States Remount Service, says:

"The world war brought out the fact that the National Defense demands, not only thousands upon thousands of horses and mules, but horses and mules of good breeding. Quality and breeding in the horse and mule is what gives them the staying power in danger and emergency, as well as for the less spectacular, but not less important, service in connection with our agricultural and commercial pursuits. What is true in the man is true in the beast. Courage in the soldier we call morale. In either case the quality of the will to stay when threatened by the unknown instinct to falter which means failure and defeat."

"The United States is the great horse and mule market of the world. Our allies depended upon us for the major supply of their horses and mules. Thousands upon thousands were sold to the British, French, Italian, Belgian, Greek and other governments. The supply that could be sold was limited only by the ships available for their transportation abroad, and by the fact that rations were naturally of the first import."

"The first cry from abroad was for men, then for foodstuffs to feed the millions of soldiers and our own men; next came the demand for ammunitions—the stuff that made the hellish fire that raked the enemy; his theatre of operations and his lines of communication. On the heels of the call for these necessities we had the one for the war horse and the war mule, in quantities never before approached."

"Automotive vehicles were used in great numbers. Yes, that is true, and it will be true in the future. But war and the horse and the mule continue to be inseparable. The military migrations of the past—those, indeed, of civilization, itself—are so linked with the horse that his production and improvement may be said to have been co-existent with them. Modern power has not killed the horse and mule industry. Every member of the species has a valuable and important place to fill in the world of the future."

"The breeding of horses and mules, far from being a thing of the past, is practiced in the spirit of the utmost optimism and confidence. True, the horse and mule market is upset. The demand, however, for every class will come again before the colts are bred mature. All our best informed horse men, breeders and farmers recognize this fact and advise doubling our attention to the work of breeding."

"Meanwhile the colts and mules should be the aim of every breeder. We need better blood, more quality; hence, a more valuable animal. A well bred, sound animal, of good conformation and quality will sell at a high price and bring a high price and a handsome profit to the breeder. It is the scrub or ordinary animal that loses the breeder his money. The scrub acts as much for a horse and mule as much care as the high class animal; and one has nothing at maturity. The progeny of high class, pure bred stallions, and sows, when their courage, endurance and speed in competition, and selected farm mares, will bring the breeder an increasing profit as the time goes on."

"The Government is backing the production of these better horses and mules. This work is being accomplished by the War Department through the Remount Service, under the Quartermaster General of the U. S. Army."

"The last Congress appropriated a quarter of a million dollars to further these plans. The project also is being backed by an auxiliary society of the Remount Service, known as the American Remount Association, composed of army officers, civilians, breeders, farmers, ranchmen, horsemen, owners of race horses, drivers and riders."

Two farmers were having an argument and a little bet as to which of them possessed the best wife—or rather, which wife made the money go the farthest.

"I am surprised," said the first farmer, "how little my wife spends on household necessities. You come and stay with us for a few weeks and see for yourself. You will soon see how true my statements are."

"But what would be the good?" said the other man. "She would not be so good as my wife. Why, my wife makes money go so far that I never see it again."

SO MUCH A KNOT.

"Who is the best man usually at a wedding?"

"The preacher. He gets the profit and takes no risk."

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and breeding knowledge and fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarettey aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

Auto Dirt Track Speed-Fans

Will See Some Race-Local Cars Will Compete in Races at Fair Grounds.

Speed fans in this neck of the woods will be treated to one of the dirt track exhibitions of the year when Bill Hunt, of Indianapolis, tears around the Fair Ground track after honors in the races to be held at the Dearborn County Fair, Lawrenceburg, August 17, 18, 19 and 20, Fair Week, in his Craig-Hunt. Hunt's entry was accepted yesterday by the registration committee. The name of the Indianapolis driver is music to the ears of followers of the dirt track speed game. He has a long list of race victories attached to his name, and he is a pilot who never fails to put on a good show with plenty of speed and thrills attached.

Application for entry of one car was turned down by the registration committee because of oversized piston displacement. However, there are several speed merchants now on the entry list, Louis Williams' Keaton having been placed on the list with Bill's Buick and Bill Hunt's Craig-Hunt yesterday by the race committee. Williams, the latest entry in the races, is an Indianapolis south side boy who made his debut in the dirt track game last year by crossing the wire first in several races throughout the country. He will give local speed fans a real treat when he takes his Keaton around the fair grounds oval. The committee has also received word from several dirt track artists who will be placed on the entry list.

The idea of the ten-mile elimination races which will leave only the fastest cars for the 25-mile race, is appealing to the drivers. Applications for entry in the races have been pouring in from Indiana drivers during the past few days. All signs point to a field of ten or eleven cars being filed this week. There are several classic dirt track pilots in Indiana, and they are running to get places on the entry list before drivers from other states who have been requesting entry since the races were announced.

The races will start promptly at 2 o'clock and warning is given that none should park automobiles or stand near the turns, as the possibility of accidents is great.

One of the greatest lists of entries ever gathered together at a dirt track meeting in the middle west for the auto races is expected.

All preparations have been made to handle a record-breaking crowd as no auto speed lovers will miss this opportunity to witness their favorite pastime and what will be the greatest auto race program ever staged on a dirt track. These races promise to be of rare interest, as some of the best dirt track drivers in the middle west have applied for entry. An effort will be made to break the track record.

In addition to the visiting drivers it is hoped that several local amateur pilots will enter for a special race for home talent. However, if any local boys want to enter they are welcome.

PHYSICAL FRAILTY OF WOMEN

A certain proportion of modern young women are going in strong for athletics and are acquiring a splendid physical development. They are taller and more muscular than the young women of 20 years ago. But the majority of business girls do not look strong physically, and a tremendous number of women are all the time suffering from nervous breakdowns.

The women in colleges and private schools are generally acquiring good physical development through active games, but the far greater number who work in offices and stores have no such opportunity.

Much less effort is made to provide physical culture equipment for girls than for boys. Yet they need it even more. The women of the community will not be equipped for life until they are given the same playgrounds and gymnastics and facilities for swimming and other sports that are offered to the young men.

The candidates for State Senator have been spending a part of their time with the voters in Boone. The vote of Boone may be the deciding factor in that race as Boone has no candidate and being a neighbor of Grant her people may feel like supporting her candidate as will the people of Pendleton, while the voters in Gallatin county will divide their which gives Mr. O'Hara a decided advantage over his opponents.

KENTUCKY STATE MAY GO TO NATIONAL HOG JUDGING EVENT OCT. 3

Twelve Candidates Out for Team Which Plans To Enter Student Judging Contest at National Swine Show.

Lexington, Ky.—Plans are being made to enter a student's team from the College of Agriculture in the intercollegiate swine judging contest which will be held in connection with the national swine show at Peoria, Ill., October 3, according to an announcement made here today by L. J. Horlacher, a member of the college animal husbandry staff who is coaching the team candidates. Should the plans materialize this will be the first year that Kentucky has been represented in swine show contest. Five other colleges have largely signified their intentions of entering teams, Mr. Horlacher said.

The team of five students and one alternate which will represent the State in the contest will be picked from the group of 12 candidates who are trying out for the team to represent Kentucky in the students' stock judging contest at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, November 26. Those who are candidates for the two teams include William G. Einn, Burlington, and in preparation for the two judging contests the students will spend several days at the Kentucky State Fair, September 12 to 17, where they will practice judging beef cattle, sheep and hogs. They will also take trips to prominent stock farms in the State for the same purpose in addition to practicing judging on the stock at the college farm.

In the swine show contest the students will compete for $450 in team prizes and $150 in individual prizes. The winning team will receive $125. The second team prize will be $100, third $80, fourth $60, fifth $50 and sixth $35. Individual prizes will range from $50 for the highest scoring individual to $35 for the fourth highest scoring man.

THE TARIFF SITUATION.

The tariff bill offered by the Republicans of Congress provides an average level of rates much above those created by any of the previous congresses. It passed high tariff laws would pass if these congressmen would wish to go very slow in enacting any such extreme measure.

Our people can not sell their goods abroad, unless they are at the same time buying and consuming an equal amount of foreign goods. The importation of goods from abroad is no gold to pay with. Consequently, if a measure is passed that must greatly reduce the importation of foreign goods, the inevitable result must be to shut down on the exportation of American goods.

Take France, whose franc is today worth but eight cents of our money, where before the war it was worth nearly 20 cents. Those people can not possibly afford to buy our goods, unless we take their goods in trade so that imports and exports shall balance each other.

The purpose of the proposed new tariff is to prevent a country like France from sending its merchandise to America. If that business is shut off, how are the French people going to buy any of our products? And what are the people who have been working on merchandise exported to France going to do, if their production is stopped or reduced as the result of the unwillingness of this country to receive French products?

There should be some excess of imports all the time, as the only means by which Europe can pay principal and interest on the debts owed to our government and to our business men and investors. These debts amount to about $15,000,000. Not a dollar on this great indebtedness can be liquidated if our country determines to shut off importations to the extent that will be done under the proposed tariff.

SHE'D MAKE SOME MAYOR.

"My wife is thinking about becoming a candidate for Mayor of the town of Columbia. I have lived with her for a number of years and I know she has an abundance of executive ability, and she is also determined, just the character of woman to preside over the fiscal affairs of this town. If she is elected, the bootleggers will have to hide out."—J. N. Coffey.

Just because a hen looks as if she were a hard worker is no sign that she is producing the eggs, poultry specialists at the College of Agriculture say. If she's lost part of her feathers already she's quit working and is preparing to drop out early for her vacation which lasts until spring. Circular No. 101 which may be obtained from the Experiment Station, Lexington, tells how to obtain evidence on her.

The boys who toss around the little white tennis ball so skillfully, should realize that they could also toss the great ball very cleverly out in the hay field.

VALUE OF FAIR TO OUR PEOPLE

Agricultural and Industrial Show
For Both the Town and Country Folk.

AN EXCHANGE FOR NEW IDEAS

Besides It Appeals to All of Us Who Want to Be Amused While We're Learning—Closer Touch With Home Lives of Neighbors.

The fair is an educational clearing house. It is an agricultural and industrial institute for residents of both town and country. It is a short course in better farming and better living. It is a physical demonstration of why the man who farms with his head instead of with his hands must inevitably succeed.

It is a comprehensive exhibition of what the ambitious boy or girl may achieve in agriculture, live stock raising, dairying, horticultural, home, gardening, domestic science and house economy. It is an exposition of the marvelous improvement in farm machinery and agricultural implements. It is an object lesson in the great part which improved machinery plays in the development and cultivation of the farm and the increased prosperity of the farmer.

The chief educational value of our fair lies in the fact that it is demonstrative in character. The eye is a more convincing instructor than the ear. We are slow to accept and believe in any new method until we have had practical proof of its superiority over the old.

Often it is difficult to secure the attention of the busy man or woman long enough to give such a demonstration. Not infrequently it happens that farmers who would be most benefited by better methods of farming are not sufficiently interested to be present at any special meeting called for the purpose of discussing the subject.

But the fair appeals to that trait of mankind which demands entertainment and amusement and becomes a common forum for the discussion of all matters having to do with agriculture, industry, the home and the school.

In this clearing house of education the farmer learns what the manufacturer, the merchant and the banker are and have been doing to make his labor less arduous and his farm more profitable and the town resident learns what rapid progress is being made in agriculture. A bond of common interest is created which means much to both town and country.

The farmer learns by actual observation of the newest devices and improvements in agricultural implements. He learns in what way they assist in soil cultivation, in plant growth, in sowing, in harvesting, in threshing. He learns the economic value of the more modern machinery, of the silo, of motor power on the farm.

The urban dweller is furnished a vivid picture of the agricultural resources of the community. He learns about the fertility of the soil in the vicinity; of what is being done to increase the farm yield; to improve the quality of the stock; to multiply the total dairy product.

Every man and woman, whether town or country resident, is brought into closer touch with the home life of others. All imbibe that broader education which means co-operation—that ideal education which is service to self and all humanity.

STRUCTURAL DEFECTS AND FIRES.

The American people complain of high cost houses, and then throw away hundreds of millions yearly in needless fires. They have erected their buildings in such a hasty way that they burn because of poor construction.

The National Fire Protection Association urges the public to construct buildings so that fires will not spread as readily as they do to the rooms where they start. It complains of the way in which fires are allowed to spread through hollow spaces between the walls, in which no check is offered to the rapid advance of the flames.

It is often noticed at fires how smoke keeps pouring out from between the walls after no flame is visible. No stream of water can touch burning material thus located. People who are putting up buildings should watch carefully how they create fire traps by leaving these unprotected and connecting wall spaces.

Miss Annie E. Crigler, who has been living at Erlanger for some time orders her Recorder sent to Bellefontaine, Ohio, where she has gone for a short time. Miss Crigler was formerly a citizen of the Lima-Burg neighborhood. She enclosed a check for another year's subscription to the Recorder and asked that what her relatives and friends are doing back in her old home.

MISCONCEIVING AMERICA.

The newly arrived alien is met soon after landing by sharks who make their living by doing the people who are not familiar with the ways of America. He is induced to pay exorbitant raffle-offs, and cheated and imposed upon. If he learns that it will cost him more than it will come to, to sue for justice in our courts, he reaches the conclusion speedily that this is a rich man's country, but not good for the poor man.

After he gets to work, he probably learns natives refer contemptuously to immigrants as "dagos" and "hunkies" and concludes that the fabled democracy of this land is but a dream. By and by he is drawn into a workingman's paradise, surrounded with warm welcome and is informed that most of the product of his toil goes to the rich capitalist, while he is given but a meager fraction of what he really earns.

He is told that glorious Russia under bolshevism is rapidly becoming a workingman's paradise, and there will be easy work and plenty for everyone and rapid progress in education. If he learns by our newspapers the truth that starvation and misery prevail in Russia, he is told that American newspapers are all lying sheets, owned by capitalists, and that nothing in them can be believed.

His associates are all people who do not speak English. He reads foreign newspapers filled with lurid rant against our government. It is surprising that living in this foreign atmosphere, he concludes that America is a land of fake and that he gains no conception of what American means and can do for him? What is being done to reach fellows of this type, and show them the real chance that exists for willing hands and honest industry in this country? More of course than before the war, but is there enough effort to bring Americanism to these poor fellows who are reaching out blindly toward the light?

THE SPIRIT OF ENTERPRISE.

There are many people who will make a living and pay their debts but they never get anywhere because they don't dare try anything new. A business man was once asked to do some newspaper advertising. "Well," he said, "I've tried advertising and it does not pay. I spent $3.50 on some circular letters once, and I never got a reply from them."

A man like that is predestined by his overcaution never to get very far. The successful man sets aside a certain portion of his earnings for experiments in new lines. If he can interpret what the people want, some of these experiments are bound to prove a success. That will put him in the position of the pioneer in the new field, who gathers the best of the harvest and leaves the gleanings and remnants to the imitators who rush in too late.

The man who works for somebody else can show enterprise as well as his employer. He can put in spare time in studying the work of positions above him, and in trying to open up new fields for the benefit of the concern.

SEEKING HISTORY.

Miss Damaris Knobe a newspaper and magazine writer of New York, has been searching the oldest records in Boone county obtaining information of one of Boone's original settlers, Thomas Noble, who died February 14, 1817, and his will was probated in the Boone county court during that year. Mr. Noble resided near Bellevue and was supposed to have owned quite a large tract of land on the Ohio river. Mr. Noble was the father of fifteen children, one son, Noah, was Governor of Indiana and another son, James, was a United States Senator from Indiana. No descendants of this large family now reside in this State. Miss Knobe is preparing a history of the Noble family and as Thomas Noble resided in this county for a number of years in the early eighties this will make part of Boone's early history and the history of the Noble family. Miss Knobe is one of the best newspaper writers of the fair sex and has held prominent positions with a number of the leading dailies of this country, notably the Chicago Examiner.

A DELIGHTFUL TIME.

The young folks enjoyed last Friday evening dancing on the new store building being constructed by Dudley Blythe. The Keim family, four in number, furnished the music for the occasion which was of the best for dancing. The young folks enjoyed the evening as did a number of the older generation, who, while not dancing, enjoyed the music and watching the dancers. Young folks were present from Erlanger, Florence and Petersburg.

Wayne county members recently were taken on a tour of livestock farms in the county by County Agent H. J. Hayes and shown methods of feeding and management promoted by successful farmers. Eight farms were visited and all classes of livestock studied.

Attorney D. E. Castleman of Erlanger, was in Burlington Tuesday taking depositions in the J. H. Brooks vs. Lillian Brooks case now pending in the Boone circuit court.

Hon. L. C. Letterell, of Owen County, called on the voters in Boone county last week. He is the Senator from the old district composed of the counties of Owen, Gallatin and Boone.

Robt. Coffman, a prominent merchant of Walton, attended a meeting of the Election Commission last Wednesday. Mr. Coffman is the Democratic member of the Commission.

Judge J. W. Cammack of Owen county, spent a few hours in Burlington last Friday evening. The Judge has a large number of friends in this county who are always glad to shake his hand.

Miss Mary Louise Griffin, of Camp Pike, Arkansas, was in Burlington last Thursday calling on old friends. Miss Griffin is the granddaughter of Attorney D. E. Castleman and wife, of Erlanger.

Bert Smith and family after a week's visit with relatives in the county, returned to their home in Newport, Tuesday. Mr. Smith is employed with the postoffice in that city.

Colen N. Scott, of Florence, Indiana, and E. B. Rockefeller and family, of Rising Sun, Ind., were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly. Mr. Rockefeller is one of the leading business men of Rising Sun. See his advertisement in this issue, and when in Rising Sun give him a call.

D. B. Wallace, President of the Equitable Bank & Trust Company, was in Burlington last Wednesday as a member of the Election Commission who appointed the officers for the August primary, and while here Mr. Wallace called on the Recorder. Mr. Wallace is always welcome. He is one of the best newspaper men in the State.

Perry Barlow and son, Harry, of the Pleasant Valley neighborhood, were transacting business in Burlington, last Saturday. They called at the Recorder office and left a $1.50 to boost the subscription on his father's paper for another year. Mr. Barlow and his good family have been readers of the Recorder since its infancy.

W. W. Gaines and wife, of Atlanta, Ga., are visiting friends and relatives in Boone county. Mr. Gaines was born and reared near Bullittsville in this county but has resided in Atlanta for several years where he stands at the head of his profession, an attorney. Mr. Gaines is also prominent in school work in Atlanta, being chairman of the Board of Education. Mrs. Gaines is another Boone county boy who has made good in foreign lands.

FIELDING BRASHIER DEAD.

Last one of a family of Boone county's oldest Citizens Gone.

Fielding Brashier died at the county infirmary Monday morning at 1 p. m. in his 76th year. Mr. Brashier is the last one of Boone county's oldest families. He had been in failing health for some time. Interment was in the county cemetery near the infirmary.

Hon. C. E. O'Hara, of Grant county, candidate for late Senator, spoke to a large and appreciative crowd at Helms last Friday night. From reports received Mr. O'Hara says he will carry Boone by a good majority.

Base Ball

At Verona last Saturday Burlington put up their best front but were unable to defeat the Verona boys. It was a well played game and the local team could score only three runs while Verona scored five. The spectators enjoy a game of this kind but teams can not always play a good game as the best players will make rank errors at critical moments making the game very uncertain, but this is one of the reasons why base ball is so popular. The score was five to three in favor of Verona.

Bellevue and Petersburg crossed bats on the grounds of the latter last Saturday and played one of the best games that have been staged on the diamond in Petersburg this season. Bellevue went to Petersburg with a firm determination to defeat the Petersburg team, and early in the game started to put men across the rubber, and it looked like they would tuck the game safely under their belts but Petersburg was just toying with the Bellevue boys, and they tantalized them until the last inning when they loomed up with their bats and knocked the ball into safe territory, putting two men on counting territory and tore down the penance of defeat and raised one of victory in its place. The final score was 4 to 3 in favor of Petersburg who has the edge on Bellevue. These teams are pretty evenly matched.

Taylorport journeyed to Bromley last Sunday afternoon and in a well played game defeated that team by a score of 10 to 0. The game was one of the best that has been played there this season. No runs were made by either team until the 8th inning when Taylorport opened fire with their bats and succeeded in landing one man on safe territory. Taylorport still holds her reputation as one of the best amateur teams in Northern Kentucky. With Sandford in the box and Zimmer behind the bat, and Harley Sprague holding down the first sack there is a very slim chance for a batter to land on first safe. Bromley will play on the Taylorport grounds next Sunday afternoon and a good game is looked for.

CLUB ENROLLMENT HAS BIG INCREASE IN YEAR.

Lexington, Ky.—There are approximately 20,290 Kentucky farm boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18 years engaged in conducting one of the 33 junior agricultural club projects at the present time, according to C. W. Buckler, state leader of junior agricultural work from the College of Agriculture. This total which is contained in a summary of the work shows a 400 per cent increase in club enrollment since the close of 1920 when 4,000 youngsters were members of county junior clubs.

Of the total number enrolled 3,581 are engaged in conducting crops projects, 9,870 livestock projects and 6,025 girls' projects. Projects in crops include those for corn, potatoes, soybeans, alfalfa, sweet clover, small fruits, garden crops, tomatoes of tobacco. Livestock projects include those for poultry, swine, sheep, dairy cattle and beef cattle. Projects for girls include such things as canning, sewing and the making of foods.

SIXTEEN COUNTIES PLAN FALL SALES OF PULLETS.

Lexington, Ky.—More than 8,000 pullets from four varieties of poultry will be sold in 16 county pullet sales planned for this fall as a part of the poultry standardization campaign being conducted by the College of Agriculture, according to an announcement by H. H. Martin, in charge of the College poultry work. Christian county which is standardizing its poultry with Barred Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and Wyandottes will hold its sale November 19 at which time pullets from all three breeds will be sold. Two hundred Barred Plymouth Rocks, 200 Rhode Island Reds, and 200 White Wyandottes will be sold to the sale.

Many city folks think the farmers are getting rich, when in fact, they are hardest hit; at the present time, their products having hit the bottom. No class of people come nearer earning their money than the working farmer class, who works from sun to sun, while their city brothers work upon the eight hour system, and take all the holidays for which they have nerve enough to ask pay.

The farmers are not profiteers, they earn all they get. The whole family works, even to the little folks, and many women folks go to the fields.

J. A. Lee stands for money collected on autos and truck licenses to be kept and used in the counties where collected.

THIRTY-TWO TEAMS WILL COMPETE IN STATE FAIR
JUNIOR JUDGING CONTEST

Thirty-two counties have signified their intentions of entering a team in the junior livestock judging contest to be held at the Kentucky State Fair, September 14, and eight have already begun the work of developing a team according to an announcement by M. L. Hall, assistant state leader of junior agricultural club work from the College of Agriculture who has been appointed superintendent of the contest. In spite of the fact that this is the first year that such an event has been planned in connection with junior farm work indications point to a successful contest, Mr. Hall said.

Counties which are expected to be represented in the contest are: Jefferson, Union, McCreary, McCracken, Christian, Washington, Marion, Fulton, Whitley, Fayette, Daviess, Pulaski, Todd, Carroll, Nelson, Warren, Wayne, Lenoir, Mason, Ballard, Oldham, Shelby, Calloway, Boone, Kenton, Ohio, Campbell and Crittenden. McCreary, Christian, Fulton, Fayette, Pulaski, Mason, Taylor and Boone counties have already begun the organization of their teams, according to the report.

Each county will be represented by a team made up of three boys or girls and one alternate which will judge eight rings of animals including two of beef cattle, two of dairy cattle, two of large type hogs and two of mutton sheep. Prizes totaling $300 will be divided among the winning teams and the highest scoring individuals. A trophy valued at $50 also will be awarded to the winning team. At the present time it is the plan of the contest to have county farm agents hold community contests to select community teams and later hold county contests at which the community teams will compete. Thetams at the State contest will be selected after the county contests.

HEAVY MILK PRODUCERS NEED PLENTY OF WATER.

The importance of supplying dairy cows with an abundant supply of clean, cool water during the hot summer months is brought out by experiments which show that the proportion of water required is in direct proportion to the amount of milk produced, according to specialists in the dairy department of the College of Agriculture. During the summer cows will require an amount of water equal to about three times the amount of milk produced. In one case a cow giving 27 pounds of milk drank 77 pounds of water each day. The same cow drank but 15 pounds daily when giving no milk. A cow producing 100 pounds of milk each day drank more than 250 pounds of water. Eighty-seven per cent of the milk produced by a cow and nearly three-fourths of her body is water, the specialists say. The amount of water required by her is determined by the amount of milk she is yielding, the kind of feed she is receiving and weather conditions.

FATTENING MARKET BIRDS

Profits from poultry on many Kentucky farms could be increased by feeding cockerels a fattening ration several days before they are placed on the market instead of selling them while they are in thin condition according to poultry specialists at the College of Agriculture. Feeding the market birds a ration of this kind not only makes a bigger bird but also one which will have higher quality as a broiler or roaster. The most expensive part of rearing a chick is building the frame and the most profitable part that of putting on the flesh or fat. As a usual thing the poultry raiser does the costly work of building the frame and leaves the profit to the packer or dealer who increases the value of the bird by a few days of proper feeding.

The basis of a fattening ration should be corn meal with skim milk or sour milk. A porridge made up of a mash with corn meal as a basis and a mixture of several other grains has been found to be a satisfactory fattening ration. Even while being given the porridge the chicks should be supplied with fresh water twice each day.

HOME-MADE REPELLANT KEEPS FLIES OFF COWS.

Spraying cows with simple, home-made fly repellent is being used successfully by many to protect their animals from attacks of these pests during the summer, according to J. J. Hooper, head of the dairy department of the College of Agriculture. Such a treatment not only gives relief to cows but also prevents the switching of tails which causes a large amount of bacterial contamination to enter the milk pail. A home-made remedy which has been used successfully on the college farm and one which is being adopted by many dairymen in the State is composed of two gallons of crude petroleum, such as is used for spraying hogs for lice, one gallon of crude carbolic acid and one gallon of fish oil. These ingredients may be obtained at any drug store and can be mixed at home by dairymen.

NEW LIVESTOCK CIRCULAR DISTRIBUTED TO FARMERS

What is said to be one of the most complete livestock publications ever issued by the College of Agriculture has just come off the press and is being distributed to interested persons. The circular, which is No. 96 entitled, "Fundamentals of Livestock Judging—A Study of Types and Breeds," is a complete livestock handbook for farmers, containing instructions on how to judge all classes and breeds of farm animals and a brief history of the different breeds. The publication was prepared under the direction of E. S. Good, head of the animal husbandry department of the college and was contributed to by all members of the staff. It is completely illustrated throughout.

All breeds of horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and swine are given special attention in the publication. It also contains a list of the livestock record associations and their addresses. Copies of the new circular may be obtained, free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

FEATURE DAIRY EXHIBIT BEING PLANNED FOR FAIR.

Lexington, Ky.—Plans are being made for a feature exhibit in the dairy creamery and bee products department at the State Fair, September 12-17, according to J. O. Barkman, of the College of Agriculture, who was recently reappointed superintendent of the department. Eight classes have been provided for dairy and creamery products and five for bee products. Premiums totalling approximately $400 in cash and merchandise valued at $95 will be offered as prizes. Cash prizes will be awarded in all classes except the one for dairy butter, these premiums being dairy merchandise. An added feature of the department exhibit this year will be a butter carving demonstration by a butter sculptor, Mr. Barkman announced. This is said to be the first time that such a demonstration has been held at the Kentucky fair.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

WHITE LEGHORNS LEAD IN KENTUCKY EGG RACE.

Lexington, Ky.—A flock of 362 White Leghorn hens owned by Jos. A. Anderson, Covington, led the State in 47 demonstration flocks in June egg production with a record of 19.5 eggs as an average for each hen, according to an announcement made today by J. H. Martin, in charge of the College of Agriculture poultry work. Thirty-two White Plymouth Rocks owned by F. B. Stapleford, Buckner, was second with an average egg production of 17.1 eggs a hen while a flock of 27 White Plymouth Rocks owned by J. C. Greer, Lucas, was third, having produced an average of 17 eggs a hen during the month.

The remaining flocks among the ten highest producing ones for the month of June together with their owners and the average production for each hen were as follows:

Jacob Klingens, Jeffersonton, 62 White Leghorns, 16.3 eggs; J. A. Kern, Jeffersonton, 58 White Wyandottes, 15.3 eggs; Minnie B. Bard, Depoy, 55 White Wyandottes, 14.3 eggs; S. J. Howard, Henderson, 128 White Leghorns, 13.8 eggs; J. T. Wilson, Corydon, 108 White Wyandottes, 13.3 eggs; Mrs. Charles Brentlinger, Buechel, 286 White Leghorns, 13 eggs, and John Reid, Owensboro, 252 White Leghorns, 12.8 eggs.

BORDEAUX SPRAY STOPS POTATO BLIGHT LOSSES.

Losses in the Kentucky potato crop through the attacks of late blight which annually reduces the yield of spuds on many farms may be stopped by spraying the crop with Bordeaux mixture, according to J. S. Gardner, extension specialist in vegetable gardening from the College of Agriculture. The disease is worse in some years than in others but it is always loose spores of it which live through the winter in many ways and attack the potato crop when the proper kind of weather arrives. Hot, muggy days are favorable ones for attacks of blight. The Bordeaux mixture spray may be prepared at home by combining copper sulphate, lime and water or it may be bought ready mixed. The sprayer may be a bucket pump or a barrel pump, the important thing being to get sufficient pressure to make amity spray which should be driven with force enough to reach into the plant, thoroughly covering it. In areas larger than four acres it is of advantage to have an engine-driven pump. Potato growers who have had losses by the attacks of blight may secure information as to the proper spray and the apparatus necessary to apply it by writing to the Experiment Station, Lexington.

COVER CROPS WILL FURNISH FALL AND SPRING FURNISHES.

In spite of the fact that cover crops are not grown primarily for pasture purposes they may be used to good advantage in furnishing green feed for livestock during the late fall and early winter, according to soils and crop specialists. Pasturing the crop when the fields are solid so that trampling will not materially reduce the value of the cover crop is a safe way to supply the succulence of silage without the use of asilo and to supply it to the smaller animals not commonly fed silage, according to R. E. Stephenson, crops extension specialist from the College of Agriculture.

A dry pasture has been found to be of great value to pigs, sheep, colts calves and chickens and a cover crop could well be sown for this purpose alone. Enough pasturing may be done to pay for the cost of the seed and growing the crop, while the value of it from the fertility standpoint is clear profit for the farmer. The cover crop fills another need by furnishing pasture feed during a dry fall. An early dry field is of material help in such a time as this since it enables the farmer to increase the carrying capacity of his farm and at the same time hold his animals in better flesh or higher productive. The specialists are urging that farmers sow cover crops this fall on all fields which would otherwise remain idle during the winter.

Farmers Must Look After Their Own Interest.

Henry S. Berry in an article headed "Farmer's Must Look After their own Interest" says in part as follows:

It seems to me that the farmer generally speaking, is the most unconcerned individual in existence. In spite of the fact that the whole world is determined to bind him to conditions that affect his ever welfare and in spite of his Sampson-like strength, which, if exerted, could with one supreme effort break his bonds and free him, he whines and complains of his hard lot and refuses to use the weapon used by his less powerful brothers—namely, union and cooperation—to make the world respect his rights and to give him a just compensation for the essential part he plays in the existence of life, for his is really the only occupation essential to life itself, all other things being secondary, for food we must have or perish.

In the terrible hot weather of the past few days, almost unendurable the farmer sticks to his job that the world may be fed. Others may like to the shade of some cool spot, may take a vacation where it is pleasant, but the farmer, no, there is a seed time and a harvest and the farmer knows this only too well. No vacation for him or the world will go un-fed.

We hear from high places and persons that the farmer is not being treated fairly, that he is producing far below the cost of production. These are empty words, useless sympathies, for who is taking any step to help him? Who is it that is not trying to buy the farmers' stuff at the lowest possible price? I tell you this if you ever get any relief it will come only when you, the farmers, are banded together strongly enough to make your strength felt.

Another thing I wish to call your attention to is the matter of taxes. Official has been sent out by the State assessed higher, that the State needs more money, and that the farmer must be pressed still harder to raise more money for some one to spend who does not know or care how much the farmers must sweat this year to pay even what he paid last year. Again here comes the income tax. The great wealth of this country is trying to get out of paying income tax according to their incomes. In fact they are trying to shift in the form of a direct tax on land one billion dollars of this burden to the shoulders of the American farmers. Many are unacquainted with the scope of the work the Farm Bureau is doing, but I assure you that the Farm Bureau, local, State, and National, is wide-awake to everything that affects the farmers' interest, that it is on the job every second. In the operations of the Farm Bureau especially at Washington and Frankfurt, we run up against propositions antagonistic to the farmers' interests and backed by the strongest interests and supplied with vast sums of money. To meet this we must have the united support of our farmers and need the money obtained through our membership dues as this is our only source of revenue to meet this powerful influence. Won't you wake up to your own interest and become a member? Remember, the way you back up your own interests will determine what you will get and if you get anything you will have to fight for it.

The people who knock their home town all the time, are reminded that trains are leaving daily and it does not make much difference in which direction they go.

The American people demand that the European nations pay their debts to us, and then they refuse to take the goods that are the only thing they have to pay with.

J. A. Lee candidate for State Senator, says the farmers must get more for what he sells, pay less for what he buys and have his taxes lowered, or he will have to quit the farm.

LEGION NOTES

John G. Emery, notional commander of the American Legion, will head the party of 250 members of the American Legion who sail August 3rd, for France, where they will tour the former war zone as guests of the French government. Mr. Emery's decision to join the Legion pilgrimage to France is the result of urgent request from the French government and Legion officials.

The former national commanders—Franklin D'Olier, of Philadelphia, and Henry D. Lindsley, of Dallas, Texas, will be in the party, which is to be composed of Legionnaires from every state in the Union. John Sproul, son of the governor, will be the Pennsylvania party. The "new A. E. F." as the delegation has been called, will sail on the Mail Liner George Washington. An American Legion emblem will fly from the mast of the former presidential ship when she sails out of port at New York. There will be an informal farewell at the docks.

A special program of entertainment for the passengers on board will be arranged by the Legion committee. When they land at La Havre they will become guests of the French government and a nod from them on they will relive their A. E. F. days, but without the former hardships.

Among the distinguished visitors at the national convention of the American Legion at Kansas City this fall will be Stubby, hero of Seichprey, who recently was awarded a gold medal for bravery and faithfulness. The decoration was presented by General Pershing. Stubby has been especially invited to attend the convention as a guest of honor. He is a Boston bull terrier, wounded in St. Mihiel drive.

An exhaustive exposition of alleged pro-German activities of the Los Angeles Examiner, New York American and other Hearst publications during the war, presented by the Pasadena, Cal., post of the American Legion, resulted in the post placing a ban on the Examiner.

At a recent conference of the M. E. Episcopal church South, Sgt. Alvin York, who is credited with having captured a larger number of Germans than any individual in the American army, said that prohibition laws should be repealed if it is found that they cannot be properly enforced.

When the American Legion accepted the invitation of the French government to send a party of former service men to France for a tour of the old war zone—John J. Wicker, Jr., of Richmond, Va., a member of the Legion's national executive committee, was selected to manage the pilgrimage. Wicker has conducted tours to Europe, Palestine, Egypt and the Orient. He was in Rome with a party of tourists when the world war started. Later he went to France in the United States aviation service. He is a lawyer.

Michael Nolan, the newly discovered mental wizard, who made a perfect score of 212 in 15 minutes in the army alpha test, is a charter member of the Rainier Noble post of the American Legion at Seattle, Washington. Nolan is 43 years old, a lumberjack and former sailor. He was a student of the Federal Board of Vocational Training at the University of Washington. He recently passed perfectly, in one minute and ten seconds, an information test of sixty questions. One of the questions asked the definition of the following words: Ageratum, archigambit, guimpe, inagamous elohim, pal, mitosis, nada, pomology, rocco and simony.

Posts of the American Legion and the Great War Veterans of Canada have been asked to help find Capt. H. Hudson, formerly of Edmonton, Alberta, heir to the million-dollar estate of his father who died recently in Michigan.

Management of the $80,000 Amateur Athletics Club building at Bend, Oregon, has been turned over to the local post of the American Legion.

It looks like Lee will be sure to carry four counties out of the five. (Advertisement.)

Not merely does a loud, sharp and cross sounding horn help clear the way for an automobile, but it is apparently a satisfaction to the driver to see the people jump off the cross walks.

President Harding has been wearing a cow puncher hat. Now if he will put on some cow puncher boots and apply them to the office seekers at the proper place, there will be general satisfaction.

AUTO RACES

To Be Held This Year at Lawrenceburg Fair

An Important Feature of the Fair of Today.

At the fair of yesteryear speed was marked by how fast the race horses could cover the mile and half-mile tracks, and while that blue-blooded sport still holds as a component part of practically every fair program, the twentieth century marked the advent of a newer and greater type of speed upon the race track.

Today auto races plan an important part of fair programs, bringing a greater volume of speed upon the track than has hitherto been accomplished, serving as a revenue-getter from the standpoint of gate and grandstand admissions, and adding a brand of thrills that was unknown before the present century was ushered in.

Present-day dirt track auto racing is a child of the fairs of the country. True, there was, and still is, dirt track racing on dirt tracks, which does not have the association of state, district or country fair interests, but dirt track racing, under the American Motor Contest Association rulings, by far leads the field in importance, and this type of racing was instituted at fairs. The Automobile Races which are to be held at the Dearborn County Fair, August 17, 18, 19 and 20, are sanctioned by the American Motor Contest Association.

It is only in the new field that the promoter needs take pains to explain that a fast and interesting auto race can be held upon half-mile tracks. For over ten years auto racing has been as much a part of the weekly program at many big fairs as has any other feature. Properly handled it has brought results, and at practically no place has there been indication of any waning.

Auto racing has brought out its problems. The proper conditioning of the track, the overcoming of the insistent prophecies of dire danger to the track by certain interests and the designation of certain days whereby the great drawing power of automobile races will bring the greatest revenue and still serve the demands of the public, are some of the things which confront fair managements and promoters.

In 1920 much new territory was opened up for professional auto races in this country. The North Pacific territory comprising certain fairs in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and British Columbia, had its first taste of professional auto racing. The promoters met many obstacles, all of which were overcome to the benefit of the "fair" type of conducting auto races. Many fairs in the South had their first taste of professional auto races, and indications point that they will seek a comeback in 1921.

The particular feature which has always been a strong talking point of promoters to fair folk is the fact that properly conducted auto races have a great drawing power for attendance. A single instance, such as Sedalia, Mo., where on a Monday, in a city of 20,000 population, over 40,000 people were attracted to the fair. It is doubtful if the city contributed as high as 7,000 people for this day. This means that 33,000 people were attracted from distances for an early week day. This has happened two years in succession at the Missouri State Fair, Des Moines, on its opening Friday, had 50,000 people in attendance, fully ninety per cent of which can be construed as having attended for the express purpose of seeing auto races. And at Detroit, Oklahoma City, Milwaukee, Hutchinson and other state fair centres, great crowds have been in attendance for auto races.

It is estimated that over sixty adept race drivers competed at those various fairs. In many instances track records were established or broken in 1920, a feature which always adds to the program but which is frequently dependent upon the condition of the track.

The trend of the times is such and the decline of horse racing so noticeable that the examples of the state fair of Texas and the Alabama state fair may be cited in 1920 as large institutions which had neither harness nor running events. This is not the desire of the auto race enthusiast or promoter. It is just a condition.

Today there are six recognized speedways in the United States. In dirt track racing the possibilities extend only to the number of well-regulated fairs in America. Cars which race at fairs are constructed for dirt track racing and are backed by years of skill and observation. They are planned to turn the dirt tracks at a maximum speed with minimum danger to driver and observer, but with an allowance for the thrills that are bound to come.

The 1921 fair season should prove the banner year for dirt track auto racing. There undoubtedly will be more fairs with professional racing, a greater number of cars and drivers in the game and the continued interest which has marked auto racing at fairs in the past. The automobile industry is one of the three largest in the United States today, so auto racing is backed by a substantial foundation. It is not only the auto owner who is interested in auto racing, but also the layman who likes speed and thrills.

OFFICIAL BALLOT

I, W. R. Rogers, Clerk of the Boone County Court, in the State of Kentucky, do certify that the following is a complete list of the candidates to be voted for the various District and County offices and for Magistrates as they appear upon the ballot at the primary election to be held on August 6, 1921:

Democratic Party.

FOR SENATOR:
C. E. O'Hara.
John A. Lee.
L. C. Littrell.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE:
Garnett W. Tolin.
William Stephens.

FOR COUNTY CLERK:
A. G. McMullen,
Mary Elizabeth Rogers.

FOR SHERIFF:
Clarence Norman,
B. B. Hume.
Charles Maurer.

FOR TAX COMMISSIONER:
Lewis E. Stephens.
J. S. Cason.
Harry W. Riley.

FOR JAILER:

For Magistrate, 6th District, composed of Florence and Constance Precincts:
R. H. Tanner.
F. C. Barker.
Gordon Southern.
Clarence Carpenter.
W. R. ROGERS, Clerk.

W. R. Gordon & Co., of Petersburg, began plastering the store building erected by D. R. Blythe last Monday morning. Mr. Gordon is an expert and all of his work is of the highest standard.

The officers of the Dearborn County Fair to be held at Lawrenceburg Indiana, August 17, 18, 19 and 20th, are exerting every effort to make the 1921 fair one of the best ever held on the Lawrenceburg fair ground.

In the report of the case of Boone vs. Cooper in a recent issue of the Recorder the article stated that Ray Rogers represented the defendant. This was an error as he represented the plaintiff and Mr. Tolin the defendant.

STATE FAIR TO BE RECORD
ONE FOR FARM YOUNGSTERS

Lexington, Ky.—The 1921 Kentucky State Fair which will be held September 12 to 17 will be one of the most eventful in the history of Kentucky farm boys and girls if plans being made materialize, according to C. W. Buckler, state leader of club work from the College of Agriculture who was recently re-appointed superintendent of the State Fair Club department. Five features will contribute toward the success of the event. These are a Junior agricultural club booth, an exhibit of livestock, foods and clothing by the boys and girls, a girls' demonstration team contest, a junior livestock judging contest and the selection of State champions in a number of club projects. With the exception of the club booth which will be designed to emphasize the attractiveness of farm life for boys and girls the women's features will offer opportunity for not only individual competition but also county team competition. Approximately $1,200 as prize money has been offered for successful livestock exhibitors alone and $300 posted as team and individual prize money in the livestock judging contest. Girls' demonstration teams will compete for $150 in cash prizes. There are a few of the prizes which are included in the premium list which has been prepared for the junior farmers.

MICKIE, THE PRINTER'S DEVIL

BEING LATE TO CHURCH.

Some people are born late and quite contrive to catch up. They always rise just a little late in morning, sigh over it, but are a late to breakfast and to lunch, and to dinner, and just a little in going to bed again. Either are not aware of the existence of clock, or it represents a hope-ideal, which they admire afar but which they long since gave tempting to achieve. If by chance they sometimes manage to get the stern necessities of time and other inconvenient fix- it is usually by the consider- assistance of friends. Kentucky Farmers and Breeders!

This Important Announcement is for You

The present is emphatically a buyer's market—that we know just as you do.

Nevertheless, we have planned to go into it next month—as sellers. In furtherance of our aim to improve the breed of swine in Kentucky, we announce a—

Special Sale of Coldstream Durocs

At Coldstream Farm, August 16, 1921

This sale having been decided on, nothing is to be left undone to make it a success from the bidder's viewpoint. A goodly number of our choicest young sows will go under the hammer—beautifully bred, massive individuals, each weighing 500 lbs. or more.

The sows are all bred for early September farrowing—mostly to Walt's Great Top Col., a splendid young boar, standing, as a senior yearling, 44 inches high, on a 10-inch bone, with 83 inches over the back between the eyes and root of tail.

Terms if Desired—Terms will be arranged for those who so desire and can furnish satisfactory bank references. Remember the date—also the fact that adverse market conditions for us mean advantageous transactions for the purchaser. For particulars, address

WIT SAVES KENTUCKIAN

The answer of a middle aged man who was arraigned before County Judge Batterton, at Paris, Ky., on a lunacy warrant, secured his release from custody. The Sheriff selected a jury of six candidates who were in the lobby of the courthouse. When the man looked at the jury he exclaimed: "Surely, Judge, you are not going to try me before that bunch. Why, they are the ones who drove me crazy." After a little questioning the Judge became convinced of his sanity and sent him home.

Some people consider it hard times if they ever have to do any hard work.

STATE INCOME

TAX $7,595,384

Federal Collections in Kentucky in 1919 Were 1.09 Per Cent. of Total.

Washington—Kentucky contributed $7,595,384 to the Federal government in personal income taxes for the calendar year 1919, or six-tenths per cent. of the total revenue from that source, which amounted to $1,269,630,104. It is shown by figures made public by David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The percentage of Kentucky's total population filing personal income tax returns for the calendar year 1919 was 2.46 or lower than that of all but Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, North and South Carolina and Tennessee.

Personal income tax returns were filed by 59,332 Kentuckians, which was 1.12 per cent. of the total number of such returns filed. The aggregate income reported in these returns amounted to $215,977,442, or 1.09 per cent. of the total aggregate income reported by the entire country.

Notwithstanding the fact that the average net income per return filed in Kentucky was $3,640.15, or larger than the same figure for the other States, the per capita net income in the Bluegrass State was only $39.47, or lower than that of all except eight other States.

Sixty-Five Pay on Million. There is, of course, a corresponding difference between the income tax per return. Kentucky's per capita income tax for 1919 amounted to $3.14, while its average amount of tax per return amounted to $128.01.

The people who refuse to obey the laws, persistently refuse to go to some country where no laws exist that have to be obeyed.

If these building material men don't stop this collusion to raise prices, they are likely to have a collusion with the government.

CORN-EAR WORM DAMAGE TO TOMATOES CHECKED BY ARSENATE OF LEAD

Spraying with arsenate of lead is the best means of controlling corn-eat worms which have caused considerable damage to tomatoes in many parts of the State during the summer, according to Harrison German, entomologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. The insects attack the tomatoes near the base of the stem, eating holes into the fruit which nearly always render it unfit for food. The pest also is known to the cotton grower as the cotton-boll worm.

To control the pest the plants should be sprayed thoroughly with arsenate of lead using one pound of paste to ten gallons of water or one pound of powder to 20 gallons of water. Additional pieces of tomatoes from all classes of pests may be obtained by combining Bordeaux mixture with the arsenate of lead spray. Stirring the soil in the fall of the year to expose the winter stages of the insect also have been found helpful in controlling the ravages of the pest the following year. If the arsenate of lead spray is applied a short time before the tomatoes are ripe they should be thoroughly washed and peeled before being used for food.

MARKETS.

DAIRY PRODUCTS---Butter markets not so firm as a week ago. Demand has been fair but undertone shows less settled and there is some feeling that present prices are too high to operate with safety. Cooler weather has made heavy shrinkage in production less of a probability. Fanciest grades declining but undergrades increasing. Chicago 40 1/4c.

LIVESTOCK AND MEATS---Livestock prices at Chicago advanced generally 10-25c during the week; hogs up a quarter with new top at $11.10. Beef steers gained 15-25c, heifers and veal calves declined a quarter; the latter on lower grades. Feeder steers about steady, all classes of fat and feeding sheep up 10-25c. July 25 Chicago prices: hogs, top $11.10, bulk of sales, $9, 10-11; medium and good beef steers $7.25-8.25; butcher cows and heifers $4.87-5; feeder steers $5.7-25; light and medium weight veal calves $8.75-11; fat lambs $8.25-10.80; yearlings $6.8-50; fat ewes $3.25-5.50.

GRAIN---Prices fluctuated within narrow limits during the week but worked lower, the low point being reached on the 23rd when a general selling movement took place. Corn offered good resistance but declined slightly in sympathy with wheat. In Chicago cash market No. 2 red winter wheat closed at $1.23; No. 3 mixed corn at 62c; No. 3 yellow corn at 62c; No. 3 new white oats at 36c.

FEED---Market unsettled due to disposition of eastern and western resellers to unload stocks of wheat feeds recently accumulated. Oil meals strong on reported export inquiry. Dealers actively offering new crop cottonseed meal for future shipment at present prices, some offerings at from $1-2 discount. Hominy and gluten feed productions air but prices holding firm because of prevailing high corn quotations.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES---Virginia eastern shore Irish cobbler (potatoes) advanced 75c per bbl in New York reaching $4-4.25. Other eastern markets also higher, ranging $3.75-5. Kansas sacked early Ohio slow and dull in Kansas City, closing around $1.25.

THREE YEARS AGO.

These were great days in France three years ago. July 14, 1918, the American marines and regulars fought at Chateau-Thierry; by July 18 the last great German drive had broken down, and without a day's delay the allies took the offensive along a battle line 300 miles in extent.

The fiercest part of the fighting during the present week of three years ago, was in the little pocket between the Marne and the Vesle rivers, with the French and the Americans fighting desperately to maintain the posts they had taken on the German side of the Marne. Far away to the west the English armies, 1,000,000 strong, were in years ago guesstimated at what was to happen as a result of fierce fighting in and around the Ypres salient.

We did not know in America that July 18 marked the date that the German high command confided to the Emperor that "Germany had lost the war," but all of us felt a great deal better this date three years ago than we did a few weeks earlier.

WILL CONSIDER ESTABLISHING FEDERAL GRADES FOR TOBACCO.

As a step toward laying the ground work for drawing up Federal grades for tobacco, the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture is arranging for investigations to be conducted in each of the important tobacco growing regions of the country. The work will finally cover practically every type of tobacco grown in the United States and is expected to lead to the establishment of grades affecting each of them.

Arrangements for the appointment of an investigator in each of the important localities are being completed. Tentative agreement has been made with the State of North Carolina for the employment of an investigator, who will gather information to aid in the establishment of grades for "bright leaf," or flue-cured tobacco, a type chiefly grown in that State as well as parts of Virginia, Georgia, and South Carolina. His expenses will be paid by the State.

Similar agreements in the States of Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and Connecticut are being negotiated. The State of Wisconsin has already employed a man for the purpose of studying the type of tobacco grown there. The information gathered by each of the investigators will be correlated by the Bureau of Markets of the Federal department to be used as the basis for the proposed Federal grades.

Under present trade conditions practically each of the big tobacco buyers has a separate schedule of grades in "bright leaf" running as high as 50 grades. It is possible that under the proposed system of Federal grading there will be only from 4 to 10 grades, depending upon the type of tobacco.

TOO MANY LAWS.

We have too many laws on the Statute books and not being a lawyer, we never knew when we are violating any of them until some bull-headed official with more authority than brains, drops down on us and hawls us out to the community that should be punished by being sent to the "pen," where we could take automobile rides and get a pardon.---Falmouth Outlook.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Hubert White lost a valuable work horse one day last week.

We never heard of any one trying to make home brew out of onions.

You can buy at Gulley & Pettit's high-grade full cut overalls for $1.25.

Home-made brooms are the best.
Gulley & Pettit have them at 60 cents.

You have to go out to sea to see the sea serpent—slightly over three miles out.

Good full size work shirts can be bought at Gulley & Pettit's, Burlington, for 90 cents.

The rains of last week did much damage to crops along the creek bottoms in this county.

In spite of a great deal of urging, the Germans persistently refuse to celebrate Pay Up Week.

Large crowds attended the Erlanger fair last week and good weather prevailed most of the time.

A lot of folks that bitterly complain of popular ignorance, kick like thunder if the school appropriation is increased.

There was a continual stream of autos passing thru Burlington last Sunday from early morn until late in the evening.

Good base ball batters and pitchers have not so far complained much about the requirements for entrance to the colleges.

Some women who are limping along with sprained ankles are now enjoying one of the advantages of wearing high heels.

Many people who blame the newspapers for printing silly personal gossip will find fault because they are never mentioned.

The labor of gathering the harvest is considered very poetic by people who make observations thereof from under some shady tree.

Thomas Stephens, who lives near Burlington, has been remodeling his outbuildings and it gives his premises a very neat appearance.

Having studied dressmaking some girls have now reached the point where they can tell their mothers how to make their clothes.

Large crowds attended the Erlanger fair last week and the 1921 fair was one of the most successful sessions ever held at Erlanger.

The worthless stock promoters should be able to sell their stuff to these people that think a socialistic government could make good.

College students are studying the outprints of great men, particularly those that made the long distance runs in the track athletic meets.

The people who spit on the sidewalks are probably merely obeying the injunction to treat the streets just as they do their own homes.

It is about time to begin filling that coal bin—water will be upon you before you know it, and then you will be wishing for some of those good, old, warm, sunny days.

HOME WEDDING.

Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 p. m., the parlor of Mrs. C. D. Stephens was beautifully decorated while Miss Helen Tanner played the wedding march. Miss Mabel Tanner and Dr. Robert Stephens marched in followed by Miss Isabella Stephens and Cecil Tanner, of whom later G. A. Royer, pastor of Hopeful church joined in holy wedlock with a beautiful ceremony of which the wedding ring was included.

The bride wore a beautiful blue beaded coat suit with a corsage bouquet of delicate pink roses and fern. The bridesmaid a beautiful blue silk trimmed in gold with a corsage bouquet of red roses and ferns. Immediately after the ceremony the wedding feast was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Royer and sons Harry and Clifford, Mrs. Royer and daughter Mabel, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Glacken and daughter Sarah Elizabeth, Mr. Elmer Carpenter, Dr. E. L. Glacken, Miss Marie Robinson, Mr. Wilford Mitchell and Miss Christine Renaker, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fennell and daughter, Mr. Evan Hance, Mrs. A. B. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stephens and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Glacken and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Carpenter and daughter. All left wishing the young couple many happy congratulations.

THE FOOT PRINTS OF TIME

What does life mean to me? everything, I own my home and make my living. I have a woman for a help-mate. She is my wife legally and otherwise. We have read history, ancient and modern. During the last half century we have watched the footprints of time. We have lived to see the passing of the old turnpike and building of the concrete road. Like a great sea-serpent winding its way through our town with tentacles reaching to all parts of the county, yes, neighbor we are calling to you as the saying goes, on a beautiful knoll much its green-robed valleys, born a century ago, it has grown to be the most picturesque town with its schools and bank, its stores and factory, its mansions and vine-clad cottages, its electric lights with its concrete streets and paved walks. Vast changes are occurring in our town. It will live in history as a reminder. As I look back over the past, and then to the present age, and see the foot-prints of time, I suddenly exclaim where am I.

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, Creator of all beings, in His infinite wisdom to call from our midst our beloved fellow teacher, Rowena Carpenter, who departed this life July 16th, 1921.

Therefore be it resolved, That the teachers of Boone county have lost a true and faithful friend, and that Boone county has lost an efficient and loyal teacher, one who was universally loved for her genial disposition and kindness to those with whom she came in contact.

Be it further resolved, That we extend to her family our sympathy and commend them to Him who doeth all things well.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be filed in the minutes of this institute, a copy be sent her family and a copy sent to the Boone County Recorder and Advertiser for publication.

BACK IN "HOOSIERDOM"

Alexandria, Ind.
August 18, 1921.Editor Recorder,
Dear Sir:

I am back in Indiana again where thousand dollar land, Irish potatoes and work seem scarcer than "hen's-teeth" I say! While in Union, Ky., I had a lot of reasons to be glad I was living and able to enjoy the "Torrid Heat" that so many folks did not enjoy. I enjoyed painting for Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Senour, James Bristow and wife, although they thought that it was too hot to paint. Their kind and hospitable treatment was enjoyed also. I was glad to be with Mr. and Mrs. Arch Rouse who hold forth on Dr. Senour's farm west of town. They had 15 cows to milk and two miles of pipe to build but looked carefully after the painters comfort all the same. I enjoyed visiting the homes of Mrs. Sallie Burket and Mrs. Anderson and Lane who are the pioneer citizens of Union, and do not seem old if their ages do total night on to 250 years. Sitting in the stores, blacksmith shops and garages—all operated by a bunch of fine fellows, as you meet anywhere, was a pleasure because a fellow could chat with Ed. Utz, Lefe Prosser, Miss Bristow, Chas. Clark, "Spikes Spooner" and the Lord knows how many more good men. Union without "Marce Lynn" Prof. Vohell, Tom Judge and Dr. Crouch would be mighty quiet along chatting lines. Talk about glad times Mr. Ed. but a visit with J. W. Conner and family at Erlanger, one evening was a real one. After supper Burl and I went with me for a tour of inspection over Erlanger. We called on Lyman Rice and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Denny and finally started for home at 11:00 p. m., after hearing Col. John R. Whitson tell exactly how the B. C. primary was going to turn out, &c., and &c. A call at the home of our old friend Geo. Fullilove was not so pleasant for Geo. had been seriously sick for 10 weeks. He is a game old scout and laughed and joked all the same. Yes Sir! Ask "Eabe Conner he will tell you. Having known and lived in Florence or "Stringtown on the Pike" when Heck was a pup and before Prof. Lloyd was born—for all I know, it was good to stop there and find Carl Swin and wife happy and busy, and find a building boom in progress and a pair with cars so tight that the wind made 'em wobble like the "Jib sail" on a three mast schooner. Also saw a man who said he could cut a 1 pound "house" steak from the neck of a beef-meat from Mo! Ezra Tanner don't believe it either. When Col. Wash Grant and Tommie the Irish comedian were on deck Florence was a great town. Sam Hicks expects me to paint his house this fall and he has bought $15 worth of frying chickens for the occasion so here is hoping I get back in time to help eat 'em. Some day Geo. Stephenson will quit fishing but it will be when Tom Purkit runs for office or John Garrison gets the grumps or Harry Cromwell gets fatter than John is PHILIP.

GREEN CORN FEED WILL HELP MILK PRODUCTION.

In spite of the fact that recent rains have broken the general drought in Kentucky, dairy cows in many parts of the State will suffer for want of green feed before dried-up pastures can make a new growth. According to dairy specialists, for this reason it becomes necessary for dairymen to use other means of supplying the green feed until pastures are recovered. Cows that are allowed to go almost dry during the summer from lack of such feed are not apt to come back and produce a large flow of milk during the remainder of their lactation period, the specialists say. Green corn is being fed successfully by a number of Kentucky farmers to supply the wants of their dairy animals.

One method of feeding green corn is to chop up the stalks with a cutting box and sprinkle it with a gallon of water to which a tablespoonful of molasses and a big pinch of salt has been added. The mass should be shoveled over several times and added to with four pounds of corn meal and two pounds of cottonseed meal. This mixture is fed at the rate of a pound of dry feed for every four pounds of milk which the cows are producing. Farmers who have used this say that it is one of the best feeds for keeping up milk production.

In some cases it will be advisable to cut good corn for the cows until pastures are green again, according to J. J. Hooper, head of the dairy department of the College of Agriculture, who states that an acre of ripening corn is doubled in value if fed to dairy cows when pastures are short. Cow peas also make a good silage for the cows.

Hon. J. Campbell Cantrell will address the tobacco growers of Boone county in Burlington September 20, 1921. Mr. Cantrell is the Congressman from the Seventh District and one of the largest tobacco growers in the State. The co-operative plan, according to Mr. Cantrell is the only salvation for the tobacco grower. He is one of the best men in the business.

Chester White Hogs

WILL BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Wednesday, August 31st, 1921 at 12:30 P. M., on North Kentucky Fair Grounds

At Florence, Ky., by the Boone Co. Chester White Breeders Association

This offering consists of 8 Junior Yearling Gilts, 5 Spring Boars, 10 Spring Gilts, 1 Junior Yearling Boar, one aged boar—a great sire.

This sale is the best opportunity any farmer in Boone County will have to buy young breeding stock of best blood lines, big type, and very best individuals. All hogs consigned were selected from the herds of 15 breeders, who have spent many years building up their herds.

Some of the advantages of buying Chester Whites are: There are more in this county than any county in the State; more of this breed than any other breed in the county; more demand for them; more premiums offered, and the only breed that is organized. Not only these reasons but they are very prolific and easy feeders.

This offering will be sold by C. W. SQUIRES, who is a professional Chester White Auctioneer, Breeder and Swine Judge.

Make your plans to attend this sale the first day of the Fair, see a Big Swine Show; see the Pig Club Exhibit, and last, but not least, buy some of the BEST CHESTER WHITES in Kentucky. The REAL MONEY MAKERS.

TERMS—All sums of $35 and under, cash; on sums over that amount a credit of nine months will be given, purchaser to give note properly secured bearing 6 per cent interest. For further information write

WINTER CROPS WOULD SAVE MUCH NITROGEN.

Approximately $20,000,000 worth of nitrogen would be saved in Kentucky in one season by planting cover crops on all land which is in need of them providing one-half as much of this element is saved from leaching by the crops as was saved on New York experiment fields, according to estimates made by R. E. Stephenson, crops field agent from the College of Agriculture who is co-operating with land owners in more than 50 counties of the State in a cover-crop campaign. This amount of nitrogen is enough to produce more than 40,000,000 bushels of corn next year.

In addition to the nitrogen which the cover crops would save they would be of further benefit in that they would prevent soil erosion, add organic matter to the soil, make plant food more available and provide winter pasture. Mr. Stephenson bases his estimates on the fact that Kentucky has about 5,000,000 acres of land under cultivation in regular crops, 3,000,000 acres of which will be in need of a winter crop to protect them during the season.

EX-SERVICE MEN.

"A Clean-Up Squad" will be in Covington from Monday August 22 to Tuesday evening August 30 for the purpose of adjusting all ex-service men's claims against the Government. The headquarters in Covington will be on the 7th floor of the Copple Building, 7th and Madison.

Saturday August 27th will be Boone County Day and we desire all cases possible to report on that day.

Each man should take with him his discharge and all correspondence pertaining to such claim.

RIGHT LOCATION OF THE HOG LOT IMPORTANT MEASURE IN FIGHT AGAINST HOG CHOLERA.

When hog cholera sweeps through a neighborhood, causing the death of hundreds of animals, a simple precaution, as the proper location of the hog lot may be the means of preventing infection. Where not to have the hog lot is pointed out by the suggestions on the control and eradication of this disease are given in a leaflet published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Hog lots should be located away from streams and highways. Free range, streams, irrigation, canals, etc., help in the spread of cholera outbreaks. Don't visit neighbor hog lots or allow neighbors to visit yours. You may have sick hogs. Infection may be carried by teams and wagons from highways; don't drive into hog lots. Isolate for at least two weeks all new stock hogs and those just returned from exhibitions and sales. Don't borrow or lend hogs for breeding purposes if cholera is in the community.

Burn or Bury Animals That Die.

Burn to ashes or bury 4 feet deep all animals that die on the farm and the unused internal organs of slaughtered animals, since they attract dogs which may carry infection. If cholera appears in the neighborhood, confine your dog and encourage others to do likewise. Immunize herds located dangerously near infected centers. Careful attention to the feeding and handling of the herd after immunization is an important matter. Mange, lice, and worms lower the vitality of hogs and render them more susceptible to disease.

If cholera appears in the herd, post warning notices so your neighbors will know about it, suggests the department. Have all susceptible hogs immunized at once by some one with special training and experience, preferably a competent veterinarian. Insist that the temperature of all hogs be taken at time of treatment and an increased dose of serum given to those showing a temperature of 104 F or over. Confine all treated hogs to limited, clean quarters; keep on light, restricted diet for at least two weeks, and give plenty of pure drinking water. Anthrax-cholera serum is not a cure, but when used as soon as cholera appears in a herd it seems to have a favorable effect on some animals in the very early stage of the disease. Don't rely on serum to cure sick hogs; it is primarily a preventative.

If the disease comes to your farm and runs its course, disinfect thoroughly afterwards all places where sick hogs have been. First, remove all infected manure and spread on the fields inaccessible to hogs. Burn all litter, rubbish and old troughs from infected pens and lots. Turn over portable hog houses, exposing the interior to sunlight. Thoroughly clean pens and buildings in which sick hogs have been kept, and disinfect by spraying with compound cresol solution, 1 part to 30 part of soft water. In summer, pastures and lots are usually made safe within three weeks by the action of sunlight. Fill, drain, or fence off mud wallows. Disinfect and board up all runs under beneath buildings. Destroy hogs that don't fully recover; they may carry cholera infection.

CHANGE IN THE OFFICIAL STANDARDS FOR SHELL CORN

Announcement of a change in the official grain standards of the United States for shelled corn was made recently at the United States Department of Agriculture. Under an order signed by Secretary Wallace, effective October 3, 1921, the size of the perforations in the screens used for determining foreign material and cracked corn is fixed at twelve sixty-fourths of an inch instead of fourteen sixty-fourths of an inch as at present.

Action was taken after a thorough investigation of numerous complaints made to the department by merchandisers of shelled corn that the larger holes permitted a considerable percentage of small whole kernels and fair-sized pieces of broken kernels of corn, which are entirely suitable for milling and feeding purposes, to pass through the sieve and be classified as foreign material and cracked corn. The result was a lowering of grade. This was especially true of kiln-dried corn, which fractures easily in handling. Officials believe that the smaller perforation will overcome these objections and meet the approval of the trade.

The date set for the change to become effective is before the bulk of the next corn-crop starts to move on its way to the markets.

Get ready to attend the fair at Florence next week. You will meet many of your friends there that you haven't seen since the last fair.

Some folks who in recent months have attempted to fix their own pay, have had plenty of leisure this year in which to decide how much they are worth.

Mrs. Harding is reported to dress with taste and discretion. Many women succeed in the first named respect, but not so much so in the last named quality.

Motorists can't make much speed over rough roads, but if they could the distances they are jolted up in the air, it would make record.

FLOWERS AND HOMES.

The United States department of agriculture recently issued a very attractive booklet called "Growing annual flowering plants." It makes an old fashioned gardener's mouth water to look at it. He wishes he could have all these lovely old stand-bys.

There is no business of the government to spend the taxpayers' money issuing booklets about flowers. Some will regard it as a little incongruous that this book is issued as a "farmer's bulletin." They will remark that flowers never helped a farmer raise salable food products.

And yet there is a connection between flowers and economic prosperity. A town that had abundant flower gardens, would be far more attractive than others. Real estate would be worth more in it. It would have a wider reputation for culture and progressiveness.

If the farmers that receive this bulletin are thereby incited to plant flowers, the result must be to make wonderful improvements in rural neighborhoods. Beautiful homes attach the people to the soil. Many a man who came from an old fashioned home, will never forget the charm of the hollyhocks and larkspur and geraniums and syringas that used to surround it. These flowers make a picture of poetic romance in his soul. The charm of that picture has led some to give up a cramped little niche in some big city, and go into a place like Boone county where he could raise and enjoy flowers.

So this publication is not merely a picture book which government officials have got out to fill up spare time. The pretty gateway which appears on the cover, lined with forms of creeping and flowering plants suggests how many people can find the path to happiness. Everyone who is encouraged thereby, to take up flower culture, helps make his community more beautiful, and make it a better home town.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT

Considerable decrease in the estimates of practically all crops in Kentucky, compared to July estimates, is the feature of the monthly crop report issued by the U. S. Bureau of Markets & Crop Estimates in co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna. Tobacco shows a reduction from July 1 estimates because of the drought, and a great reduction from 1920 because of decreased acreage besides the drought this season. However, the loss is much of the tobacco in the state that can yet make a normal yield if given favorable weather, so that the estimate of tobacco production might have to be changed considerably, later in the season. The United States total tobacco crop is considerably later, in the season. The U. S. total tobacco crop is considerably smaller than last year, being estimated now at 889,000,000 lbs., compared to 1,508,000,000 lbs., total United States production last year.

Probable corn production in Kentucky is estimated at 77,059,000 bus. compared to a July 1 estimate of 92,791,000 bushels, and a crop last year of 100,650,000 bushels; wheat this month is estimated at 6,030,000 bushels, compared to a July 1 estimate of 6,765,000 bushels, and a production last year of 5,610,000 bushels; potatoes 3,465,000 bushels, compared to prospects July 1 for 4,481,000 bushels, and a crop last year of 6,435,000 bushels; oats 6,375,000 bushels, compared to prospects July 1 for 6,665,000 bushels, and a crop last year of 8,225,000 bushels, and tobacco 251,790,000 lbs., compared to a July 1 estimate of 288,288,000 lbs., and last year's production of 467,500,000 lbs. This estimate on tobacco may be considerably changed later in the season, depending on favorable or unfavorable weather.

Dr. C. B. Kobert, director of the State Board of Health's Bureau of Trachoma, who has been holding clinics and making sanitary surveys in several counties in the south and southeastern part of Kentucky, has been detailed by Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, to stay in Wayne county for the present and to assist Dr. J. F. Young, County Health Officer, in fighting an epidemic of typhoid fever that has broken out there, it was announced today.

The epidemic in Wayne is due, Dr. McCormack said, to the protracted drought, which diminished the quantity of water available in the usual sources which has increased the number of bacteria per cubic centimeter. Dr. Kobert's work there will be done mainly in connection with educating the people of the county to boil all the water they use for drinking purposes, and in locating and closing down nuisances from which flies can carry germs to food.

Some people's gardens did not come up because the gardeners failed to soak their seeds, while others apparently needed to soak their heads.

Did you ever stop to consider that those who differ with you upon any question, have as much right to their opinion as you have to yours? This is an indisputable fact, then why become angry with your neighbor simply because he can not see questions in the same light that you see them?

Such narrow mindedness is inexcusable, to say the least.

Base Ball

Before a crowd of from 1,000 to 1500 people that lined the banks of Bromley ball park, Taylorsport defeated Bromley last Sunday afternoon in a well played game by a score of 2 to 1. Taylorsport made the first run in the third inning, and there was nothing more in the run getting until the fifth inning, when Bromley put a run across home plate, making the score one to one. The game went along smoothly with neither team scoring until the ninth inning when Harley Sprague, the tall lanky first baseman for the Taylorsport club came to the bat, and with a mighty swing at the first ball he missed it, and the umpire called strike one, the next he fouled, which made strike two, and the next and third strike he knocked out of the park, making a home run which finished the game in run getting for both teams. Sandford let the next three Bromley batters down "easy" and thus the players of Taylorsport ball that has been played by Northern Kentucky this season came to a close. Sandford and Sims both hit 1 good game, as well as the players on both teams. Sandford struck out 10 men and Sims 14. Hits—off Sims 4, off Sandford 8. This game completed the series between the two teams—Taylorsport taking two out of three. It is hoped that another series can be arranged between the two teams later this season. Zimmer, manager of Taylorsport team is well pleased with the showing his team is making this season, and says it takes a good team to defeat them.

Hebron will play the Ludlow K. C.'s next Saturday afternoon at Hebron. Come out and see the game.

CORROSIVE SUBLIMATE STOPS SPUD SEED ROT

By treating their seed potatoes with corrosive sublimate before placing them in cold storage, a number of Jefferson county farmers have almost completely controlled the rotting of seed in the bins, according to reports by J. S. Gardner, field agent in vegetable gardening from the College of Agriculture. That the treatment is effective is shown by the fact that a number of growers who did not treat their tubers complained of a large amount of rot when they removed them from storage preparatory to planting the 2nd crop. Seed treated with corrosive sublimate solution to control scab is required in the regulations prepared for the guidance of the Jefferson County Certified Potato Seed Growers' Association which was organized in June under the direction of the College extension division.

Further proof of the value of the seed treatment is shown by the fact that a number of growers who planted treated seed for their first crop find the percentage of scabby potatoes to be from 15 to 40 per cent, instead of the customary 50 to 100 per cent. Following the good results obtained by the demonstrators in treating their seed, a number of farmers are expected to adopt the method, Mr. Gardner stated.

HOME WEDDING.

Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 p. m., the parlor of Mrs. C. D. Stephens was beautifully decorated while Miss Helen Tanner played the wedding march. Miss Mabel Tanner and Dr. Robert Stephens marched in followed by Miss Isabella Stephens and Cecil Tanner, of whose Rev. G. A. Royer, pastor of Hopeful church joined in holy wedlock with a beautiful ceremony of which the wedding ring was included.

The bride wore a beautiful blue beaded coat suit with a corsage bouquet of delicate pink roses and fern. The bridesmaid a beautiful blue silk trimmed in gold with a corsage bouquet of red roses and ferns. Immediately after the ceremony the wedding party and guests were taken to the dining room where a sumptuous dinner was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tanner and sons Harry and Clifford, Mrs. Royer and daughter Mabel, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Glacken and daughter Sarah Elizabeth, Mr. Elmer Carpenter, Dr. E. L. Glacken, Miss Marie Robinson, Mr. Wilford Mitchell and Miss Christine Renaker, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Finnell son and daughter, Mr. Evan Hance, Mrs. A. B. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stephens son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Glacken son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Carpenter and daughters. All left wishing the young couple many happy congratulations.

THE FOOT PRINTS OF TIME

What does life mean to me? everything. I own my home and make my living. I have a woman for a helpmeet. She is my wife legally and otherwise. We have read history, ancient and modern. During the last half century we have watched the footprints of time. We have lived to see the passing of the old turnpike, and building of the concrete road. Like a great sea-serpent winding its way through our town with tentacles reaching to all parts of the county, yes, neighbor we are calling to you as the saying goes, on a beautiful knoll with its green-robed valleys, born a century ago, it has grown to be the most picturesque town with its schools and bank, its stores and factory, its mansions and vine-clad cottages, its electric lights with its concrete streets and paved walks. Vast changes are occurring in our town. It will live in history as the persistence. As I look back over the past and then to the present age, and see the foot-prints of time, I suddenly exclaim where am I.

August 19, 1921.

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, Creator of all beings, in His infinite wisdom to call from our midst our beloved fellow teacher, Rowena Carpenter, who departed this life July 16th, 1921.

Therefore be it resolved, That the teachers of Boone county have lost a true and faithful friend, and that Boone county has lost an efficient and loyal teacher, one who was universally loved for her genial disposition and kindness to those with whom she came in contact.

Be it further resolved, That we extend to her family our sympathy and commend them to Him who doeth all things well.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be filed in the minutes of this institute, a copy be sent her family and a copy sent to the Boone County Recorder and the Boone County Advertiser for publication.

BACK IN "HOOSIERDOM"

Alexandria, Ind.
August 18, 1921.Editor Recorder,
Dear Sir:

I am back in Indiana again where thousand dollar land, Irish potatoes and work seem scarcer than "hen's-teeth" I say! While in Union, Ky., I had a lot of reasons to be glad I was living and able to enjoy the "Torrid Heat" that so many folks did not enjoy. I enjoyed painting for Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Senour, James Bristow and wife, although they thought that it was too hot to paint. Their kind and hospitable treatment was enjoyed also. I was glad to be with Mr. and Mrs. Arch Rouse who hold forth on Dr. Senour's farm west of town. They had 15 cows to milk and two miles of pipe to build but, so carefully after the painters comfort all the same. I enjoyed visiting the homes of Mrs. Sallie Burket and Mrs. Anderson and Lane who are the pioneer citizens of Union, and do not seem old if their ages do total nigh on to 250 years. Sitting in the stores, blacksmith shops and garages—all operated by a bunch of fine fellows, as you meet anywhere, was a pleasure because a fellow could chat with Fritz, I. C. Presser, Miss Bristow, Chas. Baker, "Spikes Spooney" and the Lord knows how many more good men. Union without "Marse Lynn, Prof. Vogelbe, Tom Judge and Dr. Crouch would be mighty quiet along chatting lines. Talk about glad times Mr. Ed, but a visit with J. W. Conner and family at Erlanger, one evening was a real one. After supper Burl and Reuben took me for a tour of inspection over Erlanger. We called on Lyman Rice and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dennoy and finally started for home at 11:00 p. m., after hearing Col. John R. Whitson tell exactly how the B. C. primary was going to turn out, &c., and &c. A call at the home of our old friend Geo. Fullilove was not so pleasant for Geo. had been seriously sick for 10 weeks. He is a game old scout and laughed and joked all the same. Yes Sir! Ask "Fabe Conner he will tell you. Having known and lived in Florence or "Stringtown on the Pike" when Heck was a pup and before Prof. Lloyd was born—for all I know, it was good to stop there and find Carl Swin and his happy and busy, also find a building boom in progress and a man with ears so thin that the wind made 'em wobble like the "fib sail" on a three mast schooner. Also saw a man who said he could cut a 1 porter house steak from the neck of a beef—me from Mr. Ezra Tanner don't believe it either. When Col. Wash Grant and Tommie the Irish comedian were on deck Florence was a great town. Sam Ilick expects me to paint his house this fall and has bought $45 worth of frying chickens for the occasion so here is hoping I get back in time to help eat 'em. Some day Geo. Stephenson will be fishing but it will be when Tom Burkitt runs for office or John Garrison gets the grumps or Harry Cromwell gets fatter than John W. PHILIP.

GREEN CROP FEED WILL HELP MILK PRODUCTION.

In spite of the fact that recent rains have broken the general drought in Kentucky, dairy cows in many parts of the State will suffer for want of green feed before dried-up pastures can make a new growth, according to dairy specialists. For this reason it becomes necessary for dairymen to use other means of supplying the green feed until pastures are recovered. Cows that are allowed to go almost dry during the summer from lack of such feed are not apt to come back and produce a large flow of milk during the remainder of their lactation period, the specialists say. Green corn is being fed successfully by a number of Kentucky farmers to supply the wants of their dairy animals.

One method of feeding green corn is to chop up the stalks with a cutting box and sprinkle it with a gallon of water to which a tablespoonful of molasses and a big pinch of salt has been added. The mass should be shoveled over several times and added to four to five pounds of corn meal and two pounds of cottonseed meal. This mixture is fed at the rate of a pound of dry feed for every four pounds of milk which the cows are producing. Farmers who have used this say that it is one of the best feeds for keeping up milk production.

In some cases it will be advisable to cut good corn for the cows until pastures are green again, according to J. J. Hooper, head of the dairy department of the College of Agriculture, who states that an acre of ripening corn is doubled in value if fed to dairy cows when pastures are short. Cow peas also make a good silage for the cows.

Hon. J. Campbell Cantrill will address the tobacco growers of Boone county in Burlington September 20, 1921. Mr. Cantrill is the Congressman from the Seventh District and one of the great tobacco growers in the State. The so-called "tax" according to Mr. Cantrill is the only salvation for the tobacco grower. He is one of the best men in the business and will speak with or without his

WINTER CROPS WOULD SAVE MUCH NITROGEN.

Approximately $20,000,000 worth of nitrogen would be saved in Kentucky in one season by planting cover crops on all land which is in need of them providing one-half as much of this element is saved from leaching by the crops as was saved on New York experiment fields, according to estimates made by R. E. Stephenson, crops field agent from the College of Agriculture who is co-operating with land owners in more than 50 counties of the State in a cover-crop campaign. This amount of nitrogen is enough to produce more than 40,000,000 bushels of corn next year.

In addition to the nitrogen which the cover crops would save they would be of further benefit in that they would prevent soil erosion, add organic matter to the soil, make plant food more available and provide winter pasture. Mr. Stephenson bases his estimates on the fact that Kentucky has about 5,000,000 acres of land under cultivation in regular crops, 3,000,000 acres of which will be in need of a winter crop to protect them during the season.

EX-SERVICE MEN.

RIGHT LOCATION OF THE HOG LOT IMPORTANT MEASURE IN FIGHT AGAINST HOG CHOLERA.

When hog cholera sweeps through a neighborhood, causing the death of hundreds of animals, a simple precaution—proper location of the hog lot, may be the means of preventing infection. Where not to have the hog lot is pointed out, and suggestions on the control and eradication of this disease are given in a leaflet published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Hog lots should be located away from streams and highways. Free range, streams, irrigation, canals, etc., help in the spread of cholera outbreaks. Don't visit neighbors' hog lots or allow neighbors to visit yours if they have sick hogs. Infection may be carried by teams and wagons from highways; don't drive into hog lots. Isolate for at least two weeks all new stock hogs and those just returned from exhibitions and sales. Don't borrow or lend hogs for breeding purposes if cholera is in the community.

Burn or Bury Animals That Die.

Burn to ashes or bury 4 feet deep all animals that die on the farm and the unused internal organs of slaughtered animals, since they attract dogs which may carry infection. If cholera appears in the neighborhood, confine your dog and encourage others to do likewise. Immunize herds located dangerously near infected centers. Careful attention to the feeding and handling of the herd after immunization is an important matter. Mange, lice, and worms lower the vitality of hogs and render them more susceptible to disease.

If cholera appears in the herd, post warning notices so your neighbors will know about it, suggests the department. Have all susceptible hogs immunized at once by some one with special training and experience, preferably a competent veterinarian. Insist that the temperature of all hogs be taken at time of treatment and an increased dose of serum given to those showing a temperature of 104 F or over. Confine all treated hogs to limited, clean quarters; keep on light, restricted diet for at least two weeks, and give plenty of pure drinking water. Anthrax, however, serum is not a cure, but when used as soon as cholera appears in a herd it seems to have a favorable effect on some animals in the very early stage of the disease. Don't rely on serum to cure sick hogs; it is primarily a preventive.

If the disease comes to your farm and runs its course, disinfect thoroughly afterwards all places where sick hogs have been. First, remove all infected manure and spread on the fields inaccessible to hogs. Burn all litter, rubbish and old troughs from infected pens and lots. Turn over portable hog houses, exposing the interior to sunlight. Thoroughly clean pens and buildings in which sick hogs have been kept, and disinfect by spraying with compound cresol solution, 1 part to 30 part of soft water. In summer, pastures and lots are usually made safe within three weeks by the action of sunlight. Fill, drain, or fence off mud wallows. Disinfect and board up all runs underneath buildings. Destroy hogs that don't fully recover; they may carry cholera infection.

CHANGE IN THE OFFICIAL STANDARDS FOR SHELLED CORN

Announcement of a change in the official grain standards of the United States for shelled corn was made recently at the United States Department of Agriculture. Under an order signed by Secretary Wallace, effective October 3, 1921, the size of the perforations in the screens used for determining foreign material and cracked corn is fixed at twelve sixty-fourths of an inch instead of fourteen sixty-fourths of an inch as at present.

Action was taken after a thorough investigation of numerous complaints made to the department by merchandisers of shelled corn that the larger holes permitted a considerable percentage of small whole kernels and fair-sized pieces of broken kernels of corn, which are entirely suitable for milling and feeding purposes, to pass through the sieve and be classified as foreign material and cracked corn. The result was a lowering of grade. This was especially true of kiln-dried corn, which fractures easily in handling. Officials believe that the smaller perforation will overcome these objections and meet the approval of the trade.

The date set for the change to become effective is before the bulk of the next corn-crop starts to move on its way to the markets.

Get ready to attend the fair at Florence next week. You will meet many of your friends there that you haven't seen since the last fair.

Some folks who in recent months have attempted to fix their own pay, have had plenty of leisure this year in which to decide how much they are worth.

Mrs. Harding is reported to dress with taste and discretion. Many women succeed in the first named respect, but not so much so in the last named quality.

Motorists can't make much speed over rough roads, but if they could cut the distance they are jolted up in the air, it would make even rougher.

FLOWERS AND HOMES.

The United States department of agriculture recently issued a very attractive booklet called "Growing annual flowering plants." It makes an old fashioned gardener's mouth water to look at it. He wishes he could have all these lovely old stand-bys.

There are critical people who will say it is no business of the government to spend the taxpayers' money issuing booklets about flowers. Some will regard it as a little incongruous that this book is issued as a "farmer's bulletin." They will remark that flowers never helped a farmer raise salable food products.

And yet there is a connection between flowers and economic prosperity. A town that had abundant flower gardens, would be far more attractive than others. Real estate would be worth more in it. It would have a wider reputation for culture and progressiveness.

If the farmers that receive this bulletin are thereby incited to plant flowers, the result must be to make wonderful improvements in rural neighborhoods. Beautiful homes attach the people to the soil. Many a man who came from an old fashioned home, will never forget the charm of the hollyhocks and larkspur and geraniums and syringa that used to surround him. These forever make a picture of poetic romance in his soul. The charm of that picture has led some to give up a cramped little niche in some big city, and go into a place like Boone county where he could raise and enjoy flowers.

So this publication is not merely a picture book which government officials have got out to fill up spare time. The pretty gateway which appears on the cover, lined with words of creeping and flowering plants suggests how many people can find the path to happiness. Everyone who is encouraged thereby, to take up flower culture, helps make his community more beautiful, and make it a better home town.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT

Considerable decrease in the estimates of practically all crops in Kentucky, compared to July estimates, is the feature of the monthly crop report issued by the U. S. Bureau of Markets & Crop Estimates in co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna. Tobacco shows a reduction from July 1 estimates because of the drought, and a great reduction from 1920 because of decreased acreage besides the drought this season. However, there is much of the tobacco in this state that can yet make a normal yield if given favorable weather, so that the estimate of tobacco production might have to be changed considerably, later in the season. The United States total tobacco crop is considerably larger, in the season. The U. S. total tobacco crop is considerably smaller than last year, being estimated now at 889,000,000 lbs., compared to 1,508,000,000 lbs., total United States production last year.

Probable corn production in Kentucky is estimated at 77,059,000 bus. compared to a July 1 estimate of 92,791,000 bushels, and a crop last year of 100,650,000 bushels. Wheat this month is estimated at 6,030,000 bushels, compared to a July 1 estimate of 6,765,000 bushels, and a production last year of 5,610,000 bushels; potatoes 3,465,000 bushels, compared to prospects July 1 for 4,481,000 bushels, and a crop last year of 6,435,000 bushels; oats 6,375,000 bushels, compared to prospects July 1 for 6,565,000 bushels, and a crop last year of 8,225,000 bushels, and tobacco 251,790,000 lbs., compared to a July 1 estimate of 288,288,000 lbs., and last year's production of 467,500,000 lbs. This estimate on tobacco may be considerably changed later in the season, depending on favorable or unfavorable weather.

Dr. C. B. Kobert, director of the State Board of Health's Bureau of Trachoma, who has been holding clinics and making sanitary surveys in several counties in the south and southeastern part of Kentucky, has been detailed by Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, to stay in Wayne county for the present and to assist Dr. J. F. Young, County Health Officer, in fighting an epidemic of typhoid fever, that has broken out there, it was announced today.

The epidemic in Wayne is due, Dr. McCormack said, to the protracted drought, which diminished the quantity of water available in the usual sources which has increased the number of bacteria per cubic centimeter. Dr. Kobert's work there will be done mainly in connection with educating the people of the county to boil all the water they use for drinking purposes, and in beating and closing down nuisances from which flies can carry germs to food.

Some people's gardens did not come up because the gardeners failed to soak their seeds, while others apparently needed to soak their seeds.

Did you ever stop to consider that those who differ with you upon any question, have as much right to their opinion as you have to yours? This is an indisputable fact, then why become angry with your neighbor simply because he can not see questions in the same light that you see them?

Such narrow mindedness is inexcusable, to say the least.

Base Ball

Before a crowd of from 1,000 to 1500 people that lined the banks of Bromley ball park, Taylorsport defeated Bromley last Sunday afternoon in a well played game by a score of 2 to 1. Taylorsport made the first run in the third inning, and there was nothing more doing in the run getting until the fifth inning, when Bromley put a run across home plate, making the score one to one. The game went along smoothly with neither team scoring until the ninth inning when Harley Sprague, the tall lanky first baseman for the Taylorsport club came to the bat, and with a mighty swing at the first ball he missed it, and the umpire called strike one, the next he fouled, which made strike two, and the next and third strike he knocked out of the park, making a home run which finished the game in run getting for both teams. Sandford let the next three Bromley batters down "easy" and thus the best played game of ball that has been played in Northern Kentucky this season came to a close. Sprague and Sims both put 10 good games as well as the players on both teams. Sandford struck out 10 men and Sims 14. Hits—off Sims 4, off Sandford 8. This game completed the series between the two teams—Taylorsport taking two out of three. It is hoped that another series can be arranged between the two teams later this season. Zimmer, manager of Taylorsport team is well pleased with the showing his team is making this season, and says it takes a good team to defeat them.

Hebron will play the Ludlow K. C.'s next Saturday afternoon at Hebron. Come out and see the game.

CORROSIVE SUBLIMATE STOPS SPUD SEED ROT

By treating their seed potatoes with corrosive sublimate before placing them in cold storage, a number of Jefferson county farmers have almost completely controlled the rotting of seed in the bins, according to reports by J. S. Gardner, field agent in vegetable gardening from the College of Agriculture. That the treatment is effective is shown by the fact that a number of growers who did not treat their tubers complained of a large amount of rot when they removed them from storage preparatory to planting the 2nd crop. Seed treated with corrosive sublimate solution to control scab is required in the regulations prepared for the certified potato seed growers' Association which was organized in June under the direction of the College extension division.

Further proof of the value of the seed treatment is shown by the fact that a number of growers who planted treated seed for their first crop find the percentage of scabby potatoes to be from 15 to 40 per cent instead of the customary 50 to 100 per cent. Following the good results obtained by the demonstrators in treating their seed, a number of farmers are expected to adopt the method, Mr. Gardner stated.

"I smiled—and he shot me"

AFTER MONTHS and months. MY WIFE persuaded me. TO HAVE it done. SO I went around. TO THE photographer. AND GOT mugged. WHEN THE pictures came. I SHOWED them to a gang. OF AMATEUR critics. AND PROFESSIONAL crabs. DISCUSSED AS USUAL. WHO FAVORED ME. WITH SUCH remarks. "DOESN'T HE look natural?" "HAS IT got a soul?" "A GREAT success." AND THAT was all. MADE ME see. SO WHEN I saw wife. ACCORD HER love. I TRIED again.

THIS TIME they were great. FOR HERE'S what happened. THE PHOTOGRAPHER said. "LOOK THIS way, please." AND HE pushed the button. AND NO one could help. BUT LOOK pleasant. FOR WHAT he held up. WAS A nice full pack. OF THE cigarettes. THAT SATISFY.

CONSTANCE.

Mr. and Mrs. Milner were Sunday guests of their daughter in Newport. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Popham spent Sunday the guests of his brother, Mr. John Popham and family. Bro. Omer preached a very interesting sermon to a large and attentive audience Sunday night. Constance was well represented at the ball game in Bromley Sunday. Taylorsport won the game 2 to 1. The meeting conducted by Bro. Carter closed Friday night. He had large audiences and attention all during the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Riggs entertained Mr. and Mrs. Mason Riggs, of Ludlow, and Mrs. Libbie Kendall, of Centralia, Ill., the end of the week.

FLICKERTOWN.

Mrs. Emma Hensley is on the sick list this week. We are glad to report that Leslie Sebree is improving. Wilbur Snyder spent last Sunday with his friend Richard Hensley. Geo. Shinkle wife and son attended church at Bullittsville, Sunday. Frank Voshell and family spent Sunday with relatives in Indiana. J. W. White and wife spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Pearl Lay. Quite a few from this neighborhood attended the Lawrenceburg fair. Miss Mildred Shinkle spent Saturday night and Sunday with her cousin Miss Alberta Shinkle. Mrs. Fannie Gaines and son, Wm. Hensley and wife attended church at Petersburg Sunday night. Mrs. James Burns spent Friday night and Saturday with her daughter, Mrs. Beulah Beecham. Miss Alice White spent Saturday night and Sunday with her aunt, Mrs. Pearl Lay, of Lawrenceburg, Ind. Mrs. James Bruce and family, Mr. Louis Sullivan and family visited Mr. Millard Sullivan and wife, Sunday.

BIG BONE.

Mrs. Lizzie Wood Miller is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Sam Denham, of Chicago. Hugh Vest wife and children of Verona, were guests of Douglas Moore and family, Sunday. Nace Conley and son Harold arrived here Sunday from Detroit, Michigan. The family has been here a couple of weeks. Charles Thompson and family and W. L. H. Baker and family, of Covington, were guests of Chas. Melvin and family, Sunday. A large crowd attended the picnic Saturday. Everything went off very smoothly. Plenty to eat, good speaking and excellent music. Mr. W. T. Stewart, Miss Katie Stewart and Miss Grace Rankin, of Detroit, Indiana, visited relatives at this place Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Fred Huff passed away on the 17th. She had been sick for some time but the family did not think her condition was serious. She passed away at the home of her father's Mr. Lute Abdon. She leaves a husband, two children, father, mother four sisters and five brothers. Those little ones are bereft of a mother's love and care, but are being tenderly cared for by loving hands. The pall-bearers were her five brothers and a brother-in-law. The flower girls were her four sisters. The funeral discourse was preached at Big Bone Baptist church by Rev. Miller.

Personal Mentions.

Mrs. McKenzie of San Antonio, Texas, is visiting J. C. Gordon and family. Mr. W. E. Carroll wife and son, of Louisville, spent the week-end, with Mrs. Fannie Cropper. Mrs. J. E. Walton spent the day Monday very pleasantly with her sister Mrs. Hubert White. Miss Lucille Rucker of near Constance, spent a few days last week the guest of Miss Eunie Willis. Miss Mary A. Thompson returned home, last Saturday, from a month's stay with friends at South Norwood, Ohio. Mrs. Irene Kirkpatrick returned home Sunday from a pleasant visit of two weeks with relatives in Cincinnati. A. B. Renaker wife and daughter are in Louisville this week attending the meeting of the Ky. Bankers Association. Judge Sidney Gaines left, Sunday, for Carrollton, where he began a two week's session of the Carroll Circuit Court Monday morning. Bert Smith and family, of Newport, are visiting relatives in Boone county. Bert has a good position with the postoffice in that city. Mr. E. A. Martin, of the Idlewild neighborhood, attended the Institute last Friday, and while in town made the Recorder office a pleasant call. Vernon White and family and Edgar Smith and family, of Milan, Indiana, spent Sunday with Mrs. Jas. Cloud and family, out on the Bellevue pike. Mrs. Carrie P. Riddell and Mrs. L. P. Pace of McMinnville, Tenn., returned to Burlington Monday after spending three weeks in Mt. Clemens, Michigan. Miss Mary Hedges of Covington, spent several days last week with F. H. Rouse and wife. Miss Hedges has a position with the John R. Coppin Co. in Covington. Walter Brown who is in the Navy being stationed at Hampton Rhodes, Va., is at home visiting his mother, Mrs. Emma Brown. Mr. Brown is in the Aviation Corps. Kirby Foster and daughter and her husband, of Jacksonville, Fla., spent several days the past week with relatives and friends in and near Burlington. They motored through. John J. Maurer and wife, of Bellevue, Thomas Rice and family, C. E. Easton and family, and J. J. Duncan and wife visited the Zoological gardens at Cincinnati, last Sunday. Rev. Geo. N. Smith has accepted a call to the First Baptist church at Coburn, Virginia, and left Wednesday to take up his duties there. The Recorder wishes him success in his new field. Mrs. E. E. Kelly returned home last Sunday evening after a three week's stay at a Cincinnati hospital, where she was operated upon for appendicitis. Her many friends will be glad to hear that she is improving nicely. Mrs. A. L. Furnish and two children, Dorothy Nell and Harvey Winn, who have been the guests of her mother, Mrs. Laura Martin, and other relatives, for the past two months, left, Tuesday for their home at Golden Pond, Trigg county. E. C. Stephens, Jr., breeder of Duroc Jersey Hogs, of near Rabbit Hash, passed through Burlington last Friday morning, enroute to the Cincinnati market, with a truck load of nice lot of porkers as one would care to look at. These were the culls from his herd. Mr. Stephens is one of the county's hustling, progressive young farmers and the herd of swine he is building up is a credit to the county. Dr. R. C. Stephens formerly of Florence neighborhood, but now residing at Pikeville, Tennessee, was in Burlington, Monday on business, and while in town called at this office and left $1.50 to boost his subscription up another year, so as to keep posted with his "Old Ky. Home." The Doctor resided at Spring City, Tenn., for some time, but has moved to Pikeville, where he has a good practice and seems to be enjoying prosperity and good health.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

MANY SOILS NEED PHOSPHATE SUPPLY.

The majority of Kentucky soils outside of the blue grass section are much in need of phosphate fertilizers, according to soils specialists who have made a study of the subject. The heavy clay soils of the State in particular are in a condition to respond to phosphate treatments as are also many of the loam soils. Phosphates with clover and manure to furnish nitrogen and organic matter are the principal elements of the State, the specialists say. Poor farming, soil erosion and the sale of crops off the farm has resulted in many of the soils being depleted of their phosphorus, according to members of the soils crops department of the College of Agriculture. Because of the source from which they were derived, many of the soils which are now in need of phosphorus have always contained a small amount of it.

What has become of the old-fashioned farmer that use to cure his bacon in the old-fashioned way? It is a hard matter to secure a good piece of meat with which to cook vegetables.

Most of the people who advocate boxing on the ground that it develops manliness, proceed to acquire that quality by sitting in an open chair and watching the bruisers pound each other.

The aliens are unquestionably getting Americanized, as the fellows who in the old country worked from dawn to dark, are now striking for an eight hour day and five day week.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

Madisonville, Ky.—Maurice K. Gordon, State Commander of the American Legion, in a statement addressed to the Officers of Kentucky Posts calls attention to the fact that the only way for the program of the Legion and the ex-servicemen to go forward is for the Legionnaires and ex-servicemen to unite and push.

"Ben Franklin told Paul Jones," the Commander's statement runs, "way back in Revolutionary times, 'If you want a thing done, go and do it; if not send.' If the ex-soldiers and ex-sailors of Kentucky want anything done, the same wise saying goes for their present case. If they want the Legion to be heard on Adjusted Compensation, disabled men's relief, Americanism, immigration, the protection of our government from seditionists, military policy or other activity of the American Legion, they must come to Lexington to the Convention Sept. 1. The ones who attend will be the ones who will make up the mind and will of the Legion in Kentucky. If you are not there or represented, it will make no difference what you think or believe about what the Legion is doing or will or should do, and you will have no right to grumble if your ideas are not followed. See to it that your Post and community is represented by a delegate—delegates who will attend, or better, come yourself."

Lexington, Ky.—Owing to arrangements having been perfected for a Great Reunion of the "Old First Kentucky" in Lexington on the 1st and 2nd of September, during the State Convention of the American Legion, General Roger D. Williams, who formerly commanded the Old First has postponed a pre-arranged trip to China which the General had planned some weeks in advance for the purpose of visiting his son Capt. Roger D. Williams, Jr., U. S. A., stationed at Pekin, China, in order to be present at the reunion in Lexington.

Louisville.—At the annual meeting of the Jefferson Post No. 15, in Louisville, twenty delegates and alternates were elected to represent the post at the Third State Convention in Lexington, September 1st and 2nd. The Louisville Post reiterated its stand in favor of the National Adjusted Compensation and instructed its delegates accordingly. The post expects its base ball team to be one of the two championship district teams to contend for the State Championship on the second day of the convention on Stoll Field and a great representation of the post will be on hand to root for the local team.

DEVELOPING A TRADE CENTER.

If you get a group of energetic merchants working to build up trade in a town, that town is almost sure to advance. It is such a convenience to have good stores in your home city, that people consider it in choosing their place of residence. Many towns that lack desirable attractions have yet been able to grow because they had such good stores.

People would say that there were features about these communities that they did not like. But the good enterprising stores helped them to save on the cost of living, and it was a satisfaction to get dependable and attractive merchandise and secure the latest home improvements at moderate cost.

Such a town keeps drawing business from a wide distance, which means the town grows. Before long real estate becomes more valuable, anyone that owns a house or a business is getting a bigger income, and employers of labor can pay better wages as a result of the general prosperity. Everybody benefits.

Now the beginning of all that expansion was very frequently found simply in the resolution of the merchants to give that community a group of thoroughly up to date stores. But the merchants can not do this alone. They must have the help of all the home folks and the people who live in the nearby country and who make a living by selling produce in the market town, must also take hold and help.

The help that is needed is very simple. It costs nothing, in fact it is profitable as it goes along. All that is called for is simply to support your own home stores, and help your merchants in their effort to make your town a bigger trading center and to spread its prosperity throughout the community. Your trade either helps build up your town or it helps build up other and distant places that do not care a whoop about your prosperity. Which shall it be?

GET IT OUT.

Suspend all business. Quit buying and selling! Quit advertising! Quit eating! Let's give ourselves up, heart and soul, to an orgy of gloom. Let's howl, and howl, and howl! Let's curse the country, business, our town, our neighbors and each other. Let's get it all out of our systems and then GO TO WORK!

HAY FROM SOYBEANS IS GOOD STOCK FEED

Soybean hay when cut at the right stage of growth and properly cured makes an excellent feed and one that is relished by all farm animals. As compared with hay from other leguminous crops soybean hay is superior to any and can be used to reduce the amount of high priced concentrates which it is necessary to purchase in order to balance the ration fed farm stock.

The beans may be cut for hay and successfully cured at any stage of growth from the first bloom to the time of falling leaves, according to Ralph Kenney, crops field agent from the College of Agriculture. Hay from early-cut beans is small in quantity but is more digestible than that from beans cut at a later stage. The greatest yield of digestible feed is obtained by cutting the crop when the lower pods are well filled and plump but not ripe. Condition of the leaves at this stage will vary according to what the weather conditions have been during the growing season. In a season of drouth many of the bottom leaves will have turned yellow and dropped by the time this stage is reached.

Soybean hay requires from two to five days to cure provided no rain falls after it is cut. Curing should be done in the windrow or cock since curing in the swath is apt to result in the loss of many of the leaves. Many farmers are finding it profitable to bale soybean hay, according to Mr. Kenney. Straw from the seed crops is generally baled in seed-producing sections of Kentucky and makes a satisfactory feed as average clover hay.

THE "AMERICA FIRST" IDEA.

During the last election campaign Republican orators shouted very loud that they were for "America first." The intimation was conveyed by many of them that the Democrats were not for "America first," but were unpatriotic and just as interested in the progress of other countries as in their own.

There was an insufferable self conceit in this that was hard to bear even in the heat of a campaign. If the soldiers who were offering their lives in sacrifice had all voted party preferences, just as many of them would have voted Democratic as Republican. No party has a monopoly of patriotism. To claim it shows an intolerance that any public man should be ashamed of.

The Democrats were for America first, in all good ways, just as much as any Republican. Any man's first duty is to his own family rather than to the outside world, so any man's first duty is to his country rather than to any other countries.

But the man who considers the desires and claims and needs of his own family exclusively, and who pays little attention to the rights and claims of the outside world, is commonly pronounced a hog, and no one wants to have anything to do with him. The Democrats had the broad and intelligent feeling that America has certain duties to perform as a member of the family of nations, and that if we sulk and shirk and refuse to perform them, we shall become known as the hog of nations, and all mankind will shun and avoid us.

In their intense opposition to the League of Nations, many Republican politicians have seemed willing to let the rest of the world go to the devil. That is not the way to make the friends that we need. Our business prosperity depends on developing export trade, and that is dependent on having the good will of other countries. This policy is short sighted from the business point of view, as well as that of enlightened intelligence.

THE CO-OPERATIVE MOVEMENT

The movement for handling farm products through co-operative marketing associations is making rapid progress. Yet it is so enormous a project and one requiring so much capital, for complete organization, that it is not surprising that it will take years to work it out.

It is a movement that has had to encounter obstacles, and at the start has been beset by prejudices. These are illustrated by the experience of certain tobacco growers in a leading center for that staple, in their efforts to organize such an association. The growers of that section have suffered much because of unreasonably low prices, and the business had become very unprofitable. At first the co-operative project aroused much enthusiasm.

When it appeared that all the crops of the various growers would have to be delivered over to a central warehouse, and there graded by an expert employed by the proposed association, the enthusiasm of the growers began to cool off. This expert would have to be paid an amount that looked large to these farmers. It was not very much for each member, but it was more than most of the farmers were then getting. They could not stand it to see anyone making money out of them.

Then the objection was made that such an agent or expert would not be impartial in his work in sorting and grading the several crops. Individual growers feared they would not be treated as well as their neighbors. They could not be persuaded to pool their issues. Consequently they let the movement drop.

Most of the farmers of Kentucky tobacco section have got beyond these unprogressive ideas. They have learned that to put farming on a basis like other business, they must unite for common action and trust that other people are as honest as they are. It is that spirit that is revolutionizing the agricultural industry of our splendid state.

The Recorder: Aurora, Indiana

Sir:— I am sending a beautiful little poem composed by the late Walter Kelly's second daughter, Martha. As a true daughter of the dear old Blue Grass Region, I can realize her love for Kentucky and its good people.

If you care to print this I am sure your readers would appreciate quite as much as I have.

Very Respectfully,
Miss Helen Ryle.

HOME SWEET HOME

I'm going back to Carrellton To see my friends once more, My schoolmates, neighbors, classmates And visit the scene of yore.

Just back in Old Kentucky, The State where I was born, The dear old Blue Grass Region So pretty in the morn.

Where mother and father are buried Just in sight of our home, Where Brother and Sister were sheltered, But now, we have to roam.

Our dear old "Kelly Homestead, But alas! it must be sold, It was not built so stately, But to us 'twas dear as gold.

And now we are all scattered In the good Kentucky State, Our weeping too is over, And now we will meet our fate.

(By Martha Jane Kelly, July 27, 1921.)

The good looking business girls think they can get all the help they want from the office, but the boss is apt to think that the plain ones can get along with less assistance.

When you come right down to reason, what is there to "discount" tires —

THE next time a friend comes to you all excited about some wonderful tire bargain—ask him how much value he ought to get for each dollar of tire money.

It's astonishing that any car owner today should not know all the tire service he is entitled to.

Nor how to check up between the economy of par quality on one hand—and big discounts, surplus stocks, discontinued lines and retreads on the other.

For two years U. S. Tire makers have been telling the American people all about tires.

They have laid open the tire business from every angle.

They have always led the fight for better tires.

They have consistently maintained quality first standards with certain economy for the tire buyer.

They have established 92 Branches all over the country. Perfecting U. S. distribution so that you get a fresh, live tire every time you buy a U. S. Tire.

So when a man once decides on U. S. Tires he knows what he is getting in quality—service—economy.

In support of his own judgment he gets the pledged word and reputation of the largest and most successful tire concern in the world.

A sound reason for the fact that you see more U. S. Tires on more cars than ever this year.

"You get a fresh, live tire every time you buy a U. S. Tire."

POINTS FOR YOUNG
SHOWMEN TO WATCH

More than 1,550 farm boys and girls are developing pigs as their junior agricultural club projects, many of which will be shown at the Kentucky State Fair, September 12 to 17, in competition for the prizes which have been offered the junior farmers. According to specialists at the College of Agriculture, Johnny can be reasonably sure that his pig will be provided.

She was sired by a large, vigorous boar of good type.

She is the product of a stretchy sow of quality.

She is being grown and not being fattened.

She is clean when driven before the judge on show day.

Her hair has lustre obtained by putting a little raw linseed oil thinned with wood alcohol or kerosene on it.

She is trained to be driven anywhere, to stand with her feet well placed, her head down and her back well arched.

The unsightly hair is clipped off her tail and ears.

She has good pasture to furnish green feed.

TAKING A RECESS

Congress is taking a "recess" with a vast amount of unfinished business clogging the minute books of both of its branches.

Congress has not earned a "recess," and it is an outrage that one should be taken. A dozen important measures are awaiting action, and if Congress only could apply common sense to its operations one and all could be called up and acted upon within a week.

The President has strongly recommended to Congress that immediate action be taken upon the pending railroad bill. Such action should be taken, and a railroad bill has passed the House.

The Senate will pass this measure when the vote is taken, but Senator LaFollette has served notice upon the Senate that he will not agree to the taking of a vote, and, therefore, the Senate proposes to recess in deference to the Senator from Wisconsin.

We do not know where the Congressmen propose to spend their vacations, but, if they are wise, they will not go to their homes. Those that do so will find a great many people who will not accept the claim that the vacation is deserved—Louisville Post.

Electric lights in the farm home cancel the pulling power of those "bright white lights" in the cities.

The trouble with some good propositions now before Congress, is that no one wants them but the people.

All roads lead to the Florence fair this week and the officers hope to have a large crowd present each day.

CROP PROSPECTS BRIGHTEN.

Strong Wind and Heavy Rain Visit Most Sections of Central Kentucky Saturday Afternoon, and Serious Damage Results in Some Sections.

Corn and Tobacco are Blown Down By Storm in Fayette County

Late Potatoes Promise to be Bumper Crop This Year.

Abundant rains have fallen in most sections of the Blue Grass during the last few weeks, and crops have been growing at a great rate and steadily improving. The tobacco crop especially has been benefited by the frequent showers and is growing larger every day. Much of the tobacco was almost ready to cut, but the rains have caused it to become green again, and now the cutting will have to be delayed for several days.

Late corn has been improving steadily lately and prospects are now for a fairly good yield. Pastures are better than for many weeks and are steadily improving. Late potatoes promise to be a fine crop.

A strong wind swept over most sections of the Blue Grass Saturday afternoon. Corn and tobacco were injured to some extent in practically every county in the Blue Grass.

GUNPOWDER

Miss Rosa Barlow is ill. R. E. Tanner and wife and N. A. Zimmerman and family, visited Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Hume in Burlington, last Sunday.

Medames Addie Blankenbaker, Leila Allen and Florence Floyd, spent last Saturday in Hebron and were guests of Mrs. J. C. Hankins and daughter, Mrs. Chas. Riley.

The meetings at Ebenezer closed last Sunday evening. The services were attended by large crowds every evening, and considerable interest was manifested. The good seed sown will probably bring forth an abundant harvest in the future. There were two additions.

Rev. Ezra Keller, of Hillsboro, Ill., occupied the pulpit at Hopeful last Sunday, and delivered quite an interesting discourse to a large and attentive audience. Dr. Keller and wife spent about a week with friends and relatives in the vicinity of Florence, but left last Monday for his field of labor at Hillsboro, Illinois.

The remains of Mrs. Michael Rouse who died at her home in Covington, the first of last week, were brought to Florence Wednesday and after a very impressive service conducted by Rev. Runyan, was buried in Florence cemetery. Mrs. Rouse spent the most of her life in this neighborhood and leaves a host of friends and relatives to mourn her departure.

While cutting weeds last week Clint Blankenbaker was stung by a wasp, and in a short while became seriously sick, he became unconscious and was thought to be dying for a while, but by the quick action of Dr. Senour he soon rallied and was able to be taken to the house on a sled. While he had a close call, I am glad to say he has improved sufficiently to resume business again.

At the meeting of the Joint Council at Hebron last Saturday the three churches Hopeful, Hebron and Ebenezer were well represented. J. S. Surface was elected delegate and Lloyd Aylor alternate to attend the meeting of Synod, which will convene at Toledo, Ohio, October 16th. One feature of the occasion which deserves special mention was the bountiful spread which was prepared by the ladies of the church, and was greatly enjoyed by all present. The good people of Hebron know how to entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Klasermer entertained the reunion of the Drinkenberg family. Edward Hawes and family, of Covington, attended the reunion.

Mrs. Elzira Bills-Peeno died at St. Elizabeth hospital, Covington, after an operation. She died August 20th, 1921, aged 18 years. She was born in Stringtown and lived all her life here. She united with the church of the Brethren about ten years ago and her funeral was held at the church, services conducted by Rev. John McDaniel.

After which her body was laid to rest in the family burying ground on the hill. She was a good wife and mother, quiet and unassuming in her way, and will be sorely missed by those left here. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband Samuel Peeno, three daughters, one son, her mother, one sister, one brother and a number of relatives and friends. A good woman has entered the heavenly gates.

DEPUTY SHERIFF HELD ON MOONSHINING CHARGE.

Warfield, Ky.—Martin county citizens stirred by apparent inability of officials to cope with moonshining and lawlessness, have taken matters into their own hands. Recently an unofficial posse started out to clean up the hills and valleys. For three nights they scoured the vicinity of this town and a number of moonshine stills were destroyed, and alleged owners arrested.

Among the places searched was the home of Runyan Triplett, a deputy sheriff, where 386 gallons of moonshine whiskey were found. Triplett was arrested.

TOLL OF THE AIR

Airplane and other aviation involving losses of one or two lives have been frequent since the world War and during the contest fatalities of the proportion of the wreck of the ZR-2 occasioned little comment.

The nearest parallel, in recent months, was the explosion of an exhibition dirigible over Chicago July 21, 1919. The wreckage fell through the skylight of an bank building and 13 persons were killed.

May 28, 1921, the U. S. ambulance airplane Eagle left Langley Field for Washington. A severe electrical storm swept the path of the flight, and when the plane failed to arrive at its destination a search was ordered, which revealed the fact that it had crashed to the ground at Indian Head, Md., and that all seven passengers had perished.

The Eagle was the largest airplane in the Army Aviation Service.

July 10, 1921, a large crowd gathered at Langlin Field, near Mountsville, W. Va., to witness the departure of a large bombing plane en route from Dayton, Ohio, to Washington. The plane rose but a few feet when it became unmanageable and crashing into the crowd, exploded.

Five persons were killed almost instantly, many others were injured.

STEEL BRIDGE BURNS DOWN.

Fear of destruction by fire of old wooden bridges is generally entertained by those responsible for them, but in the case of steel bridge fire has not been so much feared. However, July 8, a steel bridge at Pittsburgh was burned and two of the three spans completely destroyed. The combustible matter in this case was the creosoted wood block floor, the heat from which was so intense as to warp the steel trusses out of shape and cause them to drop into the river.

The bridge so destroyed was that known as the Thirtieth St. bridge across the Allegheny river from Pittsburgh to Allegheny. The falling trusses completely blocked traffic in the river. The bridge was an old one and county engineers had recently been ordered by the government to rebuild it.

The first step to build up a town is to persuade the knockers to move elsewhere.

THE FARMER AND HIS MARKET

Does the farmer do well or ill when in time of low prices and diminished demand for his products he deliberately plants a smaller acreage? Should he be commanded or rebuked for adjusting his production to the condition of his market?

If the farmer is a kind of sort whose only purpose in life is to raise abundant food at the cheapest possible price for the other members of the community, he ought of course to plant all he can, work as hard as he can and raise all he can every year. If he is a self-supporting citizen engaged in the business of producing food stuffs for sale to his fellow citizens who are otherwise employed, it is hard to see any reason why he should not use his intelligence in estimating the amount of his crops that he can sell at such prices as to give him a decent living, and then restrict his production to that amount. No one is astonished or shocked when a manufacturer closes a part of his plant because he market will not absorb his entire output. Why should we expect the farmer to raise so much that a part of his crop has to be thrown away and the rest sold at a price that returns him little or nothing for his labor?

Of course it is difficult for the farmers to tell exactly how much they should reduce their acreage in order to produce the necessary and only the necessary amount of food. The independent producers are so many and so widely scattered that each man can get only an uncertain idea of what his own share in raising the crop of the year should be, or of just what the millions of other farmers are doing with regard to the situation. And even if the growing means of intercommunication among farmers and the increasing efficiency of cooperative organizations should help him to a sensible decision on the question of acreage, there are the uncertainties of drought or flood or insect pest that often make the harvest of September something quite different from the estimate of May. There is therefore the danger that a general movement for reducing crop areas may go too far and result in a real shortage of food. But that does not affect the conclusion that the farmers have a perfect right to adjust their work and their production to what they believe to be the effectual demand, and that it is often wise for them to do it.

The cotton planters of the South have this year done exactly that. Knowing that almost one-half of last year's crop of thirteen million bales remained unsold and that another bumper crop would depress prices to the point of bankruptcy for them, they planted less than three quarters of their usual acreage and raised a crop of only some eight million bales—the smallest crop since 1895. But the carry-over is so great that the visible supply of cotton is almost as large as ever, and the price has not been much affected by the crop reports. The grain farmers have not reduced their acreage materially, and their crop is likely to be about as large as last year, though much smaller than extraordinary crop of 1919.

Martin Williamson and Herbert Kirkpatrick spent one day last week on Gunpowder creek fishing, and at the close of the days report Martin had landed six nice bass and Mr. Kirkpatrick did not report his catch.

It will take 40 years to grow for itself sufficient to supply the demand for paper stock, but the supply could be made adequate in 40 days if people would stop buying these inflated metropolitan Sunday paper editions.

BOARDERS IN UNION COUNTY FLOCK REDUCED BY CULLING

As a result of having his flock of 25 White Wyandotte hens cullled to remove the loafers, John C. Fowler, Waverly, Union county is feeding 16 hens less and in one week received only one egg from those that were retained than he did from the entire flock the week before. The flock was culled by specialists from the poultry department of the College of Agriculture.

HOGGING DOWN CORN

IS PROFITABLE WAY
TO FATTEN PORKERSLow Corn Prices and High Hog Values Emphasize Economy of This Method.

With indications pointing toward a low price for corn and a fair price for hogs during the coming fall, Kentucky farmers can market their grain and produce pork in no better way than by turning hogs into their corn fields to hog off the crop, according to swine specialists at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. This method of fattening swine involves less labor in feeding and harvesting and is therefore more economical and in addition results in the greatest return from manure and crop residue. The hogs are also kept in a more healthy environment and should make more rapid gains when prepared for the market in this manner.

Experimenters conducted by the station show that takers fed in a self feeder as a supplement to corn made the best combination for hogging-off purposes. By this method of feeding the animals were kept healthier and were ready for the market earlier than those fed by other methods. The corn and tankage produced an average daily gain of 1.475 pounds of pork on the animals which received it.

Corn and soybeans grown together and hogged off also made a good combination, this system of feeding resulting in an average daily gain of 1.4 pounds of pork on the animals in the lot. The six year average obtained by the station in hogging down soybeans with an allowance of two and one-half per cent of the body weight of the hogs in corn daily resulted in an average production of 981 pounds of pork an acre with a net profit of $15.07 an acre. Corn alone when hogged off produced an average daily gain of a little more than three-fourths of a pound of pork.

Results obtained in the experiment indicate that it is best to use hogs weighing about 100 pounds in hogging off fields. If the animals are smaller than this they are unable to get the corn down while larger animals do not make as economical gains. From the general observations made in the experiments it pays to start hogging down corn and soybeans about the time the beans are in the dough stage, putting enough animals in the field to clean up the crop in about 35 or 40 days. When corn alone is hogged down the animals should be turned into the field as soon as the grain has passed the glazed stage.

250 BUSHELS AN ACRE
FROM GOOD SPUD SEED.

That the use of high-grade potato seed is a profitable practice and one which results in larger yields than those obtained from home grown, bin-selected seed is shown by results which have been obtained by Western Kentucky farmers who co-operated with the extension division of the College of Agriculture in showing the advantages of good seed. Pedigreed Kentucky and northern-grown seed was used in the demonstration in comparison with home-grown, bin selected tubers which represented the type usually left over from sows and sown for seed. The pedigreed and northern-grown seed yielded at the rate of 250 bushels an acre while the yield from the home-saved seed was only 30 bushels an acre. Farmers in that community are expected to import more seed in 1922 as a result of the demonstration.

The sporting crowd in the cities having daylight saving, seem to get up by the clock time, but they go to bed by sun time.

Roman Idea Concerning Oysters.
According to an eminent old Roman doctor, the Romans' predilection for oysters was a sanitary one, which he explained thuswise: "Living oysters are endowed with the proper medicinal virtues; they nourish wonderfully, and solicit rest; for he who supes on oysters is wont on that night to sleep peacefully; and to the invalids afflicted with a weak stomach, slight, ten or twelve raw oysters in a morning, or one hour before dinner, is more healing than any drug or mixture that the apothecary can compound."

Aesop's Hen Was a Goose.
Roman "imitators" of Aesop's Fables use "hen" for "goose" to the failure about the golden egg, but the Greek of the text is "hen" which looks like some faint resemblance of "hen" but really means "goose." The accepted translators or other adapters, follow the familiar word of the vast majority. "Goose" it must be remembered that there really is no original Aesopian text, but only some later transcriptions of what came to be regarded as the fables told by one old slave.

FLEA BEETLE CIRCULAR IS READY FOR FARMERS

A new circular dealing with the life history and control of tobacco and potato flea beetles has just come off the press at the College of Agriculture and is being distributed to interested farmers in Kentucky. According to the publications the pests cause considerable damage to the two crops which they attack by ridding the leaves. The circular is No. 109 and may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

NEW CIRCULAR OUT

ON APPLE-BUD WORM

A new circular prepared by Harrison Garman, entomologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station and dealing with a description of a bud-worm reported to have infested apple trees in Ohio county is ready for distribution to interested farmers of the State. The insect has been known to attack apple trees and other fruit trees but has not been given attention in the published accounts of fruit insects as a bud eater, according to Mr. Garman. Its injury to the nature appear to be more serious than those it does later to the leaves but have apparently been largely overlooked. The circular which is No. 26 may be obtained free from the station at Lexington.

A new species of bacterium has been found that does remarkable things to corncocks.

When the cobs are cooked with water in a closed receptacle at a temperature considerably above boiling point an extract is obtained from them which, upon introduction of this "lactobacillus" rapidly ferments.

One ton of cobs treated in this way will yield, as a result of fermentation, 300 pounds of acetic acid and 320 pounds of lactic acid, both of which are valuable commercial products.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE USE

OF PHOSPHATES

Acid Phosphate

In farm practice probably the most economical way to use acid phosphate is to drill 300 to 400 lbs. per acre when wheat or other small grain is sown. This will be sufficient for the wheat and for the clover or grass crop which usually follows wheat. If this practice is followed regularly with each rotation and manure is used on the land on which tobacco or corn is grown following the clover and grass, it will not be necessary to use additional phosphate, provided the manure has been carefully saved, and as much as six to eight tons per acre has been used.

If it is desired to use acid phosphate in connection with manure for corn, tobacco, or other crops, it may be applied when the manure is being spread. When loading the spreader, place a layer of manure and sprinkle over it uniformly some acid phosphate. Two layers of manure and phosphate should give an even spread of the phosphate on the land. The amount of phosphate for each load of manure is determined by dividing the application of phosphate desired per acre by the number of loads of manure used per acre.

For inter-tilled crops, such as corn, tobacco and beans planted in rows, it is best to apply the acid phosphate broadcast, or drill it with the fertilizer attachment of a grain drill. Without doubt, it is more effective applied this way than in the row, for the feeding roots have a better opportunity to come in contact with the phosphate through the growing season. Broadcast applications should be made on the broken ground so that it may be thoroughly distributed in the soil in the preparation of the seed bed. Where an application of as much as 600 pounds or more per acre is used, to last for a period of three or four years or more, the phosphate may be applied broadcast on the unbroken ground and disked in before breaking.

Only with very small amounts of acid phosphate, say 100 pounds per acre or less, would we recommend the drilling in the row. But we do not believe it advisable to use such small applications.

Experiments on some of the Kentucky experiment fields indicate that it makes little difference in yields whether large amounts of acid phosphate are applied at once for a rotation, or the same amount is divided into annual applications for the same period of time. Very little phosphate is lost by leaching.

When acid phosphate is to be used on land where lime is used, the lime should either be applied first and worked into the soil, or the lime and acid phosphate may be applied together, provided they are worked into the soil before it rains.

These directions will apply to the use of bone meal and basic slag. Where lime is badly needed and is difficult to obtain because of long haul or other reasons, it is suggested that 250 pounds of acid phosphate be mixed with 500 to 750 pounds of finely ground limestone, and that as large an application of the mixture as can be run thru the fertilizer attachment of the grain drill be applied when wheat or other small grain is sown. The materials should be applied as soon as mixed, preferably the day they are mixed. Experimental results indicate that this treatment will greatly aid in getting a crop of clover following the grain.

Rock Phosphate.

Rock phosphate should not be used in small annual applications. One thousand to 1500 pounds per acre, sufficient for three to five years, should be applied broadcast on the unbroken ground and should be disked in before breaking. It may be applied with a lime spreader, thru the fertilizer attachment of a grain drill, or when manure is being spread, in the manner already indicated for acid phosphate.

A good way to use rock phosphate is to apply it in the stalls as the manure accumulates, using 2 or three pounds per day for an animal weighing 1000 pounds.

MANY WEEDS ARE KILLED

By Disking After Small Grain Harvest, Field Tests Reveal.

Much of next year's weed trouble can be avoided as shown by studies in the United States Department of Agriculture, by the use of the harrow or disk in the field after the small grain crop is harvested. This practice is particularly recommended in the Northern States.

Stirring the ground at this time encourages the germination of the weed seeds that are at or near the surface. The seedlings are then killed by fall plowing or by the cold weather.

Some weeds, such as the ragweed or foxtail, start to grow in seeds soon after harvest, so that great care must be taken to turn the plants under before the seeds approach maturity.

Plowing, without the preliminary disking, would turn under millions of weed seeds, where they would be protected from winter killing and make trouble in future years.

Labor day will be chiefly celebrated by nobody doing any labor, except those that labor harder than usual to save a good time.

LOYALTY TO YOUR ORGANIZATIONS

Your home city is a good deal like many farms. It has great possibilities of development that have not been fully realized. To cultivate a city, farm takes machinery. Similarly you need machinery to develop a city. Your community organizations constitute that machinery. Do you take care of this kind of tool like a good town builder?

People laugh at the farmer who leaves valuable tools around in all weathers without effort to care for them. But the same people will utterly neglect their community machinery.

A useful organization, formed in your home city for some helpful purpose, is a complicated and costly bit of equipment. Much human energy and brain power have gone into it. The people who started it are not the only ones that helped build it. Progressive people everywhere who created similar plans for civic development, have assisted in establishing it, by forming the model on which it was patterned. It is too valuable equipment, with too great possibilities, to be neglected.

Many people join a community organization, and then are unwilling to serve on committees or take any responsible office in it. If money is spent on social affairs, they find fault that the funds are wasted. If money is not spent, they say it is a dead one. They rarely attend meetings, and if they do come, they come late. If community projects are discussed, they offer no suggestions, and afterward tell how everything was done wrong. They do the best they can to kill their home city organizations by such methods.

A small association made up of good workers, is better than a big one in which there are few who will do anything. When you get a lot of good people enlisted in some such organization, and they are willing to work and heartily support the things that are done, you can accomplish wonders with it. It is a piece of civic machinery the force of which is incalculable for all good ends.

GLAZED STAGE IS BEST.

For Cutting Corn For Silage Purposes, Says Expert.

Maturity of the corn when cut affects both the quality and yield of silage. The corn crop gains rapidly in weight as the corn matures. All of the food elements increase in total amount. The dry matter especially increases rapidly.

When left to mature fully portions of the plant become woody and indigestible and the total amount of nutriment available is difficult to recover because of the indigestibility. Practically the total yield will be obtained if the corn is cut just when the ears are nicely glazed over. At this stage corn is at the maximum of digestibility also.

Therefore, so far as total yield and yield of digestible nutriment is concerned, it is best to cut just at the glazed stage. Says Andrew Boss, Vice Director of the Minnesota Experiment Station.

"Corn silage keeps best when there is sufficient moisture in the corn to make it pack well and to overcome heating due to chemical changes in the plant tissue.

"Corn cut when very green contains so much moisture that it prevents the chemical reactions taking place and results in a sour silage, tho it usually keeps very well.

"Corn cut when mature or dead ripe contains so little moisture that it cannot be packed firmly enough to keep out the air and moldy spots are very likely to occur.

"Ripe corn can be used for silage by running water into the silo as the corn is being cut. Even when water is added, however, it is difficult to secure a good quality of silage as when the corn is cut somewhat green.

"Corn cut at the glazed stage seems to have the advantage. It contains moisture enough to pack well and to prevent too high temperature in the curing process. All things considered the best silage so far as yield and quality are concerned, will usually be secured if the corn is cut when the ears are at the glazed stage."

RECORDS REVEAL TRUE WORTH OF CULL BIRDS

Loafers reveal their true worth when they are removed from the flock and given an opportunity to show how many eggs they can produce, according to results which have been obtained by T. A. Hockett, a Webster county farmer, who cooperated with the extension division of the College of Agriculture in having his flock of 25 White Wyandotte hens culled as a demonstration. The week before the demonstration the 25 hens produced a total of 58 eggs. Seven hens were removed from the flock as culls during the culling demonstration and during the week following laid 5 eggs. The 11 hens that were kept as layers produced a total of 57 eggs during the week following the demonstration.

Dr. Yelton has a force of men at work breaking ground for a new four room brick house at his home in Burlington. He is moving the present house to a corner of his lot fronting on the pike where it will be used for a dwelling. Charles Youell has the contract for moving the house and has already begun work.

LEGION NOTES

With his aim the "humanization of the document" and its enlargement to include news of the "whole United States army, which includes the national guard and the reserve," Brig. General Henry J. Reilly, of Chicago, West Pointer, national guardsman and newspaperman, took over publication of the Army and Navy Journal with its issue of August 20th. The editor, commander of "Reillys Bucks," Chicago war-time artillery regiment has been prominent in the American Legion since its inception in France and was a founder of the Illinois department.

His refusal to preach over the body of an American doughboy killed at Chateau-Thierry because the coffin was draped with the Stars and Stripes has caused the Rev. Snaveley, Lancaster, Pa., to become the storm center of an investigation just launched by the American Legion of that city. The body was resting in the vestibule of the church and the family and friends were waiting when the minister issued his edict. The Legion immediately took charge of the remains and obtained another minister.

Jules Jesserand, French Ambassador to the United States, and Marshal Foch, are traveling to Metz and Fliery with the delegation of the American Legion revisiting France, according to cable dispatches. The Legionnaires attended the dedication of the Joan of Arc statue at Blois, given by the city of New York.

The first of the party of six observers who were the only persons in America to witness the mysterious "new star," visible when the earth passed through the tail of the comet last month, was Eddie Rickenbacker, premier American ace and member of the American Legion in California. The party was stationed at the Lick Observatory.

Argentina celebrated the inauguration of faster boat service between New York and South America recently when the new American passenger liner, American Legion, concluded her maiden voyage at the port of Buenos Ayres. The post of the Legion there and government officials held a reception for the American liner's crew.

Following the announcement of the Rev. John W. Inzer, Baptist minister of Chattanooga, Tenn., that he would marry free of charge all service men attending the third annual convention of the American Legion at Kansas City this fall, provided they furnish the brides, a Kansas City jeweler has announced that he will furnish wedding rings for the couples, "even if there are 1,000 of them."

The American Federation of Labor and the American Legion in Hawaii are working together to obtain passage of the Hawii bill now before Congress. They ask for the Americanization of the island as against Japanese domination, in the interest of the territory's two industries, tobacco growing and coffee raising.

STATE NEWS.

More than 80 Carroll county poultrymen have been taught how to distinguish between the heavy-laying and the loaf hen by means of eight demonstrations conducted by County Agent G. C. Rountt in cooperation with the extension division of the College of Agriculture. Approximately 135 hens were removed from the 500 birds handled because they showed characteristic indications of having stopped laying.

In an effort to check the trouble caused by stomach worms in sheep, County Agent D. P. Morris recently held five demonstrations on the treatment for them which were attended by 80 Owen county farmers. More than 400 sheep were given the treatment in the demonstrations.

The use of lime and acid-phosphate proved profitable for John Johnson, a Madison county farmer, who has just made a report on a demonstration he conducted in co-operation with County Agent R. F. Spence and the extension division of the College of Agriculture. He obtained one and one-half tons of hay an acre off land that had been treated and only one-half to three-fourths of a ton an acre off land that was not treated.

Carroll county farmers are planning to use more limestone on their farms this fall according to County Agent G. C. Rountt who reports that arrangements have been made to grind 1,600 tons. A goal of 2,000 tons to be used in the county has been set.

Jefferson county farmers cooperating with County Agent F. E. Merriam are planning to sow a large acreage of cover crops this fall, according to reports from the county. More than 200 acres have already been signed up to be sown with cover crops.

A number of Boyle county farmers cooperating with County Agent C. L. Taylor are planning to use tankage as a supplement to corn in fattening hogs for the market, according to reports from the county. Three thousand pounds of the material already have been ordered.

Everything for QUALITY
—nothing for showTHAT'S OUR IDEA in making CAMELS—the Quality Cigarette.

Why, just buy Camels and look at the package! It's the best packing science has devised to keep cigarettes fresh and full flavored for your taste. Heavy paper outside—secure foil wrapping inside and the revenue stamp over the end to seal the package and keep it air-tight.

And note this! There's nothing flashy about the Camel package. No extra wrappings that do not improve the smoke. Not a cent of needless expense that must come out of the quality of the tobacco.

Camels wonderful and exclusive Quality wins on merit alone.

Because, men smoke Camels who want the taste and fragrance of the finest tobaccos, expertly blended. Men smoke Camels for Camels smooth, refreshing mildness and their freedom from cigarette aftertaste.

Camels are made for men who think for themselves.

Fine Weather

Was Furnished For The Four Days of the Florence Fair Last Week.

The weather last week was all the management of the Florence Fair could desire and as a result there was a fairly good attendance each day, and especially on Friday and Saturday when the crowds were very large.

The exhibition, excepting as to horses, was as good, if not better, as that of any of the fairs of the past. The show of harness horses was better than it had been for several years as there was quite a number of good animals in the ring.

The show of sheep and hogs was very good and attracted considerable attention and much favorable comment. Of the above stock there were numerous breeds in the pens and the individuals on exhibition were exceedingly fine and showed that the breeders of hogs and sheep in the county are doing all in their power to bring them as near perfection as possible, and for which the Boys and Girls Pig Club deserves great credit. It is claimed that there were more hogs on the grounds the first day than on any one day in the history of the fair.

The offering of 25 head of registered Chesterwhite hogs on Wednesday, by the Boone Co. Chesterwhite Breeders Association was well attended, and considering present conditions, those sold brought good prices. These hogs were from herds of fifteen breeders, who have spent many years in building up their herds, and it is claimed there are more of this breed of hogs in Boone County than any other county in the State.

Floral Hall came up every day with its usual large and attractive display in the way of farm produce and art needle work, paintings, and pantry and dairy. The ladies of the county contributing their part to the success of the exhibition as they have done in the past twenty-five years.

Taken as a whole the twenty-sixth meet of the North Kentucky Association was as much of a success as any of the past.

Numerous attractions were provided by the association for those who desired to try their luck in various ways and they all appeared to reap a harvest.

The exhibit of hogs was the best that had ever been seen at the fair, all of the pens were filled as well as a number of the stalls in the barn with different breeds of hogs for exhibition. The grand champion of all classes of hogs was won by Robert Clure, of Burlington, with a Chesterwhite. Paul Acra won the tie for Hampshire, Dan Isbell on Poland China's; Wilton Durens on Duroc Jersey's. The largest gain in a given time was won by China's.

Farm Agent, W. D. Sutton is due the credit for the large number of entries made in the Pig Club contests as he has been untiring in his efforts to make that part of the program at the fair a success, and he succeeded and is to be congratulated.

Mr. Sutton has worked night and day getting a number of our young folks interested in getting hogs and cattle in condition to be exhibited at the fair. It is doubted very much if any other county has a farm agent who looks after the interest of his people with the same zeal and interest as does Mr. Sutton. He is always ready to help any one along agricultural lines.

Twenty automobiles were exhibited in the ring Friday at the fair.

The fair board had so arranged that something was going on in the ring at all times.

In order to get through with the program Friday and Saturday it was necessary to show more than one class at a time in the ring.

Everybody enjoyed the dog and pony show given on a platform in the ring each day during the fair. The other attractions in the ring were also enjoyed.

The young folks enjoyed the merry-go-round.

It was no trouble to dispose of your cash as the vendors of all kinds were in evidence at every turn.

Charles Riddell, of Williamstown, was present Saturday. He has not missed attending the fair since its organization, 26 years ago.

The attendance was larger than last year. The largest crowd was present Saturday.

Paul Poston's Ford runabout was night but was found on the Union pike where it had been abandoned by the thieves.

The dancing pavilion was well patronized. The young people danced every afternoon and night.

The attendance this year exceeded that of last year by about 1,000. The crowd Saturday was the largest that had attended for several years. More stock of all kinds were exhibited than had been exhibited for years, and all the stock was of high grade. The exhibits in Floral Hall were up to the standard, and numerous entries were made in the different classes.

The exhibits show that the citizens of Boone County are breeding better stock of all kinds, and that in a few years the scrub will be unknown in Boone.

HALF-SOLING AT HOME

When the soles of a pair of shoes have worn through or begin to wear thin they should be repaired immediately. Anyone can learn to do this at home, says the United States Department of Agriculture. In preparing the shoe to be half-soled, a few simple tools are needed. The important ones are: The last, hammer, box of clinch nails, a sharp knife, and a burnisher. These may be purchased at any hardware store. The size of the nails to be used will be determined by the thickness of the sole leather. The nails should be long enough to clinch the inner sole. Sole leather may be purchased in one piece to be cut up as needed or in the form of half soles.

Remove the old sole with a slanting cut across the instep, so that the inside edge of the new sole will be shorter. If the leather to be used is in warm water for a few minutes until it becomes pliable and will fit snugly against the shoe. Cut it roughly into shape. With a knife, pare a bevel on the edge that fits against the instep. The bevel should be on the flesh side of the leather. Place the flesh side of the leather against the shoe and insert a tack in the center of the toe to hold the leather in place so that it may be tacked.

With the shoe on the last, begin to tack first on one edge and then on the other. Place tacks about one-fourth inch apart and approximately one-fourth inch from the outer edge of the sole of the shoe. This may vary somewhat in different shoes, but the tacks should be placed so that they will clinch on the edge of the inner sole. With a knife trim even with old welt. Hold the knife in the hand with the blade projecting beyond the index finger so that it will cut the sole but not the vamp.

Smooth the edges of the new leather against the old leather with an iron burnisher. Black the edge with shoe polish and use burnisher as before. This will leave the half sole smooth and close fitting.

MODESTY IN DRESS URGED

By Kentucky Organization—Girls to Be Approached on Subject

Louisville, Ky.—An effort to interest Kentucky girls in the adoption of a method of dress that "breathes the modesty, purity and wholesomeness of those wearing it" will be made by the state organization of Parent-Teacher Associations.

A resolution to this effect was passed at the meeting of the State Executive Board, conducted at the residence of George C. Weldon, State President.

While it is not decided as to how girls may best be approached, it was announced at the close of the meeting that the appeal will be made directly to them, and also to the mothers.

WHAT ARE THE CHILDREN OF KENTUCKY CAPABLE OF DOING?

The children of the Mountains? The children of the Bluegrass? The children of the Knobs? The children of the "Pennyrite"? The children of the Purchase? The children of the Country Districts?

The children of the Towns? The children of the Cities?

They are capable of doing anything which has been or which will be accomplished by the human race.

WHAT SHOULD THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY DO FOR HER

SCHOOLS?

Provide a competent well-trained teacher for every school.

Provide sufficient funds to maintain a good school in every district of the State.

Provide competent leadership for the schools.

Enact an up to date school code and see to it that it is enforced.

Manifest a genuine and sustained interest in education.

Docket

For Fall Term of Court of Appeals—Two Cases From Boone County.

The docket of the Court of Appeals for the fall 1921 term, which begins on Monday, September 19th, consists of 29 criminal cases and 309 civil cases. Of these the following are from Boone County: 180 Hicks vs. Wallace. 181 Conner, Sheriff vs. Parsley, etc.

These cases will be called for submission on trial September 23 and if ready will be submitted. A case is considered ready when the brief for appellant has been filed. In the event that the appellant's brief or, either an agreement or motion, for extension of time to file brief, has not been filed the case is dismissed; if steps for extension of time have been taken it is passed. Passed cases are called for submission on the second call of the docket, which is set by Roy Speck, Clerk of the Court of Appeals, for some day during the latter part of the term, and, if ready, are submitted; if not ready, they are either dismissed or continued to the next term. Submitted cases do not go to the Court for immediate consideration and decision, unless advanced, but remain in the keeping of the Clerk until called by the Court for consideration. The extent of this period varies from six to eight months or more.

This county is in the Sixth Appellate District and Judge E. S. Clark of Falmouth, is the Appellate Judge from the district.

PERFECT ICED TEA

There is no beverage in hot weather more refreshing than properly made iced tea. The common method of hot tea on the theory that the melting ice will dilute the drink to the right strength, is unsatisfactory, in the opinion of the tea specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Through careful experimentation it has been ascertained that three minutes is the average proper length of time to infuse tea. The aroma and the caffeine, for which the tea is used, are then developed to their best point, and there is a minimum of tannin. After three minutes the amount of tannin increases, but on a trace more of caffeine is available.

To make a pot of perfect tea, the expert said: Bring freshly drawn water to a boil, pour it on the requisite amount of tea (one even teaspoon for each cup) in a previously scalded pot; allow it to remain covered for three minutes; then decant or strain into another receptacle. The spent leaves should never be used again.

Obviously, when one intends to serve iced tea on warm afternoons, a supply of tea brewed and strained earlier in the day is advisable. When the tea is cool it should be placed next to the ice to chill. Cracked ice added just as the glass is served will not dilute it appreciably. Sugar and a slice of lemon may be used according to individual taste.

It would be impossible to state which kind of tea is best for any person to use. There are three primary teas, whose name indicate methods of curing—green, black and oolong. Tea from any of the tea-producing countries may be cured in one of three ways, but it has been found that certain varieties are better suited for making one or more of these kinds. Again, grades of tea are misleading, as the term refers to the best and the poorest leaf grade in any one locality. Everything else being equal, tea grown in high altitudes is as much superior to tea from low altitudes that the lowest grade in a high-altitude tea may surpass in flavor the best grade of tea grown at a low altitude. The choice of a tea which suits one's taste can only be determined by personally trying various teas until the right flavor is found. For both iced and hot tea the green and oolong varieties are usually most pleasing without milk; many users of black tea prefer milk or cream in the cup when it is served hot, but cold tea is best clear.

STANLEY TO AID VETERANS

Washington—Senator A. O. Stanley, of Kentucky, announced that when Congress reconvenes he will introduce a bill authorizing an appropriation of not less than $5,000,000 to be used in the erection of hospitals for the treatment of former service men suffering from the effects of neuropsychiatric diseases. He made this known in a telegram to Stephen C. Jones, Department Adjutant of the American Legion at Louisville.

David Williamson has been using the spinner to good advantage in the waters of lower Gunpowder during the past few days. He has under six feet base, the largest tipped the scales at three pounds. When he throws his pole across his shoulder and goes to the creek he is sure to bring home a nice lot of bass, as he is an expert angler.

THE "BOSS" SYSTEM

One of the most distinctive characteristics of our political life 20 years ago, was the so called "boss" system. It does not seem to be so powerful now. At least less is heard about it. There was a time when in many states and cities, the political action of each such unit would be pretty well in the hands of a single man.

These people were marvellously skilful in political leadership. They knew when they could safely choke off measures of reform, and when they must yield to public feeling and pass new laws. They had a gift for picking out lieutenants who could control the voting population in their own localities. In those times most people voted the straight party ticket. The election was won by the party that did the most thorough work in getting out its own vote.

All the boss had to do to elect his candidates, was to make sure that all the local workers were on the job of securing a full vote of the party adherents. Even if there was some popular revolt against the ring, if extra thorough organization work was put in, with liberal handouts for manufacturing enthusiasm, the regular ticket would win.

The whole system rested on efficient work by a widely extended force of local leaders. These leaders must be jollied along by giving them public jobs, or letting them have a chance to get elected to minor offices.

At the present time popular education has developed, people read the newspapers more, and it is more difficult to round up the voters of an established machine. The bosses have learned that the old abuses will not be tolerated. Many politicians still win out by their gift of smooth talk rather than by achievement, but the tendency is to select men who have rendered useful service. In constituencies where there are many ignorant voters, bosses of the old time type may still flourish, but they do not have the extended power they used to swing.

MUSIC IS A BLESSING

Have you music in your home? Are you making any effort to supplement the splendid offerings of the phonograph record and piano player roll with home-produced vocal and instrumental melody?

Will there be a singing school in your community this fall?

"Good music in the farm home would contribute much toward a wholesome contentment and a happy family life," Secretary Wallace recently wrote in response to a request for an expression on the subject.

"Music is one of the good things of our present civilization which, in common with other blessings, is as readily available to those who live in the open country as to those who dwell in the cities.

"In the old days music was an important factor in rural community life. Many of us remember the old-fashioned singing school.

"The township music teacher should be working in every community."

It will be to your interest Mr. Tobacco Grower to come to Burlington next Saturday afternoon and hear J. C. Canrill speak.

The painting of the cornice, gutters and wood work on the High School building has added greatly to the looks of the building.

County Attorney B. H. Riley attended the State meeting of the American Legion at Lexington, Ky., as a representative of Boone Post No. 4, last week.

Mrs. Wilton Adams and two children, of San Antonio, Texas, after a week's visit with T. P. Stephens and family out on the Florence pike, left Monday for a visit with relatives in Newport.

C. E. Rector, one of the Recorder's good friends, and daughter, Miss Sarah, of near Independence, were in Burlington, last Thursday, and made this office a pleasant call. They were enroute to Bellevue on the hunt of waterfowl.

Frank Allen, of Big Bone neighborhood, was a business visitor to Burlington, Tuesday, and while in town called at this office and gave us $1.50 for another year's subscription. Mr. Allen has been a member of the Recorder family for many years.

Mrs. Isabella Dismore-Raymond, wife of Dr. McHenry Raymond, died at her home Sept. 29th, in Independence, Mo., aged 82 years. She resided near Bellevue for a number of years. Her husband practiced his profession at Florence and Rabbit Hash before removing to Missouri.

DIED IN REFORMATORY

Boatley Craig, colored, who was sentenced to the Frankfort Reformatory for 10 years a couple of years ago for the forgery of checks and notes, died at that institution August 9th. His remains were brought to Beaver Lick for burial August 12.

Exhibits

To Be Shown at State Fair From Boone County Next Week.

Jersey cattle will be exhibited at the State Fair next week by the following from Boone County:

Owners	Number of Head
Joseph W. Scott	5
Marvin Kendall	1
W. G. Kite	2
Mabel Tanner	2
Solon Ryle	5
O. C. Hafer	2
Harry Hartke	2

A number of our citizens will exhibit hogs at the state fair. J. F. Cleek, Walton, will exhibit a car load of Poland China's and Hubert Ryle and Sons of Grant, will exhibit a herd of Hampshires.

The winners in the four breeds in the Pig Club classes will also be exhibited at the State Fair next week. James W. Huey, of Union, will exhibit at the State Fair 50 Barred Rock chickens. He is expecting to receive a number of ribbons as he has an exceptionally fine strain of Barred Rocks.

Farm Agent Sutton will be at Louisville during the State Fair to render any and all necessary assistance to Boone county exhibitors that may be needed.

Franklin Huey, Burlington, Marvin Kendall, Florence, Orville Kelly Rabbit Hash, and Robert Clure, Burlington will compose the stock judging team from Boone county, and they will be in competition with teams from twenty-four other counties. These teams will be required not only to judge but also give their reasons for selecting the different animals for the premiums. Farm Agent Sutton has been coaching these young men and is satisfied that Boone county boys will be contenders in the contests.

Sadie Craig won the first tie, Sydney Craig the second and Noel Walton the third in the Duroc Jersey class at the contest at Colin Kelly's.

AID FOR TOBACCO.

The announcement that the War Finance Corporation is willing to furnish credit to associations dealing in or marketing agricultural products is good news for the thousands of farmers who are interested in the success of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association.

But meeting this is extremely important that the organization be perfected and the association be put in the way of utilizing its full powers for the benefit of Kentucky Growers. The backing of the Government may be calculated to give the association a flying start.

It was announced that Fayette county had signed up 65 per cent and Bourbon and Woodford more than 50 per cent each, while Franklin county had pledged at that time 710,000 pounds. The ranks of the association are swelling rapidly, showing that Kentucky farmers are unwilling to remain static and stagnant while farmers of other States are making the most of their profession.

The success of the Burley movement will be a forward step in the history of the State. It not only means greater prosperity for the farmer, but it signifies a general awakening of the State to the realization of its wealth and resources.

To those who have not yet entered the association, the desirability of entering quickly cannot be stressed too much. The cotton associations have already obtained a quota of $26,000,000 of the Finance Corporation's backing. The prairie growers of California are in process of negotiation. Kentucky and tobacco are to have their share.

Prospective members of the association must realize that now is the time to throw in their lot and help the cause along. The iron is hot. Let's move forward.

THE TOBACCO INDUSTRY

According to a Census bulletin there were 1,894,400 acres planted in tobacco in 1920, while the production from that crop amounted to 1,508,064,000 pounds. There were imported during the year leaf tobacco and tobacco products to the value of $8,529,200, while the exports of leaf tobacco were valued at approximately $245,000,000, and of tobacco products at $43,000,000. The combined production of cigars in registered factories and in bonded manufacturing warehouses numbered 8,720,754,000 and offcigarettes 61,859,900,000, and of chewing and smoking tobacco 11,133,891,000 pounds. There were 15,834,000,000 cigarettes exported during the year, leaving 46,000,000,000 factory made cigarettes for consumption in the United States. Revenue collected during the year amounted to $284,000,000.

If the congressmen don't accomplish a lot of things that can't be done, they are said to have no vision for the future, and if they do promise such things, then they are called liars at the next election.

CLEMENCE MATNEY.

Miss Catherine Clemence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Clemence, of Rushville, Ind., and Harold Matney, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Matney of New Salem, were married by the Rev. Reno Thome at his home in North Morgan street Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Both young people are well known in this community, the Clemences family having come to this city from Kentucky several years ago, and the Matneys having been prosperous farmers of Noble township for three generations. Mr. and Mrs. Matney have gone on a short trip and will be at home after September 1 on their farm near New Salem. Only Mr. and Mrs. Burl Matney and Mrs. Margaret Fuller and son Richard of Chicago, Ill., witnessed the ceremony.

A CARD

Reports having reached me during the Florence Fair for the first time, that I had whisky in several of the precincts during the campaign and primary election—which is false, and if those to whom these reports have been told will have same to come before the grand jury at its October term and have some thoroughly investigated, I will be very thankful to them. Thanking one and all for their kindness and support, I am

Yours Truly,
CHAS. MAURER.

Base Ball.

Petersburg and Bellevue played a double header at Bellevue Monday afternoon. Petersburg started in to score in the first inning of the first game, but Bellevue put over three runs in the second inning, and in the fifth on three singles, base on balls and batter being hit by pitched ball, two more were chalked up for Petersburg. Petersburg hit the ball hard in the seventh but by some very fine fielding on the part of Bellevue they failed to score. In the eighth Bellevue decided to put over the winning run and by making two hits and an error, and a base on balls two more men scored which ended the scoring in this game. The final score was Bellevue 5 Petersburg 3. Finn was in the box for Bellevue while Black hurled for Petersburg. The second game found Black back in the box for Petersburg (this being the fifth game he had pitched in three days) and Scott for Bellevue. Bellevue scored her first run in the third inning on two hits and Petersburg tied the score in the third on a hit and an error.

In the fourth Bellevue put another man over the rubber on two hits, and though she had won the game by making three tallies in the 6th and with a score of five to one in her favor the Bellevue boys thought it was all over but the shouting, but Petersburg was not satisfied so they got their war clubs together and made two more runs in the seventh and scored one run, and not being satisfied came up with a bold front in the eighth, and when the smoke of battle had cleared the Petersburg sluggers had five men on counting territory, making a total score of seven runs and Black proceeded to dispose of the Bellevue boys in the ninth in short order, and the game closed with a score of 7 to 5 in favor of Petersburg. These two games were well played and the large crowd present got their money's worth.

LUDLOW DEFEATED TAYLORS

Ludlow defeated Taylorsport last Sunday 7 to 3 in one of the poorest played games the local team has put up this season. Ludlow scored two runs in the first inning and Taylorsport one in the third, which made the score two to one, when one of the visitors came to the bat with three men on base and landed one to deep center field, and Howard Acra in fielding the ball ran into a wire fence, and before he could release himself four runs had crossed home plate. Sandford who pitches for Taylorsport failed to show up and Beacom and Hazel Walton pitched the game. Monday (Labor Day) Taylorsport defeated Saylor Park in two well played games, the morning game being won by a score of 3 to 2 and the afternoon game by a score of 7 to 4. Huey pitched the morning game and Sandford the afternoon. The ladies of the church prepared a chicken dinner for the large crowd present, and a handsome two dollar silver trophy being killed. Next Sunday Taylorsport will journey to Ludlow to play the second game of the series.

The ladies who prepared the chicken dinner at Taylorsport last Monday (Labor Day) realized something over $135.

Verona played two good games of ball Monday at Verona against the Victor Athletics of Covington, and won the morning game by a score of 9 to 6 and the afternoon game by a score of 5 to 3. Verona plays a good game and makes it interesting for any club she meets. Petersburg will play at Verona next Saturday.

J. H. Sleet, of Beaver, was transacting business in Burlington, Tuesday.

"GOLDEN WEDDING"

Mr. and Mrs. John Marion Powers celebrated their fiftieth Golden wedding anniversary, Tuesday, August 30th, 1921, in their hospitable home here in Verona. Mr. and Mrs. Powers were married at Paris, Ky., August 30th, 1871, at four o'clock p. m., by a Presbyterian minister. They were blessed with two daughters and one son, Mrs. Maude Johnson of New Liberty, Ky., George Edgar Powers of Rising Sun, Indiana, and Mrs. Lulu Roberts, of Verona, Ky. Only the children and grandchildren participated on this occasion. The guest began arriving at an early hour with well filled baskets. Those in attendance were Rev. A. K. Johnson, wife and two daughters, Miss Nellie and Marion Johnson, of New Liberty, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Edgar Powers and two sons, and three daughters, John, Stanley and Carl Powers, Mrs. Nannie Hughes, Miss Laura and friend Mr. Henry Heiler and Miss Corine Powers, of Rising Sun, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Roberts, of Verona. All of the children and grandchildren were present except Mrs. Maggie Pinner, of Norwood, Ohio, who was ill, and Mrs. Susie Griffith, of Colorado Springs, Colorado, and one great-grand daughter Miss Doris Pinner, of Norwood, Ohio. At the noon hour the guests were invited to the dining room where a bountiful repast was spread consisting of all the delicacies of the season. Rev. A. K. Johnson offered a beautiful and most impressive prayer. While the dinner was being served two songs were played on the graphophone, "The Lord Has Never Yet Been Told," and also the song, "The Rugged Cross I Am Still Climbing." Mr. and Mrs. Powers were presented by their oldest daughter, Mrs. Maude Johnson, with $5 in gold, and many other useful presents at the close of the day. At a late hour all returned to their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Powers many more happy events as they journey through life. Mr. Powers is in his seventy-fifth year, and Mrs. Powers is in her 68th year.

FARM AND HOME NEWS
FROM OVER KENTUCKY

Washington county farmers who are interested in producing market pork by hogging down corn and soybeans are watching a demonstration which has just been started to see the value of this method. Tom Wheatley cooperating with County Agent Robert M. Heath recently started the demonstration with 81 hogs weighing a total of 8,135 lbs.

The hogs will be weighed again when the demonstration is complete to determine the gains made by the animals.

Eleven cull hens removed from the flock of 36 owned by J. B. Hina, a Crittenden county farmer, produced two eggs in seven days, according to a report made to County Agent John R. Spencer, who culled the flock.

More than 100 Boyle county farmers were shown the method of culling the slacker hens from their poultry flocks in a series of five demonstrations recently held by County Agent Charles L. Taylor in cooperation with the extension division of the College of Agriculture.

Many Muhlenberg county farmers are planning to protect fields that would otherwise remain idle during the winter by sowing cover crops on them, a report from F. O. Townes, county agent, states. Rosen Rye will be the principal crop sown.

Larue county farmers cooperating with County Agent J. W. Jones, will give special attention to wheat-growing problems this fall, a report from the county states. Four demonstrations to show the value of acid phosphate and limestone in increasing the yields from this crop will be conducted. Those who will cooperate will be Clarence Wyatt, Will Beams, C. R. Beams and Branham Patterson.

By means of 11 poultry culling demonstrations recently held in Graves county, farmers of that community not only learned how to tell the loafer from the heavy-laying hen but also obtained helpful information on a number of poultry problems with the result that interest in this phase of farming has been increased, according to a report from County Agent B. H. Mitchell. A total of 304 poultry raisers attended the demonstrations which were conducted by Mr. Mitchell in cooperation with the extension division of the College of Agriculture. Many of those who attended agreed to cull their own flocks and seven of them will build new poultry houses. More than 50 circulars on the feeding and care of poultry were distributed to interested persons. Better flocks over the entire county are expected to result from the work.

The dove law was out Thursday, September 1. There has been some misunderstanding in regard to this law among hunters. Many were under the impression that the law was out August 1, but the last Legislature changed the date to September

1. People in the country say that last winter being so mild, and with few snows, enabled the birds to get food easily and flourish, so there will be good shooting for the hunters when they get afield.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

A very small crowd attended county court last Monday.

Big shipment of Tanlac just received. W. L. Kirkpatrick local agent.

Clifton Roberts, of Walton, is visiting his relatives in Burlington.

Tanlac, that wonderful medicine, sold in Burlington, by W. L. Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. J. Q. Elstun, of San Antonio, Texas, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. F. A. Hall.

It is not easy to get laborers in these times, but there are plenty of pay drawers.

Robert Sanford of Dayton, Ky., is visiting relatives and friends in Burlington and vicinity.

It is certainly fine to go out into the country, where they serve vegetables fresh from the tin can.

The mosquitos have not so far protested against the custom of going bathing without stockings.

Not many hotels have closed on account of prohibition, but some should be closed for profiteering.

The base ball pitchers have not so far distinguished themselves much by pitching hay into the barn.

The country is said to be short 3,000,000 houses, but garages are provided for all the automobiles.

W. C. Weaver and wife spent Saturday night and Sunday with Frank Maxwell and wife, in Covington.

County Clerk W. R. Rogers and sisters, Misses Sallie and Lizzie, spent Sunday with relatives in Walton.

The kids should not trample a man's lawn all down, merely because he puts up a Keep off the Grass sign.

Griffin Snyder and wife, of Madison, Indiana, were in Burlington visiting relatives and friends, last week.

J. W. Quigley of Limaburg, and Ella B. McKay, were married by Rev. Royer, of Florence, last Saturday.

Not so many political experts have been enlightening the people on public affairs since print paper went up.

Another pleasant feature of the opening of school is the fact the kids have rolling in the dirt in their new school suits.

The girls who wear their furs in hot weather, may be compelled to do so by the appearance of their bony necks.

Many people who deplore keenly the results of under production are not seen in their back yards hoeing any vegetables.

Agricultural implements are usually badly out of order, but the pleasure cars of the community are kept carefully repaired.

The people who are using their back yards garden as a place to build a garage, are complaining still about the high price of vegetables.

Midshipman Edwin R. Duncan is at home on thirty days leave. He just returned from Norway, and also points on the Mediterranean.

John Hogan sold his farm over on the Bullittsburg and Dry Creek turnpike, last week containing 30 acres, to Ernest Ruckle for $5,000.

Some of these sugar growers who stimulated production all over the world by their high prices, are now complaining of too much competition.

Some people will pay high railroad fare to trade in a distant city, when they could buy the same stuff for less money from the home merchant.

The boy campers can make a fire in the woods without matches, but that does not prove they could build one for Mother in the kitchen stove.

It is rumored that C. E. White and family will move to Burlington this fall—having leased his farm out on the East Bend road to Fred Morris.

The people who think advertising is added to the cost of goods, should ask themselves who pays the interest on non-advertised goods that can't be sold?

Virgil Gaines who is employed by the National Cash Register Company at Dayton, Ohio, visited his parents J. E. Gaines and wife, last Saturday and Sunday.

J. M. Lassing, wife and son, John, who have been spending the summer in Burlington, left, Wednesday morning for their winter home at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mrs. H. W. Shearer and little daughter, Helen Hall, of Newport, spent from Saturday until Monday evening with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hall.

SHORT COURSE DETAILS GIVEN IN NEW BULLETIN

Details of the short course in practical agriculture to be offered by the College of Agriculture at Lexington during the coming winter are contained in a new bulletin which has just come off the press and which is being distributed free to interested persons. The course will start Oct. 31 and end Feb. 25, 1922 with Christmas holidays from Dec. 16 to Jan. 2. The course will be divided into two terms, the first consisting of seven weeks before the holidays and the second of eight weeks following the holidays, according to the publication. Students may take one or both of the courses which will include instruction in practically all phases of farm subjects from farm crops to animal diseases. No entrance examinations are required for enrollment in the course. The new publication is illustrated to show different phases of the work given short course students and may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

RYE SOWN ON BARE FIELDS WOULD MAKE MORE PASTURE

Despite the fact that the normal area of pasture in Kentucky is nearly 5,000,000 acres much livestock is compelled to exist on scant rations because of poor pasture soils and periodical dry spells, according to soils specialists. This condition could be remedied for a period of several weeks during the fall and early spring and the pasture acreage increased by at least 3,000,000 acres by seeding rye in the corn and tobacco fields of the State, according to R. E. Stephenson, soils field agent of the College of Agriculture.

Many farmers in the State are fast realizing the importance of this crop as a late fall and early spring pasture, reports from one county indicating that the rye acreage there will be doubled this fall. Pasturing in winter may be done provided the ground is not too soft, Mr. Stephenson said. A Todd county farmer has reported that the increased milk production which he obtained by placing his cows on rye pasture was highly profitable. Aside from its value for pasturing a rye cover crop on corn and tobacco fields the soil protection from erosion and the leaching away of fertility during the winter.

It's some come down to the college athlete accustomed to hear 10,000 people cheer him, to be told on his new job to take the broom and sweep out the office while the store clerks snicker at him.

EXPORTS OF FARM PRODUCTS FROM THE UNITED STATES

Agricultural products, either crude or at some stage of manufacture, are the foremost group of commodities entering into the export trade of the United States. The leading products of this class are familiar. Cotton and wheat are exported in great quantities. Exports of flour are important, as are exports of the small grains. Not much corn is sent abroad as grain, but the heavy exports of meat and meat products are to be regarded primarily as exports of corn in a manufactured state.

Since April, 1920, the spot price of middling cotton at New Orleans has declined from more than 41 to 12.13 cents per pound on August 15, 1921, meantime having been as low as 10.38 cents in June, 1921. Decline in the other agricultural products, of which a large part must be consumed outside the U. S. are almost as violent. A representative grade of wheat No. 2 red winter, declined from more than $3.00 per bushel at Chicago on May 15, 1920 to $1.25 on August 15, 1921. During the same period the other small grains suffered similar declines, and the price of corn fell from $2.15 to $0.58. Although the decline in the price of hogs and cattle has been spread over a longer period, it has been no less severe. On July 15th, 1921, good merchantable hogs were quoted at Chicago at $22.10 per hundred pounds, and fair to choice native steers were quoted at $16.80 per hundred pounds in October of the same year. On August 15, 1921, hogs and steers were quoted at $9.35 per hundred and $8.80 per hundred, respectively.

These price readjustments have resulted in much hardship in all the leading agricultural regions of the United States and farmers have asked the causes of their embarrassments. They know that their products are in part dependent on the export market, primarily Europe, and that Europe is poor. They know also, that the war caused a serious disarrangement of international credits. The agricultural production of Europe is rapidly recovering and this is not generally recognized. The facts as to the heavy exports of important classes of agricultural products in the fiscal year just closed are also not widely known. Under these circumstances not only farmers, but other large classes of the public closely dependent on agriculture, have drawn the conclusion that the disastrous declines in the prices of agricultural products have been due at least in part to the failure of the American banking system adequately to finance exports of agricultural products from the U. S.

STATE NEWS.

KENTUCKY FILLS HER OWN (Frankfort Journal.)

That the Kentucky State Reformatory is strictly a Kentucky institution is shown in the summary of the number of inmates of the prison and their nativity. Of the 1,141 inmates, 840 of them first saw the light of day in the Bluegrass State. Sixteen different States are represented and five foreign countries. Less than a dozen foreigners are behind the prison walls. Those who were born on foreign soils hail from Ireland, Russia, Italy Greece and Sweden.

Is that a good beginning and symbolic of political purification? Ladies, notwithstanding that we love you better than a sheep loves alfalfa, but we always have known that your angelic assertions and your enthusiastic acclamations of moral superiority is a proclamation without basic grounds of argument.

ROACHES GOOD FOR BAIT

(Mayfield Messenger)

Whoever heard tell of roaches being good for anything? But they are fine fish bait. It is said old fish simply go wild over them. Somebody over at Murray introduced the new variety a short time ago, and everybody is setting roach traps. Several days ago a party of fishermen from Murray were at Reelfoot Lake. They had with them a large number of roaches, and were catching fish right along. Near their camp was a party of wealthy Memphis fishermen. They were not having any luck at all. They found out the secret of the success of the Murryrites, and wanted some of the roaches. The Murryrites disdained with the Memphisites for a while, and a deal was finally closed whereby the party of the first part delivered to the party of the second part a certain number of roaches at five cents per head.

The Disparities of Wealth

In studying the way the Republican administration is handling the business of the country, one must consider its program along two lines. First, there are the things that may be done to make the existing business machine work better, without much attempt to make pronounced changes in that machine. Even in that respect Republican operation has not so far accomplished any considerable results.

But the most important ground for dissatisfaction lies in another direction. If a machine is antiquated and out of date, or if it is so made to make it operate efficiently, you don't solve the problem merely by greasing and oiling it and trying to adjust the worn parts. Not until there is a very considerable rebuilding will it do its work.

The business machine of America is hampered by one great fundamental fault and that is the tremendous and unjust inequalities in wealth. This is no argument for socialism, for inequalities will always exist as the human race was made that way.

But when a few hundreds of men can own a large share of the wealth of the whole country, while great masses of the people lack any opportunity in life, there is a fundamental fault in the business machine that needs some remedy. The Republican leaders do not realize the existence of this fault. All the remedial measures which they are now discussing and which may or may not prove efficacious so far as they go, do not touch this fundamental defect.

The Democratic party did realize this fault. It devised and put through the income tax, which was the greatest step ever taken to correct these inequalities. If it had remained in power, it would have gone on with other measures calculated to do something to prevent the accumulation of dangerous swollen fortunes. The failure of the Republican party to realize the evils caused by the tremendous disparity of wealth is a very good reason why it is not likely to retain power very long.

PLANS ARE COMPLETE FOR JUNIOR JUDGING CONTEST

With teams from 24 counties entered and making preparations for the Junior Judging Contest to be held at the State Fair, September 14th, under the direction of the College of Agriculture plans are rapidly being completed for what is expected to be a record event. An announcement by M. L. Hall, assistant state leader of junior agricultural club work and superintendent of the contest. The 72 boys composing the 24 teams will compete for a total of $300 in team and individual prizes these including a team trophy to become the permanent property of the team winning it two consecutive years.

The Junior Judges will place eight rings of animals including two of each beef and dairy cattle, sheep and swine and give reasons for their placings on four rings. Boys who enter the contest will be lodged at the fair grounds Tuesday and Wednesday nights by the State Fair Board. Mr. Hall said. The teams will be accompanied by county farm agents or coaches. Counties which have entered the contest include Boone, McCracken, Carroll, Garrard, Marion, Daviess, Jefferson, Allen, Fayette, Whitley, Bourbon, Mercer, Wayne, Taylor, Shelby, Pulaski, Fulton, Owen, McGraw, Warren, Christian, Breckenridge, Oldham and Todd.

PULLET SALE SCHEDULE

BEING SENT TO FARMERS

A schedule of the pullet sales to be held under the direction of the College of Agriculture during October and November as a part of the poultry standardization campaign being conducted over the State is being distributed from the College to farmers and poultrymen who wish to take advantage of this opportunity to obtain purebred stock. The schedule contains information showing the dates of 19 different county sales, the kind and number of birds to be sold and the persons who will be in charge of the auctions at the various places. Approximately 10,050 pullets including selected representatives of the White Plymouth Rock, Barred Plymouth Rock, White Wyandotte and Rhode Island Red varieties will be sold, according to the schedule. Copies of the information may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

SET-BACK LINES FOR HIGHWAYS

Highway traffic has, during the past few years, increased in both intensity and character until it now approaches in each of these respects, the condition of city traffic a few years ago. With this development, the paving of highways is approximately more and more to that of city streets. Counties are using as paving material brick, sheet asphalt and even stone block, asphalt block and wood block.

In the matter of width, however, most of the highway pavements remain narrower than the city streets. With the relatively small amount of stopping along the side of the highway, it probably will not for years be necessary to provide a section of the pavement width for standing vehicles, since these can be drawn up along the shoulders, or on special narrow areas where necessary. It is, however, becoming apparent that many of our highways are altogether too narrow for the moving traffic and must be widened, and foresighted engineers and other highway officials will make provision for this both in designing the cross-section and in the total width of the road right of way.

THE "ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE"

A superintendent who had charge of a certain rather decadent business used frequently to employ the phrase "almost impossible." If the owners suggested more improvement that would put the good along in better shape and with less expense, he would growl and shake his head. Then he would get out among the men and they would begin to raise objections, based on their own indolence or desire to slip along the work with the least trouble and pains. He lacked the energy and determination to go to the bottom of these objections. So he would come back to the office with a long face. "It's almost impossible to do it," he would complain, and he would then repeat all the difficulties that he had found. There are a great many of these "almost impossible" people.

The successful man will never make any such admission. If a thing is impossible, he gives no further thought to it. But he knows no such condition as "almost impossible." That means that the thing is possible, only it involves obstacles. That simply whets the ingenuity and determination of the resourceful and energetic man.

If his helpers are stubborn and won't try out the new method, he experiments on it himself. Most difficulties disappear the moment they are resolutely confronted. Or a study of the situation shows some way to get around them.

The American people have made wonderful progress in the world, because they had this spirit of surmounting difficulties. During the easy going times that prevailed since the war, when any kind of indifferent worker could keep his job, and when even the poorest goods could sell, some people have lost this habit of determined struggle against obstacles. We need to get back into the old spirit of facing difficulties, realizing that the "almost impossible" is really always within reach.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

Washington, Sept. 1.—"Home Sweet Home" will have few charms for many Republican members of Congress during the present races until September 21, because those who have had the courage to go home know that they must face large numbers of irate constituents (and Gosh, how they dread it!) who will demand explanations concerning the votes they have cast during the first part of the extra session.

Anticipating in a measure some of the questions sure to be asked them and including others by way of suggestion, the following is submitted as a pertinent and just form of questionnaire to be addressed by voters to their respective Congressmen:

VOTERS QUESTIONNAIRE TO REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN.

Why did you vote for the hedge-podge Fordney Tariff Bill which protects only the manufacturers and the profiteering manufacturers most of all at the expense of agriculture and all other natural industries?

Why did you vote to relieve 20,000 persons, mostly war profiteers, of excess profits tax and individual income surtaxes amounting to an average tax of $30,000 a year, and add an average tax of $600 a year to 20,000 small producing corporations?

Why, did you vote to take $17,000,000 taxes off the express companies and not relieve the parcels post from the same sort of tax?

Why did you, after the Soldiers' Bonus bill had been killed in the Senate at the dictation of President Harding on the statement that the Government could not afford it, then vote $500,000,000 to the railroads which already owed the Government $731,000,000?

Why did you vote to cut down the appropriations for good roads in all the states from $100,000,000 to $75,000,000 with 5,735,000 persons out of work, and then vote appropriations of nearly a billion dollars for Army and Navy with a disarmament conference practically assured?

Why did you pretend to be in favor of economy and then vote $48,500,000 to the Shipping Board out of which to pay officials employed or invited to be employed, at salaries of $35,000 a year each, $25,000, $20,000, $15,000 and $10,000, and among them attorneys alleged to be members of firms with claims against the Shipping Board?

Why do you blame the alleged mismanagement in the Shipping Board upon the Democrats when the Chairman of the Shipping Board during its period of greatest activity were Charles M. Schwab, a Republican, and J. H. Rosseter, Director of Operations, also a Republican, and all three contributors to Republican campaign funds?

Why did you vote for the gag rule and steam-roller methods under which you passed the tariff and tax bills, cutting off debate and preventing amendments except by members of the committee?

Why did you vote to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to increase certificates of indebtedness $500,000,000 to provide for a deficit in revenues from the tariff and tax bills, while pretending that the bills would supply the needed revenue?

What single vote have you cast that has resulted in any relief to business men, to farmers, to labor, to any industry except protected manufacturers, to the improve ment of conditions of living among your fellow-citizens or that redounds to the honor of your country?

What has Congress accomplished in the four months and two weeks it has been in session? Do you know of any one thing completed from which any one has derived any benefit as a result of Congressional action?

SAYS FEDERAL ROAD MONEY IS WASTED

There is a lurking notion in Washington that a lot of the Federal aid money for highways is being wasted in many of the States. Possibly this impression is partly due to the fact that Senators and Representatives are prevented from giving their physical presence to the demonstrations of efficiency made by Federal, State and District inspectors, while business it is to check up on the work of county and town highway officials. In any event there is a good deal of the "I want to be shown" sentiment in the National Capital. Senator King of Utah, says that the State road organizations have received from the Government, various road building equipment and motor driven vehicles, valued in excess of $100,000,000. A bill for an additional $75,000,000 of Federal aid money is in conference between the two branches of Congress, and before the money is voted the same Senator would like to have a general investigation of road operations throughout the United States to determine the truth of his claim that the appropriations made by Congress have been used and expended "in an extravagant and wasteful manner."

It is fair to say that the views of Senator King do not represent the general attitude of officially Washington, and he will have plenty of trouble with his resolution, before he is able to convince his colleagues from States that have the best kinds of roads that the work is not being well and conscientiously done.

HOME TOWN PAPER WILL OBSERVE SPECIAL WEEK

A nation-wide "Subscribe for your home town paper week" which will be participated in by this community as well as thousands of similar communities the country over will be observed Nov. 7 to 12. The purpose of the campaign is not alone to induce persons who may not be subscribers to the home paper to "sign up" but also for emphasizing the service which the 10,000 and more country weeklies, to say nothing of the small city dailies, are rendering to community and national life.

The movement for a "home paper week" was started several years ago by a New York editor but at that time he was unable to get the necessary support for the movement to make it a success. Recently, however, R. T. Porte, Salt Lake City, who perhaps has done more than any other one man to bring home to publishers the need of knowing their costs and charging not only cost but also a reasonable profit if they are to continue in business, and gave the small town its paper, launched a "clean up day" for the country print shops which was so successful that he put forward the idea for a "home paper week."

This was immediately taken up by editorial associations, concerns which furnish news and feature services to country papers, trade papers and other agencies with the result that nation-wide participation in the campaign is already insured. The intention is to keep personalities and local matters out of this campaign. Publishers in devoting space to it are not boasting their own individual business so much as they are the country newspaper profession in general, with a view of bringing home to people the dignity, usefulness and importance of the small home paper.

FARM AND HOME NEWS

(From Over Kentucky.)

Following good results obtained in other years, P. B. and R. S. Austin, Webster county farmers, are planning to fatten their hogs for the market by hogging down corn and soy beans this fall. The work will be conducted as a demonstration by the two farmers who are co-operating with County Agent Lloyd E. Cutler.

Visits to prominent stock farms in the county for the purpose of practicing judging different classes of livestock is furnishing the chief training for the Carroll county junior livestock judging team. The team which is being trained under the direction of County Agent G. C. Routt and Assistant Agent R. M. Green will enter the junior judging contest to be held under the direction of the College of Agriculture at the State Fair, September 14.

The highest price ram sold at the recent sheep sale held under the direction of the Livestock Exchange at Louisville was purchased by an Oldham county farmer and is expected to play an important part in improving the sheep in that county, according to a report of County Agent Gordon B. Nance.

THE PROTECTION OF PROPERTY.

There are many theoretical writers who speak of the protection of property as a low ideal. It is fashionable among many to scoff at the idea that there is any sacredness in a property right. They are constantly sneering at the people who feel that the right of the man to an honest dollar, is something to be cherished.

Any human soul is of infinitely more value than any sum of money, considered as an end in itself. But people who emphasize that thought too much, fail to see what private property really is. It is essentially a reward given to people for efficient and superior service.

The community says to the worker, if you will toil hard, and put your brains to work as well as your hands, and thus render the public superior service, you should be able to turn out a product greater than your living expenses. If then you are thrifty and lay aside some of your gains, you acquire capital which is destined to rendering service to the community. It can be used for developing the country and building all kinds of industrial plants and creating tools and machinery, that will promote the welfare of the people.

To consider the protection of property a secondary thing, is to set up the idea that people should not be rewarded for good qualities that serve the community, and that efficiency, thrift, and industry are relatively unimportant. To contrast the man and the dollar the way many people do, is to make a distinction between the man and useful qualities of the human nature, which is a false distinction.

Where the dollar is acquired by overreaching of any kind, the man has no real right to it anyway. Where it is gained by qualities that serve the community, you can't take it away from the man's dollar without robbing back the progress of the man and the community, so that one is just as important as the other. When property becomes unsafe, one of the principal motives leading to community progress is killed.

Some of the people who a year ago advised everyone to buy goods because prices were going higher, will have to do some advertising to work off stuff they accumulated at that time.

FIELD SELECTED SEED GIVES MORE CORN THAN THAT PICKED FROM BIN

Proper Storing To Assist Drying Important Item in Preparing Seed For Next Year's Crop.

Practically all experiment stations in corn-growing states as well as scores of farmers in every state have shown by actual tests that field selected corn given proper care after gathering gives highly profitable increases in yield over ordinary crib-selected seed, according to E. J. Kenney, crops specialist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. The increased yields due to selected seed vary from year to year, being greatest when the ordinary crop is late in maturing and subject to hard freezing before thoroughly dry. As has been pointed out, the germination of seed containing a large percentage of moisture may be partially or even entirely destroyed by hard freezing. Even when the germination is apparently good a large percentage of the plants may be weak and subject to insect and disease attacks. Corn gathered early from healthy, vigorous stalks and stored so that it may dry quickly gives seed that germinates promptly and produces strong, healthy plants, the specialist said.

Field selection is better than selection at husking time for several reasons. In the first place it permits the farmer to select a type of plant that most nearly meets the ideal of the corn which he is growing as regards the size of stalk, position of the ear on the stalk and the type of husk. In the second place it permits the selection of seed ears from the plants most free from disease. Recent investigations have shown that corn diseases, especially root rot, take a tremendous toll and that field selection is one way to get seed most free from disease. The corn selected should be from stalks that mature normally or that are still alive when the corn ripens. One evidence of disease is premature dying of the stalk with the result that rough, chaffy ears are produced.

Selection, important as it is, however, is only one-half the job. Drying the corn promptly is even more important for seed selection. With the greatest care may give unsatisfactory results if given improper care. Drying the ears by hanging them in well-ventilated barn where mice cannot get them is usually the most satisfactory on the average farm where there are few mouse-proof places.

WET CORN KEEPS BETTER IN SILO

Corn placed in a silo in a dry condition is more apt to spoil than that which contains plenty of moisture, according to farm specialists who say that it is almost impossible to get silage too wet. For this reason they recommend that water be added to the corn as the silo is being filled in case the crop has reached an advanced stage of maturity before being cut for silage. Silo filling is one of the most difficult tasks on the farm and unless proper preparations are made for it and care taken during the process of it much can be lost in time and material, the specialists say.

In order to prevent delay in filling the silo the silage cutter should be overhauled two weeks before the process is to begin, care being taken to see that all necessary repairs are made and extra parts obtained. It is usually best to have a few extra knives available to prevent delay in case of emergency. If a corn cutter is to be used in cutting the corn this also should be overhauled before the filling is to start. Sufficient attention should be given to the silo itself to assure all the doors being in place and in good repair. If doors do not fit in certain places this trouble may be remedied by tacking felt along the edges. It is sometimes possible to fill cracks around doors by sealing them with wet clay after the silo has been filled. If the corn is to be placed in a stave silo care should be taken to see that all the hoops are tightened and tightened.

Corn should be cut for silage when it is fairly mature, this condition in the dent varieties being present when the kernels are dented and the lower leaves of the stalk broken. The digestible nutrients or feed value of the corn crop increases as the crop nears maturity and for this reason it should not be cut too soon. The chopped corn should be thoroughly tramped as the silo is being filled as much attention being given to the center as to the outside in order to prevent uneven settling. If farmers wait to wait with their silo filling until the stalks are mature so that the ears can be taken off, the stover that remains can be successfully ensiled by adding an amount of water equal to the weight of the stover as the filling takes place. Enough water should be placed on the stover so that some of it can be squeezed out with the hand. At the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Farm, silage is kept from spoiling at the top of the silo by wetting it thoroughly just after filling is completed and then having one man tramp it for one hour on seven consecutive days.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Since the prices of all kinds of merchandise went up, the possibilities of classified advertising for filling the needs of the ordinary family have enormously increased.

When all kinds of merchandise were sold at the moderate prices previously prevailing, many families would make little effort to dispose of old articles of furniture and household use. If they had an old rug or chair or stove that they had no further use for, the amounts that could be realized for it were not large. Commonly they made little effort to sell it. A great many people were prejudiced against second hand articles.

Since the prices on everything went up, the demand for second hand stuff has tremendously increased. If a person has an article for sale, also people frequently insert want advertisements indicating that they want this or that article.

This has made it possible for families to sell for good prices a great deal of merchandise that otherwise they would have given away or which would have been eaten up by moths in their attics. Most people have stuff of that kind that has substantial value. A good second hand article that has wear in it, will bring every cent it is worth, if you take pains to tell people about it. Consequently the classified advertising column of the Recorder has become a kind of exchange, which thousands of people examine in each issue to see what can be bought and what can be sold. This provides ready cash for a great many articles that formerly would have been regarded as unsalable.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

The body of Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion at the time of his accidental death at Indianapolis, Ind., in June will not be interred in Arlington cemetery at Washington, D. C., according to advices last week from the widow and brother of the late commander. Burial will be made at Spring Grove cemetery, Cincinnati, O., where the body was placed in temporary vault following the largest military funeral in America since the Civil War.

With the practical closing of the harvest season, the employment office of an American Legion post at Aberdeen, S. D., where I. W. W.'s tried to cause a general "strike" among farm hands, has closed. In three weeks the Legion served 1,017 free meals, found jobs for 617 men, gave 304 places to sleep, gave 373 free baths and 12 treatment by the post physician.

Evidence of the plight of unemployed service men was carried to cultured Boston, Mass., last week when Armand T. Gaudreau, University of Maine graduate besought the American Legion employment bureau for any work that he could do. Previously Gaudreau, dressed in his collegiate cap and gown, appeared in the streets of the banking section, selling newspapers.

To send back to her home on the Rhine the German widow of an American doughboy, wearer of five battle clasps and cited for valor, the American Legion of New York is raising a fund of $250. The veteran met his bride while with the Army of Occupation and through illness left her practically penniless upon his recent death.

Joseph Daniel, former secretary of the navy, and Charles R. Forbes, national director of the bureau of war risk insurance, spoke on the same platform in addressing the state convention of the American Legion of North Carolina last week.

The parents of Merle Hay, one of the first three Americans killed in the world war, will receive no insurance because their boy died before the war risk act became operative. The American Legion of Iowa, Hay's home state, has petitioned for the parents' relief and is working to find any other parents whose sons "died too soon."

RECORD BREAKING YEAR IN MINERAL PRODUCTS

The Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, has published its preliminary summary of Mineral Resources for the calendar year 1920, which records for that year as the value of the mineral products of the country the astounding total of $6,707,000,000. This value is 20 per cent greater than that of the former record year, 1918, and 45 per cent greater than that of 1919.

Favoring the name of a private soldier who gave his life for his country during the world war to that of "some illustrious general" an American Legion post of Minneapolis, Minn., has petitioned the city board of education to name a large high school there for Cecil Kyle, who was working his way through college by selling newspapers and tending cows when he enlisted.

COAT STYLES ARE NEW

In coats at least, the styles for fall and winter are new, showing more definition of the figure and less "wrappy" lines. Many of them have flaring sleeves and skirts decidedly full, as revealed by the model selected for illustration. In this model side panels are skirled into cut seams and ornamented with silk embroidery. The becoming collar is of beaver fur.

HOTTEST SPOTS IN THE UNITED STATES

The United States Geological Survey has newly completed a study of earth-crust temperatures all over this country and has found quite a number of hot spots where volcanic heat is manifestly accountable for records obtained in deep mines and by lowering thermometers into artesian wells.

Nor is this at all surprising when it is considered that not so very long ago much of our far Western country was fairly aflame with eruptive fires—a fact evidenced by numerous "cinder cones" and volcanoes rather recently extinguished and by sheets of lava thousands of feet thick which are spread over thousands of square miles. These evidences of dead volcanoes are frequent.

For instance, in the mines of the Comstock Lode, in Nevada, the temperature at a depth of only 2,000 feet is 145 degrees—undoubtedly due to hot volcanic material down below. At a depth of five miles there must be a veritable furnace of molten rocks. No wonder that toilers in the deeper levels of the Comstock have to be continually sprayed with cold water to enable them to do their diggi-ty!

Taking an average all over, the temperature of the earth's crust rises one degree in going down for every 60 feet of depth. But in places it rises much faster. At Leadville the rise is one degree for every 17 feet and at Swede Corners (Colo.) it is one degree for every eight feet—owing as is supposed to a volcanic cause.

In the Snake River Valley of Idaho the existence of numerous hot springs is referred to water that comes up boiling from the depths through fissures in the rocky strata. Many of them in Owyhee county yield warm water, plainly owing to lava flows, the region being one of comparatively recent volcanic activity.

As everybody knows, in the Yellowstone National Park the flames of a literal hell are not far below the surface of the ground. In the Fire Hole district the whole country seems to be on fire. The high temperature phenomena are merely exhibitions of a volcanic activity formerly much more tremendous.

The first white person that ever saw the Yellowstone Park—it is discovered, in fact—was a man named Colburn, an employee of the Northwestern Fur Company. When in 1811, he returned to St. Louis and told about the marvels of the region, nobody would believe him. Afterward on maps it appeared as Colter's Hell. Some time later Jim Bridger, a famous scout, saw that wonderland of nature, but his accounts of the petrified forest, the mountain of glass, the lakes of boiling water, &c., though strictly true, were regarded as Munchausen tales and he could not persuade any newspaper to print them so obviously absurd and impossible did they seem.

The Care of Your Teeth.

A teaspoonful of lime water in a glass of milk, taken every day, will help to strengthen the teeth, and also sweeten the breath. The teeth should be brushed after every meal with a little bicarbonate of soda dissolved in warm water. One of the simplest and best dentifrices for ordinary use is white Castile soap and precipitated chalk. A few drops of tincture of myrrh in a little water makes a delightful mouth wash. Chewing the bark of cinnamon is both an antiseptic process and a healthy one for improving the teeth and gums.

LOOSE SMUT CAUSES
HEAVY WHEAT LOSSES

Kentucky farmers lose approximately six to eight per cent of their wheat annually through the attacks of loose smut, according to W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. In addition to being responsible for heavy annual losses in grain the disease is difficult to control because of its method of attacking the plants. The young seeds are infected at blossoming time, the loose smut developing inside the kernels as these grow. Demonstrations have shown that seed treatment by the hot-water method is the best means of preventing injury by the disease.

Since it is impractical for farmers to treat seed for their entire crop enough may be treated to sow a seed plot from which disease-free grain can be obtained to make general plantings. This seed plot should be isolated from the general plantings to prevent any possibility of infection through this source. After the first year when disease-free seed has been obtained from the plot the hot water treating will not be necessary until the grain becomes badly infected again.

In order to insure success seed to be treated should be first soaked in cold water from four to six hours to fill the kernels with moisture. Under average conditions the treatment may be given as follows: Provide at least two screen or cloth-lined baskets holding about one bushel of grain each, two or three barrels or tubs as large as are available for water, a good thermometer and a supply of boiling water. After the preliminary soaking the grain is placed in a basket which is filled with water to two-thirds full and given a bath in water having a temperature of ten degrees below that of the treatment. This will warm the kernels and insure thorough treatment starting promptly. Following the bath, the basket containing the grain is plunged into one of the tubs or barrels containing hot water at a temperature of 129 degrees Fahrenheit where it is allowed to remain for ten minutes. This temperature must be maintained as closely as possible by the addition of hot water as needed. At the end of the period of treatment the basket of grain is transferred to cold water in a tub to terminate the action of the heat.

In order to prevent injury to the seed after treatment care must be taken to see that it is properly dried. Drying too slowly is likely to result in injury to germination because of the danger of heating or molding. The grain should be spread out in a layer two or three inches thick and if necessary stirred occasionally to hasten drying. When drying conditions are bad it is generally advisable and more convenient to sow as soon after treating as the grain is dry enough to run freely.

PUBLICITY

The man or the business that expects to make its way by selling anything to the general public, has a campaign of education to conduct.

People will not buy a product, or visit a place of business in search of merchandise, on any considerable scale, unless they know about the goods or the service that is offered. To get the crowd coming you have to tell people what you have or what you do. A great many hard working and faithful people, who by honesty and diligence fully deserve success, have failed to get results, because they persisted in doing business on the narrow and antiquated old lines without publicity.

People buy the lines that they know about, they patronize the people that seem to show the most enterprise and push. To give that impression of hustle, and to convey the information that people seek as a guide to their purchasing, some consistent plan for advertising a business is necessary. No other element is more essential in the struggle for success.

EVERYBODY COME

CO-OPERATING IN PUBLICITY.

The Bluefield, West Virginia, Chamber of Commerce, has done some remarkable work in business boosting that might well serve as a model in Boone county. Previously the merchants of that city were not much disposed toward co-operation. The thing started when 50 retail merchants were induced by the Merchants Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, to attend a supper. There were addresses, in which it was argued that their community could draw trade from a wider area by advertising. A program of co-operative publicity was suggested, and the sum of $5,000 was subscribed.

Many pages of newspaper advertising were taken, and letters were used to show the outlying country that they had a good trading center. The dealers in various lines clubbed together to sell their stuff to the retail population. Local citizens were urged to trade at home, and arguments were presented to show that they could do as well there as elsewhere, besides helping to build up their home city.

Monthly sales days were a feature, at which each merchant sold some articles at absolute cost. These sales days are now looked forward to as a public institution, and the streets are always lined with people, many of whom never traded there before. People come from 60 to 70 miles to attend these affairs.

The banks were asked to total the deposits made on these sales days, and compare them with totals deposited on the best days previously enjoyed. The sales day deposits were twice as much as they had ever been before. And the merchants say that not more than 40 per cent of their business is done on the special bargains they had advertised.

This story is one of many instances of cities that are booming their business by these methods. The foundation of the whole thing is on just two principles, co-operation and advertising.

Every tobacco grower in Boone county should attend the meeting at Burlington next Saturday afternoon and hear Hon. J. C. Cantrill, Congressman from the Seventh District speak on the marketing plan of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Marketing Association. Besides Hon. J. C. Cantrill, Hon. R. M. Barker, of Carrollton, and Congressman A. B. Rouse, will be present and address the growers. It is also announced that Judge R. W. Bingham, of Louisville, will be present. Don't fail to attend this meeting.

FISCAL COURT

The Fiscal Court was in session Tuesday. A delegation from Gallatin county appeared before the court and wanted the court to join with them in the erection of a bridge across South Fork creek and the court agreed to erect a bridge or a concrete crossing, and the cost to be equally divided between Boone and Gallatin counties.

All work on the county roads was stopped because the road fund had all been spent, and the county will have to borrow funds to pay for contract work now in progress. The only other work that can be done is emergency repairs. The roads in Boone cannot be maintained with the amount of tax received.

SIX PECKS AN ACRE IS GOOD WHEAT SEED RATE

Results obtained by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station in trials to determine the best rate of seeding wheat for the State show that six pecks an acre is the most profitable amount to sow according to E. J. Knappe, crops specialist. In some years less seed gave equally as good results as this amount but in no instance has lighter seeding given higher yields. Yields from lighter seedings have been lower in many cases, according to the results. Seeding more than six pecks has given slightly higher yields, but not enough to pay for the extra seed. It has been found that the best rate for seeding varies considerably depending upon the soil, climate and other factors. The many tests conducted by the Kentucky station also show that the varieties used had approximately equal stooling capacities.

On very rich tobacco or fallow land five pecks an acre is probably sufficient but even on such land it is best to plant six pecks. On thin land less than six pecks an acre should never be sown. The variety of wheat used may have some influence on the rate of seeding, fewer pecks being required when the grains are small than when they are of average size because of the greater number of seeds in a peck of the former. Conversely if the grains are large and plump a somewhat heavier seeding is required than where the seed is of average size.

In the experiments conducted the so-called Miracle or Marvelous or Peck-to-the-Acre variety of which such marvelous stooling capacities were claimed has not proved superior to other varieties in this respect. When sown at the rate of one or two pecks to the acre as recommended by its introducers it has produced a yield from three to eight bushels less an acre than that produced by a full seeding. In 1910 Miracle seeded at the rate of two pecks an acre gave a 31.3 bushel yield and 36.7 bushel when six pecks were sown. In 1916 three pecks of seed an acre gave a yield of 27.5 bushels and six pecks an acre a yield of 34.8 bushels. The same year Fultz sown at the rate of three pecks per acre yielded 28.4 bushels thereby outyielding Miracle. In 1917 Miracle seeded at the rate of two pecks gave 19.2 bushels an acre and Fultz sown at the same rate, 20.2 bushels an acre. Miracle sown at the rate of six pecks per acre made 28.5 bushels an acre. In 1918 two pecks of Miracle gave 26 bushels an acre; two pecks of Miracle an acre, 31.7 bushels. Miracle or Marvelous is a good wheat but requires the same seeding as other varieties to make the largest yields.

LIVINGSTON FARMERS TO BETTER COMMUNITY
As a result of a recent community meeting held in the Ell community of Livingston county farmers of that district have adopted a program of better livestock, more fertile soils, and better roads and schools, according to a report of County Agent, L. C. Pace. At the present time plans are being made to improve the livestock of the community by the introduction of purebred sires which will be purchased cooperatively. The roads and schools of the community will be improved by closer community cooperation while the soils will be improved by the use of limestone and legumes.

BURLEY DRIVE OF TWO WEEKS IS SUCCESSFUL

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 2.--More than 50,000,000 pounds of tobacco set as the goal for the two weeks' drive of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association was secured by the workers, according to the reports from the counties in which organization has been started, made at a meeting of county chairman in the Phoenix Hotel ball room today.

The exact number of pounds contracted to the association was 52,001,684. Judge Robert W. Bingham, chairman of the organization committee made a brief address, in which he gave credit for what had been done by Vice Chairman James C. Stone and the workers, who, he said, had done much to put over the biggest thing for Kentucky in a long time in an industrial way. In only a few of the counties reporting has there been any intensive campaign and a number of counties still are unorganized, it was said, particularly those in Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia.

MINT IS BUSY.

Coining Silver Dollars to Replace Those Sold To England.

The Philadelphia Mint has reached the greatest production in its history, and is cutting down the interest-bearing debt of the United States 5,000,000 a month, according to officials of the institution.

Incidentally, a new record has been set in the coining of silver dollars, upon which the energies of the plant have been concentrated in order to replace the 350,000,000 coins of that denomination melted down during the war and sold to the English as bullion. The average production for the last month, it was declared, has been 250,000 silver dollars a day.

After melting the coins sold as bullion the Government was obliged to call in all silver certificates covered by them, as under the law the Treasury must hold a silver dollar for each certificate issued. To cover the loss in currency short-term certificates of indebtedness bearing two per cent interest were issued. The dollars now being coined permit the issuance of new silver certificates, which are being used in calling in the certificates of indebtedness.

The Philadelphia plant is turning out as much as the Government's two other mints, San Francisco and Denver combined, but nevertheless it probably will take two years to replace the coins melted.

GERMAN AND AMERICAN VIEW OF SEPARATE TREATY

What does the Berlin treaty--this separate peace treaty--settle? According to the Vossche Zeitung it settles nothing; it is simply a protocol or a frame work upon which to negotiate the commercial and economic agreements which are to prevail between the two countries. The most important matters concerning our future relations with Germany are yet to be negotiated. The German press expresses satisfaction with the treaty so far, which is not surprising as it drives a wedge between the United States and the Allies by relieving this country of the responsibility for enforcement of the Versailles treaty except the sections included in the separate treaty.

According to the New York World President Harding and Mr. Hughes have translated Col. Harvey's Pilgrim Society speech into the Treaty of Berlin, and it then says, "They have stripped it of everything which carried the suggestion of an ideal or a noble purpose."

What does the Berlin treaty settle? According to the World it settles the question of what our boys died for in the great war. It says:

"In the light of this formal diplomatic expression of the Harvey-Harding principles it can be said that the ideal in this war did not die in vain. They died in order to validate the American title to German private property which the government of the United States took over and held to guarantee the payment of private claims against the German government. It is for this that they gave their young lives. It is for this that all the sacrifices were made. It is for this that the American people poured out their blood and treasure."

The series of meetings being conducted at the Baptist church by Rev. Willett and DeMoiney are being well attended. Rev. Willett delivers sermons that are very much appreciated by his hearers. These meetings will continue through the week. Afternoon services at 7:30 and evening services at 7:30.

MANY FARMERS WILL FATTEN HOGS WITH CORN AND BEANS

More than 1,000 Kentucky farmers who planted soybeans in their corn this spring will harvest the two crops and fatten their hogs for the market by turning the animals into the fields to hog them down, according to Ralph Kenney, crops extension specialist from the College of Agriculture. More than 100 of these men will weigh the animals when they are first turned in and again when they are ready for the market to determine the value of the combination in producing market pork. Most of the fields have made a good growth during the year according to the report.

Hogging off will start soon after the first of September when the leaves should be turning yellow, the pods turning yellow or brown and the corn husk half brown. It is best to feed the hogs a small amount of green corn and throw them a few beanstalks for several days before they are turned into the field in order to start them gradually. This is more important when the hogs have been receiving dry feed alone. Where the farm has no stock scales it is little trouble to weigh three or four average-sized hogs in a crate one at a time and mark them by putting a ring in the ear. The same hogs can be weighed when the crop is gone and the gain of the entire lot calculated.

WELL-HOUSED FOWL LAYS THE EGGS CIRCULAR SAYS

If the feeding and breeding conditions are correct egg production will be proportional to the comfort of the hen, according to a new circular on poultry housing which has just come off the press and is being distributed from the College of Agriculture to interested farmers. The five essentials of a good poultry house are plenty of fresh air, sunlight, dryness, freedom from drafts and durability, according to the publication. The circular outlines plans, specifications and bills of material for different kinds of poultry houses and points out that many farm poultry houses can be remodeled easily so as to make them satisfactory.

The new publication is well illustrated to show the important features of poultry house remodeling and building and also contains details of interior arrangement of equipment, foundations, walls and roofs. It was written by J. B. Kelley, head of the farm engineering department and J. H. Martin, in charge of the College Poultry work. It may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

What's a Toxin?

The poisons must not be confused with the toxins. The toxins are poisonous substances derived from germs in the course of their life and growth. They are the active principles of the germs, to which the germs owe their characteristic effects upon the human system. It is the toxin of the diphtheria germs, for example, which causes most of the mischief when infection has taken place.

The little girl looked up surprised and said: "Why, auntie, I don't sleep standing up."--Chicago American.

THE NEED FOR COOPERATION

With the continued increase in the ranks of those who are fighting for cooperative marketing of tobacco in Kentucky and with the whole-hearted endorsements of leaders of all types and character in the state of the Sapiro program for inaugurating a new era in the leaf-growing industry, makes its success seem almost certain.

Expressions of approval for the plan already outlined have come from many quarters and not only are the regular supporters of the plan lifting up their voices daily in its behalf but every day there comes word of some new convert to cooperative marketing.

One of the effective additions to the arguments already presented in favor of the association of the planters for united selling of the crop came in Georgetown when Congressman J. Campbell Cantrill, one of the largest growers of tobacco in Scott county, introduced the tobacco census bill in the House and who also during the early part of the past marketing season in which prices proved so disastrous, came to Kentucky from Washington to sound a warning, that something, either by cutting out or other form of concerted action, must be done if the farmer were to be protected against a broken market.

Congressman Cantrill very definitely in his address in Georgetown, answered the objections of those who had declared they feared to enter the marketing association because they had heard rumors in certain quarters that the movement was an attempt to "unload the warehouses on the farmers." It seems almost too evident for discussion that the "unloading of the warehouses on the farmers" would not present them with a white elephant but with a goose that lays a golden egg. Congressman Cantrill's answer to this report, however, evades generalities and leaves little further room for doubt. He howed that according to the rates charged by the warehouses last year and the proposed rates under the new system, the growers would save $300,000 a year with tobacco at 10 cents a pound, based on the normal crop of 300,000, 000 pounds and that if the crop brought a better price the saving would be in proportion and that at the end of five years the farmers themselves would own the warehouses without any sacrifice in the purchase of them.

Mr. Cantrill, as previously pointed out, is a big tobacco producer. He has been identified for many years with tobacco growing and the tobacco industry generally. It goes without saying that he loves the "money leaf" and has great interest in its future and especially in the future of the burley district.

When, under these circumstances, a man says that "rather than go under the present system I would hope that not another tobacco plant is ever set out again in Kentucky," he is not merely talking to hear himself talk. Mr. Cantrill realizes as the other men who have gone before the people are endorsing the Sapiro plan that this is the "only hope."

Very striking is that statement from J. N. Kehoe, of Mayfield, which has rung out during the past week as the Mason county man has toured the state in the interest of cooperative marketing.

"You cannot make landlords out of tenants with tobacco selling at 10 cents a pound."

The tenant is but one link in the chain. Under the present system all are affected alike and every one connected with the producing and selling end of the tobacco industry "gets it in the neck" at every turn.

The Sapiro plan offers new hope, presents the producers with a new lease upon life and makes of the selling of tobacco a business proposition. The old way, if continued, offers nothing except the same old knockouts and the familiar bruises for the leaf grower.

MANY FARM CHILDREN ATTEND CLUB OUTINGS

A total of more than 2,000 Kentucky farm boys and girls including representatives from 30 counties attended the 22 four-day junior agricultural club camps held for them by the extension division of the College of Agriculture during the past two months according to a report which has just been made on them by C. W. Buckler, state leader of junior agricultural club work. It was estimated that a total of more than 4,000 visitors to the various camps to observe the possibilities of giving country children a real outing.

Club authorities and those of the extension division together with farm men and women of the State and the children themselves consider the camps so successful that plans are being made to enlarge the program for next year in order to make it possible for more rural youngsters to take advantage of the camps. A three-fold program including recreational, inspiration and educational features was observed at the outings.

More than 240 Lee county farmers learned the method of distinguishing the looser hens in their poultry flocks from the layers by attending a series of four culling demonstrations held by County Agent T. H. Jones in cooperation with the College of Agriculture.

KENTUCKY SCHOOLS

The special committee from the Kentucky Educational Association, now at work to assist in the passage of the pending school amendments to the State Constitution, and to assist in other ways the movement to improve the schools of our State, has issued the following to define what must be secured before it may be said that Kentucky possesses an efficient common schools:

Minimum school term of 6 months. Each school taught by a properly certified teacher.

Minimum salary paid to each teacher of $75 per month; a salary schedule for all teachers.

Pupils pursuing the legally prescribed course of study.

High school in every graded school district; one or more Hi schools in each county.

A properly certified superintendent in each county; after the first of next January he must receive a salary of not less than $1,200.

Attendance time for each county: Suitable site for each school building.

Separate sanitary water closet for each of the sexes at each school.

School building for each school. Value of house and equipment at least $150.

Floor space not less than ten square feet per pupil.

Ceiling not less than ten feet above the floor.

Must have at least four windows. Heating facilities sufficient "to warm the room in the coldest weather."

One or more doors with "locks and keys."

Furniture—at least a teacher's desk and chair.

A seat "with a back" for each child; writing desk for all pupils; blackboard space for at least fifty square feet; water stand.

CURRENT EVENTS

Within a few days of each other, two stories appeared in the daily newspapers concerning mechanical inventions that appear to be marvelous even in this day of extraordinary things. One is a new gun that it is declared, can produce a muzzle velocity of several miles a second and can be built large enough to throw a projectile of five tons, weight two or three hundred miles. As if that were not remarkable enough, the demonstrator, Dr. Miller R. Hutchinson, who was for many years connected with Mr. Edison's organization, says that the gun has no recoil whatever, makes no noise and requires a curiously small charge of smokeless powder. How the inventor—who is an Englishman named Temple—has got round the natural law that action and reaction are equal he does not tell us; perhaps he has proved that the law is not invariable. Einstein has set us to wondering whether any of the things we thought were settled are really settled. The Temple gun in a small size has been tested to the satisfaction of ordnance experts. The inventor believes it will help to make war too terrible to be invoked by any nation, and he adds that the principle he has discovered can be applied in many ways to the objects of peace. Its serviceability in riveting particularly under water, is obvious. The other invention to which the press introduces us is a helicopter aeroplane, the work of a German named Hanschik. It is asserted that it can ascend and descend vertically, can move without scorching in the air without falling and can travel at a speed of three hundred miles an hour. Such an invention if successful would "revolutionize" flying. Foreign experts take the contrivance seriously, but we shall await satisfactory tests before accepting everything its inventor claims for it.

CHICKENS SINGED WITH ACETYLENE

One of the most recent uses for acetylene is for singing chickens. It is said that the acetylene flame, properly used, performs this operation in a small fraction of the time usually required, that it removes the last vestige of feathers from the fowl, and that the burning off is accomplished without scorching the skin or heating the delicate flesh. This is no more remarkable than the use of acetylene in removing paint from canvas, which is done without even the slightest injury to the fabric.—Popular Science Monthly.

UNION COUNTY CULLS FAIL TO LAY AN EGG

Twenty-one hens removed from the flock of C. B. Oglesby, Boxville, Union county, in a demonstration conducted by County Agent A. M. Allen and specialists from the College of Agriculture, failed to produce an egg during the week following their removal, according to a report just made on the demonstration. The week before the demonstration the entire flock of 50 White Wyandotte hens produced 61 eggs while the week following, the 29 that were retained as layers produced a total of 58 eggs. Hens that have stopped laying to loaf until spring make it possible for their owners to distinguish them by their early moulting, according to the poultry specialists who are conducting the demonstrations to show poultry raisers what points to look for in culling the flock.

RICHLY TRIMMED SUIT

Many suits for fall and winter are trimmed with embroidery and fur, and these rich embellishments are made the most of in the handsome model shown above. It is made of one of those cloths that have a snedlike surface and embroidered with narrow silk braid. The skirt is plain, but the coat is almost covered with embroidery.

CANTRILL TELLS BOONE COUNTY GROWERS TO ADOPT PLAN

Large Crowd of Tobacco Producers Hear Address In Behalf of Marketing Plan.

CONTRACT OF ASSOCIATION EXPLAINED BY R. M. BARKER, OF CARROLLTON.

Many Sign Contract--Workers Will Make Canvass In An Effort to Sign Up Acreage.

The tobacco growers of Boone county met in the court house Saturday afternoon. The meeting was presided over by Congressman Arthur B. Rouse who said it had been thirty years since he had "pinched a tobacco worm" and four years since he had used tobacco, but he was interested, he said, in tobacco because the people whom he represented in Congress were interested in it. He said that if in doubt as to what he should do in any matter affecting the farmers he always conferred with his colleague, Congressman Cantrell, of the Seventh District and followed his advice as to what he should do.

Mr. Rouse introduced Mr. Cantrell as "a farmer, who owns close to a thousand acres of land, of which he plants probably 100 acres every year in burley tobacco."

Mr. Cantrell spoke briefly of Mr. Rouse's efficient service in Congress, particularly as that service applied to the agricultural interests of his district. Then he told of the inception of the present pooling movement and how the great central counties had either signed up their 75 per cent quotas or were near that mark and still working.

Mr. Cantrell said the growers of Boone county were not asked to go into anything new and that if 75 per cent of the crop is not signed up by November 15, the contracts are not binding so far as these 1921 crop is concerned.

Mr. Cantrell told of the desperate financial situation of the farmers and of the doubling of mortgages and indebtedness in the past three years. He showed, however, that burley tobacco is not subject to the fluctuations in price of those commodities depending on a European market for their stability. He said that 90 per cent of the burley tobacco produced in this country is consumed in this country. He said there is a good market for this product and that the only factor endangering the prosperity of the growers is the grower himself, the result depending on whether he decided to "dump" his crop in the old way or market it under the new plan, asserting that if 75 per cent of the tobacco is pooled it will mean "happiness and contentment and prosperity, in place of want and woe and misery in the Old Kentucky Home."

Mr. Cantrell said of the success of the cut out of 1908 of the price paid the growers in 1908, which was fixed by the growers themselves and not by the manufacturers. He declared that a 75 per cent pool, such as is prepared by the new plan, would be just as effective as a 75 per cent cut out.

Mr. Cantrell told how tobacco, which brought only half a cent a pound last winter, was bought up at 10 and 12 cents a pound in June, when it seemed likely that drought would injure the growing crop. Mr. Cantrell said that the majority did not propose that the majority should profit by the signing up of the crops of the minority, as was the case of the pools of 1906 and 1907, but that if three-fourths of the tobacco is not pooled by Nov. 15th the contract is void so far as this year's crop is concerned.

Mr. Cantrell showed that burley tobacco is the only cash crop of the district and therefore, the only hope of prosperity for all business interests depending for their own prosperity on the prosperity of the farmers. He said there would be no property in the burley district without tobacco at 10 cents. He predicted that the success of the growers' marketing organization would double the value of every acre of land in the burley district.

If this organization fails," said Mr. Cantrell, "we shall go on as we have under the old conditions without hope of any better price than last year, but if it succeeds it will mean a fair price for our tobacco and that we shall fix that price ourselves."

Mr. Cantrell took up in detail the objections advanced against the plan and answered them all convincingly. Of the grower who wanted to attend to his own business, he asked: "Who attended to your business for last year?" He declared that the only farmer who attends to his own business this year is the man who does business thru this proposed organization."

Mr. Cantrell said the warehouse expense is limited by the contract to half the present charges. He pointed out the need of receiving plants and showed how the growers would own their plants at the end of 5 years, instead of having nothing to show for the expense of marketing, as under the present system.

Mr. Cantrell discussed opening quotations on the North Carolina market and said the buyers would not show any more consideration to the burley growers than to the North Carolina tobacco producers, "unless you make them show it by getting together and standing together to sell our crop." He showed how the federal reserve banking act, the federal warehousing act and other legislation, including his own tobacco report bill, made it easier for the growers to obtain the necessary money to finance their crops. He said the financing would be the easiest part of the work, after the organization shall have pledged 75 per cent of the crop.

Mr. Cantrell read an announcement by the War Finance Corporation of the financing of cotton growers in Oklahoma and Texas, of wheat growers in the state of Washington and in Idaho, Oregon and Montana, all in a week's time. He said he did not think the growers would have to hold their crop very long, but if they did have to hold it, they undoubtedly could get the money on it. He said that where the local banks did not have the money, the War Finance Corporation would back the banks. He said that it had done this in the matter of financing the prune producers of California.

"If the cash can be obtained on prunes, which the worms may eat, or on wheat, which weevil may destroy," he "why shouldn't it be obtained on tobacco, which no living insect, bird or animal, save only man himself will consume?"

Mr. Cantrell said that "when 40,000 men get together and sell as one man" they will be "able to get them one price from the buyer who has to have it." He told of the talk of substitution of some other tobacco for burley, recalled that the same argument was advanced in the days of the old pool and how impossible it would be for the manufacturers to make cigarettes out of anything else than burley and satisfy the American consumers of sixty billion cigarettes a year.

Mr. Cantrell read from a trade journal to show the immense profits made by tobacco manufacturers and made the report from which he read was made at a time when the manufacturers were using tobacco they took away from you and me at bankruptcy prices to make these profits.

Mr. Cantrell said he was not giving his time and paying his own expenses in this campaign just to improve conditions in Kentucky from a dollar-and-cents standpoint; alone. He said there was a higher and nobler purpose behind this movement to better homes and schools for the children, more of leisure and less of drudgery for the women of the tobacco belt, less of worry and weariness for the fathers of families, and more of the comforts of life for all the producers on Kentucky farms.

Mr. Cantrell declared the entire organization of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association was thoroughly representative and that the business of the Association would be conducted by the men elected by the growers to conduct it.

Mr. Rouse then introduced Mr. Barker, who declared that if the Kentucky farmers followed Mr. Cantrell's advice they "would come out on top." If they did not he said they would "come out just where you did last year." Mr. Barker told of the closing of the markets last year and of the general confusion among the growers due to lack of organization.

Mr. Barker said that every grower would be fairly treated, his tobacco graded impartially and the same price paid for the same grades, without regard to the wealth of the owner. He said the only way for the grower to be able to set his own price was to get in this organization and pool 75 per cent of this crop. He told how speculators bought tobacco at 13 cents a pound and sold it at 10 to 25 cents and said that if the farmers had been organized and able to hold this tobacco they could have made this money themselves.

Mr. Barker said the contract barred speculators, or anyone else not actually growers, from putting tobacco into the pool or participating in its benefits. He said there would be no loose leaf warehouses and that "the fellows who stay out of this pool will have a hard and lonesome time of it." He said the contract ties up nothing belonging to the grower except his tobacco.

Nearly 750,000 pounds were signed up immediately after the meeting. C. M. MacFarland, editor of the Carrollton Democrat, was present in the interest of his paper.

WINNING A REPUTATION.

Many young people who are starting out in life consider that the most important thing during the first few years is the size of their pay envelope. If they are not getting large pay, they are in no good. The thing which the beginner in business should consider of most vital importance, is winning a reputation as a trustworthy employee, a faithful worker, and one having ambition and initiative.

The job that pay high at first, are apt to promote no advancement. They are apt to depend upon the ability to develop speed at some purely mechanical task. That speed can be acquired in a few months, and then the worker has gone as far as he can. It is almost impossible to get a reputation for character, in pay. Also he has not demonstrated initiative or originality that would suggest his fitness for positions of responsibility.

The world is looking for young people who will stick to their work, who will be loyal to their employer's interests, who will put brains and enterprise into their work and constantly try to improve their results. If a young man or woman makes during the first year of employment, a reputation along these lines, it does not make so much difference whether the pay has been satisfactory or not.

That person is going to be marked for promotion when the time comes for some important vacancy to be filled. Or if he desires to make a change to some other business, inquiries made in regard to his abilities will bring favorable recommendations. The business beginner's reputation, for character, industry, and good ahead qualities is equivalent to a certain amount of capital (and is the only foundation on which a business success can be constructed).

WINNERS AT LEXINGTON.

The Jersey Cattle Club won eight ties at the Blue Grass fair at Lexington last week in competition with three herds from Georgia and several other large herds. Harry Harke won the Grand Champion with his Jersey bull which also took the first tie in his class and as senior champion. Solon Ryle took second on his Jersey bull in his class. Marvin Kendall was also awarded second on his bull.

Robert Hafer was awarded second on his Jersey heifer in a class of eight. Joseph Scott was awarded third in his junior yearling heifer in a class of fifteen. Solon Ryle was awarded second in breeders young heifers. All Jersey classes were well filled and the judges had quite a good deal of trouble awarding the ties. This shows that Boone-co., breeders can compete with some of the best. Farm Agent Sutton assisted in making these exhibits.

Cloudburst

Water, After 18-Foot Rise in Morning, Overflows Dam From Below; Powerful Torrent Unable To Breast Tide.

A rainfall, amounting to cloudburst proportions, that caused a 20-mile portion of the Kentucky River to flow "upstream," has just been called to the attention of the Louisville office of the Weather Bureau by the office of the United States Engineers at Cincinnati.

A letter from Lucien S. Johnson, assistant engineer, explains the heavy rain as follows:

"During the night of August 13 a remarkable rainfall was recorded at Locks Nos. 2 and 3, Kentucky River (Lockport and Gest, Ky., respectively) of 4.83 and 5.36 inches respectively, with a very slight rain at adjacent locks."

"At Lock No. 2 the river below the dam rose 14 feet and fell 11 feet during the morning of August 14th and for an hour or more the river flowed upstream over the crest of the dam, backing the water about 1 1/2 feet at Lock No. 4."

"At Lock No. 2 the river rose more than 18 feet and fell 11 1/2 feet in eighteen hours."

"For a few hours the current in the river was the swiftest ever seen by old residents and was so strong that the very powerful towboat Kentucky could not breast it with three small, light pieces in tow."

The officials at the bureau say the occurrence was the most unusual recorded in Kentucky. Practically all the water fell within a circle of 20 miles in diameter.

BEAUTY IS COSTLY!

The Fashion Art League of America, which opens its annual style show this week, is unable to find models to wear its gowns.

According to officers of the league models have passed up the work because of intermittent employment and the high cost of maintaining beauty.

Frantic modistes, after touring the studios of commercial photographers and artists, found a woeful lack of pretty girls. Even homely models, who might have been doctored up to be near-beautiful, were unavailable.

One of the few survivors, who has kept in constant employment by the President of the league, explained the high cost of beauty and lack of models.

"It costs too much money," she said. "Unless a model has a permanent position, it is impossible for her to keep a permanent wave in her hair. And unless she can do something in a designer's establishment besides wear clothes it is difficult to find steady employment."

"Models are in demand during the spring and fall, and during the rest of the year they cannot command a steady income. They must continue to look beautiful, wear chiffon stockings and neat shoes, smart clothes and hats and nice gloves if they are to obtain and hold jobs. This upkeep expense is too much. That is why there is a scarcity of models."

She estimated that waves, shampooing and other "trimmings" necessary for the maintenance of beauty costs $8 a week.

Base Ball.

One of the best games played on the Hebron grounds this year was played Saturday when the home team defeated the strong K. C. team of Ludlow five to nothing. Huey of the Hebron team was in good form and let the visitors know he was a bit and only one of them getting a fair ball out of reach of the infielders.

In the fourth the batter reached first on a fumble and went to second on a wild throw to first and looked like he was going to score when McNerny hit to right center which Myron Garnett pulled down in Eddie Roush style while running at top speed. In the fifth Huey walked a man, and in the seventh one reached second on an error and a put out at first. In the ninth one reached first on an error but the next one hit into a double and ended the game. The Hebron's scored three runs in the second on three hits and an error, and one in the third on two hits and an error, and another in the fifth on a stolen base and a hit. Hits off Meyers: 7 in five innings and off Clemens: 4 in four innings. Struck out by Huey ten by Meyers three and by Clemens two. Bases on balls off Huey one.

Petersburg journeyed to Verona Saturday afternoon and defeated the team at that place 5 to 1. The Verona ball team will play any team in Boone county or a team composed of Boone county players at Walton on Saturday--each team to take half of the gate receipts.

VITUPERATION IN POLITICS

Politics has generally been regarded as a rather dirty game. A god many people who shrink from disagreeable things say they hate to soil their hands in it. As a result the community misses the service of a lot of men who would give splendid capacity to public problems. Perhaps political life is not so contaminating as they think. They may overestimate the difficulties that a man with a clean record meets in entering on a political career.

Any candidate who anticipates a rather careful inspection of his record on going in for public office. But there is not so much tendency to throw mud as there used to be. It is realized that radical attacks often disgust the people, and frequently arouse sympathy for the man who is subjected to them.

People who wish to assail a candidate's character do not usually come out in public the way they used to. But frequently they will pass around evil insinuations in private conversation. But the public have learned to be suspicious of statements that people will not make in an open manner.

The fact of things being equal, those who conduct political campaigns in a calm and courteous way, who assume that their opponents are likely at least to be honest, and who merely try to refute their views, stand better with the voters. As public education advances, the people get sick of slashing attacks and rabid vituperation. When they are told that a man who had a good record in business and community life, is a weak and wicked lot of some selfish interest, they reflect that there is a lot of hot air in politics.

The fact that he has stood up to violent antagonism, may simply prove that he has had force enough to make enemies, which may be argument in his favor.

Come Out

And Help Boost the Good Road Plan and Retain the Dixie Highway.

T. W. Adams, Field Secretary of the Kentucky Motor Club, of Louisville, will make an address on Good Roads and Road Condition in Kentucky, next Friday evening at 7:30 in the court house. Mr. Adams is thoroughly posted on the road question and it is hoped that a large crowd will be present to hear him.

Mr. Adams is an ardent supporter of the State road plan which would require the State to build and maintain the road from South Fork thru Beaver and Union to Florence, also the Covington and Lexington pike, together with the Burlington and Florence pike. It would be a great help to road conditions in Boone if these roads are maintained by the State. Let everybody come out and hear Mr. Adams next Friday night. He favors no change in the present route of the Dixie Highway and believes those who favor this change are doing so for selfish reasons.

A CARD.

To the many good friends along the way. I thank you for courtesies extended during the recent campaign.

To those friends who remained true to the last, whose word would never be questioned, words fail me in trying to express my gratitude to you.

I made a clean race. Although a few days before the election the news was spread from the "enemies camp" that I had withdrawn from the race, switching several hundred votes. Thinking this report not sufficient to bring about their withdrawal, I "sell out." Both reports are false to the last letter.

Much could be added in defense of these unjust assertions. Respectfully, CLARENCE NORMAN.

WHY AN EXAMINATION?

A Civil Service Examination will be held in Covington October 8th, 1921, to fill the position of Postmaster at Burlington and Williamstown. This is an open competition examination according to the announcement of the Civil Service Commissioner, but you can rest assured that no Democrat will get either of these appointments. To the victor belongs the spoils and why an examination? Let the powers that be in the Republican party name the man of their choice, as will be done in the end.

YOUR NAME IN THE PAPER

Every man and woman likes to see his name in the paper and the editor likes to print it. Some say they object to publicity. But do they? The Atchinson Globe tells of a young man who entered its office. "I was intensely shocked to read a notice of my engagement," he said. "I cannot tell you how shocked I was. I was positively chagrined. My fiancée was chagrined. We were all chagrined. How much for 50 copies of this paper?"

Eleanor, accompanied by a pet kitten, was playing on the sidewalk. A stray dog came up to them with which Eleanor immediately became friendly. Meanwhile the kitten proceeded to swell up and spit, showing usual cat-dishlike for a dog. Eleanor, noticing the cat's apparent displeasure, said: "Look at that, will you! She always gets like that when I speak to a dog."

NEW COUNTY PROPOSEDOr Annexation to Kenton County.

One of the Dixie Highway road problem the question of what to do in order to get the best and quickest results is a problem that must be solved as quickly as possible. We understand that the south end of Kenton county would be willing to join Boone county in forming a new county.

On account of the North end of Boone not being willing to help with the Dixie highway problem, it is suggested that we form a new county say taking Verona north to Hamilton, thence to a point on the Ohio river, or cut the Dixie into say at Devon, then to Independence, thence to Licking River. That would give us Independence, Nicholson, Whites Tower, Davidson, Stephenson, Bracht, Kenton, Verona, Walton, Hamilton, Beaver, and Richmond precincts. This would put the Dixie Highway through a more central part of a county where we could all be directly interested.

We believe that Verona would be only too glad to get such an arrangement, placing them nearer to a county seat, as they have always had a 20 mile drive to get to court or to transact any other business.

We believe that Kenton county would be only too glad to join the new county or to annex a part of Boone to Kenton. We have the two railroads which furnishes a good tax revenue to help support a new county. It is high time that the people of the South end of Boone set up and take notice or they will lose one of the greatest opportunities they ever had to enhance the value of their property in this end of the county.

Old Boone county sounds good to me, and we would hate to see any changes, but the old Indian Trail for the Dixie must not be lost. Now who is the attorney that will step out in the open and forget the North, South, East and West and centralize our interest and just freeze to us on the Dixie question? It is a sad misfortune, that we are so much isolated, as we are from the central interest of old Boone county; our road is in a deplorable condition, being virtually worn out, especially a part that lies near Walton and about one-fourth mile above, where all machines have to run in low or leave the road with possibly all its occupants thrown out before leaving.

The people of this end of the county doesn't know that Boone has a rock crusher or an army truck, nor a dog gang.

Say, Mr. Tax Payer what are you going to do? Don't you know that we have built bridge after bridge for the north end of the county and how much of our taxes of which we pay, which is much greater than elsewhere in the county, comes back to us? What do you say Mr. Land Owner along and near the south border of Boone?

Lets get together on this matter by calling a meeting of Boone and Kenton citizens and get busy on this road problem.

G. B. POWERS.

BIG COUNTIESARE IN LINE FOR*BURLEY POOL.

Fayette and Woodford Join Bourbon, Carroll and Montgomery in Pledging Seventy-Five Per Cent or More to Market Association.

Lexington, Ky.—With both Woodford and Fayette county joining Bourbon, Carroll and Montgomery in completing their 75 per cent quota of the tobacco crop pledged to the Burley Growers Cooperative Association marketing movement, workers for the new marketing plan have taken hold with a vim to put the movement over the top in the other counties. It is conceded that the success of the marketing movement in outside counties, which were strong-eaters for the old pool, into line.

The campaign is to be pushed from now until the closing time fixed by the organization committee, November 15, but counties which have obtained their quota will continue the campaign by personal solicitation of all growers to join, with a view of having as large an acreage as possible in all of the counties. Some optimistic leaders of the movement predict that before the pool closes in November ninety per cent of the growers will have joined it.

John J. Griswell of Florence neighborhood, was in Burlington attending the tobacco meeting last Saturday, and while in town made the Recorder a pleasant call and had the Recorder sent to him for a year.

DIXIE BURGEOO

The encouragement of canning club girls in the production of special southern dishes attractively prepared for the market has been a feature of extension work throughout the South. The home demonstration have found enthusiastic interest in the canning of the dish known as "Kentucky Burgeois," which lately has been taught in Texas, Louisiana, Alabama, South Carolina and Virginia. It is desirable that any products, which the club girls put on the market be distinctive and different from ordinary commercial canned products, and also that the abundant local foods be utilized to the utmost extent. "Dixie Burgeois" is the trade name adopted by the girls for the "H" brand of this famous old dish. It meets both requirements, in that it is unusual and contains in delightful combination foods easily obtained in most Southern localities.

Original "Kentucky Burgeois" or "H" brand was the name applied by French sailors to oatmeal porridge; in Kentucky it has long been used to designate a combination of meat and vegetables. The meat formerly included game, such as squirrel and rabbit, for which, however, veal and chicken are substituted in the Dixie Burgeois, which contains also the usual vegetables—tomatoes, carrots, onions, celery and cabbage. Corn has been omitted because of the difficulty of securing corn of uniform quality. The recipe for Dixie Burgeois can be had upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT

Kentucky's crop prospects now indicate the production of a corn crop of only about 91,991,000 bushels compared to 100,650,000 bushels in 1920, and a tobacco crop of only 314,738,000 pounds compared to 467,500,000 pounds last year, according to the September crop report issued Sept. 12th at Louisville and Frankfort by the United States Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, in co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna.

Oats are estimated at 6,782,000 bushels, compared to 8,225,000 bushels last year; potatoes 3,741,000 bus. compared to 6,435,000 bus. last year; sweet potatoes 1,727,000 bus. compared to 1,890,000 bushels; barley 108,000 bus. compared to 112,000; total apples 1,172,000 bushels, compared to 5,780,000; commercial apples, only 59,000 bbls. (of three bushels each) compared to 250,000 bbls. last year; peaches 120,000 bus. compared to 1,560,000 bushels last year; pears, 36,000 bushels compared to 308,000 bus. last year; and sorghum for sirup 4,406,000 gallons compared to 4,845,000 gallons last year.

THREE BLOCKS FROM THE GRAND CENTRAL DEPOT

More than three years after he had been gassed at Chateau Thierry, Richard Cross, American Legion veteran of Des Moines, Ia., suddenly was stricken blind recently while sitting at home playing with his cat. Physicians blame the temporary poison for his plight and entertain no hope for his recovery.

To assist in ridding the city of prowlers, petty thieves and holdups, the American Legion post of Wichita, Kan., recently volunteered the services of its 500 members. Due to numerous attacks on women and the resultant panic in their ranks, the chief of police and the city manager accepted the offer. The service men will patrol the streets.

After the state of New York had voted to give ex-service men a bonus by a majority of 700,000, the Court of Appeals held last week that the new law was unconstitutional. The American Legion of the state now is preparing to campaign for an amendment to the constitution, with the Governor of the state and members of the legislature behind them.

BUSINESS COURTESY.

In the judgment of the Publicity Club of Los Angeles, California, courtesy is one of the biggest factors in building up business success. It is amazing how much better a person will get along in life, if he is watchful to do little services for others, and patient and accommodating in meeting their requests for assistance. Those who offer snappish remarks and curt answers never get anywhere beyond the most humble positions.

The fellow who will go out of his way to do favors, is the one who makes the business friends for himself and for his house.

The business success of a great many people has built up largely on their specially friendly and courteous manner. It was said of one such young man the other day, that after meeting and talking with that fellow a few minutes, one felt as if he had known him all his life. He had a kind of open and frank manner that won friends from the start.

In addition to this genial manner, one can show constant thoughtfulness, and can be always thinking how he can serve the interest of the people he meets in business, how he can perform services for them, and assist them in finding the things they want and getting the information they need, and in solving their difficulties, he is very soon going to develop a circle of loyal friends.

People will turn to such a person when they want anything, they feel he will be interested in their needs, and give them careful attention. A man or woman of that kind becomes so useful to everybody that he or she is soon picked out for promotion.

COMMUNITY BREEDING OF FARM ANIMALS.

The United States is an individualistic country. On the whole this spirit has greatly promoted enterprise. Still in some fields, notably in agriculture, there has been a failure to achieve results possible by united effort. This is especially true in such a matter as the breeding of fine cattle and other stock. The tendency is for each stock raiser to pick the breed of cattle, swine or sheep which he prefers, regardless of what his neighbors are doing. As a result, comparatively few communities have a reputation for breeding any particular kind of animal.

When a community fixes upon the breed of animal, and raises that, it greatly profits by specializing on that one line. The opportunity of the buyer is so much better where one breed prevails, that he seeks that community over others.

The result of specializing on one breed is that the small breeder gets recognition where otherwise he would be completely overlooked. While buyers are visiting a town they will look over his stock, but they would never come just to see his little herd.

Localities that specialize on one thing get a world wide reputation. So famous did the state of Vermont become as a center for Merino sheep that they used to send from Australia for them, and the natives were always called Vermont Merinos no matter where they came from.

Then breeders in Maushesha county, Wisconsin, started in 1906 a movement to raise pure bred Guernseys. In 1908 they had 277, pure bred of this strain, and in 1914 they had 2,000. During four years, the butterfat production in the county increased 100 pounds per cow. It made the county known all over the country. Sixty-six breeders owned in 1918, 440,000 worth of Guernseys. Similar results in some line of breeding could be secured in Boone county by specializing on one line.

ORDERS

A colored sentinel challenged another soldier who seemed to be carrying something inside the lines. "Who goes there?" he asked. "Lieutenant with jug of gin" was the answer. "Pass Lieutenant! Halt, gin!" commanded the sentry.

Edison has produced nickel thinner than paper and has had a book printed on it.

SOFT COAL PRODUCTION CONTINUES DECLINE

Retail Trade Improves; Slight Pick-Up in Coke Output.

With the total soft coal production throughout the United States continues to show a slight decline, there is little improvement in Ohio and Kentucky fields. The depression in Western Pennsylvania fields continues.

The United States Geological Survey reports the total bituminous output during the first week of August at 7,296,000 net tons, a decrease of 56,000 tons from that of the week preceding. In the corresponding week of 1918 the output was 12,130,000 tons, and a year ago it was 10,432,000 tons.

Coal dealers in this District report an increasing volume of business. The beginning of this improvement was noticeable about May 1. There are more inquiries coming in, but buyers are still very conservative and are purchasing mostly from dealers. The large coal distributor reports more orders for coal to be delivered than at any time during the past six months. There has been no general movement to fill coal bins for the coming winter. Stocks of coal are reported light. Collections are said to be slowing up.

For the second week in succession, production of beehive coke has recorded an increase. The total output during the week ended August 6th was 55,000 tons, as against 45,000 tons the week before. That the increase is still great will be seen from the fact that the week's output was only 14 per cent as great as that of the corresponding week of 1920.

ROAD PATROLLING BETTER THAN REPAIR GANG SYSTEM

The road patrol system used in Grant county, Wash., is pointed out by the United States Department of Agriculture as an illustration of how highways can be maintained most successfully and economically. Other counties in the State use the "patrol" system, according to each gang a long section, upon which they make repairs at intervals, seldom reaching all the necessary points. In Grant county the plan is to prevent a road from getting into bad condition rather than to make repairs.

There are 13 patrol sections, each from 6 to 10 miles long, in the 87.83 miles of county highways. Each section is in charge of a patrolman, who works constantly on his piece of road, feeling that he alone is responsible for its condition. While these men work under the direction of the county engineer, the details are left largely to their judgment.

A specially constructed light road machine, called locally a "road fixer" is used. It has a long wheel base and two cutting blades rigidly connected with the carrying frame of the machine. The rear wheels are on separate axles, controlled by separate levers. The patrolman carries the necessary small tools for clearing weeds, trimming shoulders, cleaning ditches, and for handling surfacing material. He makes his own repairs in the county repair shop under the direction of a skilled mechanic.

The annual cost of this system, states the Bureau of Public Roads, averages $223 a mile, which is less than other counties pay where the roads receive attention "only when they need it." Grant county has grave roads second to none in the State, and its people are enthusiastic supporters of the patrol system.

THE ROMANCE OF MOONLIGHT.

When the time comes that a person can not feel the loveliness of moonlight, he may conclude he is growing old. To young people the soft and hazy shadows of a night illumined by the moon have an irresistible appeal. It is not necessarily dependent on sentimental companionship, as the scoffer may say. Youth with feeling for the beautiful are so bewitched by this aspect of nature, that you can hardly persuade them to go to bed; and it seems soird and wasteful to think of going into the house and lighting up anything so artificial and coarse as electricity.

Ever generation of young people finds this new wonder in nature. The world seems transformed by night into a kind of ideal dreamland, when the mistral of the heavens replaces the brutal literalness of sunlight. The night thus illumined becomes a world where all sadness has melted into beauty, and all harsh contrasts are softened by some magic healing touch.

IN KENTUCKY.

Mr. George Chumley, Beaumont College, played up, the other day, a Spanish coin of the reign of Charles IV. The coin is in silver, about twice the size of a dime, and bears on one side, "Carolus IV. Dei Gra," and on the other, "Hispan et Ind. Rex." The date is 1796.

Charles IV. was born in Naples on November 12, 1748, and succeeded his brother, Ferdinand VI. in 1788. It is said that throughout his life he was completely under the influence of his wife and her paramour, Godoy, and appears to have had a pretty bad time. Charles died in 1819. The coin found by Mr. Chumley is in good preservation.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

ANNOUNCEMENT.

September 2, 1921

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company makes the following announcement:

"We are making another reduction in the prices of Ford cars and Ford trucks, effective today. The new prices average $70.00 under former prices, and are the lowest at which Ford cars and trucks have ever been sold. List prices, F. O. B. Detroit are now as follows:

	New Price	Old Price	Amount Reduction
Chassis	$295	$345	$50
Runabout	325	370	45
Touring Car	355	415	60
Trucks	445	495	50
Coupe	595	695	100
Sedan	660	760	100

"This is the third price cut during the past twelve months. On Sept. 22, 1920, the price of the Ford touring car was reduced from $575 to $440; June 7th to $415, and now to $365, making total reductions in this type of $220, or 38 per cent. The same proportionate reductions have been made in all other types. One year ago the price of the Ford sedan was $975; today it lists at $660 with the same equipment.

"We are taking advantage of ever known economy in the manufacture of our products in order that we may give them to the public at the lowest possible price, and by doing that, we feel that we are doing the one big thing that will help this country into more prosperous times. People are interested in prices, and are buying when prices are right.

"The production of Ford cars and trucks for August again broke all previous high records with the total reaching 117,696. This is the fourth consecutive month in which our output has gone over the hundred thousand mark, the total for the four months being 463,074, which has gone a long way in making possible the present reductions. June this year, with an output of 117,247 was the previous record month.

"One noteworthy feature of our sales is the increased demand for Ford trucks and cars for salesmen. This class of commercial business has been gradually increasing the past sixty days and we interpret it as a good sign of improvement in general business.

"No reduction has been made in the price of the Fordson tractor, and none is contemplated."

Go over these new prices. See how little it costs to become the owner of a Ford car or a Ford truck. Can you really afford to do without one any longer?

Let us tell you more about it, and advise you regarding the delivery of the particular type of car in which you are interested.

TOBACCO PRICES BETTER THAN PLANTERS EXPECTED.

Tobacco markets in Eastern North Carolina opened with considerable demand reported for the crop. The market at Winston reported a sale of 300,000 pounds at an average price of 18c to 20c a pound and at Winston better than 15c was paid. Prices were better than anticipated by growers.

BETTER STOCK MOVEMENT

MAKING RAPID PROGRESS

With 203 farmers in 20 counties of the State enrolled in the betterment for improved live stock in Kentucky is making rapid progress, according to a report of Wayland Rhoads, beef cattle extension specialist of the College of Agriculture. This number of farmers who are replacing scrub sires with purebreds is four times larger than it was August 1, Mr. Rhoads said. Christian county with 52 farmers enrolled leads all counties of the State in the movement. Fulton, Larue, Graves and Henderson follow in the order named.

Those enrolled are farmers who have agreed to use nothing but purebred sires on all their breeding stock. It is not necessary for farmers to keep all kinds of stock but all that is kept for breeding purposes must be mated to purebred individuals to make it owner eligible for membership in the movement. Any person who desires membership and is eligible should make application through his county agent or the college at Lexington, Mr. Rhoads said.

Many farmers have taken advantage of recent sales to obtain purebred animals with which to replace their scrub sires. More than 135 purebred bulls were distributed to different farms of the State as a result of a sale held in the first part of June while a similar sale during

Bald Heads

Presence On Front Rows at Girls' Shows Is Effort to "Uplift Tone of Performance," Zion Leader Declares.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, has discovered that the baldhead is the noblest work of creation and that the shady jests hurled at the occupants of "baldheaded row" are all wrong. Mr. Voliva made known these facts today before the weekly assembly of the Women of Zion in Shiloh Tabernacle. A bald head denotes, not only intellect, but sterling character and high ideals, according to the Zion oracle.

"If baldheaded men occupy the front rows at burlesque shows," he said, "it is to uplift the tone of the performance. You'll never see a baldheaded man in a lunatic asylum. 'Bald heads are a proof of thought' When a man is thinking continuously the friction of his brain causes heat and eventually this parches the hair."

"But, girls, have nothing to do with a man who runs around without a hat. Whenever you see a young fellow running about hatless you might as well put it down that he has rats in his hair."

"I won't let men who go without hats work in any Zion institution. A hat on a man's head keeps his brains in balance, and shows he is inclined to be modest."

"As for these long-haired fellows, keep away from them. Among them are the men with flawed characters and cracked brains."

LETTING FOLKS KNOW.

It is no uncommon sight, especially in the middle west, in riding thru the country to see roadside stands in front of farm houses on which the various farm products such as fruit, pumpkins, melons and tomatoes are displayed. It seems strange, remarked one man not long ago, that so few of the farmers take the pains to tell about their wares in an ad in the local paper. It would bring many an automobile party to their door.

EARS AND SPECIALISTS

No one except the ear specialist can know much about the complicated and delicate mechanism of the human ear. Before the day of specialists it fell to the lot of the devoted general practitioner to deal with the ills of the ear. That the results were no worse than they were proves his courage and especially his common sense.

In those days the doctor's first idea in most cases was to use the syringe. Sometimes it was a good idea, for careful syringing will remove impacted wax, and that is always a help. But syringing will not do much more than that in any case, and in many cases it will do serious harm. Anxious or officious relatives should never undertake it.

The first thing the specialist does is to find out by means of his apparatus for seeing inside the ear what part is affected—the external ear, the middle ear or the internal ear. Has he got to deal with a boil—an exquisitely painful matter—or with an acute mastoiditis—a very dangerous matter? Only he can determine. If the trouble is in the internal ear, he may use the X rays to help his diagnosis.

When suppuration is taking place inside the ear the farther in it is the greater the danger. The tendency of pus to "burrow back" if it cannot escape in any other way menaces reason and life itself. When the trouble is a boil of the external ear the treatment is to excise and get rid of the pus as soon as possible.

Children sometimes poke objects into one of their ears and what happens a specialist should be called at once. Occasionally an insect finds its way inside the ear and generally causes great agony by its efforts to escape. The best course is to drown the intruder at once with a few drops of water or alcohol and then get it out afterwards.

Some lines of industry have shown definite signs of improvement during the past few weeks. Others are still lagging, but the undertone of optimism, scarcely audible in the quiet recent past, can now be heard more plainly. A part of the improvement is directly traceable to renewed full activity, results of which are already in evidence. However, there are other responsible factors more important, and more lasting than "seasonal spurts."

Various lines of business that have been showing improvement, are working on a conservative basis, and their revival, while not spectacular, has been reasonably sure. They have been sticking to the beaten path. The textile industry, one of the first to feel the effects of depression, slumped for a time and then started to climb. Today it is pointed out as an indication that conditions are working back to normal. The iron and steel business, although not satisfactory, has made considerable progress; iron and steel has started in the right direction and other lines are following. Progress has been shown not only through "seasonal spurts" but through mid-season depression and the results have been lasting.

Back of these improvements are fundamental causes and their effects have been far reaching. During a period of erratic inactivity business has been putting its house in order. Instead of building more "cyclical" industrial leaders have been improving the time by stopping leaks, adjusting working methods and increasing efficiency. The results are clearly evident and today business is sure of its footing, a situation not in existence when prices were soaring, man and management inefficiency was predominant, and orders were booked far in advance of production.

At the present time there are dealers and manufacturers who have cut the prices of their goods and are selling at a very low margin in an effort to stimulate business. Unfortunately, however, there are some people who have failed to see the light and are holding hard and fast to their peak price policy. Their high prices have placed a stumbling block in the path of business, and they are not only jeopardizing their present and future chances for prosperity, but they are passing uneasily with the men who have made substantial profits as his share in the readjustment process.

Production, distribution and the ultimate consumption of goods are the dominating factors in the business cycle. Each one has been keeping a watchful eye on the other, following during the period of readjustment, for progress for one should eventually mean progress for all. Increased production and increased labor go hand in hand. Additional buying power on the part of the ultimate consumer is the result and both working together bring a greater distribution of goods. Naturally, production was first in line and it has been getting its stride. The cost of raw materials has dropped and this reduction has quite generally been passed along.

Co-ordination is an essential element in readjustment and without it improvements cannot be lasting. Production can move along for a time on its own hook, apparently not feeling the need of outside help, but it will not go far. When wages are high the consumer is not particularly interested in prices connected with the distributing part of the program, but when wages are reduced, it is an entirely different matter. The producer found he could not continue alone and the consumer has arrived at the place where expenditures must be watched more carefully. Apparently a "tie-up" has occurred between the distribution of goods and the receiving end.

Such a "tie-up" can only be temporary, for the buyer of goods, as a rule, has changed from his one time extravagant attitude and is making his purchases with greater care. If he does not find what he wants at one place and at a reasonable price, he will keep on looking until he has found it or will go without. He has been educated to the fact that replacement values are not alone responsible for the high prices he has to pay. Such an attitude will eventually mean that prices which are still out of line will in time have to get back where they belong. And this holds true of great and small alike.

There are many who are carrying their share of the burden and have made substantial reductions, however, this burden is becoming increasingly irksome by the stand the "hold out" has taken. This stand is more than a boomerang, for, while it will eventually return to the starting point with few beneficial effects, it is in the meantime causing a strong undercurrent of doubt in the mind of the buyer as to price stability. The buying public is not asleep; they can see the price inconsistencies between goods which they must have and goods which have to be sold, and they will not forget the business house whose distribution prices are in proportion to those of production and wages.

POOR HOUSING OF MACHINERY COSTS FARMERS MILLIONS.

Kentucky Farmers Lose $3,080,366 Annually By Leaving Implements And Tools Exposed To The Weather.

"Open air housing" of machinery costs Kentucky farmers approximately $3,080,366 a year, according to estimates made by J. B. Kelley, head of the farm engineering section of the College of Agriculture. This amount which was estimated from census reports and experiments conducted to determine the respective life-time of properly and improperly housed farming implements is a fair representation of the annual loss suffered by farmers of the State by leaving machinery in the fields and under trees.

According to the 1920 census there is more than $48,354,857 worth of machinery on Kentucky farms, the average life of each piece of which is 15 to 20 years under proper housing conditions. When left exposed to the weather farm tools last only one-half as long, according to the report a properly housed farm tool lasts 15 years while an unprotected one lasts but a little more than seven and one-half years. On this basis failure to house their machinery causes farmers of the state a loss of $6,304,023 a year whereas the depreciation on machinery which is protected from the weather while idle is only $3,223,657.

Despite the heavy losses caused by leaving machinery exposed to weather conditions many farmers still fail to give it the proper protection after the season's work is done. Mr. Kelley said. Many farm implements are left in the fence corners, under trees or in fields where they were last used with the result that rust and the action of the different weather conditions contribute toward heavy damage.

To prevent this loss all machinery should be stored in a suitable house as soon as the season's work is done, care being taken in putting the implements and tools away that all parts are thoroughly cleaned and the bearings or any other parts that are apt to rust greased. Many farmers are finding it helpful to make a list of the broken or missing parts while storing the machinery so that these can be ordered during slack seasons. Plans for implement sheds are being sent out to farmers who wish them from the Experiment Station at Lexington.

FARMERS REALIZING VALUE OF SOYBEANS

Farmers are convinced of the practical value of soybeans in the farm rotation as shown by the fact that the increase in the Kentucky acreage of this crop has been greatly increased during the past few years, according to a new bulletin which is being distributed to interested farmers of the State from the College of Agriculture. At the present time soybeans and cowpeas are the two legumes best adapted as substitutes for clover in the State and of the two soybeans are superior under most Kentucky conditions, the publication states.

Soybeans produce good crops of hay and because of their freedom from attacks of disease and insects and their ability to withstand drought they seldom fail to make good yields. In addition they are valuable for the seed crop they produce, according to the bulletin. The publication was prepared by Geo. Roberts, head of the college agronomy department, and Ralph Kenney, crop specialist. It is No. 232 and may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

NO WANDER SHE HOPPED OFF.

A village girl eloped in her father's clothes. The next day the paper of the town came out with an account of the elopement headed thus: "Floss is Father's Pants."

SIMPLE AND RICH

When costs are at once simple, rich and distinctive they answer all the requirements needed to make them a success. In the model shown here the designer has used the season's new ideas to the best advantage and has produced an original and conservative wrap, plain enough and trimmed enough to pass without criticism.

NEW METHOD OF GASSING WILL KILL PEACH BORER

The peach borer, which is considered one of the most injurious insects affecting peach trees and one which annually causes the premature death of many of them, may be controlled by the use of a chemical known as paradichlorobenzene, according to H. H. Jewett, entomologist at the Ky. Agricultural Experiment Station. This material when placed in the soil at the bottom of the trees slowly gives off a poisonous gas which kills the borers in the most satisfactory manner yet found. Experiments have shown that it is not safe to use the chemical on trees under six years old in spite of the fact that they may be large. The size of the tree is not an item to be considered in applying the control. Mr. Jewett said. The best results with the chemical are obtained by applying it from the first week in September to the first part of October.

Peach growers who wish to use the control should first break the ground around the tree to a depth of one or two inches taking care that the soil is not disturbed a depth deeper than this. The chemical should be scattered one-half an inch away from the tree in a band an inch or two wide. The material is covered with a shovel or two of soil which should be packed down by striking it with the back of the shovel. The gas from the fumigant being heavier than the air penetrates the soil for several inches. From three-fourths to one ounce of the material should be used as a dose for each tree.

The larvae or grubs of the borer work at the crown of the tree and the base of the roots and until recently could be controlled only by "ringing" the trees which proved to be a laborious process when there were many to be given attention. Much of the early loss of vigor by peach trees is due to the uncontrolled attacks of such insects as the borer, Mr. Jewett said.

Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it.

They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTE AFTERTASTE.

Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels.

And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills! These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons.

But QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

NEW CIRCULAR READY ON CUCUMBER BEETLE.

A new extension circular dealing with the striped cucumber beetle has just come off the press and is being distributed from the College of Agriculture to interested farmers of the State. According to the publication, the beetle attacks cucumbers, cantaloupes and other plants of the cucumber family with the result that these are seriously damaged. The publication which is illustrated to show the various stages of the insect also deals with their particular method of attack and gives remedies for their control. It is No. 108 and may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington. Harrison Garman, entomologist at the station, is author of the publication.

Boone County

Exhibitors Capture Many Prizes at State Fair.

Boone Wins Grand Champion Display of All Breeds Of Chickens.

Boone county exhibitors at the State Fair, last week, at Louisville, captured their share of the premiums.

With teams of three boys each from twenty-six counties of the State, in the Junior Livestock Judging Contest, Marvin Kendall, Robert Clore and Franklin Huey and Orville Kelly alternate of Boone county won first prize.

In the show of Poultry T. A. and Jas. W. Huey, of Union, captured first premium in nearly every pen they showed. Other winners from Boone on poultry were, Miss Flora Arnold, of Grant; Dr. E. C. Nelson, of Burlington; John Rachel, of Union; Miss Katherine Clore, of Burlington; Mrs. W. D. Sutton, of Burlington. Second premium—Silver trophy offered by A. W. Haller, Haller Pet Shop, on County Championship, was won by Boone county.

In the boys Judging Contest eight rings of animals were judged by each team, which included two each of dairy and beef cattle, sheep and swine. This winning of this contest is quite an honor to the young farmers from Boone.

Two members from the Junior Judging Contest team will be sent to Atlanta, Ga., to participate in the National Judging Livestock Contest.

Marvin Kendall, a 16-year-old club boy from Florence, Boone county, took second on his senior Jersey bull calf in a class containing entries from fourteen of the most prominent Jersey herds in the country. Young Kendall purchased his animal at a modest price last spring and made the good showing by reason of the care and attention he has given to it, according to W. D. Sutton, County Agent, who instructed him. Kendall is one of the thirty-three Jersey calf club members in Boone county.

Robert Hafer, 14 years old from Boone county, took first prize in the Kentucky breed class for senior yearling Jersey heifers as well as sixth prize in the classes open to all owners of senior yearling Jersey heifers.

Robert Clore, a young swine raiser from Boone county, defeated adult breeders of Chester White swine for second place in the gilt and boar classes.

W. G. Finn, of Burlington, won the College Judging contest by over 110 points. Mr. Finn won his contest in judging hogs, sheep, dairy and beef cattle, jennets and mules.

Jas. W. Huey, of Union, won 48 out of 50 entries on Barred Plymouth Rocks, and he was kept busy taking orders for stock which is of the best strains.

Maurer Bros., captured strings on their White Leghorns, and to Boone county went the Grand Champion display of all breeds of chickens.

J. F. Cleek, of Walton, took 12 ties in his exhibit of Poland China hogs. S. B. Ryle & Son, of Grant, took a number of ties on the Jerseys they had on exhibition.

Farm Agent Sutton was the busiest man at the fair, as he looked after the interest of all of the Boone county exhibitors, and to him is due quite a good deal of the credit for the success of the exhibit at the State fair made by Boone county people.

Among those from Boone county in attendance at the fair were: Jas. Smith, S. B. Ryle, Edward Botts, Orville Kelly, W. G. Kite, Hubert Ryle, Grant; E. Y. Randall, Petersburg; Clem Kendall and son, Marvin, Florence; G. O. Hafer, Hubert Conner, E. J. Aylor, Robt. Hafer, Hebron; J. F. Cleek, Walton; James W. Huey, Union; Judge S. Gaines, J. B. Arvin, Thos. Henley, Chas. Maurer, Robert Clore, Franklin Huey, W. G. Finn, W. D. Sutton, Joe Walton and wife, A. W. Corn and wife, J. H. Stevens, J. Deleahanty and wife, Mrs. Hubert White, Thos. Perciful and wife, Eliza Vallandigham and wife, Osmon Jack, Fred Miller, Mrs. Annie Huey, Miss Jeanette Huey, and J. Allie Grant.

BUSINESS COURAGE.

The Nation's Business magazine gives an interesting story from Spartanburg, South Carolina, showing how some business plants met the business depression and conquered it. Twenty thousand looms in the cotton mills of that city have been humming along ever since October, though many mills elsewhere have been shut down.

These mill operators believed it better policy to keep running, even if they made a small loss. If they had shut down, their great organization would have gone to pieces. Valuable workers would have drifted away. Operating the mills would have cost more when the boom times returned.

Now they have gained the added good will of their workers by their generous policy. No labor troubles even if they had had to work goods have full confidence in their employers. These mills operate economically, as the result of keeping a force in which there is little turnover of labor. And the remarkable outcome has been that where they expected to lose a loss through the period, they actually have come out with a small profit.

Many manufacturing concerns have had no choice but to shut down, as goods would not sell at any price. It is not desirable to stack up vast quantities of products that are not sold, as it takes a great amount of capital to finance such operations, which tends to maintain a dangerous inflation.

Some concerns however have been over cautious, and would have done better to keep running regularly, even if they had to work goods apparently at a slight loss. The surplus of commodities accumulated during the inflated period has now been worked off, and the purchasing power of the people must soon be felt in a big demand for goods. The plants that have been kept running regularly will be in the best position to meet this demand and will operate with the most efficient labor force.

THE RECURRENCE OF "PEP"

The American people have become fond of the word "pep." It stands for the spirit that has made this country the greatest in the world that has overthrown innumerable obstacles and established the best government and in the most comfortable prosperity.

Some people are born lazy, while others have untiring zeal for anything they undertake. This difference is to some degree a matter of climate. Fall weather is a great renewer of activity. Millions of folks who have been marking time thru the hot summer months, feel full of the spirit in the best position to meet the cooler weather is here.

People who obey the rules of health, and who have ambition, can show energy with little comfort. So let us all here in Boone rejoicing in the bright tonic of fall sunshine, take hold of our business and civic and industrial tasks with the good old "pep" that has put us where we are today.

Harvest Home

Day's Program Spoiled By Rain—Large Crowd in Attendance.

Everybody from everywhere attended the Thirty-Sixth annual meeting of the Boone County Harvest Home, last Saturday. The day was an ideal autumn product, up until noon, just such as the management had been wishing for all season, and the outpouring of people crowded the spacious benches with the good old "pep," and none of the meetings of the association of the past would have been more of a success, had it not been for the heavy downpour of rain which began falling about 1:30 p. m., accompanied by loud claps of thunder, violent streaks of lightning and a heavy wind, spoiling the day's program.

It was with difficulty that the large crowd found shelter, and as soon as the rain ceased, the people began leaving for home, and the exhibits of all kinds and the badly disfigured exhibits not having time to get them under shelter.

The display of live stock, field and garden products, and other articles were not up to those of former years, but was better than anyone had anticipated.

Rev. Tomlin occupied the pulpit at the Burlington Methodist church, last Sunday morning and evening, having been returned to the charge of Burlington and Florence churches for another year, by the Conference in session at Somerset, last week.

WORKERS

Hustling to Sign Up Boone Co's Seventy-Five Per Cent.

Chairman C. O. Hemphing and his assistants in the drive to sign Boone county growers in the Burley Growers' Cooperative Association are hustling this week. A poll of Boone county growers their averages is being completed, and a strong drive will be made next week to get Boone in the 75 per cent class.

The campaign is to be pushed from now until the closing time fixed by the organization, November 15, but counties which have obtained their quota will continue the campaign by personal solicitation of all growers to join with a view of having as large an acreage as possible in all of the counties. Some optimistic leaders of the movement predict that before the poll closes in November ninety per cent of the growers will have joined it.

SELF DEVELOPMENT

In any trade or occupation it has long been a well known fact that those who succeed develop themselves along the line of their business whether that be farming or any other line.

Each person should keep a good set of text books, and each day spend some time in adding to his education in a general way, which will add to his knowledge and develop his judgment and ability.

If your business is that of farming, you can find a line of books up on soil development and crop growing. Then there are many first-class up-to-date journals which will help to develop ourselves, and become efficient in our farming.

For hard study and good work in self development, one needs to shut out for awhile, the hurrahs of the crowd, and put in close application upon their given line of study.

There is a reason for success or failure, find that reason, and know your game.

LETTER FROM TENNESSEE

From Former Boone County Lady—Likes to Hear From Old Kentucky Home.

Chattanooga, Tenn.

When I was at home a year ago some of my friends insisted on me writing a letter to the Boone County Recorder. So in renewing my subscription have concluded to send a few lines. When I read the paper last week and hearing they had a good fair this year and large crowds, both Friday and Saturday at Florence, it made me a little home sick. Although I am very much in love with Chattanooga, I came here the latter part of January, 1908. The population then was 55,000. This city including its immediate suburbs now, has a population of 115,000. It has 356 factories turning out 1,300 diversified products. They call it "The Dynamo of Dixie," and the Convention City.

Over 20,000 people have visited Chattanooga, attending 29 conventions and gatherings held here so far this year, according to an estimate made by the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The largest convention of the year was the Southern Baptists in May. Ten thousand people, including messengers and visitors from all over the south, and many distinguished speakers were brought from points north east and west. The hotels and citizens in their private homes took care of these thousands of guests so splendidly that the papers throughout the country were extravagant in declarations of unparalleled hospitality.

August 8 to 13th records show that 5,800 Knights of Khorassans from all parts of the U. S. and Canada met here, and quite a number of other conventions are booked including the Confederate Veterans Reunion which will meet here the latter part of October three days. There are only 75 living. They are to be entertained in private homes and the very best given them free of cost. All are cordially invited. There are 20,000 people expected here during the time in 1913 the Confederate Veterans Reunion was held here, and there were 40,000, and they were easily taken care of. We have a splendid fair commencing October 1, lasting a week, day and night. Every county in the State is represented with exhibits from the schools and farms. A fine display of poultry, horses and stock of all kinds from other states. Chattanooga is just in its infancy. We are but in the beginning of growth now. I see a marvelous future for our city. The Infinite Builder has given us the suggestion of our future. It remains for us to see the vision and fill out the outlines.

They have voted bonds to the amount of three quarters of a million to erect a memorial auditorium commencing the first of the year. We have a concrete bridge across the Tennessee river that cost a million dollars.

The history of Chattanooga is more thrilling than any romance. It is nestled in the valley at the bases of Missionary Ridge, Lookout Mountain and Signal Mountain. Chattanooga is charming. It has a fleet of fine street cars. It also has the steepest incline in the world. When you ride up that incline to the top of Lookout mountain you are high in the world and can see the ridges of seven States with the aid of a lens or the small voice of imagination. Range after range, peak after peak of mountains—look down the city by auto and electric car lines. It is wonderful, beautiful. The scenic surroundings have no parallels in any of her competitors nor in some respects any city in the world.

Many cities have natural beauty and unique spots made by the genius of man, but our city's surroundings are unique. Our many valleys are picturesque beautiful, but our mountains add majesty and solemnity to beauty. Man can build that which is beautiful but it takes God to build that which is majestic and sublime. It is worth crossing the continent to view these scenes. Tourists passing through this Gate City are charmed with the diversified natural scenery and amazed at the commemoration of the historic incidents enacted here.

Every foot of ground you walk on in this city has been blessed by the blood of brave men for the greatest battles of the Civil War. I should be delighted to read letters from other subscribers of the Boone County Recorder. This would be a good way to hear from old friends that have moved to other states. We owe it to the memory of the departed editor and the present one to help make the paper as interesting as possible. I have never forgotten my old friends nor my home in Union, and the Recorder is always a welcome visitor with me.

DORA C. BANNISTER.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

The youngsters who are now returning to their book work ought to be inspired this year to develop better school spirit. Colleges and private schools build up a tremendous prestige as the result of this sentiment. Every college student is incited to give his efforts and his enthusiasm to boosting the reputation and success of his institution, in athletics, in scholarship, and every student activity.

Many high schools develop this spirit, but in others there is little loyalty to the school and its undertakings. A school with a fine spirit of loyalty gives a town a wide spread reputation, and gets better support from its taxpayers and its pupils obtain greater advantages.

Every pupil in Boone county should realize that he is a partner in the enterprise of creating high class schools in this community. If he makes a record that will do credit to his school, if he throws himself with enthusiasm into all its undertakings, he has done a lot to improve the institution which is helping him shape his future.

A BILLION FOR FARMERS

The billion for farmers authorized by Congress will relieve the strain upon banks, and should improve the outlook for business. It will be a boomerang to business and a sock-dolager to farmers unless the farmers exercise the good discretion of good business men and borrow money upon a business-like basis; borrow it to meet the actual requirements of their business, and when there is a prospect of being able to carry the burden assumed.

The loan considered as a life-line, and not as a watermelon—and doubtless nine farmers in ten will so consider it because every farmer knows that paying off loans is an uphill business in his business—may be of considerable benefit to business in the country and to business in cities.

Uphrift in assuming new obligations would make the farmers temporarily beneficial to the merchants, but the results of unthrift would be swift in coming as well as sure. Business intown would suffer, not as much as business in the country perhaps, but it would feel the effect of difficulties on the farm.

There is no quick and easy way to welfare for any class. Thrift and foresight always must be exercised. Vigilance is the price of getting ahead. As the farmer always has been a conservative borrower, and a willing sacrificer of unnecessary expenses upon the altar of necessity it may be that to advise farmers to borrow conservatively would be to be efficacious.

The case of the burley tobacco grower of Kentucky is a case apart from that of the general farmer of the United States. He is upon the road to the organization of a new plan of marketing under which there is a splendid promise of increase of profits. He has in his hands the means of meeting his obligations, and a good business man regards it good business man regards it good business to borrow money when it may be used profitably.—C. J.

Splendid

Record Made By Boone County Farmers at State Fair.

Special to the Recorder:

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 19.—Boone county farmers as well as many agricultural club members from that section of the State made a splendid record at the Kentucky State Fair held here Sept. 12 to 17 judging from the number of prizes which they took in competition with farmers and club members from other counties of the State.

Boone county won second place in the poultry standardization exhibit held in connection with the fair under the direction of the College of Agriculture at Lexington, the team of three junior agricultural club members from that county was first in the junior livestock judging contest, held under the direction of the college while a number of club members from the county did outstanding things in the competition for the prizes offered farm boys and girls.

Robert Clore, Marvin Kendall and Franklin Huey composed the team which won first honors in the junior livestock judging contest and the judging team championship of the State. The team won $42 in cash prizes and the silver trophy offered by the Louisville Livestock Exchange. The trophy will remain the permanent property of the team which wins it two years in succession.

While they were helping their county to win the contest the members of the team also were establishing some of the highest scores made in the contest thereby winning for themselves additional prizes. Robert Clore was second highest man out of the 72 boys entered in the contest, Marvin Kendall was second and Franklin Huey tied for tenth place. By reason of his being second highest man in the contest Clore will be a member of the Kentucky Junior Livestock Judging Team which will be composed of the three highest scoring boys.

Boone county also defeated thirteen other counties in the poultry standardization exhibit by taking 1st prizes in the Barred Plymouth Rock classes.

After making their good record in the judging contest members of the Boone county team together with several other boys entered the open competition in the livestock classes to defeat adult breeders for prizes after they had first won in the club classes. Young Kendall took second on his Jersey bull in a class containing animals from 14 of the best known Jersey herds in the country. He was defeated for first prize by the Allen Dale Farms at Shelbyville.

Robert Hafer took sixth in the open classes on his senior yearling Jersey bull in the Kentucky breed class for senior yearling heifers, thereby defeating several noted breeders.

Robert Clore was first prize winner in the pig showing contest in which a number of club members from different counties of the State vied with one another for the prizes.

Moonshine

Another Still Smashed and Operator Arrested.

W. M. Hisle called by telephone last Monday afternoon informing Deputy Sheriff Harold Conner that a moonshine still was then in operation on his farm near Bullittsville.

Deputy Conner went at once and found a sixty gallon moonshine still in operation and Emrie Hoskins was in charge, and there had been made about one-half gallon of liquor which was confiscated together with the large copper worm. Several barrels of mash ready to be distilled were also destroyed. This still was in charge of one who seemed to be an expert in making liquor, and he said he had spent a greater part of his life in Clay county. He certainly is an expert in making moonshine and said he made only the best. Hoskins implicated W. M. Hisle and a warrant was issued for him, which was placed in the hands of Sheriff Conner, who went at once to the residence of Mr. Hisle and put him under arrest and his examining trial fixed for today (Thursday). Hoskins was held to the grand jury. William Kruse and Irven White (colored) were with Hoskins when he was arrested.

Hisle denies being implicated in or having anything to do with the making of the liquor, but was doing all he could to prevent it being made on his farm.

TO TOBACCO GROWERS.

Other counties in the Blue Grass are already over the top with their quota of marketing contracts. We can't afford to let Boone county drag, every effort has been made to fully acquaint all growers of tobacco of our marketing plans and contract—that it is the best plan ever formed and is fully endorsed by your banker and business man. If you haven't a contract call the committeeman nearest you and get one NOW. He will also be pleased to give you any information you may want. Hubert Beamon, Harve Tanner, Florence; Emmitt Riddell, Constance; Wm. Eggleston, E. P. Wiggins; Bud Clouse, Lacy Cropper, E. Y. Randall, Charley Moore Petersburg; Don Williamson, Lewis Stephens, Solon Ryle, Carlton; Frank M. Walton, Bellevue; Bluffe Kirtley, Hamilton, Leslie Earlow, Ira Aylor, R. REDUCING THE TAXES.

An ancient fable called "Counting your chickens" tells about the dairymaid who was so intent on calculating the increase from her prospective chickens, that she dropped the eggs that were to hatch out the flock and her dreams ran to waste on the ground. In much the same spirit of confidence, our Republican friends are already bragging about the great reduction they will make this year in the taxes.

But it has not appeared yet that they have reduced expenses any. If they have something by letting go some office holders, they are losing through heavy expenditure for the army and navy and other costs. The problem of getting back to pre-war basis is not so easy as it looked when they were sitting on the back fence and criticizing the Wilson administration.

Some of their calculations are based on the idea that they are going to get $100,000,000 revenue out of their new tariff bill. But importers who are familiar with all the conditions affecting customs duties, say that many of the rates of duty proposed in the Fordney bill will shut off importations so there will be no revenue. There is no money coming in from customs when you put duties up so far that people can't afford to buy foreign goods.

Good judges of revenue matters believe that the total of customs duties under the new law may be about $400,000,000 at the outside, which will be only $77,000,000 more than during the year 1920. What is likely to happen, is that the government finding itself about $600,000,000 short of funds, will have to borrow that amount of money to pull thru the coming year.

The people will not feel that anything is gained even if their taxes are cut $600,000,000, when they learn that an equal amount has been added to the public debt on which they must pay principal and interest. It will be time to jubilate about the reduction of taxes, when the year closes with a balance in the treasury and without increase in the public debt.

WIFE IS BEST ASSET.

Then, too, there is much pathos that the county agent falls heir to. Husbands that want to be progressive, feed tankage to the hogs, use fertilizers and the like and their wives won't let them. Wives who want to make money out of their poultry and can't even get their husbands to make a self-feeder out of a store box. Boys who want in to the pig club and their parents won't let them.

My observation is that the farm that gets into the paying class must be managed by a real man and woman. Farming isn't like other work; manufacturers can frequently succeed financially even though their wives take no interest in the business, but not so with farming. It's a family affair with all hands up and coming.

And farmers generally believe in their own game. I recently attended a pig auction, where the pleasures of farming were debated. Even the budding Henthorneses failed to convince the judges that the tancly presented arguments of the affirmative did not show farming to have more pleasures than pains.—The County Agent in Farm Life.

W. M. Hally will have a sale of Big Type Poland China hogs on Tuesday, Oct. 4th. The sale will be held at E. K. Stephens' barn, 4 miles north of Bullittsville. Watch for advertisement in paper and bills.

LEGION NOTES

Men who accepted officers commissions for the world war only and who were wounded or disabled are officers of the regular army, the American Legion's national legislative committee declared last week in paying Secretary of War Weeks to extend the privilege to them. The selective service law and an opinion of the army's judge advocate general were cited as justifying the claim.

No mystery surrounds the shooting in Nashville, Tenn., last week of Carl Peters, world war veteran. He refused to take a drink. Carrying out his American Legion injunction of "law and order," Peters when accosted on the street late at night by a hospitable bootlegger, politely declined a proffered draught of white whiskey. The h.b. insisted and when Peters still refused, the former drew a pistol and fired. The ex-soldier went to the hospital with a bullet in his leg and the moonshine merchant went to jail.

Major General John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, will go to Kansas City this fall to visit the man who safely chauffeured him thru France while he was commanding the famous Second Division, A. E. F., according to word received from him last week by the American Legion convention committee. Incidentally General Lejeune also will attend the Legion's national convention there. He will be driven through the quiet streets of the convention city by his erstwhile chauffeur, Victor H. Lenge, Kansas City.

Representation in the American commission to the international disarmament Congress November 11 by at least one soldier of the world war was asked of President Harding last week by the American Legion's national legislative committee at Washington. "There is no group in the nation that knows as much about war and has as vital an interest in the problem of war and peace as the ex-service men of the country," the Legion declared. The committee also urged Secretary Hoover to give the Legion representation on behalf of service men in the unemployment conference soon to be held.

During the celebration of "Buddy Week" in Baltimore last week, a relay of 24 American Legion runners carried the "buddy proclamation" from President Harding at Washington to the mayor of Baltimore. Service men from several eastern and southern states attended the meeting.

The official song of the International Aero Congress to be held in Omaha this fall will be "His Last Flight," dedicated to S. Rankin Drew, first American aviator to die in the world war. Drew was killed in aerial combat. The song was written by members of S. Rankin Drew post, the American Legion, composed of actor and writer war veterans of New York City.

Charging that bodies of returned soldiers dead at the armistice at Hoboken are handled with less respect than are boxes of merchandise, the American Legion department of New Jersey has urged the governor and adjutant general of the state to place officers prominently on duty at that base to demand proper treatment of the bodies. Removal of the dead has become a fatigue duty for soldiers, in practice if not by order, investigation has disclosed. Unkempt men jostle the flag covered caskets into disreputable looking trucks and drivers bounce their precious loads over rough streets at a high rate of speed. It is charged with no military guards accompanying the remains.

Washed war leaders will return to their Missouri homes as a result of the American Legion national convention in Kansas City this fall. A home-coming celebration will be held by Gen. John J. Pershing, Maj. Gen. Enoch H. Crowder and Rear Admiral R. E. Conant, chief of naval operations, all native Missourians. General Pershing was born in Laclede, Mo., Gen. Crowder in Edinborough and Rear Admiral Conant in Hannibal.

Evidence of the ridiculous and malicious arguments which radicals and disloyalists in New York are presenting to jobless ex-service men to alienate them from the government has been presented by Wm. F. Deegan, American Legion member of Mayor Hylan's committee on unemployment, coping with the situation. To a crowd in Union Square, recently, Mr. Deegan reported, a radical orator shouted that "even the shoe trust is conspiring against you. They are keeping you out of a job so you'll have to wear out shoe leather walking the streets. Then they'll get you for another pair of shoes!"

A state-wide suspension of business and a funeral oration by the governor of the state, marked the funeral at Carson City, Nevada, of a farmer boy who went to war and made the supreme sacrifice. The honored hero was Lawrence Peter Foged. One of his daily tasks before he went to war was to deliver milk at the executive mansion. The funeral was conducted by the American Legion and J. G. Bergham, national vice-commander of that organization attended.

Improving Lines of Travel.

Much has been said about the desirability of improving the property through which railroads and leading motor routes pass. The traveler by railroad usually sees little of a town but tumble down sheds and chicken coops in people's back yards. The property along the motor lines often shows a greater deal of neglect and disorder.

A fine example of a general movement for improving these conditions, is noted in Kansas, called the Peabody Plan. The Chamber of Commerce in Peabody of that state has initiated a state wide movement, to clean up conditions along the railroad and main automobile lines.

This chamber has offered a generous prize of $1,000 in cash to any organization of boys in any second or third class city or town in Kansas, for the highest score for beautification of the property abutting on railroad lines or main auto-with the best score for healthy play, useful work, fellowship, and church and community work.

Clean up and improvement work along the routes of travel counts 40 per cent of the total score. It is suggested that the boys can persuade property owners to whitewash fences, remove rubbish and unsightly buildings, plant flowers and shrubbery, remove rubbish and unsightly buildings.

The prize is liberal and it will start a lively competition in Kansas. There ought to be a similar competition in Kentucky. Any town where the boys or girls took hold of such an improvement scheme in a year or two to present a well-kept appearance. It would do a lot to convince travelers and visitors that the city was a live one, and it would be worth a great deal as advertising. Business Men's organizations might well start competitions of this kind among their various local societies, to see which would accomplish the most in beautifying the routes of travel.

SCHOOL NOTES.

(By Fred S. Kiskey)

The first basket ball game of the season will be with Petersburg Friday Sept. 23. The game will be played here and will start at 2:30 p. m. Everyone come out and root hard for the team.

We are to have another Lyceum Course this year. The first number "The Singers and Players Club" will be given Saturday evening, Oct. 1st. The hearty cooperation of Boone county people will make this course a success. Season tickets may be secured from any High School student.

Visitors are always welcome to our morning exercises held from 8:30 to 9:00 on Wednesday's. Social programs are planned for these days.

TWO WAYS OF GETTING ALONG

There are two ways of getting along in the world—by earning and collecting. However, the process is complicated by the fact that some earn without collecting, while others collect without earning, and those who earn are too busy earning to collect, while those who collect without earning are too busy collecting to earn what they collect.

Knowledge of Current Events.

An examination paper on current events recently taken by 17,500 college, high school, and upper grade grammar pupils, showed that these young people could answer only 44 per cent of questions that every intelligent young person is supposed to know. As one illustration, in one New England city only seven out of 21 high school seniors knew who Henry Cabot Lodge is.

The average high school and college pupil does not know much about current events. Many school authorities say that their programs are too crowded with subjects now, and that they could not add the study of contemporary history without excluding matters just as essential. Boys read the newspapers a good deal, but most of their attention goes to the sporting page. School girls are not often seen showing interest in current events.

However, many schools now feel it so important to interest young people in the thrilling events of these changing times, that they give their pupils regular lessons based on current topics found in magazines.

If young people had to prepare one composition a week on some topic like the League of Nations, the Disarmament Conference, the Tariff, the Tax Law, etc., they would not merely get splendid practice in writing English but their interest in the big questions of the day would be aroused.

The young person who goes out in to the world with little interest in the events of the day, is badly handicapped for life. Business people look with contempt on the school graduate who never heard of Sinn Fein or Charles E. Hughes. They think such ignorance argues so superficial a mind that such a one is not fit for promotion. If young people can form early in life the habit of newspaper reading, they will perform the duties of citizenship with far greater competence and they will play the game of life and business with much better results for themselves.

BASE BALL.

Taylorport ball team will go to Ludlow next Sunday to play the second game of a series, Ludlow winning a best game by a score of 7 to 3. This will be a good game as the Boone county boys are going to win if good playing will do it. Sandford will be in the box for Taylorport.

A small new community had talked for some time of building a clubhouse, but it was postponed from time to time. One day Arthur came running into his home and, as he had just seen a wagonload of logs pass by, exclaimed: "Mamma, they are starting the clubhouse. I saw a load of logs going by."

Suicide Among Musicians Rare.

It has been found that suicide is very uncommon among musicians. Schumann attempted it, and it is also recorded of Tchaikowsky, but cases of musicians who have killed themselves are very rare. It is said that these facts are so, because of the mental composure and balance fostered by music.

E. Warren Utz, one of the hustling young farmers of Union precinct, was transacting business at the Hub, last Friday, and while in town called at the Recorder office and gave us $1.50 for another year's subscription.

A. F. Milner who has been conducting a general store at Constance, for the past seven years, sold his stock, dwelling and store property to J. Wood Riggs, last week, who will continue the business. Mr. Milner and wife were good Kentucky people and Boone county does not like to lose them as citizens. They will be welcomed by the citizens in their new home in Indiana.

This part of the county was visited by a heavy rain and wind storm last Saturday afternoon, accompanied by hail in many places, although not heavy enough to injure the corn and tobacco. A great many dead limbs were blown from the shade trees in town, while at other places trees were blown down. Some of the people who reside out on the East Bend road, in returning from the Harvest Home, had to go via Bellevue, on account of trees being across the road in two or three places.

At Independence Monday one of the largest crowds that was ever in that town heard the Tobacco Co-operation question discussed by Judge Bingham, R. M. Barker, Geoffrey Morgan and Gen. Wood, President of the Farm Bureau. At noon a dinner was served to all present on the court house lawn. After the speaking nearly all of the tobacco growers signed the cooperative contract. The tobacco raisers who fail to sign this contract stand in their own light. No one should hesitate as it is the only remedy for the tobacco situation.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Viola Lodge, No. 278, I. O. O. F.
Hebron, Ky., Sept 7, 1921.

Whereas, The Messenger of Death has invaded our assembly and taken from us our beloved friend and brother, W. L. Riddell, on Sunday, June 19th, 1921, aged 72 years, 10 months and 24 days.

Be it resolved, That in the death of Brother Riddell our lodge has lost an exceptionally faithful and devoted brother; one who was always congenial, always had a smile for his brothers, always willing to assist in the work and ever ready to render any service within his power. One who had the interest of our lodge at heart and showed it by every deed.

Be it further resolved, That Viola Lodge, No. 278, has lost a highly esteemed Charter member and the county of Boone a citizen whose daily life exemplified the exalted principles of true fraternity; quiet dignified and unassuming; he was diligent in every good and progressive movement of his community.

Be it further resolved, That we, as a lodge, bow in humble submission to the will of Him who has made it possible for us to have claimed fraternal fellowship with such a high, noble man as our departed brother.

Be it further resolved, That we extend to the friends and relatives our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, That a page of our records be set apart in memory of our departed brother, and a copy of these resolutions be spread thereupon, and a copy be furnished the bereaved widow, and a copy be sent to the Boone County Recorder for publication.

MAD DOGS

This is the time of year when dogs go mad in greater numbers than at any time of year, and it is the time when we ought to take every precaution against rabies. It is easier to prevent a child from being bitten by a dog than it is to cure a child after it has been bitten.

Any time is a good time to declare war on the stray dog, whether in the city or on the farm, but there is no better time than during the summer months.

Furthermore, there is no better way in which the "good dogs" may be safeguarded than by protecting them from rabblers, and this protection is given them when we try to protect the men, women and children. A good plan would be to shoot every stray dog on sight, and every known dog that begins to act suspiciously as well.

A really valuable dog is not going roaming around over the community; you can count on that.

BERT MAKING GOOD.

Last Friday's Kentucky Post carried a good likeness of Bert Smith, a former Boone county citizen, and under which appeared the following: "When one thinks of a letter carrier he thinks of walking. But not so with Bert Smith, postal employee, of Taylor and Anspach, South Bellevue."

"Smith began his service in the postal service in January, 1908, at Burlington, Boone-co. In 1913 he was transferred to Newport, and, with the exception of a short time, has been in that mounted service."

"He was the first postal employee to be assigned to duty in the motor vehicle service in Newport."

"There are eight little Smiths at his home."

A great many people visited McVille, last Sunday, to watch the work of the Farm Bureau. At noon a dinner was served to all present on the court house lawn. After the speaking nearly all of the tobacco growers signed the cooperative contract. The tobacco raisers who fail to sign this contract stand in their own light. No one should hesitate as it is the only remedy for the tobacco situation.

PIGS SUFFER WHEN

MOTHER IS OVERFED

Many farmers are guilty of over-feeding their brood sows at farrowing time with the result that the flow of milk is so great that the pigs are thrown off feed, according to animal husbandry specialists. To overcome this condition feeders at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station withhold feed from the sow on the day she farrows giving her nothing but water. For the next two or three days she is given a light feed of shipstuf or middlings in the form of a thin slop. On the fifth day after farrowing corn meal is introduced into the ration which then consists of about one pound of corn meal, four pounds of shipstuf and one-tenth of a pound of tankage. These feeds are then gradually increased until at the end of 10 days the ration consists of three pounds of shipstuf, three pounds of corn meal and one-half of a pound of tankage. At the end of 30 days the feed is composed of seven pounds of corn meal, five pounds of shipstuf or middlings and one pound of tankage. This is considered a full feed and is obtained by gradually increasing the feed from the tenth day. According to the feeders, the amount of feed given the sow should depend on her size, the number of pigs she is suckling and her ability to give milk.

When on full feed the sows should be receiving an average of about 4 per cent of their live weight in grain each day. This is fed in the form of a thin slop. If skim milk is to be had it is well to add a limited amount of this to the ration. Some sows have demonstrated that they are capable of giving but little milk and begin to fatten as soon as the feed is increased. In cases of this kind it is necessary to reduce the feed. In a few instances on the station farm a 300-pound sow having eight thrifty pigs has been given as much as 20 pounds of grain each day. Part of this feed however was consumed by the pigs since the troughs are so constructed that the young animals can eat with their mothers when old enough.

FERTILIZERS INSURE

VIGOROUS WHEAT CROP

Fertilizers play an important part in helping farmers combat the Hessian fly inasmuch as they make it possible for wheat sown after the fly-free dates, or later than October 5th in Kentucky, to make a vigorous growth and withstand the winter, according to crop specialists of the College of Agriculture. So important is this factor that all soils outside of the Bluegrass should be treated with either acid phosphate or basic slag at the rate of 200 pounds an acre or bone meal at the rate of 150 pounds an acre before being seeded with wheat, Prof. Geo. Roberts, head of the college agronomy department said.

"Unless wheat ground has previously been treated with plenty of available phosphorus it will be necessary to use some phosphate at seeding time to enable the roots to make a vigorous growth and development which will prevent winter heaving. Since practically all soils outside of the Bluegrass are deficient in this element it is essential that some be used. If possible to do so farmers also should apply limestone to soils that have not been limed before. The phosphates may be drilled broadcast at seeding time.

"That this form of soil treatment is profitable is shown by the results which have been obtained on soil experiment fields conducted by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. On six fields the average increase from the use of lime and acid phosphate has been more than eight bushels of wheat an acre. Treating the soil before sowing wheat also will enable the crop to withstand the winter in good shape and make a vigorous growth next spring."

Contractors finished, moving Dr. Yelton's residence, last Friday evening, and it is now on the foundation just at the edge of town. Work of grading for his new residence has been completed.

FALL PLOWING WILL

KILL INSECT PESTS

Many injurious insect pests that hibernate in the soil or rubbish about the farm or garden and escape death from insecticides because of their large numbers of particular methods of attacking plants may be controlled most easily by deep fall plowing according to recommendations made by entomologists at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station to farmers of the State. Wire worms, cut worms, white grubs, or the young of June beetles, tobacco worms, army worms, plant bugs, grasshoppers, corn web-worms, corn ear-worms, clover leaf beetles, and a large number of small leaf hoppers are the particular ones which suffer from being exposed to the weather by plowing. According to the entomologists a study of these insects has shown that until some specific remedy is discovered for each one of these farmers will have to depend in a large degree on plowing, clean cultivation, and other practices as a means of protection. Plowing is perhaps the most important of these and can be followed profitably in Kentucky because of the periods of open weather during the fall and winter. Kentucky farmers have never used this method of control to the best advantage, the entomologists say.

Some of these insects, such as the wire worms, work only on the roots where sprays will not reach them. Others live within the stems of the plants where they are equally exempt from either poisons or contact insecticides while still others, like the cut worms and chinch bugs, work among the weeds and grasses where they escape the observation of the farmer. Flea beetles live over the winter on night shades. Smart weed, rag weed, purslane, foxtail and others harbor the corn root aphid. Plant bugs hibernate in all kinds of weeds and grasses. Old squash vines contain pupae of the squash borer and cabbage stocks furnish a hiding place for the cabbage louse and carry the eggs of this insect thru the winter. Because of these facts it is important to destroy all crop remnants, burn fence rows and pick up loose materials that will furnish hiding places for the insects.

Where it is necessary to plow in order to destroy the insects this should be done deeply in order to bury many of the insects so that they are unable to get out in the spring and expose others to winter weather and natural enemies. Insects of this kind, like the tobacco worm, lying in their earthen cases go through the winter safe against frost much the same as the buried potato does because the change from freezing to thawing comes gradually. For this reason throwing them to the surface by plowing destroys many of them since they are subjected to sudden changes.

SILO REDUCES COST

OF BEEF PRODUCTION

Beef cattle feeding records which have been kept by a number of farmers during the past two years show that the silo occupies an important place in the economical production of beef for the market, feeding specialists say. Even with the shortage of help and the high cost of filling this means of feeding cattle through the winter has lessened the cost of beef production. This is an important point, the specialists say since the lower prices being paid for livestock and livestock products make it necessary for the farmer to reduce the cost of production if he is to realize a profit on his labor.

Records kept during the past two years by the farmers who cooperated with the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture show that where cattle were carried thru the winter on light gains and finished later on grass four bushels of corn in the silo were equivalent to six fed dry on the stalk. The results of three years of experimental work at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station also show that cattle fed on silage during the winter and then turned out on pasture graze equally as well as those which have been fed dry feed during the winter.

Despite the fact that silo filling last year was more expensive than in normal years due to the shortage of labor farmers realized a good profit from this method of feeding, according to Wayland Rhoads, beef cattle specialist of the college. This year the labor supply is plentiful and since there are many corn crops with a larger percentage of stalks and blades due to the dry summer farmers can well afford to fill silos. If cattle are to be fed either for market beef or dairy a full silo will lessen the cost of production, Mr. Rhoads said.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

W. C. Johnson, one of the good citizens of Beaver Lake neighborhood, and his son, J. H. Johnson, of Memphis, Tenn., were in Burlington a short while, last Friday morning. They were enroute to Bellevue on important business, but took time to make this office a call. Mr. Johnson gave us $1.50 to boost his subscription up another year, that he might keep posted with what his friends and relatives in old Boone are doing.

To-morrow, (Friday) we can say as the poet has said: "The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year." September 23, according to the calendar, marks the beginning of Fall or Autumn, and is designated as the Autumnal Equinox, because the days and nights are of equal length. Devastating storms usually prevail on or about this date, called equinoctial storms, and great damage is often done.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Children, Grandchildren and Other Relatives Surprise John L. Jones.

Sunday morning, Sept. 18th, the children, grandchildren and a number of other relatives gathered at the home of John L. Jones, Sr., near Big Bone Springs, Ky., each bringing well filled baskets of good things to eat. Here they awaited the return of Mr. Jones, who had gone to church. When he returned to find his house and yard filled with his relatives from both Kentucky and Indiana, he was indeed greatly surprised. Relatives were for the day united who had not been together for a long time, thus making it a very happy occasion.

The day was ideal and at the noon hour the table was spread on the beautiful lawn in the shade of a very large beech tree. The table held most every good thing of which a picnic dinner may consist, there being nine cakes and everything else in proportion.

The "Birthday Cake" was baked by Mrs. Jno. L. Jones, Jr., and was a lovely angel food artistically iced with the letters "J. L. J." and the age inlaid with icing of another color.

The children and grandchildren present were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse C. Jones and children, Helen Louise and Dale Stewart of Rising Sun, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Stephens and Miss Christina Jones, of Covington, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Jno. W. Aylor and children Anna Marie, Sara Elizabeth and Wallace Clayton, and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Moore and son Leslie Melvin Jr., of Landine, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Jno. L. Jones, Jr., and son Lloyd Kelly and Charles H. Jones of East Bend, and Jas. and Harry F. Jones, Jr., of Big Bone, Ky.

Other relatives and friends were Chas. A. Reib and daughter Miss Amelia of Covington; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Williams and daughter Elizabeth, and grandchildren Charles and Deoyota, Mr. and Mrs. H. Earl Williams and daughter Mary Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Williams, Mr. and Mrs. James Monroe and children Thelma and Jesse J., all of Rising Sun; Mr. and Mrs. Jno. C. Miller and daughter Emma Jane, of Walton; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Reib, of Clifton, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lotton of Aurora Ind., and Miss Bessie Hitch of Covington, Ky. All stayed until a late hour when they departed for their separate homes wishing Mr. Jones many happy returns of this day.

From December 2nd, 1920, to July 1, 1921, the motor vehicle licenses collected by the county clerks in the counties in this part of the State follows:

Boone	$14,535.57
Campbell	$60,195.45
Gallatin	$3,846.90
Grant	$6,499.17
Kenton	$71,100.04
Owen	$10,952.65
Carroll	$7,736.07
Pendleton	$12,435.52
Tipton	$3,372.90

Jefferson county tops the list, that county having collected and turned into the State Treasury $370,410.51. Five counties, Clay, Jackson, Leslie, Knott and Magoffin had no automobile tax to report. The total amount of automobile tax collected by all counties in the state amounted to $1,678,159.01.

PREACHES WITHOUT PAY

I met the Rev. George Washington Grah and he was just from West Virginia, where he has been working at manual labor and also holding services at least two nights every week. He doesn't ask a cent for his services as a preacher; that he makes his living by the sweat of his brow and contributes money to other preachers to help them along in their work. Twenty were baptized as the result of his labors in the pulpit in West Virginia and ten received the baptism of the Holy Ghost. — Olive Hill Herald.

Thos. Powers of Clatskanie and J. H. Thornton of DeMossville, will have a sale of 46 head of Great Big Type Hogs at Walton, next Thursday. A PRAISEWORTHY ADVANCE has been noted in the preparation for burial of our departed friends; the shroud and sombre habiliments, the dirge and accompanying solemnities, have given place to flowers, to dress as worn in life, to songs and hymns of hope and comfort.

And then through the perfected science of embalming, the undertaker of the present day, supplements this by removing entirely the lines of pain and suffering, and by restoring the natural color of health, does much to rob the ordeal of its heart-rending features.

This latter process, and many helpful suggestions looking toward that end, are included in my service.

John P. Speaks, farmer living near Spartansburg, S. C., steadfastly refuses to bury the body of his soldier son, killed in France. The flag covered casket containing the body has been in the parlor of the Speaks home since August 13. The father bases his refusal on the ground that the body has been buried once.

A pipe won't burn your tongue if you smoke P.A.!

Get that pipe-party-bee buzzing in your smoke-section! Know for a fact what a joy's your jimmy pipe can and will do for your peace and content! Just check up the men in all walks of life you meet daily, who certainly get top sport out of their pipes—all aglow with fragrant, delightful, friendly, Prince Albert!

'And, you can wager your week's wad that Prince Albert's quality and flavor and coolness—and its freedom from bite and parch (cut out by our exclusive patented process)—will ring up records in your little old smoke-meat, the likes of which you never before could believe possible!

You don't get tired of a pipe when it's packed with Prince Albert! Paste that in your hat!

'And, just between ourselves! Ever dip into the sport of rolling 'em? Get some Prince Albert and the makin's papers—quick—and cash in on a cigarette that will prove a revelation!

Prince Albert is sold in every tin, bag, tidy red tin, handsome pound and half pound tins, handbags and in the special glass tins, all day, with sponge moisture trap.

Beating the Bachelor.
In Sicily the fir tree is unknown as a Christmas adjunct, but the very ludicrous custom of "beating the bachelor" is observed by the women. All of the unmarried men in the village are driven into the church after mass by the outnumbering women and run about the sacred edifice and beaten until they declare (often falsely) that they will wed ere another Christmas come around.

Boone County Milk Producers' Association

Organization
Consumer as Producer.

The county milk producers' association met Thursday night, for the purpose of the Boone County Milk Marketing Association were presented by officers of the organization. Forty of those 125 present signed up.

"The association has been formed with the avowed aim of eliminating the middleman and his profits. The milk producers are receiving but $2.70 a hundred pounds delivered to the city plant of the distributor or buyer. This means he receives only 5.8 cents a quart after hauling the milk from the farm to the distributing plant in the heart of Cincinnati. But the consumer is charged thirteen cents a quart.

"The examples of the grain growers, of the fruit growers and of the tobacco cultivators have convinced the milk producers they, too, can find freedom from the middleman in cooperative marketing.

"The association is seeking a loan of $200 from the producers for each cow on their farms. They desire that the product of 15,000 cows be assured before they begin business. This will mean a capital of $300,000. As management is a big factor in the success or failure of any enterprise it is asked frequently how the cooperative is to be managed. This will be by a board of 15 Trustees elected from the membership, each Trustee representing a district. The Board of Trustees will be in general charge of the business. The board will have a President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and four members selected to constitute an Executive Committee with the officers. A manager will be employed to work under the direction of the Trustees and the Executive Committee."

HELPING THE TOWN.

Helping the city, town or neighborhood in which you reside is one means of bettering your individual interests, and it has been a problem to us why so many people act to the reverse of the accepted truth of the assertion made. Why is that a people remain in a place for which they never have a word of praise? The latter can find a solution perhaps in the statement that the "knocks" given towards towns emanate from the element that are too indolent to labor for a support, and become abusive when the people of the town decline to uphold them in absolute indifference.

The people who live in the towns of Boone county were never known to ignore the appeals of the deserving poor, but when a people let the pretty days of summer and fall pass away with no effort upon their part to make provisions for the cold, chilly blasts that are to follow, then it is that a charitable public is called upon to discriminate between the deserving and the unworthy, or else be imposed upon by the unscrupulous people who live chiefly upon donations from a generous public.

WASHBOARD ROADS

The above named phrase is being used to describe a type of highway that is becoming very common. It is applied to a road which has been surfaced with some hardening material, but which has become all worn out into little humps.

An automobile bumps along over such a road in a constant succession of little jolts. None of these is severe, but the incessant shaking of a car is wearisome to the occupants, and it creates a lot of wear and tear on a machine. An improved road that is permitted to wear down into his condition is little better than an undeveloped country road.

The unimproved road may be nearly impassable at some seasons. But when the weather is good at least, if it has been properly dragged it may be fairly smooth, and then for lack of care and attention and proper surfacing, it is going to pieces and rapidly becoming impassable. It does not pay to put in a surface of hardening a road, unless its surface is going to be so protected as to become rather permanent.

ARRESTED STURGEON

Joseph Sturgeon was arrested by Sheriff Conner and Deputy Hume last Wednesday on warrants charging Sturgeon with assault and battery and threatening to kill Geo. Terrill and Chas. Shinkle. Sturgeon was bound over to await action of the grand jury, and being unable to give bond, was committed to jail. Later Sturgeon was released, as he gave the required bond.

Claimed that the school should have more knife work, anyway they are doing the best they can along that line by carrying the same as the school house walk.

Governor Morrow Finds "Most" of State At Fair

America West Committed to Central Hospital At Lakeland.

Last Wednesday complaint was made to the County Judge that Mrs. America West, of Walton, had threatened to kill her neighbor and was acting strangely otherwise. A warrant was placed in the hands of Sheriff Conner and Deputy Hume, who went at once to Walton and brought Mrs. West before the County Judge and she was found to be of unsound mind and committed to the Central State Hospital at Lakeland for treatment.

Mrs. West had been talking about receiving messages by wireless, and that her neighbors got people in their homes and killed them, that she could hear these people calling for help and that her brothers were there but not killed, and she wanted the officers to go and get them out. Mrs. West had been troubled with mental trouble since last March. Deputy Sheriff Hume took her to Walton and delivered her to an attendant of the Central State Hospital who took her to Lakeland, Ky.

THREE CLASSES OF CITIZENS.

There are three classes of citizens in most every community—those who are not only in the current but are making the current—those who are carried along by the result of the efforts of those around them—and those who do not even want to be carried, but try to trip those who carry them. It is criminal to belong to the last class and uncompensated to belong to the second class, and any town should consider itself fortunate in having no one who does not belong to the first class.

The girls aren't successful in their studies, when they are given up their good names for a smile?

Forty-Sixth Birthday

This issue of the RECORDER marks the end of the first year that the paper has been published under the direct management and supervision of the one whose name appears in this paper as its publisher. How well we have succeeded in putting before the public a good county paper, we will leave to our readers to judge.

Thursday, October 6th, 1921, the RECORDER will enter upon its 47th year of continuous publication. Its files for these many years are a history of no little interest. We dare say that among these files many of you could find mention made of your birth, and later of your marriage. Among them you would also doubtless find beautiful tribute paid to the memory of some friend or loved one.

The RECORDER will continue to be published in the interest of Boone county and her people, free from scandalous or sensational news of questionable character—a local paper for the home that father and daughter may alike read.

To our subscribers and advertisers who have so loyally and generously supported us during the past twelve months, we feel grateful. To each subscriber, advertiser and respondent, we lift our hat in sincere thanks to them for helping us pass through the past year.

In the future we will continue to do the best we can to give the readers of the RECORDER the worth of their money, we will ever befriend all institutions of learning and use every effort for the moral uplift of our fellowman, and upon these principles we invite a continuance of the liberal patronage and kindness that we have received at your hands in the past—for which we fail to find language to express our appreciation and thanks to our loyal friends.

THE EDITOR.

If the boys had to go in swimming twice a week in order to get clean, how they would kick about it.

Jas. W. Huey

Makes Fine Record With His Barred Rock Chickens at The State Fair.

At the State Fair at Louisville there was 3280 birds shown by 17 exhibitors. Mr. James W. Huey, of Union, had in opposition to his entries of Barred Rocks 330 birds from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and New York. Mr. Huey had 50 entries in the open class and won on 48 of them. With the da krRocks he won with 2 cockerels 1st, 4th and 5th; with hen, 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5; with cockerel, 1, 2 and 4th; pullet 1st on young pen and 2nd on old pen; on Light Rocks he won 2nd and 3rd on cock; 1 and 2nd on hen; 1st 2nd and 3rd on cockerel 1, 2nd 3rd and 4th on pullet; 1st and 2nd on young pen and 1st on old pen; also won best display of Light and Dark Rocks. The best display of all breeds at the fair was won by his exhibit. The championship was won by his first exhibit pullet for the best one at the show. Boone county won every first prize offered on Barred Rocks of the 128 exhibited from four counties. Every winner, except three, were from the flocks of Mr. Huey.

Mr. Huey sold to one man chickens that brought him $240; he also sold four cockerels at $35 each, he sides taking orders for a number of other birds and quite a number of eggs for setting. Mr. Huey is one of the largest breeders of Barred Rocks in this part of the State and no one has better blood lines.

A BIG SALE.

C. E. Tanner, who resides on the Price pike, 3 1/2 miles north of Florence, has a public sale advertised in this issue for the 12th day of October. On account of failing health he has to quit farming and will dispose of his stock, farming implements, etc., of which he has a splendid assortment. See adv. on opposite page.

OLDHAM FARMERS WIN ON POULTRY EXHIBIT

Poultry exhibited by Oldham-co. farmers in connection with the standardization exhibit held at the State Fair under the direction of the College of Agriculture took first prize in competition with that displayed by farmers from 15 other counties, according to an announcement by A. S. Chapin, poultry specialist from the college and superintendent of the contest. Boone county was second and Mason county third. A total of 480 birds were exhibited. In the display which was a part of the poultry standardization campaign being conducted in the state by the college.

Oldham county took first in the White Plymouth Rock classes while McCracken, Warren, Simpson and Fulton counties followed in the order named. Boone county took first prize in the Barred Plymouth Rock classes with Owen county second, Washington county third, Taylor county fourth and Pulaski fifth. Henderson, Todd and Muhlenburg counties took first, second and third respectively in the White Wyandotte classes. Mason county was first on Rhode Island Red classes with Madison county second.

He Was "Showed."

Ed. Rice piloted Albert Conner to his pond near Idlewild, one day last week, and Mr. Conner showed Mr. Rice the art of landing big fish. Mr. Conner landed a blue cat that measured 24 inches and hooked another much larger which he got on the bank, but could not land. The fish broke the pole and line. Mr. Rice watched Mr. Conner so intently that he forgot to land any of the fish that might have nibbled at the bait on his hook.

Community development in Fulton county will be given additional attention in a special fair to be held Oct. 6, 7, and 8, according to a report from Assistant County Agent J. P. Ricketts. A premium list of $9,000 is being prepared for the vent.

Base Ball.

The Mabley & Carew team journeyed to Bellevue last Saturday afternoon and played Bellevue, a very fast game. Young Parsons, a son of Bert Parsons, who formerly resided at Bellevue, was in the box for the visitors and permitted the Bellevue boys to touch his delivery except in but one inning. First did the twirling for Bellevue and he had but one bad inning, but that was enough, coupled with errors in that frame, to permit the visitors to win. Four innings of play had passed in to history before a man was put over the rubber. In the fifth the Cincinnati boys opened up with their bats and after two men were out and an error made that by good playing would have retired the side, followed by a base on balls and three hits all of which were good for three runs. Bellevue not being satisfied with their hard luck made an attack in the sixth but fell short as they could only get two runs on counting territory, and this was the only inning that young Parsons permitted the Bellevue boys to do any stick work; their runs were scored on two singles, a three bagger and an error. Nothing further was done in the scoring time but Bellevue made a strong bid for runs in the eighth when with a base on balls a double and a single they failed. In the ninth Bellevue went out in order and the game ended with a score of three to two in favor of Mabley & Carew. The game was umpired by Podge Alloway and H. D. Brady, and their work was of high standard throughout.

Taylorport was defeated 4 to 1 at Ludlow last Sunday. This game completed the series between the two teams, Ludlow winning the first two. The same teams will play at Taylorport next Sunday afternoon—third game.

The Hebron team journeyed to Taylorport Saturday and were defeated 5 to 0 by the regular team with the exception of York in the box and Horton the second Bromley short stop holding down 2nd base. The home team scored in the third with a base on balls, a stolen base and two errors, and again in the fifth on a single and a three base hit and in the 8th after two were out they scored three runs on a wild throw over first, a single and a fly to deep center, which the fielder just touched as he backed into a wire fence and fell backwards over it. York had Hebron at his mercy all through the game, only allowing them one hit after two men were down in the ninth. Hits off Huey 6; off York 1; struck out by Huey 4; by York 9; bases on balls by Huey 1; by York 3. Each of these teams have won a game and the Hebron team are trying to arrange for the third game to be played at Hebron before the season closes.

The Taylorport team claims that York pitched a no hit game.

OUR BANKS

The publication of all the statements of banks in Boone county last week as per call of September 6th, indicates that all of our financial institutions are in excellent condition, despite the cry of hard times and tight money that comes from all sections of the country. Our banks appear to all be sound and making money for their stockholders, while the deposits do not indicate that there is any great scarcity of money. The banks are a good criterion to go by when summing up business conditions. This is the slack season of the year, the time when money is scarcer in the agricultural districts than at any other, therefore it is all the more reasonable that our banks are able to make as good a showing as they have been able to make under the late call from the State Banking Commissioner.

Cutting of tobacco in this county is well under way and a large part of the crop is already under shelter. The crop has grown out splendidly and there will be an average crop in the county, per acre, but the acreage is short. The crop of corn in Boone is one of the best raised in many years and a great deal of it has been cut and put in the shock. With good curing conditions from now on there is every reason to believe that the tobacco will be of fine quality.

Rev. J. W. Campbell will make an address at the unveiling of a monument in Washington county, Ky., next Sunday, and there will be no preaching at Bullittsburg church that day. The monument was erected in memory of Rev. R. L. Purdon, who was pastor for thirty-five years of Bethlehem Baptist church Washington county, Rev. Purdon was an uncle of Rev. Campbell.

The schools at Walton and Constance have been closed on account of several cases of scarlet fever in families sending children to these schools.

Fire felt very comfortable Monday morning.

Beating the Bachelor.

In Sicily the fir tree is unknown as a Christmas adjunct, but the very ludicrous custom of "beating the bachelor" is observed by the women. All of the unmarried men in the village are driven into the church after mass by the outnumbering women and run about the sacred edifice and beaten until they declare (often falsely) that they will wed one another Christmas come around.

Producers

ing Organization Consumer as Producer.

Boone county milk producers, enthusiastic meeting Thursday night, and purpose of the Boone County Milk Marketing Association were presented by officers of the organization. Forty of those 126 present signed up.

"The association has been formed with the avowed aim of eliminating the middleman and his profits. The milk producers are receiving but $2.70 a hundred pounds delivered to the city plant of the distributor or buyer. This means he receives only 5.8 cents a quart after hauling the milk from the farm to the distributing plant in the heart of Cincinnati. But the consumer is charged thirteen cents a quart.

"The examples of the grain growers, of the fruit growers and of the tobacco cultivators have convinced the milk producers they, too, can find freedom from the middleman in cooperative marketing.

"The new association is seeking a loan of $20 from the producers for each cow on their farms. They desire that the product of 15,000 cows be assured before they begin business. This will mean a capital of $300,000. As management is a big factor in the success or failure of any enterprise it is asked frequently how the cooperative is to be managed. This will be by a board of 15 Trustees elected from the membership, each Trustee representing a district. The Board of Trustees will be in general charge of the business. The board will have a President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and four members selected to constitute an Executive Committee with the officers. A manager will be employed to work under the direction of the Trustees and the Executive Committee."

HELPING THE TOWN.

Helping the city, town or neighborhood in which you reside is one means of bettering your individual interests, and it has been a problem to us why so many people act to the reverse of the accepted truth of the assertion made. Why is that a people remain in a place for which they never have a word of praise? The latter can find a solution perhaps in the statement that the "knocks" given towards towns emanate from the element that are too indolent to labor for a support, and become abusive when the people of the town decline to uphold them in absolute idleness.

The people who live in the towns of Boone county were never known to ignore the appeals of the deserving poor, but when a people let the pretty days of summer and fall pass away with no effort upon their part to make provisions for the cold, chilly blasts that are to follow, then it is that a charitable public are called upon to discriminate between the deserving and the unworthy, or else be imposed upon by the unscrupulous people who live chiefly upon donations from a generous public.

WASHBOARD ROADS

The above named phrase is being used to describe a type of highway that is becoming very common. It is applied to a road which has been surfaced with some hardening material, but which has become all worn out into little humps.

An automobile bumps along over such a road in a constant succession of little jolts. None of these is severe, but the incessant shaking of a car is wearisome to the occupants, and it creates a lot of wear and tear on a machine. An improved road that is permitted to wear down into his condition is little better than an undeveloped country road.

The unimproved road may be nearly impassable at some seasons. But when the weather is good at least, if it has been properly dragged it may be fairly smooth, and then for lack of care and attention and proper surfacing, it is going to pieces and rapidly becoming impassable. It does not pay to put in a lot of money hardening a road, unless its surface is going to be so protected as to become rather permanent.

ARRESTED STURGEON

Joseph Sturgeon, was arrested by Sheriff Conner and Deputy Hume last Wednesday on warrants charging Sturgeon with assault and battery and threatening to kill Geo. Terrill and Chas. Shinkle. Sturgeon was bound over to await action of the grand jury, and being unable to give bond, was committed to jail. Later Sturgeon was released, as he gave the required bond.

Claimed that the school boys should have more knife work, anyway they are doing the best they can along that line by carving their names on the school house walls.

Below, Left—Gov. Edwin F. Morrow and two chance Midway acquaintances, Helen and James Eisenbeis, 732 Dearborn Street.
Below, Right—Miss Nadine Sherring, Cincinnati, with a Boston bull terrier, "Phelon the Great," a dog show entry of Joseph Schrahl, Cincinnati.

America West

Committed to Central Hospital At Lakeland.

Last Wednesday complaint was made to the County Judge that Mrs. America West, of Walton, had threatened to kill her neighbor and was acting strangely otherwise. A warrant was placed in the hands of Sheriff Conner and Deputy Hume, who went at once to Walton and brought Mrs. West before the County Judge and she was found to be of unsound mind and committed to the Central State Hospital at Lakeland for treatment.

Mrs. West had been talking about receiving messages by wireless, and that her neighbors got people in their homes and killed them, that she could hear these people calling for help and that her brothers were there but not killed, and she wanted the officers to go and get them out. Mrs. West had been troubled with mental trouble since last March. Deputy Sheriff Hume took her to Walton and delivered her to an attendant of the Central State Hospital who took her to Lakeland, Ky.

THREE CLASSES OF CITIZENS.

There are three classes of citizens in most every community—those who are not only in the current but are making the current—those who are carried along by the result of the efforts of those around them—and those who do not even want to be carried, but try to trip those who carry them. It is criminal to belong to the last class and uncompensated to belong to the second class, and any town should consider itself fortunate in having no one who does not belong to the first

FORTY-SIXTH BIRTHDAY

This issue of the RECORDER marks the end of the first year that the paper has been published under the direct management and supervision of the one whose name appears in this paper as its publisher. How well we have succeeded in putting before the public a good county paper, we will leave to our readers to judge.

Thursday, October 6th, 1921, the RECORDER will enter upon its 47th year of continuous publication. Its files for these many years are a history of no little interest. We dare say that among these files many of you could find mention made of your birth, and later of your marriage. Among them you would also doubtless find beautiful tribute paid to the memory of some friend or loved one.

The RECORDER will continue to be published in the interest of Boone county and her people, free from cantankerous or sensational news of questionable character—a local paper for the home that father and daughter may alike read.

To our subscribers and advertisers who have so loyally and generously supported us during the past twelve months, we feel grateful. To each subscriber, advertiser and correspondent, we lift our hat in sincere thanks to them for helping us pass through the past year.

In the future we will continue to do the best we can to give the readers of the RECORDER the worth of their money, we will ever befriend all institutions of learning and use every effort for the moral uplift of our fellowman, and upon these principles we invite a continuance of the liberal patronage and kindness that we have received at your hands in the past—for which we fail to find language to express our appreciation and thanks to our loyal friends.

Jas. W. Huey

Makes Fine Record With His Barred Rock Chickens at The State Fair.

At the State Fair at Louisville there was 3280 birds shown by 17 exhibitors. Mr. James W. Huey, of Union, had in opposition to his entries of Barred Rocks 380 birds from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and New York. Mr. Huey had 50 entries in the open class and won on 48 of them. With the dr Rocks he won with 2 cockerels 1st, 4th and 5th; with hen, 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5; with cockerel, 1, 2 and 4th; pullet 1st on young pen and 2nd on old pen; on Light Rocks he won 2nd and 3rd on cock; 1 and 2nd on hen; 1st 2nd and 3rd on cockerel 1, 2nd 3rd and 4th on pullet; 1st and 2nd on young pen and 1st on old pen; also won best display of Light and Dark Rocks. The best display of all breeds at the fair was won by his exhibit. The championship was won by his first exhibit pullet for the best one at the show. Boone county won every first prize offered on Barred Rocks of the 128 exhibited from four counties. Every winner, except three, were from the flocks of Mr. Huey.

Mr. Huey sold to one man chickens that brought him $240; he also sold four cockerels at $35 each, besides taking orders for a number of other birds, and quite a number of eggs for setting. Mr. Huey is one of the largest breeders of Barred Rocks in this part of the State and no one has better blood lines.

A BIG SALE.

C. E. Tanner, who resides on the Price pike, 3 1/2 miles north of Florence, has a public sale advertised in this issue for the 12th day of October. On account of failing health he has to quit farming and will dispose of his stock, farming implements, etc., of which he has a splendid assortment. See adv. on another page.

OLDHAM FARMERS WIN ON POULTRY EXHIBIT

Poultry exhibited by Oldham-co., farmers in connection with the standardization exhibit held at the State Fair under the direction of the College of Agriculture took first prize in competition with that displayed by farmers from 15 other counties, according to an announcement by A. S. Chapin, poultry specialist from the college and superintendent of the contest. Boone county was second and Mason county third. A total of 480 birds were exhibited in the display which was a part of the poultry standardization campaign being conducted in the state by the college.

Oldham county took first in the White Plymouth Rock classes while McCracken, Warren, Simpson and Fulton counties followed in the order named. Boone county took first prize in the Barred Plymouth Rock classes with Owen county second. Washington county third, Taylor county fourth and Pulaski fifth. Henderson, Todd and Muhlenburg counties took first, second and third respectively in the White Wyandotte classes. Mason county was first on Rhode Island Red classes with Madison county second.

He Was "Showed."

Ed. Rice piloted Albert Conner to his pond near Idlewild, one day last week, and Mr. Conner showed Mr. Rice the art of landing big fish. Mr. Conner landed a blue cat that measured 24 inches and hooked another much larger which he got on the bank, but could not land. The fish broke the pole and line. Mr. Rice watched Mr. Conner so intently that he forgot to land any of the fish that might have nibbled at the bait on his hook.

Community development in Fulton county will be given additional attention in a special fair to be held Oct. 6, 7, and 8, according to a report from Assistant County Agt. J. P. Ricketts. A premium list of $3,000 is being prepared for the vent.

Base Ball.

The Mabley & Carew team journeyed to Bellevue last Saturday afternoon and played Bellevue a very fast game. Young Parsons, a son of Bert Parsons, who formerly resided at Bellevue, was in the box for the visitors and permitted the Bellevue boys to touch his delivery except in but one inning. Finn did the twirling for Bellevue and he had but one bad inning, but that was enough, coupled with errors in that frame, to permit the visitors to win. Four innings of play had passed in to history before a man was put over the rubber. In the fifth the Cincinnati boys opened up with their bats and after two men were out and an error made that by good playing would have retired the side, followed by a base on balls and three hits all of which were good for three runs. Bellevue not being satisfied with their hard luck made an attack in the sixth but fell short as they could only get two runs on counting territory, and this was the only inning that young Parsons permitted the Bellevue boys to do any stick work; their runs were scored on two singles, a three bagger and an error. Nothing further was done in the scoring line but Bellevue made a strong effort for runs in the eighth when with a base on balls a double and a single they failed. In the ninth Bellevue went out in order and the game ended with a score of three to two in favor of Mabley & Carew. The game was umpired by Podge Alloway and H. D. Brady, and their work was of high standard throughout.

Taylorport was defeated 4 to 1 at Ludlow last Sunday. This game completed the series between the two teams, Ludlow winning the first two. The same teams will play at Taylorport next Sunday afternoon—third game.

The Hebron team journeyed to Taylorport Saturday and were defeated 5 to 0 by the regular team with the exception of York in the box and Horton the fast Bromley short stop holding down 2nd base. The home team scored in the third with a base on balls, a stolen base and two errors, and again in the fifth on a single and a three base hit and in the 8th after two were out they scored three runs on a wild throw over first, a single and a fly to deep center, which the fielder just touched as he backed into a wire fence and fell backwards over it. York had Hebron at his mercy all through the game, only allowing them one hit after two men were down in the ninth. Hits off Huey 6; off York 1; struck out by Huey 4; by York 9; bases on balls by Huey 1; by York 3. Each of these teams have won a game and the Hebron team are trying to arrange for the third game to be played at Hebron before the season closes.

The Taylorport team claims that York pitched a no hit game.

OUR BANKS

The publication of all the statements of banks in Boone county last week as per call of September 6th, indicates that all of our financial institutions are in excellent condition, despite the cry of hard times and tight money that comes from all sections of the country. Our banks appear to all be sound and making money for their stockholders, while deposits do not indicate that there is any great scarcity of money. The banks are a good criterion to go by when summing up business conditions. This is the slack season of the year, the time when money is scarce in the agricultural districts than at any other, therefore it is all the more remarkable that our banks are able to make as good a showing as they have been able to make under the late call from the State Banking Commissioner.

Cutting of tobacco in this county is well under way and a large part of the crop is already under shelter. The crop has grown out splendidly and there will be nearly an average crop in the county, per acre, but the acreage is short. The crop of corn in Boone is one of the best raised in many years and a great deal of it has been cut and put in the shock. With good curing conditions from now on there is every reason to believe that the tobacco will be of fine quality.

Rev. J. W. Campbell will make an address at the unveiling of a monument in Washington county, Ky., next Sunday, and there will be no preaching at Bullittsburg church that day. The monument was erected in memory of Rev. R. L. Furdom, who was pastor for thirty-five years of Bethlehem Baptist church Washington county. Rev. Furdom was an uncle of Rev. Campbell.

The schools at Walton and Constantine have been closed on account of several cases of scarlet fever in families sending children to these schools.

LEGION NOTES

Sixteen world war veterans from one post of the American Legion in Tulsa, Okla., have settled upon government homestead land in Scott county, Southern Arkansas. By cold weather, it is estimated that 100 ex-service men have taken claims on the land. The territory which will become a settlement of world war service men, the first in America, stretches over 2,500 acres, composed of adjoining individual tracts of 160 acres each. The men have to live on the land but seven months before it becomes their property as Arkansas gives residence credit to soldiers up to two years of army or navy service. Part of the men will spend the winter on their land, clearing timber, building, hunting and trapping, for the tracts abound in deer, fox and lynx. The sixteen who have already settled are preparing to establish a central trading point and town which they will name "Legionnaire." Four of the pioneers are married and all have had farming experience. Homesteading is now possible in the following other states: Washington, Michigan, Montana, Arizona, New Mexico, Wyoming, Louisiana, Alabama, Colorado, Idaho and Oregon.

111
A family which in itself is a thriving war veterans' society has come to the notice of the American Legion in Independence, Kan. Thirty-three able-bodied men and women call the Civil War veteran, Manana C. Bruner, by the familiar "papa." Of the lot, the father, soldier of the Union in '61, is proudest of his even dozen sons who served overseas with the American forces in the world war. Of the remainder, 20 are girls and one son was too young to fight. The oldest is 42.

111
The Pershing estate in Tangipahoa La., owned jointly by heirs of John J. Pershing, father of the general of the armies, has been advertised for sale for taxes, according to a letter sent the general by the editor of an American Legion magazine published in Amite, La. The editor posted sufficient funds with the parish sheriff to prevent the sale and requested General Pershing to make the estate available for colonization by his comrades who are being rehabilitated, after war wounds, for agricultural pursuits. The Pershing tract contains 100 acres of the parish's best land.

111
The number of civilian employees in the Panama canal zone has been reduced 40 per cent since March 4, 1921, and more than 700 former soldiers will be forced out of employment if there is not a let-up, an appeal from the canal zone to the American Legion's representatives in Washington declares. Two army officers and three civilians appointed by Secretary of War Weeks recommended the sweeping reductions in personnel.

111
Milady's fashionable corsage bouquet may have started life as a handful of ragweed, for disabled soldiers in Kansas City hospitals are doing a thriving business in making artificial and lifelike posies out of ordinary weeds. War Mothers of the city are teaching the wounded men to color the weeds with dyes and the American Legion is helping them place the flowers with florists and gift shops.

MR. AND MRS.
What wonderful thoughts come up when these two abbreviations are printed in a news item—what intense human interest they portray. In the country weekly paper, they take the one big place in all news items, from the simple visit to relatives, to the larger matters of human life.

"Mr. and Mrs."—the great news item of the universe, the bringer of recollections to the man far from home, who takes his old newspaper, and reads the items of Mr. and Mrs. and lets his mind wander back to the days when he knew Mr. and Mrs. in knee pants and shall we say short skirts.

It's the home town paper where the real Mr. and Mrs. news items occur—and to receive the home town paper week in and week out is to know the great happenings of the world, the doings of Mr. and Mrs.

UNGRATEFULNESS
Why is it, that we're discontented in this fair land of fruit and flowers? Why can't there be some scheme invented, to palliate our selfish hours? Our harvest-bins are overflowing—the bounded wealth is at our hand—and still our discontent keeps growin'! It's more than I can understand.... There was a day that I could mention—I can't forget it, even now.—We kept our feelin' in suspension by waitin' with a shovel plow.... We didn't flirt with fickle fortune, we never chased nubile cent, we got along without schorcin'—We didn't have no discontent.

We didn't know no strained conditions,—nor hungry mouths, nor greedy eyes. We didn't have no politicians to fill our ears with blasted lies. I wouldn't say that I'm contentin' for what you call back-number ways.... But I can say, without pretendin' that them was mighty happy days.—Eva.

Do not wait until the last minute to secure your property. You now have four weeks.

Railroads in Kentucky which operate in more than one county and which are assessed by the State Tax Commission have a total value of $156,664,450, according to figures compiled in the office of the commission. Of this $112,256,848 is in tangible property—the physical plant of the companies—and $44,407,602 is the franchise value.

The total valuation of all railroads for 1921 exceeds the value fixed for taxation in 1920 by $1,991,375, the 1920 total being $154,673,075. The tangible value was $105,388,575 in 1920, or $6,868,273 less than the 1921 value, and the 1920 franchise value was $49,284,500, or $4,876,898 more than the 1921 value.

The largest assessment in the State is that of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, its total assessment being $65,274,078, of which $44,898,209 is for physical plant and $20,376,869 for its franchise. The Chesapeake & Ohio is second, with a total value of $21,600,000, of which $15,968,358 is physical plant, and $5,631,642 franchise value, and the Illinois Central Railroad is third, with a total valuation of $18,133,000, of which $16,635,725 is physical plant and $1,497,275 franchise. The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway is assessed at $16,997,670, of which $10,579,030 is physical plant, and $6,418,640 franchise.

One trouble with base ball is the tendency of players to make up their mouths what they can't do with their hands.

Plans are being made by Carroll county farmers to hold a farmers' fair during the latter part of October, according to a report of County Agent C. C. Routh.

Notice—Verona ball team would like to play a series of three games with any team in the county or with any picked team. Those interested call O. K. Whitson, Verona, Ky.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

G. T. Rue and wife who reside near Bellevue, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding last Sunday. All of their children were present as well as a large number of their friends and relatives. Mr. Rue and wife have resided in the Bellevue neighborhood all of their lives and all join in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Rue on happiness that they have enjoyed the past fifty years, and while they have long since passed the meridian of life it is the hope of all that they will in their declining years enjoy peace and prosperity which they are so justly entitled.

Sergt. Alvin C. York, "greatest hero of the war," has refused to consider an offer of $6,000 for a twenty-week theatrical tour on which he would be required to appear 80 minutes a day. He announced following a "heart to heart talk on conscience" at a religious gathering at Cleveland, Ohio, that although he needed the money to pay off a mortgage on his Tennessee farm, his conscience would not let him exploit patriotism.

CLUB MEMBERS FINISH RECORD YEAR OF WORK

With the announcement of champions in seven junior agricultural club projects farm boys and girls who are members of clubs in their counties have completed one of the most eventful years in the history of this work in the State, according to C. W. Buckler, state leader of junior agricultural club work from the College of Agriculture. The year has been a record one not only for large enrollment in the clubs but also high quality of work done by the junior farmers, Mr. Buckler said. Competition for the championships in the various events were unusually keen.

Elizabeth Smith, Campbellsville, was made the 1921 champion in the junior agricultural club poultry project. This is the second year that she has won the honor and as a result she will retain the silver trophy offered the champion. She also will receive a free trip to the International Livestock Exposition to be held at Chicago. Thomas J. Cockran, Carrollton, was named the 1921 champion in the pig club project. He will receive a silver trophy and a free trip to the Livestock Exposition. Edgar Souder, Owenton, is the new champion in the sheep project and will receive a silver trophy and a purebred ram offered by Wm. Reid, Owensboro.

James Ramey, Carrollton, is the 1921 dairy champion. He will receive a free trip to the International Livestock Exposition. Cecil Sillings, Springfield, was made champion in the beef project. The championship in the sewing project went to Lillian Fitzgerald, LaGrange, while Francis Walker, Boyle county, was made champion in the foods project.

Post Office Inspectors have been directed to make investigations with a view to the appointment of postmasters at Big Bone. Due notice will be posted at the respective post office of the date when these examinations will be held. Information from whatever source permissible under the civil service rules touching the suitability of eligibles will be given careful consideration.

Mrs. J. E. Smith exhibited several pieces of embroidery and other needle work at the State Fair and also at the Falmouth fair, and received a number of premiums.

The Silver Trophy won by the Junior Boys Judging Contest at the State Fair, is on exhibition at the Farm Bureau. It is a beauty.

Sale to begin at 12 o'clock sharp.

Judge Sidney Gaines left, Sunday for Williamstown, where he began a four weeks session of the Grant county circuit court. The first week will be a continuation of the June term and no grand jury will be convened until the second week of the term. There is a heavy docket of civil cases, but the criminal docket is not very heavy. There are several prisoners in jail awaiting trial for minor offenses.

CARD OF THANKS
 We take this means of expressing our appreciation of the kindness shown us by our neighbors, friends and relatives during the illness and death of our Darling Baby William Stanley, Jr. We also thank Dr. Duncan for his faithfulness as physician. Bro. Baker for his comforting words at the grave and the kind friends for the beautiful flowers.

Stanley Stephens and wife.
